A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Pure Tea Store, 333 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or dodoing—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best method which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and as prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 333 George Street.

MOVEMENT OF MOUNTED POLICE.

A Reassuring Statement by the Premier.

THE REVENUE FROM THE YUKON.

A Long List of Questions in the House—Mr. Taylor Fully Answered—Dairying in the Northwest Territories—A Turn of the Wheel—The House Proceedings.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Members from the Northwest Territories have been expressing alarm in regard to the movement of Mounted Police from the Territories to the Yukon. Some of them have even gone so far as to hint that the Indians, seeing the police leaving in such large numbers, might become restive and cause trouble. The Almighty Voice incident of last year, when an Indian murderer killed several police and citizens before being arrested and caused serious apprehension for a few days as to the possibility of a rising, was referred to.

The Premier, who personally looks after the administration of the police service, gave some information in the House that effectively sets any doubt that may have existed among settlers on the plains at rest. The total number of men drafted into the Yukon to date is 169, and 548 remain in the Territories. Of this total 60 men are now under orders to proceed to the Yukon, and this will give 488 police to the Territories and 222 to the Yukon. Recruiting has again been begun at Regina, and some 25 men have been added since January.

The policing of the Yukon is rather an expensive business, the cost per man being $125 monthly. Since July 1st $130,000 has been spent on the police in the Yukon, and this would make the annual cost for policing the Yukon on the present basis a quarter of a million a year. If, however, the rush is as great as has been anticipated, the police force will have to be materially increased. A force of 500 men would cost the country, on the basis laid down by Sir Wilfrid, $850,000 a year, and the expenses of the Administrator and Judge will doubtless be $50,000 more, the salary bill of officials already sent out being $22,135 yearly.

No one supposes that more than 500 Mounted Police will ever be needed in the Yukon. At present the extra cost entailed by the opening up of the country is much more than recouped by the revenues received, and when the royalties come in from the spring clean-up the Yukon will unquestionably become a profitable venture for the people of Canada as well as the miners.

Sources of Revenue.

It is pointed out that the revenue from miners' licenses alone will almost carry on the government. If 50,000 persons go into the Yukon this season in the hope of locating claims, the first thing necessary will be the taking out of miners' licenses, which cost $10 each. This alone will give a half a million of revenue, or enough to conduct the government. It is anticipated that 25,000 people from the United States, Great Britain and elsewhere will take in supplies on which duty must be paid. If those supplies amount only to an average of $100 per head the revenue from customs duties will be at least three-quarters of a million.

No one coming out of the Yukon just now expects an output of less than ten million dollars of gold this year, and some place the figure as high as fifteen millions. On ten millions, however, the royalty at 10 per cent., the figure at which it has been placed by recent regulations—the original law providing for 20 per cent. royalty being regarded as oppressive—the Government will get one million dollars as the people's share of the output. The probable revenue, therefore, under these three heads of licenses, customs duties and royalties is at a most conservative estimate $2,500,000.

It is of course possible that a considerable proportion of the royalty may not be collected because of the difficulty of watching the washing out process in creeks scattered over a large extent of territory. On Bonanza, El Dorado and some of the richest of the creeks, however, it should not be difficult to collect every dollar of royalty, and the bulk of the output will come from these creeks. Taking the situation as a whole into consideration, there should be a revenue from the Yukon this year of almost a million and a half above the cost of administration, unless the boom has a much less substantial basis than those in a position to know say it has.

It Is Washington's Turn.

Col. J. Hamilton Lewis, a member of Congress from the State of Washington, who resides in Seattle, is in Ottawa for the purpose of meeting the Minister of the Interior and endeavoring to secure an amendment of the regulations governing the issue of free miners' licenses so as to permit of their being obtained at any place in the United States where there is a British consul, and also at various points along the Alaska coast, such as Wrangel, Juneau and Skaguay or Tagish.

Private Members' Day.

Yesterday was the first day of the session on which the business of private members had the right of way, and the Government was inundated with questions on all sorts of subjects. The interrogations numbered no less than 67, and it took more than an hour to supply answers to them. Many of them had reference to the Yukon country, which at the present time looms up big in the eye of Parliament, and which will demand a large part of the time of the legislators during this and succeeding sessions.

The Premier informed Mr. Davin that 163 medals and clasps had been given to members of the Northwest Mounted Police who took part in suppressing the rebellion of 1885.

Sir Wilfrid also told Mr. Davin that informal negotiations have taken place between the British Government and the United States authorities, not with a view to reciprocity alone, but, if possible, to settle all matters now in dispute between Canada and the States.

Mr. Davin was also informed that there are 44 Indian reserves in Manitoba and 94 in the Territories. Instructions had been given to officers of the Indian Department as to persons from whom they should purchase supplies, and to whom work should be given. The number of Mounted Police in the Territories at present is 548. The number drafted away to the Yukon was 169. The supplementary estimates would contain a sum for development of a route to Dawson from Prince Albert or Edmonton.

Railway Questions.

Mr. Maclean asked whether it is the intention of the Government, under the powers conferred upon them by the Railway Act, to compel the Grand Trunk and Ottawa and Parry Sound Railways to give the public better train connections at Scotia Junction, and to compel the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railway to adjust their differences as regards the traffic between Toronto and North Bay, and restore the accommodation that existed on or before Jan. 25.

Mr. Blair replied: "The Government realizes the gravity of the situation with regard to traffic arrangements between the railways mentioned in the question by the hon. member, and have been giving the subject very serious consideration, but have not yet concluded as to what course, if any, it is competent for them to take under the powers conferred by the Railway Act."

Mr. Blair informed Mr. Taylor that no order had yet been given by the Railway Department to the Kingston Locomotive Works for locomotives. No tenders had been asked from that firm. It was the intention of the department, however, as soon as specifications and plans for new locomotives had been completed, to open communication with the Kingston works on the subject of building some locomotives for the I.C.R., as the desire was to give Canadian firms preference in the manufacture of locomotives which the Government might require. No letters or telegrams had been sent by any member of the Government to Mr. Harty or the President of the Kingston Liberal Association that orders be given for locomotives.

Mr. Taylor was informed by Mr. Fielding that parties who had asked the intention of the Government regarding reimposition of the import duty on binder twine had been told that the Government was not prepared to make any statement as to details of the tariff in advance of the budget.

Mr. Fisher, answering Mr. Lemieux, said Canada would participate in the Paris Exhibition of 1900, and had applied for 60,000 square feet of space out of the 800,000 square feet allotted to Great Britain and the colonies.

Mr. Taylor Answered.

Mr. Borden, answering questions by Mr. Taylor respecting the site for a drill shed in Gananoque, said that the new site had been purchased from J. B. Turner for $2,500. One George Taylor had recommended the purchase to the former Government for $6,000. For further information, he would refer the member for South Leeds to Mr. Taylor. This little dig at the questioner was greatly enjoyed by the members.

Mr. Blair, answering Mr. Foster, said that the Government expected to commence through traffic from Montreal over the G. T. and D. C. Railways, in connection with the I.C.R. on March 1. He read a list of appointees to the Government service in connection with the proposed extension. General Manager Harris received a salary of $5,000.

The Premier informed Mr. Foster that the Government of the Northwest Territories claim under the new constitution the right to grant permits for the sale of liquors in the Yukon district. The matter was now the subject of communications.

Mr. Fitzpatrick informed Sir C. H. Tupper that the Government had not decided to introduce legislation on the subject of copyright this session.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, replying to Mr. Davin, said Immigration Commissioner McCreary of Winnipeg was authorized to institute prosecutions under the alien labor law. Persons in other portions of the country were also so authorized, but no arrests had yet been made under the Act.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier informed Mr Davin that he was not aware whether H. Domville, the grantee of timber limits in the Yukon, was related to Col. Domville, M.P.

Mr. Fisher informed Mr. Maclean that it was not the intention to publish the report of G. S. McDonald, who inquired into the accommodation provided for ocean transit cattle exported from Canadian ports.

Mr. Blair told Mr. Gillies that the Government had purchased two locomotives at Philadelphia, at a cost of $10,000 each. They would be used as models for future construction.

Mr. Blair, answering Mr. Bell, said that the number of brakemen on the I.C.R. had been reduced on account of dulness of business.

Mr. McDougall asked: Has the Government or the Minister of Public Works any knowledge of a reply being made to the document addressed to the Holy Father and signed by 45 members of the Senate and House of Commons, and which was read to this House by the Hon. Minister of Public Works on March 30, 1897?

In reply, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the Government had no knowledge of it. (Opposition laughter.) Voice: Better ask Tarte.

River Dredging for Gold.

Mr. Maclean asked: 1. Has the Government given a permit to Dr. Roughsedge of Edmonton, or a company represented by him, to dredge for gold in the Peace River or any of the rivers in the Northwest Territories? 2. If so, to what area does said permit apply, and what revenue is to be paid to the Government? 3. Were tenders invited for the privilege accorded to Dr. Roughsedge?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, said "Yes." The area was five miles on the Peace River at a rental of $50 yearly for each dredge to be used. Dr. Roughsedge is to pay a royalty of 2½ per cent. on the output over $10,000. Tenders were not invited.

The Premier informed Mr. Maclean that the date of the appointment of Major Walsh as Administrator of the Yukon was Aug. 15, 1897. The appointment was not for any specified period.

Mr. Foster—Will the instructions be brought down?

Sir Wilfrid—I will present them to the House if it be so desired.

Police in Yukon District.

The Premier told Mr. Foster that the number of Mounted Police in the Yukon district prior to Major Walsh's appointment was 24. The monthly cost per man was approximately, $125. The number of men added since was 160. The amount expended on the force of wages and transport from July 1 to date was, approximately, $130,000. The officials under pay in the Yukon district were as follows: J. M. Walsh, Commissioner, $5,000; F. C. Wade, Registrar, $3,000; H. A. Bliss, Accountant, $900; H. H. Norwood and J. D. McGregor, Inspectors of Mines, each $1,500; T. D. Pattullo, secretary, $900; A. F. Hurdman, surveyor's assistant, $600; Thomas Fawcett Gold Commissioner, $1,800; four assistant surveyors each received $1,095. Then there are a number of minor appointments.

Mr. Clarke was told by Mr. Tarte that $5,310 was spent in dredging Toronto Harbor last year. The work was not awarded by public tender. The price paid for dredging was $8 per hour, actual working time; 37,214 cubic yards were taken out at a cost of 14¼ cents per yard. The contractor was W. E. Phin of Brantford.

Land Grants to Railways.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier told Mr. Charlton that 39,725,180 acres of land had been granted to railway corporations in Manitoba and the Territories up to Jan. 1. The total area earned was 28,406,090 acres.

Mr. Fisher told Mr. Hughes that the Government was considering steps to be taken towards securing the opening of Belfast to shippers of Canadian cattle.

Mr. Davin moved for a return regarding creamery work in the Territories, and spoke of further aid until 6 o'clock, when the House adjourned.

Notes of the Corridors.

The debate on the second reading of the Yukon Railway bill will commence to-day, and will be continued from day to day. It will likely last three weeks.

Rev. Mr. Maxwell will introduce a bill to increase the Chinese immigration tax from $50 to $500 per head.

As nearly as can be estimated, 3,360 new voters appear on the lists in Ottawa. Of these 1,677 were registered in the City Hall and 1,683 at the Court House.

The Hull Council on Saturday decided to grant $30,000 as a bonus to the Toronto Rubber Company. In return for this grant the company agrees to establish a factory at a cost of at least $50,000, exclusive of machinery and power.

The work on the Hull end of the proposed inter-provincial bridge is going on at a good rate.

Mr. Foster goes to Manitoba on private business next Friday. He will be away a week, but will speak on the Yukon bill before his departure.

The Rolling Mills Fire.

Hamilton, Feb. 15.—Large crowds yesterday visited the scene of the blackened ruins of the Ontario Rolling Mills. It was 4.20 a.m. before the brigade withdrew, and then a gang of men started to work to pull down the still standing but tottering smokestacks. The mill company has a lot of orders on hand, and will rebuild at once. The forge works are intact, and 125 hands will there find employment. A quantity of oily cotton waste lay around the building, and the blaze is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1898.

HALF-A-CENT ON THE DOLLAR.

It is charged against the Liberal Government that it has increased the public expenditures since the days of the John Sandfield Macdonald government. This is one of the few statements made by the Opposition that is true. Had it chosen so to do a surplus running into many millions might have been rolled up, but in doing so greatly decreased grants for education, hospitals and charities, public asylums, agriculture, administration of justic and colonization roads would have been necessary, and important services neglected or their cost thrown upon the municipalities. The government has returned to the people, for the various services mentioned, no less a sum than $22,201,816 more than it would have done had it continued the scale of distribution adopted by its predecessors.

If there was anything wrong in this increase of expenditure the members of the Opposition have closed their own mouths from calling attention thereto, because when the items were going through the House, with few exceptions, they found nothing of any to which the could, or did, take exception.

The following table shows the amount granted for the public service each year under the Supply Bill, and also the amount by which the Opposition asked to have it reduced:

	Amount of Supply.	Amount objected to.
1894	$6,651,552	$ 2,750
1895	2,947,362	24,920
1896	3,136,851	1,400
1897	3,166,771	14,100
1888	3,295,204
1889	3,440,040
1890	3,695,268
1891	3,632,437
1892	3,589,907	250
1893	3,671,920	49,275
1894	3,894,121	107,620
1895	3,699,613	13,540
1896	3,568,981	10,760
1897	3,626,372	24,495
	$47,417,483	$243,166

In other words, out of a total proposed appropriation in fourteen years of $47,417,483 the Opposition objected to only $243,166, equal to about half a cent on the dollar.

The Opposition must select some other ground of attack than the increased expenditures, or else stand convicted before the people of a serious neglect of duty.

HOW THEY DO IT.

We owe the Dominion $2,000,000. That is admitted, though it does not appear in Mr. Harcourt's speech—Mr. Marter in Toronto.

That is a specimen from the sanctimonious ex-leader of the Ontario Opposition. In Mr. Harcourt's budget speech, under statement, "our assets and our surplus," appears this item:

Loans estimated balance due the Dominion.....$2,000,000

That amount is duly deducted from the amount at credit of the Province, and Mr. Master knew it well when he made the statement. And after deducting it the surplus of assets stands at $5,121,345.24. Why was Mr. Marter guilty of such a brazen untruth?—Hamilton Times.

The annual tea meeting of the Methodist church was a success in every respect. The social part of the programme was held in Mr. Lafayette's residence, where tea was given by the ladies of the church to about three hundred. The musical and literary part was given in the school house. A portion of the programme was furnished by members of Zion church, Dummer, and was worthy of all praise. Mr. Philip Hanley's comic recitations were very amusing. Thanks is extended to the visitors for their assistance; to the young people for their singing and dialogues, and also Mrs. James Reid for her donation of a seven story ice fruit cake from which about six dollars was made. The handsome sum of $48.55 was made—to be applied to pastor's salary and current expenses:

TOBACCO DYSPEPSIA.

The Majority of Smokers Suffer From this Disease.

Heart Disease Follows it, Unless it be Checked—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets The Only Means of Curing it—They Never Fail.

Do you smoke? Are you tortured with Heartburn, sometimes? Is your breath short, especially after exertion, such as running upstairs or hurrying to catch a car? Does your heart take spells of painful fluttering, or palpitation?

The majority of smokers have these symptoms, one or all, at one time or another. They all don't know they are caused by "Tobacco Dyspepsia." But they are.

And they lead to death. The heart becomes affected, because it is in sympathy with the stomach, and reflects every derangement. Heart Disease follows. Then Death comes.

There is one way of getting rid of all these ills. Only one way. But it is sure, certain, quick, easy way. It is no secret. Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets act immediately. They take on themselves the work of digestion. They digest the food, give strength and tone to the stomach, stimulate the bowels, and cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia of every form, Heartburn, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Breath and all diseases of the stomach.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets act in such a manner that you can eat any kind of wholesome food while using them. They cure in two or three weeks. They leave the stomach and bowels in such a condition that they do their work properly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent on receipt of price by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

The Comfort of Labor.

"I suppose," said Mr. Staybolt, "that most of us, as between wealth with idleness and poverty with occupation, would choose wealth, but I am not so sure that I would myself. In fact, the older I grow the more I am convinced that next to the love of those we hold dearest, of parents, wives and children, the greatest boon to man is labor. Poverty with occupation would imply the power to labor, and that would mean freedom from want. And occupation means also freedom from care. The man who becomes interested in his work forgets his troubles, and he finds besides a pleasure in seeing the results of his labor take form and grow, the pleasure of attainment.

"The man who does not find enjoyment in labor misses the most satisfactory of life's pleasures."—New York Sun.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

THE SWING OF VICTORY

Premier Hardy's Reception at Clinton.

A LIBERAL DEMONSTRATION.

Hon. G. W. Ross Speaks at Oakville—Another Rousing Liberal Meeting—Mr. John E. Barber Deals Trenchantly With Mr. Kerns' 16 Years in the House—Great Enthusiasm.

Two weeks from to-day the electors of Ontario will decide who shall administrate their affairs for the next four years.

The time is short, and the Liberal party must see to it that the next ten days are spent in completing the details of organization, in persistent and assiduous canvassing in every constituency, and, most important of all, in having the story of the quarter century of clean, progressive Liberal Government of the province laid before the electors in simple and convincing language.

THE PREMIER AT CLINTON.

A Rousing Reception and a Big Gathering of Liberals.

Clinton, Feb. 15.—The Reformers of West Huron have fallen into line with the swing of victory and are confident that on the evening of March 1st they will rejoice with a great rejoicing at the large majority which they will have rolled up for their candidate and in support of the Hardy Government and Reform principles. In the last contest for the Provincial Legislature under difficulties and in the face of some defections to the Patron ranks, the Reformers succeeded in returning Mr. Garrow by a good majority. They have entered upon the present contest with all the enthusiasm born of a good cause and a winning candidate.

The Premier's Visit.

The announcement that Mr. Hardy would be present at Clinton to address the electors on the questions upon which they are now asked to pronounce aroused the greatest interest among Reformers and Conservatives alike. The Clinton Brass Band were at the station to welcome the Premier upon his arrival. The meeting was held in the Town Hall, a spacious building, which was packed to the doors, and even down the stairs, with an audience which from the first was demonstrative in its enthusiasm. The hall was handsomely decorated with British flags and banners bearing such sentiments as "1837—God Save Our Queen—1897" and "Canada the First of Her Colonies." Several hundred ladies were present and occupied seats upon the floor and on the platform, evincing the most enthusiastic interest in the proceedings. The chair was occupied by Mayor Robert Holmes of the Clinton New Era, and the Hon. Mr. Hardy's speech was the most convincing argument ever delivered on a political platform here.

MR. ROSS AT OAKVILLE.

Mr. John E. Barber's Practical Speech to Halton Electors.

Oakville, Feb 15.—For sixteen years Halton has been represented in the Ontario Legislature by a Conservative, and the people here are unanimously of the opinion that it is time for a change, and if the opening meeting of the campaign, which was held here last night, can be accepted as a criterion, a change will transpire in Halton between sun-up and sun-down on the 1st of March. Never have the Liberals of Halton been more confident on the eve of an election, and never have they had more cause for confidence. The riding has always been close. It was Conservative by only 135 votes four years ago, and as the conditions prevailing now are entirely different, it would seem that there is a substantial foundation for the strong tone of confidence prevailing here.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Minister of Education, was the principal speaker last night, and had he been Premier he could not have received a heartier reception or more striking evidences of popular good-will. He and Mrs. Ross were the guests of ex-Mayor W. H. Young, and their carriage, drawn by white horses, was escorted from Mr. Young's residence to the Town Hall by the Bronte Brass Band and a cheering crowd of Young Liberals.

The stage was gracefully draped by four very large Union Jacks. Handsomely-framed portraits of the Queen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat rested upon easels and lent a cosy air of comfort to the stage. Each easel was surmounted by a number of small flags, and nestling amid the drapery of the bunting in the rear of the platform Hon. Edward Blake looked calmly down upon a seething sea of Liberal enthusiasm.

Mr. Barber's Speech.

Mr. Barber was given a splendid reception. After mentioning the diffidence with which he entered the campaign he recalled many pleasant visits to Oakville when his battalion encamped there. He had a reasonable start, he held, as he had no sins to answer for, and although Mr. Kerns had represented the riding for so many years he also had nothing to answer for, nor anything that he is entitled to praise for. (Hear, hear.) Heretofore in canvassing for previous Liberal candidates his Conservative friends would say to him: "If you were only running you would not have to ask twice." "And I am pleased to say," added Mr. Barber "that when I call on these Conservatives now they say, 'We promised you a vote and your are going to get it.'" (Loud applause.) He had asked many of his friends among the farmers if they belonged to any of the farmers' institutes, and the answer was so often in the negative that he had come to the conclusion that the Conservatives must warn the farmers not to join these institutes for fear they would by that means find out how much the Ontario Government has done for them. (Hear, hear.) Modesty is a characteristic of Mr. Barber, but he promised that at the end of sixteen years he would be able to make a better showing in return for their confidence than Mr. Kerns had. He scored a point that the audience applauded loudly when he said that after passing the accounts of the province for sixteen years Mr. Kerns came forward and said they had never had a proper audit. This looked as if some one had been negligent. Mr. Barber did not wish to be unkind, but he complimented Mr. Kerns on being sensible enough when he had nothing to say to say nothing. (Laughter and applause.)

TESTED IN DRESDEN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful case of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Cragg, a prominent merchant and ex reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Phil May, Gladstone and Autographs.

Phil May was asked why it is that one occasionally finds some of his original drawings on sale, and he replied characteristically: "That I don't know; they must be sketches which I have given to friends and have been sold by them. Terrible thought, isn't it? But that is the only explanation. It reminds me of the Liberal politician I once heard of."

"What was that?" asked the interviewer, on the alert for a good story.

"Oh, it was the same sort of thing—only more so. It seems this man was an ardent Liberal—no, there is no political bias in this story!—He got into correspondence with Mr. Gladstone, who gave him some of his works with his autograph on the fly leaf. Nothing remarkable about that! No, but what was the sequel? That man went and sold those autograph books and on the proceeds of the sale he went down into the country to vote against the Gladstonian candidate! Cynical sort of proceeding, wasn't it?"—Bookman.

His Natural Skin.

The Piccadilly Johnny has a new pair of boots. That is why he wears his trousers turned up even higher than usual.

Queer Korea.

In Korea, says Frank Carpenter, you can buy a pair of shoes for 50 cents, but if you should want 100 pairs the merchant would probably charge $1 a pair, on the ground that if he gave you all his goods he would have to close his store.

THE DEAF HEAR.

DR. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE

Working Wonders in Toronto.

Gave MRS. BINDON her hearing when Specialists failed.

About 3 years ago, Mrs. Bindon, of 11 Maitland St., Toronto, was attacked with la Grippe, which affected her hearing to such an extent that she was completely deaf. It was a serious affliction and she tried many remedies and consulted a prominent specialist on ear diseases, but derived no benefit. By a happy circumstance she was led to use Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and before she had completed 3 boxes her hearing had partially returned.

She persisted in the application of the remedy, so confident was she of ultimate cure, and by the time 12 boxes had been used her hearing was completely restored. For 3 months now she has been free from deafness, and no emancipated sufferer was ever more delighted than Mrs. Bindon. On Sunday she goes to church and enjoys the service, a thing she was unable to do before Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure gave her back her hearing.

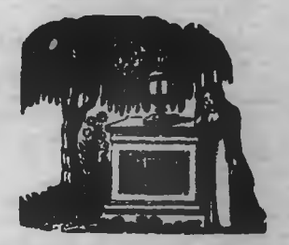
High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.



The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARG being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

"The Isle of Champagne."

One of, if not the most, successful of American operas produced in recent years, will be seen at the Bradburn Opera House on Monday, Feb. 21st. The company comprises sixty artists and is headed by Richard Golden and Katharine Germaine. Mr. Golden will be remembered for his excellent service as the star of "Old Jed Prouty," while Miss Germaine won laurels as Francesco in DeKoven & Smith's Fencing Master. The production of "The Isle of Champagne" is one of the most costly on the stage to-day. The costumes and scenery are entirely new and has a complete ballet and full orchestra. David Bisre & Co., managers of the enterprise, have had vast experience in operatic spectacles and the present surpasses any of their past efforts. In the company, aside from the stars, are such well known comic opera favourites as J.W. Kingsley, Joseph F. Sparks, Blanche Chapman and Lillian Burnham.

THE JEWS ARE A WONDERFUL PEOPLE.

SOME OF THEIR CHARACTERISTICS RELATED LAST EVENING.

A Commercial Traveller of That Nationality Entertains an Audience in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

Mr. B. Rautenberg, the converted Jew, who preached in the Charlotte street Methodist church on Sunday, gave an address there last evening to a very large audience, taking "The Jew" as his subject. The speaker opened with the statement that the history of the Jew since the day of Abraham to the present time was the greatest marvel of the world. The name of the Jew is full of wonder. The Scriptures say it is a name of joy—a crown of glory in the hands of the Lord. Under these circumstances there is need of prosecuting the work of conversion amongst the race.

The Jews are traced back for 3,500 years, and yet to day they are different and distinct in their characteristics from all other races. No nation are as ancient as the Jews—not the Persians or even the Chinese. The nation was old when Rome and Greece were founded. It had entered into decline when the fabled wolf suckled Romulus.

AS A RACE

the Jews are immortal, but as a political body they are dead. From Joshua down for 700 years they were independent. Then in the year 70 of the Christian era they were a conquered race and were scattered over the face of the earth. Yet the Jew always preserved his identity. The sufferings he has gone through are beyond comparison. At the siege of Jerusalem mothers ate their children, a hundred thousand died of starvation, the city stank like a charnel house. The prisoners were crucified to the number of 1,100,000—in such numbers in fact that the condition of affairs was such that there was no further room for the erection of crosses outside the wall. Besides this there were 97,000 prisoners. The plunder was such that gold fell to half its former value, and the Jews were demolished as a political body. Calamities met them at every turn. They were despised as vagabonds and persecuted in every country in the world. Prohibition from holding land drove them out of agriculture and into trade. Being compelled to be prepared to fly at moment's notice, induced them to embark in a business where their goods could be compassed in small space—hence the reason for so many being found in the jewelry business. The worst treatment was accorded them by

THE CHRISTIAN NATIONS.

With the Mohammedans they were comparatively safe. To such an extent were they persecuted, that 200 yeart ago it was estimated that there were not more than three millions of them left. Contumely had deluged them. Despised, enslaved, hated and banished, long had been the wanderings of the tribe of the weary. With a trembling heart and in fear of their lives by day and by night and yet a people who are the wonder of the day—a people that are ineffaceable and whose ancient enemies have all disappeared from the face of the earth.

The wonder grows when the wonderful mental and physical vitality of the race is considered. How phenomenally endowed with courage by God they must be to bear up with such fortitude and in their physical vitality they are just as phenomenal. In Persia from 1816 to 1867 the rate of natural increase amongst the people of that country was 91 per cent., amongst the Jewish residents it was 113 per cent. In Austria for a period of 50 years the increase was 150 per cent., amongst the Jews, as compared with the Austrian 75 per cent. increase.

The red Indian degenerated when brought into contact with other nationalities; the Jew is just as strong as he ever was. Though so hated and despised he still exerts an influence in the world greater than the combined influence of all other nations, as from them have come the prophets—Moses and David and Jeremiah and Isiah and Daniel and all the rest.

From them came the Christ, and they gave to the world Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Paul and all the rest of those heroes of the The New Testament. All this has the world gained through the despised Jew.

The speaker then went on to dilate on the important positions held by the Jews in the financial, political and educational circles of the world. In music such men as Mendlsohn, Bach, Rossini, Meyerbeer and others had been proud to admit their nationality. In the Universities of Germany seventy chairs were occupied by Jewish professors. In finance they were kings and in politics supreme as no nation could go to war without them—they held the purse strings.

And the chief wonder of all was that their checkered history had all been written in advance. We find it in the Scriptures, and in the fulfilment of prophecy they will once more become great. Events are shaping themselves towards this end even now, and the Jews are streaming back to Palestine, the home of their fathers. We are on the eve of a mighty convulsion amongst the nations, incidental to the Jew coming into his own.

In concluding Mr. Rautenberg urged that the work of conversion amongst the Jews be prosecuted with earnestness as at no time were the conditions more favourable.

During the evening Master Barnie Rautenberg sang several selections, including "Jerusalem," and Miss Lola Ostrom recited. Mr. Percy Owens also kindly contributed an organ voluntary to the programme.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Mrs James Noble Early This Morning.

The death occurred this morning of of Armina M. Gordanier, relict of the late James Noble, at the family residence, No. 384½ Water street.

Mrs. Noble has been ailing for the past year, being subject to heart trouble and bronchitis. About two months ago she began to fail perceptibly and gradually declined until her death this morning. One daughter survives—Miss Irene Noble, who teaches in the North Ward school.

The deceased had been a resident of Peterborough for over 25 years, coming here from Kingston with her husband, who was an accountant, and died in 1891. She was the second daughter of the late James Gordanier, of Hope township, who for sixty years was a Methodist local preacher in that part of the country.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock, from No. 384½ Water street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

DEATH OF JOHN HICKEY.

One of Peterborough's Pioneer Residents Passed Away Yesterday.

The death of Mr. John Hickey occurred on Monday of paralysis at his residence, No. 71 Elm street.

The deceased, who was 80 years of age, was suddenly stricken down at noon yesterday and never rallied, dying a few hours later. He was a native of the county of Limerick, Ireland, coming to Peterborough as one of its earliest residents. In 1849 he was united in marriage to Margaret Quinn, who died about a year ago. Two children survive—Mr. John Hickey, of Revelstoke and Mrs. Eugene Archambault, of town.

The funeral will take place from No. 71 Elm street at nine o'clock to-morrow morning to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

MADE A "MIT-STAKE."

A Well Known Teamster Loses his Gloves through a Singular Occurrence.

During the late cold spell a gentleman living not a thousand miles from Ashburnham, lost some of his personal property in a peculiar manner. Being hardy and careless of the state of the weather he placed his mits on the sleigh and sat down on them, intending, of course, to make use of them when loading the sleigh. By some means the mitts got from their place of safety and fell under the sleigh, and in passing over them the teamster happened to notice them, but never for a moment thought the mitts were his.

He very kindly stopped his team and walking over to the fence procured a stake, stuck it into the snow on the side of the road, and placed the mitts on it so that if the owner might happen along he would find them. He then went on his way but on arriving at the wood pile the most careful search failed to discover the mitts. It then dawned upon him that the mitts which he had found on the road were his own, and he made up his mind to remember on his return to stop and pick them up, but, alas! the depravity of human nature, some one had paid a visit to the mitt-stake,—and left the stake, but not his address or the mitts.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

William R. Purdy will Have to Appear Before the Judge.

Wm. R. Purdy, of Belmont, was committed for trial yesterday by Magistrate Edmison on the charge of seducing Annie Rupert, of the same township.

County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution and R. R. Hall, of Stratton & Hall, appeared for the defense.

The evidence taken necessitated the calling of so many witnesses that the preliminary hearing could not be concluded on Wednesday last and had to be postponed until Monday.

BLEZARD'S ASHBURNHAM SUPPORTERS ORGANIZE.

STRONG RALLY OF HIS VILLAGE FRIENDS LAST NIGHT.

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting—Organization Effected — Addresses by Messrs. Kerr, O'Connell and Others—Hopeful Outlook in the East.

A splendid rally of the supporters of Mr. Thomas Blezard, the Liberal standard bearer in East Peterborough, was held in Ashburnham last evening. The occasion was the opening of the Liberal Committee rooms in Ashburnham. The rooms were crowded with enthusiastic and intelligent voters, ready to do battle for their old and trusty standard bearer and for the cause of good and economical Government.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Chairman of the village of Ashburnham—A. A. Smith.

Chairman of No. 1 Division—J. C. Sullivan.

Chairman of No. 2 Division—Thos. Distin.

The necessary committees were also selected.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, who was present, was called on, and addressed the meeting at some length. He spoke of the splendid labour laws and agricultural legislation to be found on the Ontario statute books. He was proud of a government that had held the reins of power for 26 years, and said he would like to see 126 years, if possible, of the same honest and capable administration of Ontario's affairs. He appealed to the electors to stand by Hardy and his supporters, and not to return to Whitney and Tupper. He was proud to belong to a party that in the past had stood their ground when unfairly attacked with race and creed cries. Time had justified that party and to-day, thanks to them, these cries were buried so deeply they would never again be resurrected. He apealed strongly to them to stand by their old and trusty representative, and return him again triumphantly.

Mr. Daniel O'Connell urged the necessity of good organization. He hoped every man would do his duty by his country on this occasion. He had no fear of the result of this election. East and West Peterborough would certainly return Liberal representatives, and in his opinion the signs were never so favourable as now for a splendid Government victory over the province. He knew East Peterborough would do its duty by Mr. Blezard, for whom Mr. O'Connell expressed the highest respect. He was glad also that the race and creed cries had had their day and he hoped to see in the future Catholic and Protestant unite for the upbuilding of the country. The electorate had reason to be satisfied with their representative and the Government, and the speaker predicted a sweeping victory.

Short and enthusiastic speeches, all expressive of the utmost hopefulness and determination were then given by the newly-elected officers and others. It was announced that the committee rooms would be open every night until the close of the campaign. Committee rooms in store recently occupied by Thos. Emmerson, on north side of Elizabeth street.

After a vote of thanks to Messrs. Kerr and O'Connell the usual cheers were given and the committee began their active work. Ashburnham is determined to stand by Mr. Blezard and give him a heartier support than ever.

Great Enthusiasm—Splendid Addresses by the Chairman, Mr. Thos. D. Young, Mr. Geo. E. Elliot, Mr. Wm. Eyres, Mr. E. B. Stone and Mr. Stratton—Thorough Discussion of Public Questions.

A splendid gathering of the electors greeted Mr. Stratton at his meeting in the Temperance Hall, Fourth Line of Smith, last night. And the greeting was a hearty and spontaneous one. As he entered the hall he was greeted with rousing cheers, and when the meeting began, and all through it, he was received with evidences of the most enthusiastic favour.

Mr. Thos. D. Young occupied the chair in a very satisfactory manner. In his opening remarks he referred to the meeting held in the same place by Mr. Garvin. He had noticed the presence of many young men from Peterborough, and as they had never been there before, it was to be concluded by that fact, and by their actions, that they came to shout for Garvin. The chairman referring said that he had not supported Mr. Stratton at his first election, but after he had given West Peterborough one term of good representation, he had no doubt that he was the best representative the riding ever had, and he had since supported him and was supporting him now. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton was not a farmer, but the speaker believed he was one of the best representatives the farmers ever had. (Cheers.) It was said that he had been able to do so much for the riding because he was on the government side. There might be a little in that, but the farmers had had representatives at Ottawa for many years and what had they got?

Mr. Wm. Graham—They got swamped with debt. (Cheers.)

Mr. Young went on to refer to the pretended interest of Mr. Garvin in the farmers, an interest his party and his leader had not shown when he voted against a Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Young went on to point out that there was nothing of any importance in the complaint of Mr. Garvin in regard to Model School teachers replacing Normal School teachers. Mr. Young concluded a neat little speech by pointing out what an excellent representative they had in Mr. Stratton, and applying the well known fable, he advised the electors not to drop the substance to grasp the shadow. They should leave well enough alone.

MR. GEO. E. ELLIOTT,

township councillor, and a prominent and successful farmer, made a short but pointed speech. He dealt in a practical and intelligent manner with the relations between the Ontario Government and the farmers of Ontario in the matter of the encouragement and assistance of agriculture, and he showed how the practical measures and liberal expenditure by the government had been mainly instrumental in placing Ontario as the most important province of the Dominion in the front rank of the food supplying nations of the world in the British market. The money paid out for Canadian cheese and dairy products amounted in 1897 to twenty millions of dollars. They had done this by appointing a practical farmer as Minister of Agriculture, and not a brewer or a lawyer, (Cheers,) and he questioned the benefit the farmers would gain from the instructors sent out in this campaign—such as Mr. Green, Mr. Stapleton and Mr. McNeil, who as expert as they might be in their own affairs, were not competent to teach the farmers of Smith their duty.

Mr. Wm. Eyres, of Peterborough, who is extensively interested in farming, spoke of the claims the government and its supporter, Mr. Stratton, had upon the suffrages of the electors. Both had served the country well and should be appreciated accordingly. He asked if it would be wise on the part of the electors to take the affairs of the province out of the hands of a government that had ruled the province so well and turn them over to untried men; would it be wise to replace a tried and trusty representative by a man who presented no claims, either in argument or fact, upon the support of the electors. Mr. Stratton was one of themselves, and his interests were so interwoven with the town and county that he could not afford to take any course that would do injury to his constituents. He referred to the non-political character of the issues now before the people, and showed that the electors of West Peterborough were not accustomed, either in Dominion or Ontario politics to draw party lines closely, but they voted for what they considered was in their best interests, and he pointed out to the electors their duty in the present contest was to vote for the man that will best serve the interests of the riding and province. (Cheers.)

MR. STONE SPEAKS.

Mr. Stone said there was as little danger as there were little grounds for the Hardy Government being dismissed by the people. Government was in a sense on its defense, and if their was anything serious against their record, it was for the Opposition to show it, and if the Opposition could show no valid reason why the Government should be replaced, then they had no case—they were simply looking for office—seeking office for the sake of office. After briefly referring to Mr. Garvin's relation to education and the school book question, Mr. Stone spoke of the timber question, and especially of the demand of the Opposition that the Government should break faith with the license holders by insisting that the clause relating to the cutting of Ontario logs in Ontario should be enforced at once, and before the expiry of existing licenses. Such a course would have been dishonourable and unfair, and would have resulted in no end of costly law suits for breach of contract. Governments had to set an example of honourable regard for their obligations and the demand of the Opposition was only clap-trap. Mr Stone also pointed out the fallacy of the argument that we should have hoarded the money derived from timber and other resources. It was the people's money, and the people had a right to enjoy the benefit of its expenditure. Mr. Stone said that the Opposition complained of the extravagant expenditure of the public funds and in the next breath falsely charged the Government with being so penurious as to sell diseased pork to raise money for the people. (Cheers and laughter.) He pointed out that the Opposition showed no valid claim why they should be supported by the people, and the Opposition candidate possessed no single claim to the favour of the electorate to replace a representative who had so ably and faithfully served the people.

MR. STRATTON'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Stratton, who was received with enthusiastic cheers, began his remarks by pointing out that we had to take the utterances and attitude of public men as a test of the value their claims to public support. In past contests public men had tried to mislead the electorate on questions that had no real and true relation to political questions. If these things were right in past contests, if they had any valid principle underlying them, they were just as applicable at present, for principles did not change and the conditions had not changed either. In the present contest the Opposition had a new set of cries, and if we could predict from their past course they would drop them after the present contest. If the electors could not trust them then, could they trust them now? If the Opposition wanted to be placed in charge of the affairs of the country they should show in what way they would better advance the interests of the country than the present government. Mr. Stratton inquired if at the meeting held in that place, Mr. Garvin or his advocates had shown any better plan for developing the resources of the province or any more comprehensive and effective plan of applying, as the present government had been during, its course of administration, the public revenues for the advancement of the public interests. He applied this mode of reasoning to all the departments of the government, and to all the interests affected by the government, and showed conclusively that they had not shown in one instance how they would better the province by being in power, He detailed the liberal expenditures made for the purpose of lessening the taxation of the people. Attention was given to the charge that there was a burdensome increase of Government officials. Did these gentlemen specify where the increase came in? Did they tell of one official that was now in Peterborough that was not there 26 years ago? They did not do so because they could not do so. The only official that they could point out as a new one since 1872 would be a license inspector, and the improved conditions amply justified the system that was responsible for such an official. After referring briefly to the personal charges that had been urged against him (Mr. Stratton), and to the misleading statements made by the Opposition candidate and his associates, he called upon the audience to size up the general statements of these men by the known misstatements they had made at that meeting. Mr. Stratton's address covered the whole field of provincial issues, and was greeted throughout by frequent and hearty cheers.

After the answer of a few questions arising out of the former meeting in that place, by Mr. Stratton, to the entire satisfaction of the audience, the meeting was concluded by a vote of thanks to the chairman, and hearty cheers for the Queen and Mr. Stratton.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

Talking about personalities. Let us see. Didn't Mr. McLean, of the Toronto World, make a slight personal reference to Sir Charles Tupper in Parliament lately?

By the way didn't Sir Charles Tupper make some slight personal references, not quite loyal and respectful, to Her Majesty's representative, Lord Aberdeen?

The local Opposition have good examples for a campaign of personalities.

If the "poem" in last night's Review, libellously credited to South Ward school children, is a sample of Mr. Garvin's poetic genius, he had better smash his machine.

Is it a sample of what his educational system would produce; or was it only a Valentine?

There was a grand and enthusiastic rally of Mr. Stratton's supporters at the Temperance Hall, Smith, last night. And he didn't have to import "rooters" from town or another riding to "whoop 'er up."

It's not so easy to stuff the ballot boxes, and as to pack meetings.

Bragging and blowing and singing lame campaign doggerel don't win elections.

The EXAMINER reprinted an article from the Farmers' Sun, purporting to give Mr. Whitney's opinion of the Patrons.

Mr. Whitney denies that he said what the Sun puts into his mouth.

We give Mr. Whitney the benefit of the denial.

Mr. Whitney is a true patriot—the most self-denying man one can find. He made over sixty speeches in his campaigning last fall, and there was hardly one respecting which he did not deny saying something the newspapers said he did say.

Mr. Whitney should take along with him a printing press or Mr. Garvin's poetry machine.

Mr. Garvin's campaign limps like his poetry, he'll hardly get there with both feet.

The "Whitney quartette" brought out Dr. Ford to face the Blizzard at Norwood on Saturday.

Mr. Garvin has a big head—remember this is only figurative, not personal—and of course he has great faith in his powers of performance.

But by the time he builds a steel bridge two miles long and gives away timber limits to settlers the next day after election and gives office to all that are hanging on his skirts, he will realize that the contract will be too big even for him.

But he's got a far bigger contract in getting within cannon shot of a chance to keep any of his wild-cat promises.

Brag is a good dog, but hold-fast is a better.

The staid and sober Guelph Mercury suggests this conundrum: What's the difference between St. John, the piggery apostle, and Bunyan's "Christian?"

"Christian" came to a hill called "difficulty," but St. John has struck a difficulty called "Hill."

Hill is the Government candidate in West York, and Politically, St. John will die in the odour of—piggery.

You may fumigate, sweeten St. John as you will,
But the scent of the piggery will hang round him still!

"It's as much the duty of the people to support a good government as to turn out a bad government."

Mr. Whitney doesn't seem to like the idea of the "common" people getting more than a "common" school education.

The "common" people must be kept in their place; they must not have a chance to rise. Higher education must be reserved for the wealthy.

That's the logical outcome of his educational reform, anyway.

But we shan't hear anything more about it after March 1st.

When we read of a railroad wreck in which a hundred people are killed, we are filled with pity and horror. There are other dangers in this life a thousand times greater than that of the railroad wreck, only we do not have them brought so forcibly to our attention. Consumption does not kill a hundred people at once in one train. It does kill tens of thousands for every one that is killed by accident.

If a sufferer will resort to the right remedy before it is too late, consumption can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures 98 per cent. of all cases if taken in the earlier stages. It has maintained this record for thirty years. Many of those whom it has rescued from the verge of the grave have permitted their names, addresses, experiences and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This useful book is free, and any sufferer who wishes to investigate may procure it and write to those who were once sufferers themselves. For a paper covered copy send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It restores the lost appetite, corrects the impaired digestion, makes the liver active and the blood pure. Any medicine dealer who offers you something else said to be "just as good" is thinking about his pocketbook and not about your health.

"I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' with wonderful results," writes Mrs. Annie M. Norman, of Equinunk, Wayne Co., Pa. "I had consumption; the doctors said I'd die. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

LEFT ON TRAINS.

An Sorts of Articles Are Forgotten by Absentminded Passengers.

Recently a Chicago railroad displayed in its unclaimed parcel room five barrels of rubber overshoes and a box full of false teeth. All this property and more during a period of six months had been left on the suburban and through trains by absent minded passengers. The general baggage agent, upon being asked what was the oddest occurrence of this kind, said that a woman once left on a train a 6-months-old baby, and she did not miss it until a trainman overtook her with the little bundle of humanity before she got outside of the train shed. It was not a case of abandonment. She had forgotten to take up her own offspring.

Only one-half of the articles left on trains are claimed and returned to owners. At all the railroad offices in Chicago there are to be found motley collections of about all the articles which man or woman ever owned. It would be impossible to list them in a whole page of a newspaper.

The article which figures most extensively among the lost and found of the big railroads is the umbrella. An official of the Illinois Central says he received in the baggage department 1,500 umbrellas a year. General Agent Sadd of the Burlington says his records show about 600 a year, and the other lines report large collections of this serviceable article, which are left on trains in all kinds of weather. On a recent fine, sunshiny day the Burlington railroad showed on its record a whole page of abandoned umbrellas.

Next come the overshoes, which are daily found, singly and in pairs and oftentimes odd in size and kind. At all the offices they are accumulated to the extent of barrels and barrels. It is a common occurrence to find upper, lower and partial sets of false teeth. Some give evidence of long service, others have been too new and have been "laid out" to give relief. But they come in all shapes and sizes.

Wearing apparel in large quantities is to be found in the lost parcel rooms. The clerks in the Alton's quarters at the Union station fitted out a dummy figure with every single article that a man is likely to wear from head to foot. The articles were all left piece by piece on the train and gathered up by the employees until the figure was togged out in newest fashion.

The young woman stenographer in Baggage Agent Sadd's office has a pet kitten which was found in an envelope box on a train, and, there being no claimant, young Tom is being taught to earn his board by mousing in the baggage room.

Cripples frequently leave their crutches on trains. There is a collection of them at all the offices. Hanging up in the parcel room of the Illinois Central is a big anchor made of moss gathered from trees in the far south. The maker had taken care of it until Chicago was reached, only to abandon it to the care of the parcel man.—Chicago Tribune.

KINGS AMONG ELEPHANTS.

Two Fine Beasts That Had Slaves to Wait on Them.

It was our good fortune to be present at an important meeting of the khedah at Chila, on the banks of the Ganges, where the Nepalese government had sent down their magnificent troop of tame elephants for the chase of wild ones. They were about 150 in number—magnificent, noble creatures, writes a contributor to the Boston Journal.

The two finest among them were the "kings" of the troop and were called Bijli Prasad and Narian Gaj Prasad. Bijli Prasad, which means "lord of lightning," was such a grand fellow! The width of his brows was so great that he could not put his head through our hall door, and he knows to the smallest point what a mighty creature he is.

He and his companion, Narian Gaj Prasad, which means "the peerless lord," are provided with two slave elephants, and the only duty of the latter is to fetch and provide fodder for Bijli and Narian Gaj. They do their duty right well. At early dawn their mahonts, or drivers, drive them into their jungles, and they work like real slaves. They collect the sweet sugar canes, tearing them up by the roots, the young, succulent grasses and tender leaves and heap them up in masses which weigh about 800 pounds each. These loads are put on their backs, and thrice a day they gladly carry in their burdens and lay them at the feet of their lords.

We went out by moonlight to see the latter fed, and any child would enjoy the strange sight. First of all the mahout makes a great big campfire of twigs and brushwood, and on it he places a large, flat iron dish, supported on two bricks. Then he takes wheat flour and kneads it with water into great round flat cakes about an inch thick and twice the circumference of a soup plate. These cakes he bakes on the iron dish.

We were anxious to taste them, and we found them very good. We punched out with our fingers all the nice brown spots and ate them, piping hot. And to make up to Bijli and Narian for taking part of their supper, we had prepared a treat, of which they are particularly fond. From the bazaar we had brought great balls of sugar cane juice boiled down and made solid, called "goor" in that country. Each ball was twice the size of a tennis ball and in each wheat cake or "capati" we rolled a lump of this molasses. You should have seen how the big beasts enjoyed their feed—how their great trunks rested down on our shoulders, always upturned for the forthcoming delicacy!

At Home Again.

"I defy any man to stay away from his native town so long that on his return there will be nothing left to remind him of the old days," said a successful western man, who had just paid a visit to his birthplace, a little village of northern New Hampshire.

"When I saw Trowbury, after a lapse of 40 years, it seemed to me there was not a single thing which had remained unchanged. The town has become a place of mills and industry; all its old sleepy charm is gone. My old schoolfellows are gray headed, sober men, and the men of 40 years ago are either tottering with age or at rest in the graveyard.

"When I saw my old chums, 'Bouncing Bob'—so named from his prodigious weight—and 'Slab' Peters, whose name was also the result of nature's allotment of flesh, my heart sank, for Bouncing Bob is lank and bony, while Slab Peters would require two seats in a street car.

"'Doubting' Phipps, who used to mistrust all statements, whether as to the shape of the globe or the price of peanuts, I was told lived on a farm so far away that he seldom came to town.

"The night before I came away I was telling a couple of young men at the postoffice something about my wheat farm, in answer to their questions.

"I had just made a statement in regard to the number of bushels yielded the year before, when I was startled by a drawling voice behind me, proceeding from a man who had entered the store while my back was turned.

"'Sounds very fine,' said the voice, 'but I mistrust it can't be true.'

"The two young men turned with intolerant haste to confront the newcomer, but I wheeled around with a sudden feeling of warmth at my heart.

"'You are Doubting Phipps, I know!' I cried, holding out both hands, and I was not mistaken. We talked for an hour, and at the end of that time I felt that Trowbury was still Trowbury."—Youth's Companion.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

Anxious Mothers find Dr. Low's worm syrup the best medicine to expel worms. Children like it—worms don't.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cts.

Anti-Catholic Crusader Stopped.

Edinburgh, Feb. 14.—Joseph Slatterly and his wife, the lecturing expert and former sister of charity, who were mobbed at Savannah and other American cities, were charged at a police court here Saturday with selling indecent books, purporting to be an "exposure" of Catholicism. The court was crowded with Catholics and Protestants. Slatterly promised to destroy the books, and the case was adjourned in order to enable him to fulfil his promise.

Tramway Municipalization.

London, Feb. 14.—Sir Bosdin Leech has vindicated the policy of tramway municipilization in an exhaustive paper read before the Statistical Society of Manchester, where the City Council has decided to adopt electric traction and operate all tramlines after 1901. The principle of the municipal operation of tramways is now regarded by reformers as on a level with corporation ownership of water, gas and electric supplies.

Would Not Reopen Dreyfus Case.

Paris Feb. 14.—In the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday several members sought to revive the Dreyfus discussion, but the Minister for War, General Billot, and the Premier, M. Meline, urged that the interpellation be deferred until the trial of M. Zola and Perreux is finished. M. Roche attempted to reply, but he was called to order and the Government was sustained by 478 to 72 votes. General Billot denounced the reports that he was negotiating with the Dreyfus family concerning reopening the case, and he repeated that Dreyfus was guilty.

Lieut. Devore's Reindeer.

London, Feb. 14.—Lieut. D. B. Devore, military secretary of the United States Secretary of War, who has been purchasing reindeer, has arrived here from Norway on his way to the United States. The United States Consul at Christiania assumed the settlement of the claims for 30,000 crowns due for the 300 or 400 reindeer purchased but unpaid for by Lieut. Devore.

Cabinet Crisis in Norway.

DEAR SIR,—I most heartily thank you for the prompt manner in which you settled my fire claim. Edgar, for $800. I have to-day received a cheque for the full amount of $800 and the settlement is to me in every way satisfactory. I can only say that those having insurance in the Northern Assurance Co. may rest satisfied that, should unfortunately a fire occur, the claimants will be to say the least fairly dealt with.

I have the greatest pleasure in voluntarily giving this testimonial. Yours very truly,

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

KAREN.

There was once upon a time in Kraruper inn a maiden named Karen. She attended to the serving of the guests herself, for the landlady lived among her pots and pans in the kitchen. And many people came to Kraruper inn—neighbors who collected there when the autumn evenings began to darken and sat in the warm room and drank unlimited quantities of coffee punch; travelers and wanderers, too, who came in blue with cold, stamping their feet and calling for something hot, that would enable them to reach the next station.

Karen went about silently, without haste, serving each in his turn. She was small and delicate, only a child, earnest and reserved, and the young fellows did not notice her. But she was very dear to the older customers, to whom a visit to the inn was an event of importance. She prepared their coffee quickly and served it seven times hot. When she moved about among the guests with her waiter, the burly, coarsely dressed men stood aside and made place for her and every one looked admiringly after her. Karen had great, gray eyes that took in everything and seemed to look far, far away, and her eyebrows were arched in surprise and wonder. Strangers thought she did not understand their orders, but Karen heard it all and made never a mistake. She had a way all her own, whether she gazed off into the distance or listened or waited or dreamed. The west wind blew strong. It threw up long, heavy waves from the west sea. Salt and damp, with froth and foam it threw them on the sands. But when the wind reached Kraruper inn, it had only strength enough left to tear open the stable door, and then that which connected the kitchen with the stable. It burst in, filled the space, swung the lantern that hung from the roof back and forth, tore off the hostler's cap and rolled it out into the darkness, threw the horses' blankets over their heads and finally blew a white hen from her perch into the water trough. The hen squawked frightfully, the hostler swore, the chickens cackled. The kitchen was full of smoke. The horses grew restless and beat sparks of fire from the stones with their hoofs. Even the ducks, which were gathered quacking together near the manger to be at hand when the oats were scattered, began to chatter, and through it all the wind roared fearfully. At last two men came out of the inn parlor and, putting their broad backs against the door, pushed it shut, while a shower of sparks rained from their pipes over their dark beards. Having done all the mischief possible the wind fled back over the plain, crossed the great pond and shook the mail coach that rolled majestically along about half a mile from the inn.

"What terrible haste he always makes to reach Kraruper inn," muttered the postilion, Anders, cracking his whip over the smoking horses. For the twentieth time the conductor had let down the window to call to him. At first it had been a friendly invitation to take a coffee punch with him; then little by little the good nature disappeared. Finally the window went down with a bang, and remarks far from conciliating were showered on driver and horses.

The wind swept low on the ground, and long, mysterious sighs murmured through the heather bushes. The moon was full, but thick clouds obscured its light. Behind Kraruper inn lay the gloomy moor, covered by black heaps of peat and deep, treacherous holes. And between the heather bushes wound a strip of grass that looked like a path, but it was no path, for it came to a sudden end at the brink of a hole deeper than the others and filled with water. In the grass a sleek fox crouched and waited and a hare hopped softly over the plain. The fox could reckon with certainty that the hare would not make a long circuit so late in the evening. He stretched out a cautious nose and, as he sniffed in the direction of the wind and sought a secure post of observation, he thought how wise foxes always were and how stupid the hares.

Yonder in the inn there was an unusual commotion. A couple of traveling men had ordered roast hare. The landlord had gone to an auction at Thisted and his wife was used only to the responsibilities of her kitchen. Now it happened, unfortunately, that the advocate would speak with the host on business, and because he was not at home the good woman must listen to a long speech and take charge of an important letter, a proceeding that sadly disturbed her composure. A stranger stood by the stove in greasy sailor clothes, who was waiting for a bottle of soda water. Two fish peddlers had three times ordered brandy for their coffee. The stable boy stood with an empty lantern and waited for a candle, and a tall, rough farmer followed Karen with longing eyes—she owed him change for a crown he had just given her. Karen came and went without haste, without error. One would hardly imagine she could attend to so many things at once. The great eyes and the high arched brows were full of wonder and expectation. The fine little head was held straight and still. If she would make no mistakes, she must keep her thoughts collected. Her blue woolen dress was too small for her. The tight neckband wrinkled her flesh just under the hair. "The maiden from Agger has a white skin," said one fish peddler to the other. They were young people and spoke of Karen as connoisseurs.

Some one stood near the window and looking at the clock said, "The post is early tonight." It rattled over the pavement, the doors were thrown open and the wind blew the smoke from the stove. Karen entered from the kitchen just as the conductor stepped into the door and greeted the company with a hearty "Good evening!" He was a tall, handsome man, with dark eyes, a crisp brown beard framed his face and curly brown hair covered his small head. His long heavy mantle of beautiful red royal Danish cloth was trimmed with black fur and hung from his shoulders. The entire light of the two dim paraffin lamps that were suspended from the wall over the table centered itself on this spot of glorious crimson as if it loved it, and left all the black and gray of the room to grow still graver and blacker. And the tall figure with the fine, dark curly head, the long folds of the crimson cloak, shone like a very marvel of splendor and color.

Karen came in quickly from the kitchen with her waiter. She bent her head so no one could see her face, as she hastened from one guest to the other. She set the roast hare before the fish peddlers and brought the commercial traveler, who sat in an adjacent room, the bottle of soda water. She gave the anxious farmer a tallow candle, and, slipping to the stranger by the stove, she thrust the change from the crown in his hand.

The hostess was in the deepest despair. Everything had gone wrong in her kitchen. She had lost the advocate's letter and boundless confusion filled the inn. The traveler pounded the table with the bell loudly. The fish peddlers laughed until they were half dead over the hares spread before them. The bewildered farmer tapped the landlady on the shoulder with the candle and puffed himself out like a turkey cock.

And amid all this maddening confusion Karen had disappeared. The postilion Anders sat on the driver's seat. The stable boy stood ready to open the door. The travelers in the mail coach were impatient and so were the horses, although they had nothing pleasant to look forward to, and the wind still rattled and whistled through the stable. At last the conductor, whom they all awaited, came. He carried his mantle over his arm as he stepped into the coach and excused his delay with a few curt words. He laughed to himself as he drew his cloak about him and took his seat. The door was closed, the mail coach rolled on. Anders let the horses trot gently now there was no more need of haste. From time to time he glanced slyly at the conductor, who still laughed to himself, while the wind ruffled his hair. The postilion laughed too. He suspected something. The wind followed the coach to a turn in the road, then threw itself again over the plain and sighed mysteriously through the heather bushes.

The fox lay at his post. All was ready now—the hare must soon come. Yonder at the inn harmony was restored, the anxious farmer was relieved of his candle and received his change, and the travelers consumed their hare. The hostess complained a little, but she did not blame Karen. No one in all the world had ever scolded Karen. Quietly, unconsciously she hastened from one to the other, and the serene satisfaction that always followed her footsteps spread through the cosy, half dark inn parlor.

The two fish peddlers that had ordered a second cup of cognac and coffee, to follow the first, were specially pleased with her. A soft pink flush rested on her pale cheek, the glimmer of a smile on her lip, and once when she raised her eyes their light was dazzling. When she felt the men's eyes followed her, she went into the next room where the travelers sat, pretending that she wanted some teaspoons from the cupboard. "Did you notice the conductor?" asked one of them.

"No; not till he went out. He left very quickly," answered the other, with his mouth full of roast hare.

"A devilish handsome fellow! I attended his wedding."

"So is he married?"

"Yes, indeed. His wife is the daughter of the landlord at Ulstrup, and I got there the night of the wedding. That was a jolly time, I assure you. They have two children, I believe."

Karen dropped the teaspoons and went out. She heard nothing that was called after her from the inn. She went across the court to her room and began mechanically to make her bed. Her eyes stared into the darkness. She pressed her hands to her head, to her breast; she groaned. She could comprehend nothing—nothing! She heard the landlady's complaining voice. "Karen, dear Karen!" it called. She ran out across the court, behind the inn, across the moor.

The winding strip of grass glimmered in the half light as if it were a path, but it was no path. No one dared to follow it, for it led abruptly to the brink of the great pond. The hare quickened his steps. He heard a rustling. He gave long jumps as if he were mad to escape; not knowing what he feared he fled over the plain. The fox stretched out his sharp nose and stared in surprise at the hare. He had heard nothing. According to the instincts of his kind he had crouched there in the hollow—he was conscious of no error. He could not understand the action of the hare. He stood long with outstretched head and slinking body. His bushy tail was hid by the heather bushes, and he began to wonder if foxes were getting duller or hares wiser. But when the west wind had run its long course it turned into a north wind, and then into an east wind, and then into the south wind, and at last came back over the sea as the west wind again, threw itself upon the dunes and long, mysterious sighs moaned through the heather bushes.

But there were wanting in Kraruper inn two wondering gray eyes, a little blue woolen gown that had grown too small, and the hostess complained more than ever. She could not understand it at all. No one could understand it save the postilion Anders, and one other!—From the Danish For Short Stories.

Perhaps You're Bilious.

Tongue coated, head heavy, nasty taste in mouth, sour stuff coming up, belching of wind, nausea, no desire for food, generally miserable.

It's the easiest thing in the world to have the jaundiced eye bright, the head clear, the tongue clean, the whole train of symptoms produced by Biliousness removed by

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

MRS. THOS. MCCANN, Mooresville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with biliousness, headache, and lost appetite. I could not rest at night, and was very weak, but after using three bottles of B.B.B. my appetite has returned, and I am better than I have been for years. I would not be without Burdock Blood Bitters. It is such a safe and good remedy that I am giving it to my children."

Thin in flesh? Perhaps it's natural.

If perfectly well, this is probably the case.

But many are suffering from frequent colds, nervous debility, pallor, and a hundred aches and pains, simply because they are not fleshy enough.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites strengthens the digestion, gives new force to the nerves, and makes rich, red blood. It is a food in itself.

THE HOURGLASS.

'Tis only a tiny hourglass
That a childish hand may hold
And a streamlet trickling through it
Of shining desert gold,
And 'tis grain by grain, from glass to glass,
That the tiny sand drops hourly pass.

It is only a tiny hourglass,
But each shining golden grain
Marks a moment of joy and pleasure,
A moment of sorrow and pain.
To the sad heart the hours pass slowly by:
At joy's light touch they swiftly fly.

Each quickly fleeting moment
Wields a tremendous power.
The destinies of a nation
May be changed in a single hour.
Use, then, the hours in the cause of right,
And darkness must yield to a flood of light.
—A. P. T. in Good Housekeeping

Gin is alcohol flavored with juniper berries, coriander, almond cake, angelica root, licorice, cardamoms, cassia, cinnamon, grains of paradise and cayenne pepper. Other substances are often used, together with alum, sulphate of zinc and acetate of lead.

As a rule a man's hair turns gray five years sooner than a woman's.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

IN A BOSTON JAIL ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

JOHN W. HOWRY AND TWO SONS. JOHN H. AND H. KIRK HOWRY.

They are Arrested for Debt at the Instance of the International Trust Company—Brief Sketch of the Financial Troubles of the well-known Saginaw Firm.

A special dispatch from Boston to the Saginaw Courier-Herald conveyed the first information to Saginaw people of trouble to the firm of J. W. Howry & Sons at Boston. The affair was the cause of no no little talk in business circles. The firm is composed of John W. Howry, John H. Howry and H. Kirk Howry, and for years these gentlemen carried on an extensive lumbering business, having their main offices in Saginaw and residing there. The head of the firm, John W. Howry, went to Saginaw from Ohio more than 30 years ago and engaged in the dry goods business. About 15 years ago he closed out his mercantile business and engaged exclusively in lumbering, in which he had been for some time interested. He owned a body of timber on the waters of the Tittabawassee river, and the logs were cut, rafted to Saginaw and manufactured. In this business Mr. Howry prospered, and as his sons grew up they were taken into the firm and the firm name changed to J. W. Howry & Sons. The family occupied a foremost position in business and social circles, and were widely known and respected. When the Michigan timber of the firm was exhausted, they purchased timber limits on the Little Current River, in the Georgian Bay district, in Canada, and this timber was cut and rafted to the Saginaw river. Several years ago they purchased a large body of timber in the vicinity of Fenelon Falls, not far from Peterborough, where they erected an extensive plant, with a manufacturing capacity of fifty million feet of lumber annually. They had only been engaged in this operation a couple of years, when the panic in the United States came on, and as the product of Howry & Sons was marketed wholly there, they were disastrously effected, and their embarassment was accentuated by reason of the fact that they had gone into debt heavily, their interest account said to amount to $60,000 annually, and this, together with the depression in the lumber industry, crippled the firm. Then a disastrous fire destroyed about $200,000 worth of lumber, and the insurance went to a bank in Toronto, which held a large amount of the firm's paper. In July, 1896, the firm went to the wall with liabilities aggregating $1,570,000, and with very little resources in sight with which to meet this vast indebtedness, aside from the property at Fenelon Falls, which went to the Canadian bank. Mr. Howry owned a ranch in New Mexico, and some real estate in Saginaw, but it was transferred to members of the family. The failure of this firm was one of the prime causes of the troubles of the First National Bank of East Saginaw, which held $47,000 worth of the paper of Howry & Sons. Subsequently the two young men went to Colorado, where they were for a time concerned in mining ventures, and lately they drifted east, where they see to have become involved in their present troubles.

The Howrys through their attorney practically acknowledge an indebtedness of about $50,000 and to the National Bank of the Republic about $20,000.

The lawyer for the complainants alleged that others in Boston and vicinity were also creditors of the Howry's, the Mechanics' Bank of New Bedford, for about $10,000, and the Hon. W. W. Crapo personally for the same sum.

It transpired in evidence that the Howry's failed in July, 1896, about six or seven months after they gave out a statement that the firm was worth at least $2,000,000. Since the failure none of the Massachusetts creditors have been able to get a dollar of their claims. The property was confiscated by a bank in Toronto.

The claim was made in defense of the Howry's, that they had no homes other than in Boston, that their property is all gone, and that they had come to Boston with the intention of making this city their residence; that they were interested in mining stocks, and that Boston was the financial mining centre of the United States. Under the law of this state a person arrested on mesne process cannot get bail, except to the full amount of the writ, which in this case is $50,000.

An Ex-Alderman Speaks.

Mr. Jas. Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kemptville, Ont., says: "For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary trouble caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired, worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong not to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of the fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Pure Tea Store, 223 George street. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another person in town says when south do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, both do but the people can buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which could be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A gentleman party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. A LORD IN DISGRACE.

Lord William Neville Sent to Prison for Five Years.

STERNLY REBUKED BY THE JUDGE

The Government's Indian Policy Discussed in the House—A Liberal Who Considers the Campaign a Violation of Sound Policy—Mr. Lawson Walton's Amendment Rejected on a Division.

London, Feb. 16.—At the Central Criminal Court yesterday, Lord William Neville, fourth son of the Marquis of Abergavenny, who was placed on trial, charged with fraud in connection with the suit of "Sam" Lewis, the money-lender, against Lieutenant Spencer Clay, of the Second Life Guards, to recover £11,118 due on two promissory notes cashed by the prisoner, pleaded guilty of fraud, but claimed he was not guilty of forgery. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Judge Lawrence summed up sternly, but his voice at times almost broke with emotion. Lord William Neville was spruce, well-groomed and collected, and apparently almost unconcerned. Judge Lawrence said to the prisoner: "In my opinion the crime is as great as if you had abstracted the sum from Lieutenant Clay's pocket, or had burglarized Mr. Lewis' office and had stolen it. If it had been some wretched clerk, with a wife and seven children, who had incurred a heavy loss and had helped himself at his master's till, I am afraid there would have been no one to speak in extenuation; but, the higher position the person holds, the higher his responsibilities.

"I am sorry to say I have looked in vain for extenuating circumstances. It is as bad a case of fraud as it is possible to conceive. You have brought shame and dishonor upon an ancient and noble family, and sorrow and suffering upon your nearest and dearest. You have forfeited the position you hold in the world, and which should have been a guarantee of your honesty at least, if not of your honor.

"Your crime is great and your sentence must be severe. It is that you be kept in penal servitude for five years."

The prisoner's unsteady gait on leaving the dock showed the effect of the sentence.

THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN.

Government's Policy Discussed in the House—The Criticisms of the Liberals—The Indian Policy Unsound.

London, Feb. 16.—Continuing the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Herbert H. Asquith, Liberal, described the Indian Frontier Expedition as being "one of the most inglorious ventures in the annals of Great Britain," and asked the House to declare the war a "violation of sound policy, which deserved the condemnation of the Legislature."

The Parliamentary Secretary for the Foreign Office, Mr. George Curzon, pointed out that Russia had advanced to the Oxus, and that it was impossible for Great Britain to allow a gap to remain in her northwestern frontier. It was necessary to recognize that, however desirous Russia might be to observe her obligations, circumstances might be too strong for her. She stood on the borders of Afghanistan, which Great Britain was pledged to defend. The Ameer had said: "England and Afghanistan are as one house, with one wall. Are your soldiers going to join mine in defence of that wall?"

Mr. Curzon added that it was necessary therefore that communication with the frontier be kept open, and, while no sane man would propose to get beyond the mountain barrier, yet the two passes traversing the range must be secured. Moreover, the foreign relations of the frontier tribes must be controlled, assurance of their good conduct must be obtained, and it was vitally necessary to enter into confidential relations with them.

The frontier officers, continued Mr Curzon, would be carefully selected, and if their work was successful, the tribes would be "brought willingly under our rule, will wear our uniform, and form a valuable recruiting ground for the Indian army, for the resources within India are less plentiful than formerly."

The Government announced its intention to ask for an appropriation of £75,000 upon the German section of the exhibition.

Mr. Lawson Walton's amendment to the address was further discussed by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Liberal leader in the House, who criticized the Government's policy in India, and by Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, Government leader in the House, who defended that policy, after which the amendment was rejected by a vote of 311 against 208.

Lord Strathcona Takes His Seat.

London, Feb. 16.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal took the oath and his seat in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon. He was introduced by Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Secretary of State for Scotland, and Lord Bagot, who was aide-de-camp to the Marquis of Lorne when he was Governor-General of Canada, and nephew of Lord Bagot, formerly Governor-General of Canada.

Most new peers make visits preparatory to the ordeal, but Lord Strathcona entered the House of Lords for the first time in his life when he took the formal oath and was introduced to the Lord Chancellor.

Edhem Sent to Investigate.

Constantinople, Feb. 16.—Edhem Pasha has been ordered from Thessaly to Uskub, 100 miles from Salonica, in European Turkey, in order to "institute enquiries into the outrages complained of by Bulgaria." It is added that, at the same time, it is hoped that the "presence of the Victorious' commander will intimidate the excited population."

The Victorious in Trouble.

Port Said, Feb. 16.—The first-class British battleship Victorious, which sailed from Malta on Feb. 11 for China, and which went ashore outside the bar while entering this port, will have to discharge her coal, and probably her guns, before she can be floated.

THE KLONDIKE RUSH.

Mr. Mann Is Establishing a Permanent Camp at Stikine Island, Alaska—50 a Day Going In.

Vancouver, Feb. 16.—Mr. D. D. Mann, the contractor for the Teslin Lake Railway is now establishing a permanent camp at Stikine Island, Alaska, at the month of the Stikine River, and much of his supplies and men will have to go forward from an American port to Stikine, United States, until a permanent Canadian port can be established and transportation accommodation can be secured in Canada.

Inspector Primrose of the Mounted Police, who is here, says the Government will establish customs ports at Teslin Lake, at the mouth of Teslin Lake and at the mouth of the Stikine.

The nearest coast port to Skaguay is getting its share of the Klondike trade, but not a big share, Seattle being far in the lead of any coast port. It is estimated that there are 3,000 Klondikers now in the city outfitting and waiting an opportunity to get away.

As to the number daily arriving for the past week, accurate information has been secured from the transportation companies. The Canadian Pacific Railway has brought over the continent for the week ending to-day 350 prospectors bound for Klondike, or an average of 50 a day, and the number is constantly increasing.

The Australian steamers bring a score or so, and the Canadian Pacific steamers Tritan and Athenian are bound from England loaded exclusively with Klondikers and their freight.

As the number of daily arrivals is constantly on the increase, it is difficult to estimate the actual number who will leave here in the next three months, but a conservative estimate would place the contingent from this city at about 80,000—3,000 in February, 6,000 in March, 12,000 in April and 10,000 in May.

The following steamers will sail from here within the next 50 days to March 31: Packshan, Islander, Cleveland, Capilano, Tees, Thistle, Louise, Tritan, Athenian, Cutch, Coquitlam, Centennial, Dunbe and City of Seattle. Five of these steamers a week will sail, but just at present they cannot commence to accommodate the demand for space, and passage and freight room is ordered weeks ahead until steamers en route from England and Japan are put on.

Royal Templars of Temperance.

St. Thomas, Ont., Feb. 16.—The afternoon session of the Grand Council of Royal Templars of Temperance convened at 2 o'clock, and received reports of sessional committees.

His Barn Burned.

Holland Landing, Ont., Feb. 16.—Last evening Mr. Albert Milne, three miles north of here, had his barn and stables burnt down. Everything was lost, barely saving the stock. All his feed and implements and last year's grain were consumed, as Mr. Milne had not sold any grain, but a load or two, and his loss will be heavy. Cause of fire, a lantern upsetting. Some insurance on the barn.

BOOK OF REAL MERIT.

A Free Publication That Excels Ogilvie's Klondike Book.

ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

It Tells How Ontario Folks May Rival Klondike Tales of Wealth by the Actual Experiences They May Have at Home—You May Have It for the Asking.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Ogilvie's Klondike book is the best selling one of the year, but a book—free for all who ask—that excels it in real merit, because treating effectively of a subject of more lasting importance to the people of this province, is the annual report of the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm at Guelph. Where one man will wax rich in the now famous gold mines of the Yukon district of Canada, a hundred may acquire a competence if not a great deal more by sticking to the farm in Ontario. The wealth of matter in the report is of incalculable value to the country.

Agriculture is our greatest industry and the information given thereabouts by this publication to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, is up-to-date and reliable. The report is, moreover, well illustrated, and, for a Government Blue Book, written in a most interesting style. The Ontario Agricultural College is beginning to feel the full cumulative force of nearly a quarter of a century's existence—the past year having been the most successful in its 24 years' history. Proof of this is found in the fact that of the students now in attendance over 95 per cent. came on the express recommendation of ex-students. President Mills, in accounting for this pleasing feature of the College's prosperity, says:

"The great majority of those who have been with us long enough to get a fairly thorough knowledge of our course of study and apprenticeship are giving a good account of themselves at home and abroad. They have gone back to work with an increased liking for farm life; they are pushing to the front as practical, progressive men, and, wherever you find them, they are warm friends of the college at Guelph.

"At the present time every bed in the residence is occupied and 27 students are lodging outside, most of them in the immediate neighborhood of the college. The total number on the roll in 1897 was 275—219 in the regular course, and 63 in the special dairy course, the great majority being Ontario farmers' sons of the very best class."

As an outcome of the tuberculosis agitation, the Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, decided about a year ago to provide for the manufacture of tuberculin in the college. The necessary apparatus was ordered at once, and the bacteriologist, Mr. F. C. Harrison, soon got things in shape to commence work. The first 14 doses were sent out about the end of last May; and since that time the demand has increased so rapidly that it was found necessary to order an additional incubator and add a room to the laboratory. With these additions it is hoped to be able to supply what is required in the province

The work in the department of field experiments is growing in importance from year to year. The experiments with varieties of wheat, oats, barley, peas, corn, turnips, mangles, potatoes, carrots, green fodders, grasses, clovers, mixtures of grain, etc., have been carried on systematically and persistently on well defined lines for seven or eight years on plots in different parts of a fifty-acre field, and under climatic conditions which have varied with the years. Hence the results now begin to indicate very clearly which varieties are best adapted to the soil and climate of the college farm, and the co-operative experiments through the province, carried on simultaneously by the College Experimental Union (largely under the direction of the experimentalist, Mr. C. A. Zavitz), go to show that the varieties which have done best at the college give the best results all over the province.

In this way some excellent foreign varieties have been introduced, tested, and distributed throughout the province—varieties which yield from six to eight bushels per acre more than any varieties previously grown. In oats and barley alone, the varieties introduced and distributed by the experiment station have, within the past four or five years, paid to the province a good deal more than the entire cost of the college for the last ten years.

DOYLE SHOT CONNERS DEAD.

An Unprovoked Murder at Kuskanook in a B. C. Mining District.

Nelson, B.C., Feb. 16.—The steamer Nelson brought in the body of Dennis Conners, murdered Sunday night at Kuskanook. Conners was sitting in Erickson's Hotel, when a man known as Doyle, known in Rossland as J. Sullivan, came in, walked up to Conners, and said: "Dig up, or I'll shoot you." Conners smiled and said: "Fire away." Doyle immediately fired, the bullet entering Conners' left breast above the nipple. Conners fell dead without a groan. Constable Forbes, acting in the absence of Constable Jarvis on special duty at Nelson, arrived on the scene five minutes later, but the murderer had fled. Search was made, but no trace of the murderer could be found. The body was placed aboard the steamer and brought to Nelson, accompanied by Forbes and Ryan, also Erikson, Tom Smith, a chum of Doyle, and Kyle, who was in the bar at the time of the shooting, as witnesses for the inquest to be held Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Superintendent Hussey has been notified and the police are on the alert for the murderer.

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. JOHN LA PAGE, 240 Church St., Toronto, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1898.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, who has represented East Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature for nearly twenty years, having been first returned at the general elections of 1879, is again a candidate for East Peterborough. He has an excellent representativerecord and has given excellent satisfaction to his constituents, having always been returned by substantial majorities. At the last general election he defeated Mr. John Lancaster, a highly respected gentleman, by a very large majority, 465, considering the total number of votes cast, 3,077. Mr. Blezard's strength and certainty of success in the present contest are testified to by his opponents who had great difficulty in securing a candidate willing to take the risk of a contest, and it was only after unusual pressure that his present opponent, Dr. Ford, was persuaded to enter the lists. Like Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Blezard's opponent in the last contest, Dr. Ford is a highly respected gentleman, but he does not possess the claims to be the representative of a rural constituency that Mr. Lancaster, who was a progressive and intelligent farmer, presented. Mr. Blezard is an ideal representative for a rural constituency. He is a successful practical farmer, and with his long experience in the Legislature, is in a position to look after the needs of a rural riding with the greatest desired degree of success. Mr. Blezard is one of the most popular members of the House, and his strong common sense and knowledge of provincial affairs give value to his opinions with his fellow-members and endow him with large influence. Mr. Blezard is a strong and vigorous speaker, able to present well-matured opinions pointedly and forcibly. He has always had, aside from his representative capacity, a warm interest in the promotion of the welfare of agriculture; is actively identified with the advancement of the most prominent interest of this district, the cheese making industry, is always actively associated with one of the best riding exhibitions in the province, and in all respects is abundantly capable of worthily and satisfactorily representing, as in the past, a riding composed principally of farmers, and it is only natural that farmers should prefer one of their own class to represent their interests in the House. It is no more reasonable for a body of professional men to select a farmer for their representative, than for a body of farmers to select a professional man as their representative. Mr. Blezard is well acquainted with the needs of his riding and the wants of the class to which he belongs and his long experience qualifies him in an especial degree to effectively serve the interests of East Peterborough. Mr. Blezard is the candidate on behalf of a Government that presents the strongest possible claims to the confidence of the farming community—a Government which has placed upon the statute book of the Province no fewer than thirty-four distinct acts for the promotion of the interests of all departments of agriculture. Mr. Blezard is entering this contest with his old time vigour, backed by his old time friends and supporters, and with his old time prospects of a successful and triumphal issue of the contest.

A PARABLE TO THE POINT.

In a western Ontario town is a merchant who has never been regarded as entertaining strong views on one side or the other in politics. Indeed, his neighbors would have difficulty in classing him politically. His employees, in consequence follow their own inclination in this regard. Reading the local newspaper one evening he observed that his bookkeeper had been speaking at a Conservative meeting, the main point of his discourse being that it was time for a change, so that the Provincial books might be audited. It so happens that this gentleman has been in the employment of the merchant as a bookkeeper for about the same length of time as the Liberal Government has been in power in the Province. The appropriateness of the parallel that suggested itself caught his fancy, and accordingly he took a good opportunity the following day to call the bookkeeper into his private office. Commanding his countenance as well as he could, he said:

"William, I won't want your services after the first of March, so it would be well for you to look for another position."

The bookkeeper looked utterly dumbfounded. "Are you going out of business?" he at length stammered.

"Oh, no," said Mr. T., "but you have been with me for 28 years; you have been keeping the books for nearly half that time, and I was thinking of trying a new man."

"Well," said the bookkeeper falteringly, and evidently thinking that his employer had become suddenly insane, "are you dissatisfied with my work in any way?"

"No, I can't say that I am," the merchant replied; but it would do no harm to have a new man overhaul your books, and I know one who has been looking for employment for some time. He may not suit me as well as you do, but it is time for a change."

The phrase caught our friend's ear and a light slowly broke in on him. The employer, unable to control himself any longer, burst out laughing. William saw the application. "Go to your work, old man," said Mr. T. "I don't care how my men vote, but the next time you make a political speech I hope you will present some more rational argument than that a good Government should be changed because it has been a long time in office."—Globe.

A PARTIZAN NOT A PATRIOT.

Injuring the Farmers to Gain a Paltry Party Advantage.

Now that the excitement of the inquiry has subsided and its full extent is becoming evident, the piggery scare which Mr. St. John so industriously and recklessly worked up seems likely to be his own undoing. If that were the only effect, Mr. St John would deserve the thanks of his constituency and the province, but unfortunately the harm of the scare will more than offset the benefit derived from Mr. St. John's compulsory retirement to his original political obscurity.

The Canadian packer and dealer in pork is just beginning to realize the injury done the country by Mr. St. John's unwise and unfounded sensation; the farmer will learn it later, but soon enough. Mr. St. John thought his scare would injure the Government, help the Opposition and make votes for himself; perhaps he even thought he was doing the province and the country a favour. What he really has done is to spread all over the country a prejudice against pork and to create abroad a fear, possibly a belief, that Canadian pork is dangerous. It would be serious enough if the scare had been well-founded, but the inquiry proved that the Government had taken all proper precautions and that there was no cause for alarm. The affair has its jocular side; it has also a serious, a commercial aspect. Years ago the trichinosis scare paralyzed the pork business. The scare raised by the the Liberals at Ottawa, when in Opposition, over the lax enforcement of the quarantine laws, resulted in the embargo on Canadian cattle entering Britain. A story that a bag had been discovered in a barrel of apples barred United States fruit out of Germany. An embargo is about to be put on United States horses entering Germany owing to reports of disease in the animals. All this proves not only the necessity of preventing disease in animals, fruits and orchards, but illustrates also the inadvisability of raising scares and using them for political purposes. While Mr. St. John was using his piggery scare to make votes, he was striking a blow at every barnyard in Canada.

The Ontario Government needs little defence; it cleared itself at the time of the inquiry. But it may be as well to recall the main facts, which are that the Government was in no worse position than many farmers in York county. The hogs were bought at the Toronto live stock market. They were store pigs from Essex, of the same class as those bought by farmers. The Government did not breed pigs but simply started the piggery, not to compete with farmers but to consume the offal from the asylum and the prisons, which would otherwise have gone to waste, which was valuable, and which, fed to the pigs, did no injury to the farmers, and was a source of revenue rather than loss to the province. Cholera had infected the pigs in Essex but was not observable when the animals were purchased at the market. The Government piggery was the victim of an accident, just as ordinary farmers were. It was not a matter of party politics, a political blunder; it would happen no matter of what party stripe the Government might be.

In view of this the scare created by Mr. St. John in behalf of the Opposition was unwise, and has been a distinct injury to the country. Partizanship prompted the agitation; patriotism would have prevented it.—Toronto Star, (Independent).

AMAZING DISCOVERY

Startling Decrease in the Number of Deaths from Kidney Disease.

Interesting Investigation at Perth—Miracle of Modern Science—Disease Being Wiped out by Dodd's Kidney Pills—The Case of Owen Byrne.

PERTH, Feb. 15th.—There has been a remarkable falling-off in the number of deaths in this district, of late. So noticeable has this decrease become that it had the result of causing several interested persons to investigate as to the cause. This investigation has revealed the fact that the falling off has been entirely in Kidney Diseases.

This disclosure led to a further investigation, to discover why the number of deaths from Kidney Disease should decrease, while those from other causes remain at about the same figure, especially as it is known that nine out of every ten deaths are caused by Kidney Disease in some form.

This discovery startled the investigators somewhat. For the decrease was traced, in every case to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It was found that a few years ago, before this medicine was introduced, the recoveries from Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Urinary and Bladder Diseases, Blood Impurities, Diseases of women and Heart Disease, were very rare. But since Dodd's Kidney Pills have come into regular use these diseases never prove fatal, when the pills are used.

In proof of this claim, Owen Byrne, of Perth, states that he was completely cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. He suffered for a long period, and no other remedy did him any good. His sufferings were very distressing, and he was in a totally hopeless state, when he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cured him in a few weeks. This is only one of hundreds of cures in this county.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2 50, or they will be sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Free In Spite of Himself.

Under the first French empire the administration of the prison of Sainte-Pelagie was so loose that it was not rare for accused persons to lie there six months without knowing the cause of their incarceration. The following adventure, narrated in "The Dungeons of Old Paris," discloses the fact that release under similar conditions of ignorance was not impossible:

The doctor had given to a prisoner who was slightly ill an order for the baths. Not knowing in what part of the prison the infirmary was situated, he presented his order to a tipsy turnkey, who opened the outer door of the prison.

M. Guillon, a free man without being aware of it, took the narrow street to be a sentry's walk and went a few paces without finding any one to direct him. Returning to the sentry at the door, he inquired where were the baths.

"The baths!" said the sentinel.

"The prison baths."

"The prison baths," said the sentinel, "are probably in the prison, but you can't get in there."

"What—I can't get into the prison? Am I outside it, then?"

"Why, yes, you're in the street. You ought to know that, I should think."

"I did not know it, I assure you," said M. Guillon, "and this won't suit me at all."

He rang the prison bell and was readmitted, and his recital of his adventure restored to sobriety the turnkey who had given him his freedom.

An Ex-Alderman Speaks.

Mr. Jas. Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kemptville, Ont., says: "For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary trouble caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired, worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong not to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

HIS COMPLETE CHANGE OF BASE.

He Attacks the Bargain Fiercely—Hon. Mr. Sifton's Reply—Committee Appointed to Investigate the Drummond Counties Railway—Opposition's Extraordinary Course on the Question.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Last year when the Drummond County Railway contract was before the House for ratification the Opposition could find no words strong enough to denounce it as a corrupt and improvident bargain, without, however, taking the responsibility of making specific charges upon which to base an investigation. When the session was over leading Conservatives went about the country condemning the rascality of the Government in agreeing to take over the railway that forms the connecting link between the western terminus of the Intercolonial at Chaudiere and Montreal. The Conservative press was equally vehement in its denunciations Yesterday, when the Government put before the House a resolution calling for an exhaustive inquiry into the transactions under consideration and into all previous negotiations for the transfer of the Drummond County road to the Dominion, the Opposition protested that they had never made any accusations of wrong-doing, but had simply criticised the scheme as an improvident one. This disclaimer almost took away the breath of the Ministerialists, who last session had been subjected day after day to such an avalanche of abuse as they could not well forget. Mr. Tarte, who had been singled out as the chief among the sinners, could not sit still when he heard Mr. Foster declare that no charge of wrong-doing had ever been made in the House. When the Minister got a chance to speak he was in a high state of indignation, which manifested itself in a scathing denunciation of the course of the ex-Minister of Finance in making statements on the platform that he refused to stand by in Parliament.

The Premier's Resolution.

Yesterday Parliament therefore adopted the following resolution:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier: Resolved, that a special committee of the House be appointed to enquire into the expenditure of the subsidies granted in aid of the construction of the Drummond Counties Railway, and into all negotiations and transactions between the Government of Canada and any member or officer thereof or any person in its behalf, and the Drummond Counties Railway Company, or any director, officer or person in the company's behalf, relating to the acquiring of the said railway by the Government, with power to send for papers, persons and records, and to report the evidence to this House, together with the opinion of the said committee thereupon.

The committee will be composed of Messrs. Lister, Carroll, McIsaac, Morrison, Haggart, Borden (Halifax) and Powell.

The Yukon Land Grant.

Mr. Blair's motion for committee stage to-morrow on the resolution to grant 25,000 acres of land in the Territories for each mile of railway from the Stikine River to Teslin Lake was adopted.

In reply to Dr. Montague, Mr. Blair said that the resignation of Mr. J. Galbraith of Port Colborne, an employe on the Welland Canal, had come to Him, and had been handed to the Deputy Minister in the usual way. He would now see that it received immediate attention since Mr. Galbraith was a candidate for the Ontario Legislature.

The Yukon Railway Bill.

Mr. Blair then rose to move the second reading of the Canadian Yukon Railway bill. He said two propositions were admitted on both sides of the House and in the country. The first was that a railway should be constructed into the Yukon; the second that the work demanded immediate attention. He (Mr. Blair) admitted that the Government would have failed in its duty if it had not provided for the immediate construction of the railway. Admitting these propositions, what remained? First of all, there was the question of route. Some doubt might exist whether the Government had chosen the most favorable route, but the more the matter was considered, the clearer it would be seen that the Government had made the only possible selection, admitting that the railway must be built at once. Undoubtedly the Chilcat route presented greater commercial advantages than the other, but that line could not be built under two years, and then there was the difficulty that the starting point was in territory presently occupied by the United States. The same objections which applied to the Chilcat held good to the other routes. The conclusion was inevitably forced that the Government could not have chosen any other route than the one selected.

Referring to the value of the grant to McKenzie and Mann, the Minister pointed out that an exaggerated value had been attached to the 5,000 square miles of land. It was never supposed that these would be all gold-bearing lands, but the objection to the contract was based on this assumption, and hence had no reason or force. Referring to the monopoly, so-called, he said the Government had not yet taken up the question of tolls. Mr. Wallace, in his speech, had calculated that the contractors would earn $10,000,000 the first year. The hon. member had a vivid imagination, but he was altogether astray. He (Blair) thought he could safely say, if this contract passed, that the Government would fix the rates at a figure which Mr. Wallace would consider reasonable.

Without going into minute details, he would say that the assumption that he had been either unable or unwilling to make full explanations in introducing the bill was unfounded. When asked for the estimated cost of the line he replied $25,000 a mile; but as to whether it was accepted by the Government he had observed that it was difficult to place a safe estimate under certain conditions. Mr. Jennings' estimate that it would only cost $250 a mile to lay the rails was not sufficient, in his opinion. Wages were $15 per day up there. Then $80 was estimated as the cost of the rails per ton; he did not believe they could be landed there for that sum; $80 a ton would no more than cover the freight. Who can, he enquired, estimate the area of the gold-bearing lands? Nobody knew it; it was purely problematical. The estimate of 125,000 square miles in which gold may be found was Mr. Ogilvie's hazard, but how could he (Mr. Blair) give an estimate of their value? As to the suggestion of a provision to prevent the railway falling into the hands of foreigners, it might be provided that the stock should not be transferable; but it would be a new departure and unfair to the company. But he would approve of a clause providing that a majority of the directors should be Canadians. That could be incorporated in the bill in committee, as well as a provision compelling the company to operate the road, and he concluded by moving the second reading of the bill.

The Conservative Leader.

Sir Charles Tupper complained that no additional light had been thrown on the transaction, except that admission that an anti-foreign control clause was needed. Its adoption at this stage showed the precipitancy with which the contract had been adopted. (Hear, hear.) He agreed with several of Mr. Blair's points: first, as to the importance of having this railway constructed; and, second, that it should be over an all-Canadian route. It was difficult to understand the magnitude of the question involved in the keeping of the Yukon trade for Canada. From the first there had been a determined attempt on the part of United States citizens to aggrandize this trade. It was important that this should be counteracted, and, having looked at this question from a broad public standpoint, he had come to the conclusion that the best and only available route was from the Stikine River to Teslin Lake. He urged that the Government should construct such a road, and while deprecating generally railway construction by the Government, he learned with pleasure that arrangements had been made by the Government for the building of the road. Perhaps he had gone further than he ought in expressing that satisfaction. But a good many things had happened since. There was more light on the subject now, and the matter could be dealt with thoroughly. And if he had expressed a hasty opinion on that occasion, it was on the scanty information at hand. Since then facts had come to light which altogether altered the character of the arrangement. (Cheers.) He had no intention of expressing approval of the proposal of the Rothschilds, having merely referred to their offer to build a road for 5,000 acres per mile instead of 25,000 to the present contractors, as an evidence of the enormous extravagance of the present bargain.

Sir Charles then proceeded to criticise the arrangement with Messrs. McKenzie and Mann, and in conclusion, he expressed the hope that, if the Government was determined to force this bargain through Parliament, they would at least remove this glaring discrimination and reduce or remove the royalty charge to miners.

Mr. Sifton on His Feet.

Mr. Sifton's personal knowledge and experience of the Yukon and the conditions prevailing there, and the close attention which he has devoted to the administration of the district, caused the members on both sides of the House to listen with the greatest attention to his able speech upon the bill. It was after 10 o'clock when he rose to speak, but every gallery was still full. The Minister of the Interior first turned his attention to Sir Charles Tupper, at whose inconsistent statements in regard to the bill he levelled some bitingly sarcastic remarks. He began by poking fun at Sir Charles for what he called his change of front on this question. The spectacle, he said, was for the first time presented to the House of the leader of a great party dragooned by the fag-end of his party. Sir Charles first in favor and now opposed to the deal reminded him of Philip Drunk and Philip Sober. Then, Sir Charles could see no other contractors but Mann and McKenzie, no other route than the Stikine, and no danger of customs trouble at Wrangel. He was all against it now. It was a sharp turn, but while the member for East York (Mr. Maclean) ran the party, Sir Charles would have to take sharper turns yet. Mr. Sifton quoted from the Witness to show that it was still of the opinion the contract was a business arrangement. Mr. Sifton deplored the reckless and blatant language of Sir Charles Tupper in regard to the relations between Canada and the United States. His remarks, the Minister said, would not do credit to the most obscure stump speaker who had ever addressed a backwoods audience. It was such careless and disgraceful speakers as that that produced the most horrible calamities between nations by inflaming the minds of people who did not recognize the responsibilities of the Government in matters of this kind. The members of the United States Government had realised the responsibility they are under. So far as the United States Government was concerned, there had been no cause for complaint in regard to the method in which they had dealt with the Canadian Government. Canada had met with every courtesy at their hands. The Secretary of the Treasury had amended the United States regulations in a manner calculated to promote Canadian trade by way of Dyea, and the Mounted Police had gone through territory in the possession of the United States without question. If Sir Charles Tupper's policy of waving the bloody shirt had been followed we would not have owned the country at all, because it would have been impossible to send our troops in there to preserve order. Without concluding his speech, Mr. Sifton moved the adjournment of the debate.

When the House rose the Minister was warmly congratulated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and others on the Ministerial side of the House.

The House adjourned at 11.30.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

Her latest she discovered in Chicago last week. Here it is:

"I've nothing for you to-day.
My books are full and business is dull.

PRESENTATION TO REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK.

BY A NUMBER OF HIS FRIENDS IN PETERBOROUGH.

The Pleasing Affair Took Place at Young's Point Church After Mass Last Sunday Morning—The Address — Those Who Were Present.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, the newly appointed parish priest at Young's Point, who made for himself many warm friends during his three years residence in Peterborough, was genuinely surprised on Sunday last, when a large party of gentlemen drove out from Peterborough, and after morning mass, made a presentation of a purse of gold to the reverend father, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Dr. Moher:

Rev. M. F Fitzpatrick, P. P., Young's Point.

Dear Father,—A short time ago the members of the congregation of St. Peter's, Peterborough, heard with regret that you were about to be removed to this portion of the diocese, and we felt that the time was opportune to give some expression of our appreciation of the energy and zeal with which you laboured amongst us since your ordination.

It is impossible for us to enumerate all your good works, or to mention more than a few of your good qualities in a brief address. We desire, however, to say that we have observed with pleasure the cheerful and prompt manner with which you performed the never ending round of duties in connection with your high office, and to assure you that many a poor unfortunate sufferer is living certain to bless you for the sweet consolation brought him in his hour of affliction.

Your humble and unaffected bearing towards everyone with whom you came in contact and your edifying and priestly life have endeared you to us all, and have stamped upon our memory recollections which we assure you we will long preserve. You have indeed been a true priest, zealous for the glory of God and for the salvation of the souls committed to your care.

To establish and take charge of a new parish is at all times a very responsible undertaking, and your selection for the very important work is but another demonstration of the prudence and wisdom that has marked the administration of the good prelate who rules over this diocese.

We cannot conclude without extending our congratulations to the good people of this parish, and assuring them that we who have known you so well feel that in your appointment they have bestowed on them a signal blessing from God's right hand.

In conclusion, dear Father, we ask you to accept this small donation as a slight expression of our gratitude, for your many acts of kindness and warm appreciation of the priestly virtues which have endeared you to us all. May we ask that in your charity you will sometimes remember us in your holy offices, particularly in the holy sacrifice of the altar.

Signed on behalf of the committee,
Thos J Moher, M D, Chairman.
M H Quinlan, Secretary,
J C Sullivan.

Mr. J. C. Sullivan handed Father Fitzpatrick the purse.

FATHER FITZPATRICK'S REPLY.

Father Fitzpatrick was deeply affected and it was some moments before he was able to reply. He first thanked the people of Peterborough for their generous present, for their very flattering address and especially for their presence in such large numbers at Young's Point. They came to do him honour, to give expression to those kindly feelings which he know they always felt towards him. For almost three years he lived and worked amongst them, and in that time he learned to know them, and to love them. He had always tried to do the best he could for their spiritual wants and his efforts were appreciated. Reference to His Lordship Bishop O'Connor drew from Father Fitzpatrick his high appreciation of him whom it has pleased God to place over the diocese. In conclusion, Father Fitzpatrick again thanked those present, as well as those who were unable to come, hoped that God might bless them and promised to remember the good people of Peterborough in the holy sacrifice of the mass.

Those in the party from town were Dr Moher and Messrs Thos Cahill, Richard Sheehy, H LeBrun, M H Quinlan, Thos J Doris, S Angiesy, J Donovan, C LeBrun, M O'Brien, L M Hayes, Jas Lynch, M J Coughlin, Ed McFadden, W Phelan, J C Sullivan, Fred Sullivan, L E Henry, Peter Simone and Ed Welsh.

After partaking of dinner the party called upon Father Fitzpatrick at his residence and at his earnest solicitation dined with him in the evening.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING.

Next week the nineteenth annual meeting of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters will be held in Peterborough, beginning in the Court House on Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

This meeting represents a most important gathering, because of its representative character, apart from the importance of numbers, for over three hundred delegates, representing a membership of 27,000, will be present, the most influential members of the Order in every part of the Dominion. These men will be our guests for four days, and Peterborough should show on this, as it has done on former occasions, that it knows how to extend a graceful and cordial hospitality to the stranger "that is within its gates." These guests, as before remarked, are prominent in the wide area of territory they represent, and the report, that they will carry back to their homes of the thrift, progressiveness and industrial capabilities of Peterborough, will constitute an advertisement of the town that will be sure to bring practical results. Our existing industries require customers and the visitors can, and will, carry back to to every city, to every town, every village, every hamlet, intelligence of what we can supply. Our unrivalled railway facilities, conjoined with our unrivalled water and electric power capabilities, easily available, will reach, through the personal report of delegates, the ears of enterprise and capital, in all the area mentioned, and it is safe to say that enterprise, looking for a first-rate site for profitable employment, will not be allowed to forget Peterborough.

No more appropriate place for the meeting of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters could be selected than the town of Peterborough, for there is not a town and district in Canada where the Order has a stronger hold. In the town of Peterborough there are five Courts, with a membership of 500, and in the district there are 20 Courts, with a membership of 500, and for the town and district a total membership of 1000. Besides, Peterborough has, in one sense, a financial interest in the Order, which is exceedingly strong in funds. The surplus funds of the Order, are within a few dollars of $600,000. These funds are invested in first-class securities, widely distributed, so as to create the maximum of safety. $100,000 is invested in Dominion bonds and the balance is distributed among thirty of the strongest banks and financial institutions of the Dominion, the following amounts being placed in Peterborough:—Bank of Montreal, $30,000; Toronto Savings and Loan Company of Peterborough, $20,000; Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, $20,000. The fact of having local representation on the Executive Board doubtless had its influence in giving Peterborough a share of the investments of the Order.

The standing of the Order in a beneficiary, as well as in financial and other senses, is of the highest. Its death rate is the lowest, its High Court officials are men of conspicuous ability, reliability and executive capacity, and altogether the Order is one of the most important beneficiary organizations in the Dominion.

With all these reasons combined to make important the nineteenth annual visit of the High Court of Canadian Foresters to Peterborough, the practical side is not without its local importance. The presence of 300 delegates for four days, at an average per capita cost of $3, means a total addition to the circulating funds of the town of $3,600, and in view of this fact, and the advantages it represents, it would appear that the town council would not be astray in practically co-operating with the citizens generally and the local members of the Order in hospitably recognising the presence of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

This is a cold day for the Opposition candidate in the north.

But it will be a good deal colder for him on March 1st.

The Review says that reports from the north are encouraging.

If we trusted the Opposition "reports" their candidate will be elected by acclamation.

If Mr. Garvin's salary of $1200 a year came from the interest on well secured funds, and wasn't subject to a score of contingencies that might cut it off any day, he might claim to be worth $20,000.

The financial resources in the hands of the Dominion, on which Ontario draws over $200,000 in interest every year, are as permanent and safe as the Bank of England.

Col. Mathieson is very likely to experience a vast deal of trouble in juggling the election return figures in South Lambton, so as to give him a majority on March 1st.

THE EXAMINER clipped from Bystander's column in the Farmers's Sun what purported to be Mr. Whitney's remarks regarding the Patrons.

The Sun said the remarks were put in Bystander's column by mistake. At Brussels, Huron county, Mr. Whitney made this denial:

"Never at any time or in any place did I use any of the words I am accused of having used there," said Mr. Whitney with emphasis; "never in all my life, and these are simply the words of some abandoned man who sat down deliberately to bear false witness against his neighbour. (Cheers). That is all I wish to say about it. It is not the first time that from behind some stump or tree a cowardly attack has been made upon myself, but I have not suffered from it more than other public men, no doubt, and I merely wish to mention it here, because if I passed it by these men who are busy circulating this statement would say that it must be true, or otherwise I would have denied it."

Mr. Whitney is entitled to the benefit of such a denial. While a public man should be held responsible for what he says, he should not be asked to shoulder what he does not say.

THE EXAMINER cheerfully does Mr. Whitney the justice of publishing his denial, not because the Review demands it, but because it is the fair thing to do.

Why isn't the Review fair enough to publish a retraction of the numerous false statements made by Mr. Garvin and his supporters in this campaign which it has published. The EXAMINER has tried to be fair and even corrects here a typographical error in the remarks of a speaker in Smith, where "his leader" instead of "its leaders," would convey a wrong impression in regard to Mr. Whitney.

The Opposition now seeking office, or rather offices, claim that though they have not been in power, they deserve credit for nearly all the good laws placed on the statute books in the past.

The report, that strong drink was distributed at O'Reilly's school house after the meeting there, is a wicked, malicious lie and

"One who was there" wasn't there or he wouldn't "hope that the rumour (the lie he told) could be disproved."

THE RESULTS SATISFATORY.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

You have repeatedly stated in your columns lately that the Ontario Government has invested in trust funds on which the Dominion Government pays Ontario 5 per cent. interest annually. Will you kindly inform a close student of Canadian politic l economy, Where the funds are invested? Who invested the funds? Where the money came from? And what was the amount?

I have gone through my memory box, have ransacked every hole and corner of it, but can't remember any such investment.

Yours truly,
S.

[THE EXAMINER does not at the moment remember the "repeated" statement to which "S" refers, but doubtless the point he is aiming at turns on the words "has invested." There is no dispute that the province receives in interest annually on capital held and debts due by the Dominion to the province, an average sum of $214,000. This substantial sum received in interest represents something very like capital resources, which the province is entitled to receive the benefit of. No matter what quibble may be used in regard to exact nomenclature, the fact remains that the province receives continuously, from year to year, the amount mentioned as interest. Call the resources representing such a receipt what you will, "investments" or anything else, the pleasant fact is still to the fore, that we have in a safe place, resources equivalent to capital that are good for a good deal over $200,000 a year, though they may not be in our correspondent's "memory box" or concealed in some "hole or corner of it." If "S" had a permanent income of $20,000 a year, representing solid and imperishable resources, not subject to the ordinary peril of "moth and rust" and the incursions of thieves, he would not quarrel with terms, nor insist upon fine spun definitions—would care little whether it were called trust funds, investments, consols, bonds or stocks, so long as the capital resources existed that represented, at five per cent., his secure income of $20,000 per year. He would perhaps—except as a matter of comparatively idle curiosity, care little who invested the funds, or where the money came from, so long as it was honestly got. There is little use of hair splitting, so long as the province gets the harvest of more than $200,000 a year, over what we shall call the field that yields the crop.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order to bring to a head the charges and misstatements rampant about the meeting at O'Rielly's School House in Ennismore as to who was the one to begin the appeals to sectarian prejudices, Mr. Garvin or Mr. Stratton, I hereby agree to put up five dollars for prizes in a race to be called the "Garvin race," at each of the next five Ennismore picnics, if he will do the same, the loser to pay if I cannot prove to the satisfaction of any reasonable committee of men to be named at once that Mr. Garvin began the references to sectarian matters at the O'Rielly's school house meeting.

CANADIAN FORESTERS MEET NEXT WEEK.

THE HIGH COURT ASSEMBLES IN PETERBOROUGH.

The Session begin on Tuesday Next in the County Council Chambers—Over Three Hundred Delegates are Expected—The Programme.

The Nineteenth Annual Meeting of the High Court of Canadian Foresters will begin its session in Peterborough on Tuesday next, and the following data which has been collected in connection with the Order will therefore be found of more than ordinary interest at the present time when next week 300 delegates will assemble here.

The total membership on February 1st, 1898, was 27,000; the surplus funds, $567,676.55, of which $100,000 is invested in Dominion Government bonds, and through the local representative, Mr. F.J. Jameson of Peterborough, who has been a member of the High Executive for six years, the following local investments have been made: Toronto L. & S. Co., of Peterborough, $20,000; Central Canada L. & S. Co., of Peterborough, $20,000; and Bank of Montreal, Peterborough, $30,000.

INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP.

The following table gives the standing of the Order since its organization in 1879 until 1896:

Year ending May 31st.	Membership.	Claims Paid.
1880	850	$ 4,358 50
1881	1,710	5,000 00
1882	2,110	11,600 00
1883	2,900	15,000 00
1884	3,500	11,000 00
1885	4,385	23,000 00
1886	5,121	23,000 00
1887	5,758	22,000 00
1888	7 381	30 000 00
1889	8,625	41,000 00
1890	10,282	51,3 0 00
1891	12,344	60,300 00
1892	15,306	69,000 00
1893	18,295	74,059 53
1894	18,641	88,000 00
1895	20,791	105,647 10
1896	22,651	104,647 10
1897	27,000	69,156 15

All risks are carefully selected. Being purely Canadian, they have no heavy risks in foreign countries, and consequently the lowest death rate and best security in Canada. The low death rate of 4 80 of last year, and the average rate of 4.94 for the past seventeen years, speak for themselves.

We have paid over $1,576,434.00 in Insurance and Benefits to members and their dependents, since organization in 1879.

FRATERNAL INSURANCE.

To those interested in the subject of Fraternal Insurance, an examination of the desirable features offered by the Canadian Order of Foresters is well worth consideration.

1. Purely Canadian.
2. National in its character.
3. Age limit—18 to 45.
4. Fixed premium. No death assessments.
5. Gives $500, $1,000, $1,500 or $2,000 insurance.
6. Over one million dollars paid to members and their dependants since organisation, 1879.
7. Careful medical selection. Death rate for the 17th year of its history, only 4.94 per 1,000.
8. Has the largest surplus on hand for each $1,000 risk of any other society of the kind in Canada.
9. Security of investments. Not a dollar of our surplus invested outside of Canada.
10. Premiums and interest accruing therefrom used only for payment of death claims.

SICK AND FUNERAL BENEFITS.

The High Court sick and funeral benefits are optional, and pay $3 per week for the first two full weeks, and $5 per week for the following ten weeks in any one year and $30 towards funeral expenses.

The rates for High Court sick and funeral benefits, besides the enrolment fee of 50c, are as follows:

From 18 to 25 years, 25c; from 25 to 35 years, 30c; from 35 to 45 year, 35c.

Each Court may provide for sick and funeral benefits and the attendance of a skilled physician during illness.

The High Court gives a weekly allowance of from $3 to $5 during illness or disability as provided in the sick and funeral benefit law, and on the death of a member contributes $30 towards his funeral expenses.

After satisfactory proof of the death of a member in good standing, the wife, children, or designated payees of deceased, receive from the Order the amount of insurance provided for, as named in their insurance certincate or certificates, which may be $500, $1,000, $1,500 or $2,000.

FACTS FOR CONSIDERATION.

1. The interest on the insurance surplus paid over 18 death claims of a $1,000 each last year.

2. The Canadian Order of Foresters has a larger surplus per head, and still larger for each $1,000 of a risk carried, and could divide up and pay back, if so desired, more money per member than any other society of the kind in Canada. Surplus per member $21.79; per $1,000,000 of insurance $31.12.

3. The death rate of the Canadian Order of Foresters last year was lower than that of any of any of its competitors, being only 4 80 to the 1,000, and the average rate for the past sixteen years 4 95

4. The Canadian Order of Foresters, with its present death rate, could pay all death claims maturing during the next four and a half years without collecting a single dollar from its members.

5. All the money received from the monthly insurance fees is placed into the insurance fund, and no portion of this fund or the interest accruing therefrom can be used for any purpose whatever other than the liquidation of death claim certificates.

HIGH COURT MEETING.

Preparations for the reception of the High Court delegates have been actively going on by the members of the local Courts in Peterborough during the past two weeks. An energetic Executive Committee composed of members from each of the four following town Courts, have been busily preparing for the session, namely, Court Peterborough, Court Littlejohn, Court Langton and Court Forest Queen. The committee have been holding weekly meetings in the Forester's Hall, Simcoe street, and the result of their labours has been the adoption of a splendid programme. Reception, Entertainment, Billeting and Finance Committees have been detailed for their respective duties. Nothing has been left undone and practical evidence of the enthusiastic and energetic character of the members has been evinced.

The delegates will begin to arrive on Monday and will be looked after and billeted by the Reception Committee, who have secured ample accommodation for their guests at the hotels.

On Tuesday forenoon the officers of the High Court will be driven through the town to the different places of interest, accompanied by a number of the local brethren.

On Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock the High Court will commence its session in the Court House, when addresses of welcome will be presented by the local brethren and by the Mayor and town council.

On Tuesday evening an entertainment will be tendered to the officers of the High Court delegates, which will take place in the Opera House. The Opera House will be specially decorated for the occasion. The following talented artists have been engaged for the occasion:—Miss Jessie Alexander, the popular elocutionist, Mr. Geo. E. Fax, comic singer: Miss Hendren, soprano; the Misses Hurley, pianists; Mr. J. Crane, accompanist. The entertainment is limited to members of the Order and their ladies. For information as to tickets, etc., see announcement in another column. At the conclusion of the musical programme those present will be invited to remain and participate in an informal hop.

Wednesday morning the High Court will again go into session and will likely continue until Friday night.

BERNARD MORROW, dw RETURNING OFFICER.

If every woman who expects to become a mother would heed and read that great book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., there would be stronger mothers and healthier, happier children in this world.

In this grand volume several hundred of its thousand pages are devoted to teaching women how to take care of themselves during every trying and critical period of their lives and especially at the time of approaching motherhood.

The author of this remarkable work has had a lifetime of practical experience in treating the special diseases and weaknesses of women, and is recognized as one of the foremost of living experts in this particular field of practice. His "Favorite Prescription" is the most wonderful medicine ever invented to restore natural organic strength and power to the delicate feminine structure which is most intimately concerned in motherhood.

Taken during the time of anticipation it deprives this ordeal of all its accustomed terrors and dangers; makes the coming of baby absolutely safe and comparatively painless; renders the mother strong and cheerful, and helps to endow the child with a strong, healthy constitution.

Mrs. Mabel Jordan, of Swofford, Lewis Co., Washington, writes: "I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription until the very last day. We now have a fine, plump little girl over two weeks old. I suffered less pain than with any of the others, this being the sixth child, and she has good health. I got up on the tenth day and dressed myself—something I could not do with the other babies. Have been gaining in strength every day and feel well, all due to God and to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

For the "Medical Adviser," send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only, or for cloth-covered copy 50 stamps, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A CHARGE OF MURDER.

Coroner's Inquest Into the Death of Infant Thomas Perth—The Doctor Swears the Child Died of Starvation.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Mary Malone, against whom a charge of murder has been laid in connection with the death of Thomas Perth, an infant child, which she claims to have found on the street, was present when the inquest was resumed by Coroner Spencer at No. 2 Police Station last night. She was attended by her counsel, C. E. Macdonald. W. E. Raney was present for the Crown. Throughout the proceedings Mrs Malone's actions were peculiar. She laughed out loud several times, and at intervals cried. Frequently she interrupted with remarks, and did not subside until the Coroner threatened to exclude her from the inquest.

Two Children Died.

Dr. A. G. A. Fletcher testified that Mrs. Malone gave birth to one child on Dec. 29, 1897. He attended her during confinement in 1895, and the child died last fall from water on the brain. In the summer of 1896 a child about seven months old died at her house. Witness thinks he was told by Mrs. Malone that the child belonged to her sister who lived in New York. The child died of convulsions, and Dr. Fletcher signed the burial certificate.

Thomas Malone, the prisoner's husband, was called, and Mr. Macdonald objected strongly to his testimony being taken, particularly as regards any communication from the wife of the husband. The Coroner sided with him only on the latter point. Mrs. Malone doggedly remarked: "I refuse my husband to swear against me." Malone said the child born on Dec. 29 is now alive and well. It was their fifth child, only two of them now living. His wife's taking in babies for adoption was against his wishes. Since moving to Howard Park avenue last November, two children had come to the place and had gone away before Christmas. He could not say where they came from nor where they went to. Another child had come to the house a week ago last Monday night, and the police now had it. Witness said he had found a child on his doorstep when they lived on Sackville street last year. His wife had found another baby on the doorstep when they were living on Queen street east. A baby was brought to the house on Sackville street, but witness could not say whose it was or what became of it. He could think of no more babies that had come to the house.

Death Due to Starvation.

Dr. Strathy made a post-mortem examination of the child, and in his opinion death was caused by starvation. He has had a great deal of experience through his connection with the Infants' Home, and he never before saw a child so emaciated. The deceased was three or four months old.

The enquiry will be continued on Thursday night in the Police Court. Mrs. Malone created a scene when she was being taken to the cells preparatory to being sent back to the jail.

A Sure Cure For Consumption.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this. Here is the proof: Mr. John Griffin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: "They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart beat, dizziness and constant headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

Shilon's Cure, the great Cough and Croup Cure, is in great demand. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses only 25c. Children love it. Sold by John Nugent 249 George street.

SATISFACTORY CANADIAN LAW.

The Imperial Parliament Discusses the Currency and the Chitral Questions—Gold in Circulation in France—Trial of Emile Zola—Favorable Evidence for the Prisoner.

Glasgow, Feb. 15.—The British Government has invited tenders for four first-class armored cruisers of 21,000 horse-power, and slightly less tonnage than the Powerful. The Powerful is of 14,200 tons displacement.

THE IMPERIAL COMMONS

Discuss the Currency Question and the Chitral Policy.

London, Feb. 15.—The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. C. T. Ritchie, replying to Mr. William Field, Parnellite member for St. Patrick's Division of Dublin, in the House of Commons, yesterday, said the Canadian law forbidding gambling in grain futures was satisfactory, but added that the Government did not intend to introduce a bill on the subject at present.

Replying to another question as to whether the Government intended to cooperate in promoting an international conference to consider the currency question, Mr. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader, said he was happy to say the Government would be very glad to see an international agreement regarding currency, but, he continued, he had nothing to add to the information already in the possession of the House

The Indian Frontier Troubles.

The House later discussed the amendment of John Lawson Walton, Liberal member for South Leeds, to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and raising the question of the Government's Indian frontier policy. Mr. Walton criticized it from a Liberal standpoint, disapproving of the occupation of Chitral as being the source of the present troubles, and urging the Government not to tamper with the independence of the frontier tribes, who, he said, were "the natural bulwark of India."

Lord George Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, replied. He said it was impossible to evacuate Chitral without impairing the prestige of Great Britain and the tranquility of those tribes. The present trouble, he continued, proved that the occupation of Chitral was welcome, and he warmly repelled the Opposition's charges that the Government had been guilty of breach of faith with the local tribes in continuing the occupation.

The Right Hon. Sir Henry Hartley Fowler, Liberal member for East Wolverhampton, and Secretary of State for India in the last Liberal Cabinet, rebutted the charge that the Liberal Government had agreed to a permanent occupation of the Chitral. The future, however, would be more important, he said, than the past, which had been a costly blunder, and the Liberals would resist the forward tendency of the military party in India. He urged that the Indian Council should have some control of the expenditure, as the greatest danger which threatened the northwest frontier was a "policy of aggressive militarism."

Gold in Circulation in France.

Paris, Feb. 1.—The Ministry of France recently instituted an enquiry to learn the amount of gold in circulation. It has ascertained that there is $800,000,000 worth bearing the French stamp in circulation. It is ascertained that this is a record amount, and that the United States has $730,000,000, Germany $680,000,000, and Great Britain and Russia $600,000,000 each.

Favorable to Zola.

Paris, Feb. 15.—When the trial of M. Zola and Perreux was resumed at the Assize Court of the Seine yesterday, M. Jaures, the Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, was recalled. He reiterated his belief in the culpability of Major Esterhazy.

The examination of M. Bertillon, the handwriting expert, was then resumed. Finally M. Bertillon, who persisted in not answering questions, left the witness stand amid considerable uproar, M. Laborie remarking: "And that is the man upon whose evidence Dreyfus was convicted."

A Brave Ex-Minister.

M. Yves Guyot, the former Minister of Public Works, testified that the Esterhazy court-martial was "a parody on justice." (Excitement in court.)

The former Minister said the inner circles of foreign Governments were fully cognisant of all that occurred at the Esterhazy court-martial, a statement which caused renewed excitement.

Later M Yves Guyor expressed the opinion that the Government commissioner who prosecuted Major Esterhazy was far more like counsel for the defence than the prosecutor, adding: "I am happy in the belief that all the best sentiment in France supports M. Zola."

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

Anxious Mothers find Dr. Low's worm syrup the best medicine to expel worms, Children like it—worms don't.

Child Found the Poison.

Kingsville, Ont., Feb. 15.—The eighteen-months-old child of Mr. John Kennedy drank the contents of a bottle containing a solution of strychnine which her father was using as a gargle Sunday afternoon and expired a few minutes later. The mother, knowing the poisonous nature of the medicine, had carefully secreted it behind some flower pots, where the child found and drunk it before being observed.

A Big Cargo of Opium.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—The Occidental and Oriental steamer Gaelic arrived yesterday from China and Japan, touching at Honolulu. She had on board 622 cases of opium, valued at $997,960, the largest shipment of the drug ever received here. The duty, at $6 per pound, will amount to $110,880.

Bullet Located by X Rays.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Robert Foster of Argus was shot six years ago and the bullet has since remained in his right leg. It did not bother him until two weeks ago, when it became very painful. He came to the General Hospital and the bullet was located by X rays yesterday.

How He Got the Right Expression.

"Thanks," said the tragedian; "many thanks for your good opinion. I always study from nature, sir. In my acting you see reflected nature herself."

"Try this cigar," said an admirer of nature reverently. "Now, where did you study that expression of intense surprise that you assume in the second act?"

"From nature, sir, from nature. To secure that expression I asked an intimate friend to lend me £5. He refused. This caused me no surprise. I tried several more.

"Finally I asked one who was willing to oblige me, and as he handed me the note I studied in a glass the expression of my own face. I saw there surprise, but it was not what I wanted. It was alloyed with suspicion that the note might be a bad one. I was in despair."

"Well?" said the other breathlessly.

"Then an idea struck me. I resolved upon a desperate course. I returned the £5 note to my friend the next day, and on his astonished countenance I saw the expression of which I was in search."—Pearson's Weekly.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

SETTLE UP! All parties indebted to us are requested to call and settle immediately.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

LARK AND TAMARIND.

It was the night of the governor's state ball 100 years ago, a languid, tropical night.

At the darkest and quietest part of the balcony a knot of naval officers had gathered together in eager conversation. Their voices were half suppressed, but the governor's astute secretary drew the curtains close as he passed by.

"Only my respect for the uniform which you wear prevents me from calling you a coward and a liar," said Captain Hawke of H. M. S. Lark in a voice made hoarser and fiercer by its restraint.

"You boast safely, sir, since the commanders of his majesty's vessels may not meet here," replied Captain Blade of H. M. S. Tamarind in the same strident whisper.

"Does that apply to their seconds?" asked the first lieutenants in the same breath.

"Aye, aye," said Blade.

"And to their other officers, too," said old Hawke, mopping his red face vigorously.

"But not to a middy," suggested young Blake of the Lark, with a grim smile upon his smooth young face.

"May I, sir?" inquired little Hanson of the Tamarind, with his hand readily upon his dirk.

"D—n you, no!" roared Hawke. "What business have you boys here interfering in your elders' quarrels? Get out of it!"

"Put back your dirk, Hanson," said Blake in his quiet way, "and peace, gentlemen all. The quarrel is Captain Hawke's and mine. Some day we shall doubtless settle it."

"No, no," broke in the other voices. "It is our quarrel too."

"Faith, sir," said Blake lightly, "it is the quarrel of the two ships. There isn't a man of us that wouldn't like to fight it out fair and square."

For the two vessels had long been rivals in suppressing the pirates who infested the islands and had out each other out in turns. Hawke had gained the decoration for which Blade would have given a limb. Blade had secured the great haul of prize money which Hawke, who was poor and proud, so sorely needed.

The first lieutenants had quarreled over a woman, and the other officers over their wine. The middies had colliided in their dingeys and had come to blows over a game.

The boatswains had quarreled over a smuggled keg of rum and the carpenters over the way to stop a bow leak. The sailors had fallen out over the Nans and Bets and Sues, black or white, of every port where the ships had touched.

Now a meddlesome admiral, newly come from home, had ordered them off together after some particularly well armed and daring freebooters. So the quarrel had reached fever point. And the cure for fever in those days was nothing but some letting of blood.

"Since these infernal pirates have painted their ships to resemble ours, there are less likely things than a mistake some foggy night. I, for one, should not regret it, though we carry ten men and two guns less," muttered Randall, the first lieutenant of the Lark, who had lost the lady.

"For the matter of that, I shall leave ten men ashore, and two of my guns need repair. The foreman of the yard shall have them tomorrow," said Captain Blade, bowing courteously. "Of course it would be a great calamity should such a mistake happen! But"—

"Do you mean to suggest"— asked the ruddy Hawke, with his eyes bolting almost out of their sockets and flaming like live coals.

"Nay, sir, I suggest nothing. You will, I am sure, take care to avoid such an event," replied Blade, with the softness that sets one's teeth on edge, like the touch of satin.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!" expostulated the governor's secretary, appearing through the window.

So after a polite contest in yielding precedence, the brawlers went smilingly within. This mutual forbearance lasted right up to the time when they went to sea, and the magnanimity of the officers in forgetting their notorious feud when allied upon his majesty's service was a common theme of admiration to the colonials.

Nevertheless they persuaded the new admiral to let them make sure of the enemy by sailing round the island in opposite directions, though their foolhardiness in going single handed moved every one to astonishment, for at least two of the pirate vessels were as large and as well armed as those of his majesty.

Blade even carried his folly to the extent of landing two guns on account of defects which the master gunner ashore failed to discover and of proposing to leave ten men behind. "They are in indifferent health," said he, "and it is but fair that Hawke and I should overcome the pirates on equal terms."

The men, however, declared that they were fit, and the little middy, Blade's favorite, who was to stay in charge, cried like a girl.

"There be four or five of our men, please, sir, that be related by marriage to those in the Lark, and always side with them. Maybe they would be willing to be shipped in her, and make us square." And so it was arranged.

The Tamarind, which sailed to the east, had the best of the breeze, and made quick headway. But the coast upon that side of the island ran in and out like a baby's pencilings upon a slate, making capricious little bays and long, winding creeks.

Lest a pirate vessel should be hiding in them, it was necessary to enter each inlet which drew water enough to admit them, while the shallower waters were searched at night by the boats, with oars muffled in the rowlocks and eager, whispering crews.

When four days had passed, they came to the unbroken coast, but still they lingered.

Upon the fifth afternoon a sharp eyed sailor from the masthead saw the tops of a ship many miles away and judged them to belong to a fighting vessel of their own size. So when the night came up, dull and dark beyond the night of those parts (the moon being new and the air misty), they clapped on full sail and sped toward the unknown foe.

Then they ground their swords and loaded their guns and each went to his place. Some laughed and some jested. Some gave messages and told of tokens for a faroff Poll or Bess. A few played at all fours by the glimmer of a rushlight in a lantern.

But mostly they were silent until, half an hour later, the lookout man called "Sail ahead!" as a vessel of about their own size seemed to spring almost on top of them out of the dark.

"Hard a-port!" cried the captain.

"Stand ready for a broadside!" commanded the next officer.

At the same moment the stranger turned a little the other way, so that the vessels passed side by side. "The Lark," whispered one man to another.

"Shall we let go?" asked the first lieutenant.

But Blade shook his head. "Not first," said he decidedly.

Suddenly, as if the mouth of hell had opened, the stranger belched forth thunder and smoke and flame, and a storm of shot tore through the Tamarind from side to side, leaving tracks of mangled flesh and blood.

"Fire!" called the first lieutenant; but before he had spoken the answering torrent had sprung forth. Then the ships swung slowly away from each other.

Blade, who, although a dandy on shore, was the equal of any man afloat in seamanship, gained a great advantage, outmaneuvering his enemy and bringing his broadside to bear right across her stern, so as to rake her from head to foot as he passed and leave a longer trail of slaughter. Then, swinging dexterously away from the answering broadside, he countered upon the other side.

First one mast and then another was shot over, and at length the vessel heeled so heavily that the few guns which were still replying shot harmlessly in the air.

"God forgive us, captain," cried the first lieutenant hoarsely—he was lying on the deck with half a leg shot away—"it's enough." And Blade, who had grown very white, cried out in a broken voice: "Stop firing, and get out the boats! She's going down!" But the boats readiest for use were shattered; their opponent suddenly listed over, two or three of her guns firing a last derisive shot as she went.

The men of the Tamarind sat down—those who were left—on their guns or on the deck, with eyes averted from the slain around them. The officers buried their faces in their hands, save the youngest middy, who lay quiet and forever still with a handkerchief over his handsome boyish face. At last Blade drew his sword suddenly and snapped it across his knee.

"I am a disgraced man!" he cried, with the voice of one gone mad. "May heaven curse us all!"

But heaven, which blesses or curses not as we call, for answer sent up the rising sun, and the morning light upon a lonely vessel short of a mast sailing slowly along three miles away! And the first lieutenant, pulling himself up to look through the porthole, cried like a child: "It wasn't the Lark! God forgive us all!" Then he sank into a swoon from loss of blood and was mercifully unconscious in the surgeon's hands.

The Lark, when she sailed to the west, had to beat up against heavy head winds and so made but slow progress. Yet when the fifth day came the men were kept constantly under arms, and ere nightfall they caught a glimpse of a fighting ship in the distance.

There was a vessel whose sailors had courted their Polls and Bets near these regions by now they knew. And if in the fog and dark they should come together many an old score would be wiped out.

At length the fog lifted a trifle, and suddenly a big vessel rushed swiftly upon them from the quarter where they had least expected it. "Stand to the guns below!" shouted Hawke, "and boarders make ready!"

A hail of shots poured out upon them before they were fully prepared, but fortunately flew so high as to do little damage beyond bringing down the foremast, while the Lark ran close alongside the foe and put in a terrific broadside before grappling.

Then there burst forth a very volcano of flame and a roar that challenged the heavens, for a shot had reached the stranger's powder magazine, and the forces of nature, let loose from their thraldom, scattered the vessel to the four winds and her men to the mercy of God.

Those on board the Lark looked at one another in mute horror, and the tears ran down some cheeks.

"We are traitors and unfit to live," groaned Hawke. And they took his weapons from him lest he should do himself a mischief.

Then the sudden tropical morning dawned, and afar in the east, with the rising sun glinting through her tattered sails, the Tamarind sailed into view.

When the governor sent home his great dispatch a couple of months later, to announce the total suppression of piracy in those regions, he observed that this result had been achieved by means of the remarkably cordial co-operation between the captains, officers and crews of the Lark and the Tamarind, which after sinking separately the two most dangerous pirates had joined their forces with marvelous success and now wished to combine their prize money in a common fund.

Such harmony, he observed, was equally to the advantage of the service and the credit of the captains. But the admiral, newly arrived from home, took the credit of the co-operation to himself.—St. Paul's.

THE RULING PASSION.

Some sing the praises of love's young dream
When things which are and the things which seem Glide as one down youth's golden stream,
And the song birds wake us early,
When one's heart is fresh with the morning dew,
When hopes are many and cares are few,
When life is flushed with a rosy hue
And one's hair is crisp and curly.

Some say 'tis sweetest when love comes late,
When the strings of grief and thorns of fate,
The weary battle of grief and hate
Make life's great good the stronger;
The Indian summer in regal dyes
Close to the heart of the sunset lies,
The last glad smile of the year we prize
And wish each moment longer.

But, ah, there only remains the truth
That love is love, be it age or youth;
That love is love, and in very sooth
Of every soul his master.
For love is love, come he soon or late,
And love alone is the lord of fate.
Deride him, chide him, the god is great,
And he heeds not priest nor pastor!

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of all diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out diseased germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

Her Face Covered with Scales. Could Not Leave Home. Had to Sacrifice Hair.

Tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. Improvement in Three Weeks. Six Weeks Complete Cure.

Four years ago Eczema made its appearance on my head in its worst form. I was attended by two physicians, but notwithstanding their treatment it continued spreading, until my face was covered with scales and became a horrid, loathsome sight. For three months I did not leave the house. I had a fine head of hair, seven years' growth, and had to sacrifice it. I was in despair. The physicians had failed even to relieve me, when one of them recommended CUTICURA SOAP. I used three boxes of CUTICURA (ointment), one half dozen cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and in three weeks from the time I began, the scales had left my face and the skin lost its florid hue. In six weeks I was entirely cured. My face was smooth and my complexion clearer than it had ever been before. SINGLE TAX AND ITS LATE EXPONENT.

LEWIS F. POST LECTURES ON HENRY GEORGE'S HOBBY.

A Clear and Concise Statement Concerning Single Tax and the Benefits Which its Adoption Would Bestow on Mankind.

Mr. Lewis F. Post, upon whom the mantle of the late Henry George has descended, addressed a large audience last evening on the subject of Single Tax, in the Opera House.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. Hampden Bernham.

Before embarking on his subject the speaker paid a loyal tribute to the memory of Henry George, likening him without irreverence to He who came long years ago to save mankind. The Jews had prayed for a Saviour, and when He came they reviled Him — when a prophet came to us we did not recognize him until he lay cold in death.

was the mouthpiece of a great truth which many believe God spake through him. He brought to the support of that truth a great power. He had no college education, but he acquired one which fitted him for his work. He wrote a book which by the force of the truth contained in it made it the gospel of hundreds of people wherever the English language is spoken.

Some people say Single Tax was a hobby of Henry George. We may call it so but as time goes on it is growing to be a real horse—a real truth, which men must ride or go to destruction.

That hobby was a tax—a simplification of the present system of taxation. A tax on land, regardless of the improvements on it and the abolition of all other taxes.

There is no new proposition in it. Every tax on real estate has within it the single tax, but on top of that you have piled up hundreds of other taxes—taxes on everything the tax collector can find.

This is but the method—the principles go deeper.

Statistics and figures can be trusted and made to support extraordinary statements.

Henry George did not deal with statistics, but he dealt with facts—those facts that appeal to our senses and which are so universal that they include all the facts that

STATISTICS BRING TOGETHER.

The first great fact on which Henry George based his reasoning on was that man exists (we know that man exists) and that man must sustain his existence by work. Man must satisfy his own wants by his own efforts—or rather we will say by human labour.

The next great fact, equal to the first, is man's national environment—the earth. Man must apply his labour to that. He cannot bring forth something out of nothing.

Man can't labour and man can't live, unless he has the use of his natural environments.

Land, therefore, is necessary for man to operate on to bring forth artificial things, necessary to his existence, as clothing, food, houses, etc.

If you take away man's access to land you enslave him. He will have to beg.

If you compel man to pay for the use of his natural environment, you enslave him because he cannot live without access to it.

These then are the three great facts upon which Henry George based his reasoning.

APPLY THE PRINCIPLE

which these three facts contain.

Man seeks to get these artificial things necessary to his existence, in the easiest way possible. It is natural. The best results with the least labour are obtained by trade. If three men were living on an island, and one was a baker, one a tailor and one a builder, it would be easier for each to supply the other with the result of the special class of work to which he was adapted, than for each to try and supply his own wants.

Through trade, therefore, men are linked closer together into one whole—into society in fact—into what might be called the Greater Man.

If you crowd this Greater Man and deny him access to the land, you crush the individual, the units, and thus have unemployed or rather disemployed labour.

The unemployed labourer is the millionaire.

The speaker then took occasion to explain the teachings of Malthus, which he denounced in strong terms, more particularly the portions which urged against the production of children into a world where there was no room for them—where their plate at Nature's banquet was being used.

No room for them, continued the speaker, when the entire population of the United States and Canada could be accommodated with two acres of land to each person!

The trouble is that the land is all held by the few, who are holding it waiting for values to rise.

At the present time one-quarter of Manhattan Island is absolutely vacant—held by monopolists. Thus is occupied the plate at Nature's banquet of the redundant babe of Malthus.

This land is being cut off from the world, as it were, and the Greater Man is being crowded.

As a result of the making of land scare, you have to pay a speculative price for it—therefore there is a change going on which is making men tenants all over the United States, and it is working its way into Canada. It was the case in the old lands long ago. In St. Louis 80 per cent. of the population are tenants. In Philadelphia, the far famed city of homes, 77 per cent. of the population are tenants and not home owners.

POVERTY IS RUSHING IN.

In Baltimore of every 10 persons who die only one leaves property. One third of the population owns 94 per cent. of the property there. Is that not poverty for the two thirds.

Statistics show that four fifths of the deposits in the Savings Banks belong to one-fifth of the depositors. This speaks for itself.

The power of production in the way of work amongst the men has multiplied five times in the last twenty-five years, but have wages been even doubled?

As civilization advances men need more to live on. Food has not advanced in price but man's wants grow and expand.

This crowding of the Greater Man by the holding of lands is responsible for all this. The business man complains of dull times. It is the result of work being hard to get by the labouring man and the latter is out of work because he is denied access to the land.

The land is kept idle for the sake of gain.

Unused land and unemployed labour go together—the laws of property have been so far abused as to prostitute the law of right.

The existence of the army of the disemployed is due to the

MONOPOLY OF LAND

—to the crowding of the earth unnecessarily. There is plenty of room for the Greater Man on this continent alone and and yet we are crowding him by fencing in the land and holding for its future value and not for what it is worth now.

The remedy we propose is this:—Land that is more desirable than other land will be more valuable always. A lot in the central part of a town has a greater value than that on the outskirts. If you leave the setting of values to individuals, lots will be held for a raise in price and the resulting injury to individuals results. A man must only be allowed to hold the land that he needs and no more. This can be done by simply taking from those who have land, the value of their lots over that of their neighbours by raising the taxation. A man cannot then afford to hold more land than he absolutely needs. If the value increases it goes to the community in the extra taxes imposed. The tax is on the land alone—not on any improvements.

To the extent that we work and produce things the profit should belong to us. We pay for it in our labour. These things should be a man's own and the community has no right to tax a man for them. But no man makes the land and it only, should be taxed—taxed to its full value, whether it has buildings on it or not. The value of the land is given it by the community and it is right that the value should revert to the community. That is where our revenue should come from. Abolish all taxes on everything men do—on stores and other buildings, and leave this one tax on land to increase so that it would no longer pay to hold lots out of use for the purpose of making money on them in years to come.

The question is asked "cannot a better condition of affair for the workingman be introduced, and yet the privileges which the property holders now enjoy be not interfered with?"

The answer is simple—when wrong conflicts with right the wrong must be removed before the right can prevail.

The Single Tax has been partially experimented with in New Zealand, with the result that instead of endeavouring to keep emigrants out by enactment, ten per cent. more were admitted last year than in any previous year. In New South Wales the tariff was reduced and the taxation raised on land to make up the deficit in revenue thus caused. The result was most gratifying. Hard times vanished and land came tumbling into the market at greatly reduced prices.

The speaker closed his address by assuring his audience that if the question was thoroughly studied, it would eventually obtain such a hold on the mind that the only method of solving the labour question satisfactorily would appear to be through this medium.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

THE MAINE BLOWN UP.

The Explosion Kills 253 of Her Crew.

SHIP COMPLETELY WRECKED.

Terrible Disaster in Havana Harbor—A Matter of Conjecture—The Explosion Took Place in the Central Magazine—Forward Under the Men's Quarter's—Only Two Officers Killed.

Havana, Feb. 16.—The shattered and torn hulk of the United States battleship Maine lies at the bottom of Havana Harbor, a tomb for at least 253 of her crew.

She was blown up at 9.40 o'clock last night by an explosion well forward under the men's quarters. Her magazine is further back between her coal bunkers. Some of the watch and a few of the officers and crew who were on shore escaped.

The explosion, which shook the city from one end to the other, created the wildest excitement. All the electric lights were put out by the shock. Fire engines rushed from one direction to another and no one knew for certain from which direction the explosion came. Some started the report that it was the arsenal, others said it was a shell and it was not until 11 o'clock that the real cause was known.

The Maine, at the time of the explosion, was at anchor about 500 yards from the arsenal, and some 200 yards from the floating dock.

Her steel upper deck forward has been completely lifted and turned over on her starboard side. None of the big guns in the turrets are visible. She is slightly listed to port and all forward of her massive cranes for unloading ship's boats have completely disappeared. The big funnels lie flat upon the twisted and gnarled iron braces and pieces of steel decks. From the funnels aft, the ship seems to be intact. She has settled until the water has covered the top of her superstructure, and the stern searchlight and one rapid firing gun look over the water just below them. It is reported that the disaster was due to the explosion of the boiler of the dynamo machine on board the Maine.

The First Explosion.

The first explosion is said to have been caused by over six hundred pounds of gun cotton and the subsequent explosion is alleged to have been caused by shells and cartridges.

All the navy fire brigade and the navy positions were immediately ordered on duty. Stretchers for the use of the wounded were sent to the scene by the fire brigade and the headquarters of the Red Cross Society was called upon to send four stretchers and men were sent to patrol the scene of the disaster and pick up the dead and wounded.

The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII., which was anchored close to the Maine, lowered her boats and saved 87 of the crew of the American warship.

Lieut.-Commander R. Wainwright of the Maine was half undressed at 9.30 o'clock p.m., and was walking in his cabin next to that of Captain Sigsbee, when the explosion occurred and put out the electric lights. Lieut. Wainwright then lit a match and went to Captain Sigsbee's cabin. The captain, it appears, had been thrown from his bed, but was uninjured. They both went on deck, and ordered men to flood 2,500 pounds of gun cotton which were on board. The order was carried out, the men never returned, but Havana was saved from a still more terrible explosion. The large number of deaths reported among the crew is said to be due to the fact that many of them were asleep below at the time of the explosion. Most of the officers saved were dining on board the Ward line steamer, City of Washington.

The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII. was for some time after the explosion in great peril, and her mooring tackles were slacked away and she was anchored at a great distance from the burning warship She then lowered her boats and took part in the work of rescue.

The first of the American sailors to reach the Machina Wharf were swimming. Three sailors who escaped fell senseless as they reached a place of safety. One of the Maine's officers, who is being cared for at the Sanitary Headquarters, is seriously wounded. He is very young and is believed to have been the officer on guard at the time of the disaster. He is said to have asked for a priest to make his confession.

Capt. Sigsbee Remained to the Last.

Some of the wreckage of the Maine fell on board the City of Washington and knocked two holes in her deck. The chaplain of the Maine, the Rev. Mr. J. P. Chadwick, went on board the Alfonso XII. in order to administer to the wounded. A Spanish naval officer said that Captain Sigsbee was the last man to abandon the sinking ship, and he remained alongside the wreck as long as it was possible to do anything in the way of rescue.

Captain Sigsbee, interviewed this evening by the correspondent of the Associated Press with reference to the cause of the explosion, said:

"I cannot yet determine the cause, but competent investigators will decide whether the explosion was produced from an interior or exterior cause. I cannot say anything until after such an investigation has been made. I will not, and cannot conscientiously anticipate the decision, nor do I wish to make any unjust estimate of the reason for the disaster."

On board the Ward line steamer City of Washington at midnight one of the officers of the Maine stated that at 2 o'clock last night, all the magazines on board the battleship were closed and the keys turned over to Captain Sigsbee, her commander. The explosion occurred at 9.45 p.m. The officers then rushed on deck and assisted in lowering a boat and in trying to rescue the men in the water.

Another officer said: "I was sitting with two more officers in the mess room when a heavy explosion occurred. It was so heavy that we understood the ship would be lost, and we went on the upper deck, and found she had been badly wrecked by an explosion; that she was on fire and sinking. All efforts were then directed towards lowering the boats and saving lives; but the Maine settled quickly on the bottom of the harbor, only her upper works remaining above water.

"A number of boats from the Spanish warship Alfonso XII. and boats from the Ward line steamer City of Washington, came alongside and rendered assistance. Twenty-four men, slightly wounded, were carried on board the City of Washington, and the rest of the wounded on board the Alfonso XII. After receiving assistance from the naval doctors they were sent to the military hospitals."

This officer said the explosion occurred somewhere in the forward part of the midships section of the battleship. Many of the crew who were below at the time of the explosion were unable to escape, and those who succeeded in reaching the upper decks saved their lives with great difficulty, with the assistance of the officers and men on watch.

The Second Terrible Explosion.

At 2 o'clock in the morning, while the correspondent of the Associated Press was going ashore, there was another terrible explosion. At that time boats from the Spanish steamers Colon and Mexico were taking eight wounded men ashore, after having saved them from the water.

Among the wounded was James Rowe, ship's cook. He said: "I turned in at 8 o'clock and all was quiet. The next I remember I felt myself turning over and over and falling heavily upon the deck through a mass of smoke. I got on my feet and worked my way on deck. When I got there the superstructure deck was dipping under water and I jumped overboard to keep from being drawn down in the suction. I was picked up by a boat from the Spanish man-of-war. With me were Daniel Cronin, a landsman; Charles Berryman, boatswain's mate; Albert John, seaman, and Bloomer, a landsman. The whole bow was blown out of the ship. The last I saw of her her bow was under and her stern stuck up. The explosion may have taken place in her little magazine where they keep the gun cotton for torpedoes. Her big magazine could not explode or there would not be enough left of her to make toothpicks."

THE EXPLOSION LOCATED.

It Was in the Central Magazine and Raised the Maine Out of the Water.

New York, Feb. 17.—A special cable to the Evening World from Havana says the officers of the Maine state the explosion was in the central magazine, and that the Maine was raised out of the water and then went partially to pieces. It continues:

"All but the surgeon was talking in the ward room at the moment of the explosion. Then came the stupendous shock. All the officers below rushed on deck, but could get no further forward than the middle superstructure on deck. Only a very few of the jackies ever got from below. The water rushed over them and many were stunned and drowned, but not mangled.

"The officers on deck narrowly escaped. In the junior officers' mess all had to clamber out through water and wreckage waist deep. One ladder from the after torpedo compartment was jammed with men struggling up for life. All agree that a double explosion occurred from the natural result of an under water explosion of the magazines."

Out of the dense smoke came anguished cries for help. Simultaneously with the cessation of falling fragments, searchlights were thrown on the wreck and its load of agony. Spanish boats from the shore joined those of the Washington alongside at once.

Cubans Cry Treachery.

New York, Feb. 17.—Great interest was felt at the Cuban Junta yesterday in the disaster to the Maine. Some of the Cuban patriots did not hesitate to say that the affair was the result of Spanish treachery. But the more composed men could hardly believe that the Spanish Government would countenance such work.

The News in Madrid.

Madrid, Feb. 17.—The following semi-official note has been issued:

"The news of the disaster of the Maine has caused a painful impression in Madrid. It was at first feared that there had been some act of imprudence to which the catastrophe was attributable. Afterwards, as the details arrived, the fears dispelled took the form of feelings of sympathy and sorrow for the misfortune which has occurred.

"The Government has expressed to Minister Woodford the regret it feels at the catastrophe, more especially as it occurred in waters within Spanish jurisdiction."

Suspicion of Foul Play.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The appalling nature of the disaster and the gravity of the situation that would arise should investigation give a basis for the undercurrent of suspicion of treachery and foul play that ran through all minds had a sobering effect on public men of all shades of political opinion. The fact stands forth and is little less than remarkable that not a single resolution was introduced or a single speech made in either House of Congress bearing upon the disaster, save one of condolence with the families of those killed, offered by Mr. Bontelle and adopted by the House of Representatives. Public men expressed their opinions with reserve when approached for interviews, but everywhere there was a demand for an investigation and full details in the light of which the matter may be justly viewed.

According to a list compiled and issued by the Naval Department to-night 258 lives were lost by the sinking of the Maine. In the list of dead are the names of Lewis L. Barry, Halifax, N.S.; John Dolan and William J. Fewer, St. John's, Nfld., and Bartley Fountain, Quebec City

MANAGERS OF FAIRS MEET.

Prof. Mills, of the O. A. C., Talks to Them on "The Public School System"—Mr. Campbell on Road Making.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—The tenth annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions was opened at the Council Chamber, City Hall, with a brief address from Retiring President E. Jackson of Newmarket.

A fearless and aggressive paper was given by Prof. Mills of Guelph Agricultural College on "The Public School System." It had resulted, he claimed, in having the best farmers, the best mechanics and the best business men as a class meagrely educated. As a remedy he suggested a multiplication of technical schools, special grants to public schools teaching elementary science and agriculture. He would have a technical school in every county and in the principal cities to give instruction in all the practical sciences, including agriculture. As the matter now stood, there were too many High schools. It would be a great benefit to the province if one in each county were changed to a technical school. He also recommended a new residential building and a Department of Domestic Science for the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Provincial Road Inspector A. W. Campbell, in the course of a paper on "Roads and Road Exhibits," stated that while Ontario was spending $8,500,000 on good roads, it was losing many times that on bad ones. He added later on: "One mile of bad road is a greater hindrance to a person attending a fair than five miles of good road." And still further he ironically observed: "I have had some experience with a 'Good Roads' exhibit at the Toronto Industrial Fair, and I must say that, with the exception of the special attractions offered by a corps of ballet dancers, jugglers, tumblers, etc., there appeared to me to be no feature which attracted a deeper or more widespread interest."

At the evening session the tenor of the meeting seemed to be in favor of the abolition of the township fairs and also of the substitution of one for three judges.

Officers were elected as follows: President, F. F. Wallace, Woodbridge; first vice-president, J. T. Murphy, Simcoe; second vice-president, James Reith, Ground Valley; secretary-treasurer, A. McFarlane, Otterville; Executive Committee, T. J. Woodcock, James Mitchell, James Kirkwood, G. W. Fitzgerald, J. F. Cohoe, W. H. Hall and T. Birdsall.

The Doctor's Mother-in-Law Dead.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—The death is announced of Mrs. Hill, mother-in-law of Dr. Oronhyatekha, at her residence on the Tyendinaga Reserve, near Deseronto. She was in her 86th year, and was a granddaughter of the celebrated Mohawk chief, Joseph Brant. Dr. Oronhyatekha is on the Atlantic at present, on his way to the Mediterranean on business. Rev. W. J. McCaughan, Dr. Millman and Major McGillivray left yesterday to attend the funeral, which takes place to-day.

Ogilvie's Goderich Mill for Sale.

Goderich, Feb. 17.—Mr. Thomas Williamson, representing W. W. Ogilvie of Montreal, is here and has made the offer of Mr. Ogilvie's mill property here for $50,000, half cash and the balance on mortgage at 5 per cent. They think it could be changed into an elevator of nearly half a million bushels capacity; or if a company can be formed to operate as a mill, Mr. Ogilvie is prepared to convey absolutely at once.

The Great Blood Purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

Sufferers from any disease caused by impure blood should never be discouraged about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla because other medicines have failed to give relief. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. Read this statement:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. A FALSE WAY OF PUTTING THINGS.

The Opposition in this campaign do not discuss public questions. When they rarely drop petty, frivolous charges, and venture to refer to public matters, they do not discuss them honestly. And they deal no more dishonestly with any subject than that of our timber. The chief Opposition organ in Toronto, the World, yesterday published a bogus despatch from Saginaw, Michigan, stating that "the Georgian Bay district will supply Michigan with 338 million feet of logs this spring," and on this the World bases a vicious attack on the Government charging them with "robbing" the Province of its timber. The alleged dispatch from Michigan is doubtless a "fake" and if it were bona fide it is still false and untrue. The cut of logs on limits that may possibly be exported is over sixty million feet less than last year. These are official figures and not concocted roorback dispatches. The World dishonestly raises the cry that Ontario workmen are being robbed of employment. It knows or it should that all labour employed in getting out logs, even by American limit holders must be done by Canadian labour and that all supplies must be bought in Ontario; the government have decided on that, and anyone knows that the cost of getting logs from the tree to the mill is greater than the mere sawing of them, so that if the fabulous export reprinted by the World were exported, Canadians would get the big end of the labour involved. And if the export were shut down entirely Canadian labour would get no employment in this regard at all. We know that nationally the Americans in trade matters are inclined to be boggish and unfair. But Ontario must abide by the British standard of honour. American limit holders bought timber limits in good faith and renewed their annual licenses in good faith and the question is whether it will pay the Government in the end, to break faith and break a contract to which the honour of the Crown is pledged. There's a fair and manly way of discussing these matters—better than "fake" dispatches, telling of costs of logs that are not made.

The Government has given the Province an excellent license system whereby within late years the number of drinking places has been greatly lessened, and under which the habits of the people have undergone constant improvement; and it empowers municipalities to further reduce the number as they may wish, or to have local prohibition.

The Government has given Ontario a municipal system unequalled in the world; one which places the local affairs of the people in the immediate control of those represented; they have safeguarded the credit of the municipalities; they have given them a local assessment system; they have provided for municipal waterworks, lighting and heating systems.

The Government has brought our system of education to a state of efficiency that makes it the admired of the world's educationalists, and that gives every child the opportunity of a good education; nay, that requires every child to be sent to school for a definite period. Under the Government Ontario has gained a proud position in the educational world.

Notwithstanding that in the last twenty seven years the Government has given to the municipalities in various ways many millions of dollars, relieving the people of just so much taxation, they have never levied on the people a dollar of taxes but have derived ample revenue from the judicious management of the province's resources, which were held strictly for the public benefit.

MR. SIFTON'S SPEECH.

A Magnificent Review of the Railway Bargain.

THE BEST ROUTE WAS CHOSEN.

The Great Importance of the Transportation Problem—The Opposition Completely Answered—Terms of the Contract Favorable to Canada—No Monopoly—Many Questions Asked and Answered.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Last night Mr. Sifton concluded his address upon the Yukon bill. It has been a singularly clear and comprehensive review of the whole Yukon situation, pregnant with the information which the House desired, and which has been so conspicuously lacking in most of the speeches made by members. To form some conception of the vast amount of research and thought which the Government must have devoted to the stupendous problem which suddenly confronted them, it may be said the youthful Minister of the Interior spoke with personal knowledge of every point involved in the problem, from England's treaty rights and the danger of anarchy in the Yukon if starvation threatened the people, down to the size of the rocks in the rivers. All was familiar to him from study and personal observation. His demonstration of the advantages of the arrangement proposed was a strong endorsation of Mr. Blair's remarks, and altogether his effort was a masterly one. The Opposition members consumed a good part of the afternoon in efforts to make capital for their friends in the Ontario elections, and some decidedly lively passages took place between Messers. Blair and Foster, which resulted in the Speaker calling both gentlemen to order.

Raising the Chinese Per Capita.

Rev. Mr. Maxwell's bill to raise the Chinese per capita tax from $50 to $500 was introduced.

Signed for Fast Atlantic Service.

Sir Richard Cartwright informed Mr. Ives that the Government was not now in negotiation with the Petersens in regard to the fast Atlantic service, the contract having been duly signed, and £10,000 security and £10,000 guarantee having been deposited, both of which were liable to forfeiture in case of nonfulfillment of the contract.

Pound Net Fishing in Lake Erie.

Mr. Ingram was informed that during the past season the pound net license in Lake Erie between Point Pelee and the Detroit River had been reduced one-half, and that the recommendation of Mr. Ingram and the members of Parliament in Essex and Kent Counties to make the reduction permanent and general was under consideration.

Only Advised About Provisions.

Mr. McInnes asked: "Is it true that Major Walsh, Commissioner in the Yukon District, has issued instructions to the officers under him not to allow anyone to enter the said district unless he has with him 1,000 pounds of provisions?"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied: "Although not definitely advised by Major Walsh, the Government have reason to believe that he issued an order requiring all persons entering the Yukon District to carry with them provisions for not less than six months. To avoid misunderstanding, the police stationed at the frontier were instructed in the early part of this month that they could do no more than advise people not to proceed to the interior with less than six months' provisions—that there was no authority under which force could be employed."

Cutting of I. C. R. Salaries.

Mr. Casgrain was informed by Minister Blair that since A. H. Harris took hold as general traffic manager of the Intercolonial the salary of H. Weatherston, freight and passenger agent at Toronto, had been reduced from $104 to $75 per month; that of Mr. O'Rourke, travelling passenger agent, from $65 to $50 per month, and that of McDonald, city agent at Quebec, from $91 to $50 a month.

Mr. Guillet was informed by Mr. Mulock that the Government was not aware that the Postmaster of Cobourg took part in the recent Reform convention in West Northumberland, and since attended committee meetings.

Sir Louis Davies said, replying to Dr. Roche, that the report upon the Hudson Bay expedition was being printed, and would be distributed to members. As to coming to a decision on the report, that would take some time, as the matter was very important, he said.

Mr. Taylor on Deck.

Mr. Taylor moved the adjournment of the House in order to call attention to the Mr. Blair's answer on Monday regarding the alleged order for locomotives given to the Kingston Locomotive Works. Mr. Harty had stated in his speech at Kingston most positively that he received a telegram from Mr. Blair, promising that an order would be given to the Kingston works. Mr. Blair denied that he had sent any telegram, and he left it to the House and country to judge as to what they thought of the difference of opinion between the two gentlemen.

Mr. Blair admitted that in answer to a courteous letter from Mr. Harty, he had stated his intentions were to afford to the Kingston works an opportunity of competing for the engines the Government intended to buy. But he had not said that the Government had ordered any or had entered into contract; he could not state that, because that was not a fact. The answer he gave on Monday, therefore, was literally, absolutely correct. He could not recall having sent a second telegram, and indeed he was positive he had not.

U. S. Troops in Disputed Territory.

Col. Prior called the attention of the Premier to the newspaper statements that two companies of American troops were to be stationed at Dyea and Skaguay, in disputed territory. He desired to know if the Government had raised any objection to the occupancy of this territory by the United States, in view of the Canadian claim that it was our territory.

The Premier, in reply, said the Government had no official knowledge that United States troops were to be sent to Dyea and Skaguay. Although the territory was in dispute, it had been in the possession of the United States ever since that country acquired Alaska in 1867, and, so far as his information went, no protests had ever been raised by any previous Canadian Government to the occupancy of that territory by the United States. The importance of having a speedy delineation of the boundary between Canada and Alaska was at this moment engaging the attention of the Government.

Transshipment at Wrangel.

Sir Charles Tupper called attention to the bill now before Congress imposing severe conditions on Canada for the privilege of transshipment at Wrangel. Had the Government any information?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, said the bill was not yet law, and he could not, for his part, entertain any idea that the United States would deviate from her solemn treaty obligations.

Mr. Sifton's Speech.

Mr. Sifton, resuming his speech on the Yukon Railway bill, complained of the language used against Mr. Blair by Sir Charles Tupper. Continuing, he referred to the objection about the tolls on the railways, and challenged the Opposition to mention one single railway bill introduced when the Conservatives were in power which stated the rates that would be charged. Not a single case of the kind could be mentioned.

Emphasizing the importance of the action of the Government regarding this railway, he said that up to the present Canada had been dependent entirely on American transportation companies in getting supplies for our officers into the Yukon. What, he asked, would be the condition of affairs if 40,000 or 50,000 people that went into the country this year and there were not sufficient supplies for them? Without means of access into the country, there was the possibility of one of the most appalling catastrophies that had ever been seen.

Moreover, there was the gravest danger of the authority of the Dominion Government being destroyed, and theoretically taken out of our hands, on the Yukon, by reason of the tremendous rush of people, likely to enter the country, if an adequate force representing Dominion law was not stationed there. He mentioned the various estimates of the rush of population to the Klondike District, and said it is estimated that from fifty to seventy-five million dollars would be spent this year in outfits alone. There were nearly 12,000 people at Dyea and Skaguay to-day, and within the next two or three weeks more people would reach that point than would be able to get over the passes by next fall. There was every reason, therefore, why the Government should seek to get a quick and easy route into the country.

Mr. Sifton then dealt with the different routes, and a comparison, he argued, showed the superiority of the Stikine route. He then went on to deal with the rights of navigation enjoyed by Canada, and he claimed the Stikine could be made an all-Canadian route from top to bottom. Mr. Sifton, continuing his speech, said that no offer or proposition came to the Government from Hamilton Smith and H. Branober, representing or assuming to represent the Rothschilds. These gentlemen, however, had approached the Government after the contract with McKenzie and Mann was signed. The only offer made by a gentleman who gave the name of the Rothschilds was Mr. Maitland Kersey.

Referring to the alleged discontent in the Northwest against this arrangement, he claimed that this road would be the natural complement of the railway from Edmonton through the Peace River Pass to Telegraph Creek, which must be commenced before long. He mentioned that fact to show that the Government was not overlooking the interests of the Northwest.

Proceeding to deal with the method of allotment of the mineral land subsidy, Mr. Sifton contended that the company could not select an acre until the 15th of June. If there were gold beds to be picked up anywhere in the Yukon, why did not hon. members go up there and get rich? It was perfectly clear that the Government had the best of this bargain. Why, before the company could commence operations these 100,000 people bound in there would be all over the country and take up the gold claims. No other company would take the chances Messrs. McKenzie and Mann were taking. Mr. Osler, he was sure, would not put a dollar of his good money into it.

Dealing with the "Onlooker" letter in the Citizen, he denounced as "false" the estimate that the profit of operating the road should be a sufficient inducement to build the road. As the Minister had at the outset identified Mr. Foster with the authorship of the article, Mr. Speaker insisted upon a withdrawal of the term. This done, Mr. Sifton denied that there was any monopoly.

Then Mr. Sifton estimated the value of the grant. He said that, according to Mr. Ogilvie, the creeks and canyons along which alluvial gold was found would only give a width in placer claims of 300 feet. As the contractors had to take up in blocks 21,00 feet wide, there were only 35,714 acres out of the whole 3,750,000 in which there was any possible chance of their getting gold. That represented merely a grant of less than ten miles by six. This land grant, for which the Government would get a great public work done, would be valueless without development, which meant the expenditure of large sums of money.

In conclusion he said: If this project is carried through, as I have no doubt it will be, it will have the effect of drawing to Canada within the next six months trade to the extent perhaps of twenty or twenty-five millions of dollars, that being a moderate estimate. I think it will conduce to the honor and dignity of Canada in making that country safe to us from a national standpoint. It will remove the danger of the country being in the hands of an alien population, who will condemn the authority of this Government. These things I look to as important.

"Let my hon. friends opposite understand that if this railway project is obstructed, if it is stopped here or elsewhere, and if that territory passes from the control of Canada by reason of there being no railway communication, the people of Canada will hold them to a bitter account for it." (Cheers.)

Mr. Haggart moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 10.20 p.m.

FARMERS' LOAN CO.

One of the Wreckers Offers to Come Back if "Safe Conduct" Is Given.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Yesterday, at a meeting of the creditors of the Farmers' Loan Co., Mr. J. W. Langmuir read the report submitted to the shareholders the day before.

One of those present wanted to know why a difference was made between the manager and the two officials, the latter of whom was called absconders. Mr. Langmuir replied that he was creditably informed that Mr. Bethune was seriously ill and unable to come to Toronto. Where Mr. Bethune is he had been unable to find out. With reference to the other two, he said an application had been made by one, in which he had offered to come back were "safe conduct" given by the Attorney-General. The other, he said, was "an absconder pure and simple."

After many questions had been put as to why the negligence of the directors had not been noted, Mr. Langmuir said that while it had been most reprehensible, it had not been so forcibly brought to his notice as had the others, and so was not so prominently brought forward. The whole question, he said, is now before the Master.

Mr. Langmuir stated that the holders of unpaid shares were generally in good financial circumstances, and he hoped to realize 75 per cent. of the unpaid capital. Some has already been paid up. Mr. Mulock has given a cheque for over $21,000.

PORT HOPE

PEOPLE TALKING.

CAN'T VERY WELL STOP THEM.

THEIR SUBJECT IS TOO IMPORTANT.

Mrs. E. Johnston, Brown street, Port Hope says: "I have been a martyr for several years to heart trouble. The pains were intense, and I suffered severely from headaches. Truly my headaches were something awful.

I had a dreadful smothering feeling, together with violent palpitation, and grew so weak that I could not do any work and at last had to take to my bed. Still I grew worse, and was in a very bad state indeed for quite a while. Of course I doctored for it and took many medicines, but did not receive much help.

My daughter, who lives in Toronto, heard of the wonderful cures being made by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and wished me to try them; I therefore did so. I have now used three boxes, and am completely restored to physical health and vigor.

I am better than I have been in a long time, and it is with gratitude that I make these facts known for the benefit of others"

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

Busy! Busy!

Gough Bros. are busy fitting out Klondyke travellers. The big store has seldom started a department with so much success as its Klondyke outfitting one. Orders commenced coming in first day it opened, and have kept on the move with such celerity as to necessitate establishing a special outfitting management on a large scale. This department contains everything for wear that a prospecting goldseeker requires. These outfits can be supplied, packed and delivered to any railway station.—GOUGH BROS. dw-tf

THE BATTLE SHIP MAINE.

Rev. Father Chadwick, Well-Known in Town, Was Chaplain on the Ill Fated Vessel.

The blowing up of the United States battleship Maine in Havana Harbour caused considerable excitement in town to-day, more especially amongst those who were aware of the fact that Rev. Father J. P. Chadwick was chaplain on board the warship.

Rev Father Chadwick has visited Peterborough on several occasions, and is a brother of Sister Geraldine, of St. Joseph's Hospital. Some few weeks ago he delivered an eloquent sermon at vespers in St. Peter's Cathedral. His brother is married to a daughter of Mr. M. Riley, of the Lock Works, and resides in New York.

The latest despatch from Havana states that Rev. Father Chadwick was amongst the saved, and was ministering to the wounded that were picked up by the Spanish Battleship Alphonso XII.

DEATH OF EDWARD REID.

Another Old Resident of the County Passes Away.

The demise occurred last evening of one of the oldest residents of the county in the person of Mr. Edward Reid, of No. 55 Wescott street, who was born in Otonabee in 1831 and lived there continuously until 14 years ago, when he retired from active life on the farm and moved into town.

The deceased leaves a widow, formerly Miss Martha Greer, of town, and seven sons, viz: Richard, of Caledonia, N.Y.; Charles, of Rochester, N.Y.; Edward, of Brooklyn, N.Y.; John, of North Monaghan; Robert, of Pavilion, N.Y., Francis, of Toronto, and Percy, of town.

The funeral takes place from the family residence No. 55 Westcott street, at 2.30 p.m. Friday afternoon.

OBITUARY.

Death of Gavin Shearer, Sr., at an Advanced Age.

The demise of Gavin Shearer, sr., at the age of 86 occurred on Tuesday last at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Elmhirst, on the 2nd concession of Otonabee.

The deceased was born in Lanarkshire, about fourteen miles from Glasgow, Scotland, and came to Canada just fifty-five years ago with his wife, taking up his residence in Otonabee, where he has lived ever since. His wife died in 1872 and two children, Archibald and Ellen, are also dead. The surviving children are Mrs. Martha Breckenridge, Otonabee; Mrs. James Moore, Asphodel; Mrs. Alexander Green, Otonabee; Mrs. Hamilton T. Moore, Otonabee; Thomas Shearer, Otonabee; Mrs. John Elmhirst, of Otonabee, and Gavin, of the Homestead.

Mr. Shearer has been living with his son Thomas for the last four years, but about three weeks ago went on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Elmhirst, and taking a bad turn there never rallied.

The funeral took place from the residence of Mr. John Elmhirst, 2nd concession of Otonabee, this afternoon at two o'clock. Interment was in the Westwood cemetery, the funeral ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Andrews, of the Keene Presbyterian church.

MRS. NOBLE'S FUNERAL.

It Was Largely Attended This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Mrs. James Noble which took place this afternoon from her late residence 384½ Water street to Little Lake cemetery, was very largely attended, as the deceased had a wide circle of acquaintances in the town.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. S. J. Shorey, of the George street church. The pallbearers were Col. H. C. Rogers, H. C. Winch, Jas. Stevenson, ex-M.P., Police Magistrate Dumble, G. W. Hall and H. Owens.

The floral tributes which were received were numerous and very beautiful—one deserving of special mention was a handsome basket of flowers from the staff of the Central School.

An excellent programme embracing papers on all parts of the work will be presented.

The Revs. Bros. Hamilton, the celebrated singing evangelists, will sing at all the sessions of the convention. Miss Myrtle Hendren, Lakefield, has also consented to sing.

A meeting of the local Committee on Arrangements was held in the Charlotte street church last evening, and the plans for entertaining the visitors are rapidly nearing perfection.

MOCK PARLIAMENT.

There will be no meeting of the Debating Club of the Young Men's Christian Association on Friday evening.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Martha Rabey and Mr. Robert J. Martin.

A very pretty wedding took place last evening at the residence of Mr. Wm. Rabey, No. 26 Louis street, when his second daughter, Miss Martha, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert J. Martin.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. O. Crossley, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

The bride was most attractively gowned in a fawn and blue costume trimmed with blue shot silk. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Maude Rabey, who wore navy blue trimmed with silk lace and ribbon.

The groomsman was Mr. Gilbert A. Borland, of Toronto, formerly of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin are both great favourites amongst a large circle of friends who will join with the EXAMINER in extending hearty congratulations.

HIS LEG BROKEN.

Little Roy Wylie Meets With a Serious Accident.

Yesterday afternoon as Roy Wylie, son of Mr. B. M. Wylie, of Stewart street, Ashburnham, was skating with a number of companions on a pond, he fell and twisted his ankle. As it gave him great pain when he bore his weight on it his companions brought him home on a handsleigh, thinking it was sprained.

Dr. Bradd was summoned and on examination found that the little fellow's leg was broken above the ankle in two places. He is resting to-day as easily as could be expected.

"SAWDUST WITHOUT BUTTER."

An Entertaining Lecture—The Secret of True Success in Life.

The Kingston News of Tuesday, in speaking of Rev. J. G. Potter's lecture on Monday in that city, says:

Those who were fortunate enough to attend Zion church last evening heard one of the most interesting and profitable, as well as humourous, lectures of the season, when Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, addressed the audience on "Sawdust Without Butter." He said sawdust was a refuse and worthless, while butter was the cream and essence of what was good. In viewing life, the lecturer thought that the sawdust and butter very closely resembled the inactive and the active mind, the creature of indolence and the creature of ambition. Referring to the lives of noted men of the past and present—such men as Bunyan, Pope, Lincoln, Peabody, Astor and many others, who through hard, honest work and diligence sprang from nothing to fame and distinction—he beautifully illustrated how everyone is entitled to the same honour and to still greater honour if willing to accept toil, difficulty and adversity as his greatest instructors, and to be governed or moulded by surrounding circumstances that are influenced only by divine love and power. Natural talents were good, but the men of greatest eminence were those who, through adversity or honest toil, had attained success by their own efforts. Every man had a chance to be a power in this land. The greatest secret of prosperity and victory, and the only true means of attaining success, lay in putting on the armour of God.

The lecture was listened to with marked attention and interest, and was acklowledged in laudatory terms by Rev. D. F. Fleming and Rev. J. D. Boyd, who were both somewhat surprised and delighted to note the progress the lecturer had made since they had graduated together from Queen's.

A programme was rendered by Queen's College Glee Club and Orchestra, Mr. Crawford and the Misses Potter, Turnbull and Newman.

On his return journey to Peterborough Mr. Potter will stay at several places to lecture.

SIX MONTHS IN GAOL

For Picking the Till in the Southern Hotel Bar.

A young fellow who has just returned from the lumber camps was sentenced to six months in gaol by Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of picking the till in the Southern Hotel last night. The convincing array of proof which the police gathered induced the prisoner to enter a plea of guilty.

The act was committed whilst the bartender was temporarily absent from his post and when he discovered the theft his suspicions immediately rested on the young man in question. On a watch being set on him he was ascertained to be spending money freely and as he did not have any earlier in the day he was arrested.

A NOVEL CASE.

Settled in a Highly Commendable Manner Yesterday.

A young man from Belmont was before Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, charged with a violation of the Charitou Act, as effecting a young girl from the same township. On the advice of Magistrate Edmison the matter was settled by a wedding between the parties concerned, and thus a wrong was righted in a manner which is to be highly commended. The court was adjourned from two until five o'clock, and as the ceremony was performed in the interval, the case was dismissed when the court assembled.

THE TRAMP NUISANCE.

Another one Committed This Morning to Gaol—How to get Rid of Them.

This morning a tramp giving the name of Oliver Twist was sent up to gaol for a month.

The hordes of tramps who now afflict the land like the locusts of Egypt, are seriously puzzling municipal authorities everywhere. The jail has no terror for the tramps—in fact, he rather prefers it, in winter, to the box car; in the jail, he is kept warm, is fed, and has nothing to do. We commend to these puzzled municipal officers the plan adopted by the authorities of Tacoma. In that city there has been built in the jail a species of cell which might be called the "Tacoma torture-chamber for tramps." It is about eight feet high and three feet square. Around the ceiling, the walls, and the floor there runs a perforated one-inch pipe. The tramp is made to disrobe, given soap and a brush and induced to enter the torture chamber. Then the water is turned on full head. The awful shrieks and yells which emerge from the torture-chamber are said to strike terror to the soul of the stoutest tramp. When the victim has been released, he strikes out from Tacoma, bearing his tale of horror to unnumbered tramps. The result has been a marked falling off of tramp travel in that locality. The people of Tacoma have discovered how to get rid of the tramp. They wash him.

Mr. R. D. Robbins, 148 Cowan Ave., Toronto, says:—"I had a bad leg which was simply unsightly. From below the knee to ankle was one great sore. Eight doctors treated me without benefit. I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured me and all that remained to be seen are the scars."

Boys' Two Piece Suits, short pants, heavy Canadian Tweeds, medium brown shade, coat buttoned close to the throat, pleated front, regular price $2, Grafton & Co's clearing sale price, $1.50.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

The Opposition make strong claims of carrying the Province;

To do this they will have to win twenty-five seats at least and hold all they have now.

The Toronto Star (Independent) says that the "Opposition had twenty-four members in the last House. Fifty are necessary to run a Government. The gaining of twenty-six seats is unheard of in Ontario.

The Montreal Star (Conservative) referring to the claim that the Opposition will get fifty-three seats in the next Legislature, says that "the Opposition will not get this increase. It would be unheard of for any party to win 33 seats without a policy and only one or two leaders."

The Opposition organs are begging the people to "let the Opposition have a chance."

It's a chance if they do.

The Toronto World prints a column to show that the long delayed policy of Mr. Whitney is simply a desire to gain the sweets of office. Here is the way the World puts it. "For over twenty-five years no Conservative has been appointed by the Mowat-Hardy Government. Just think of it. It seems a long time, too, when we reflect that this particular quarter of a century has produced good, honest Conservatives who were thought worthy of occupying Government House and of administering on the Bench the laws that Ontario made. Yes, it has been a long, cold snap, and we are all anxious for warmer weather." The World is at least frank in its anxious desire for office, but it is hardly consistent, for it and the party it suppports complain of the excess of officials and propose a sweeping reduction tantamount to abolition of officials. How in the world will the World carry on the public services without public servants? And if all over the offices should be abolished what would become of the hungry thousands who are looking for office under a new regime, and are suffering, according to the World, from "the long cold snap" in the cold shades of Opposition? Why, here in Peterborough there aren't half enough offices to go aroused Mr. Garvin's hungry followers. Slate after slate, each one different, has been prepared, and Peterborough's share of the "sixty thousand officials" of the Mail won't give an office to a tenth of those that are working and shouting so long and loud for him. The street corners are reeking with office seekers, the committee rooms are crowded with office hunters. Mr. Garvin is trying to save his bacon and most of his fighting followers are after the rind, at east. Then, what arrant and palpable hypocrisy for these people to claim that they are patriotic, trying to save the country. When, after the campaign of falsehood, distortion of facts and misrepresentation, after their policy of brag and bluster, the leading Opposition organ comes out openly and whines for a "whack" at office, the people can pretty well "size up" their pretensions and arrive at a just estimate of the motives that influence their spurious appeals for the support and confidence of the electorate.

The Toronto World in its growl about officials says the Minister of Education "has" his inspectors in every municipality.

Does the World know who appoints the school inspectors and that it isn't the Minister of Education?

Mr. Stratton is at present in the north part of the riding and has been holding a series of successful meetings. He receives the same warm welcome and assurances of support that has heretofore greeted him, and there is no shadow of a doubt that the electors will pronounce as decided and enthusiastically in his favour as in past contests.

Mr. Garvin has also been doing the north country, and according to the reports he furnishes to the Review is carrying everything before him—especially the babies.

The babies are the most natural source for him to look to for appreciation.

He says, in his report, it "might appear incredible, but after speaking for an hour and a half at Taylor's school house, Harvey, the babies cried for more."

"Castoria Garvin—the babies cry for it."

Mr. Garvin's north country campaign is enlivened by campaign melodies, it seems, and the people don't know exactly how to place him,

Whether to class him as a politician, singing school master or nurse.

Dr. Ford's political patients in East Peterborough are afflicted with Blezarditis,

The attack is epidemic and spreading.

The only charm that will cure the ailment is placing a cross after the name of Blezard.

The Mail says "we must get rid of the machine." That's pretty hard on the Review's poetry machine.

A very successful organization meeting was held in Mr. Blezard's interests at Havelock last night.

"Hustling Havelock" is hustling for Blezard.

ALL RIGHT IN THE NORTH.

Mr. Stratton's Successful North Country Tour.

Mr. Stratton has been spending the past three days in the north part of the riding, and has been meeting with most encouraging success. Everything assures that the north will repeat with increased emphasis the verdict of approval of the past course of Mr. Stratton and the Government of past campaigns. The northern townships will make a big contribution to the large majority West Peterborough will roll up for Mr. Stratton and the Government on March 1st.

ALL RIGHT IN THE EAST.

Mr. Blezard's Successful Canvas—Belmont Meeting.

Mr. Blezard has been visiting the northern part of his riding and everywhere met with enthusiastic receptions. He has never been so well received before and the prospects for success were never before so encouraging. He held a very successful meeting last night at Round Lake School House, Belmont. Addresses by Mr. F. D. Kerr, town, and Mr. Blezard were listened to with the greatest attention. The people enjoyed hearing temperate and fairly put discussions of the public questions of the day. Everywhere Mr. Blezard is meeting with the most encouraging success. Dr. Ford will have to strike an exceedingly lively gait to pull down the big lead Mr. Blezard possesses.

The Peterborough juniors play in Lindsay to-night, taking over the following team: Goal, G. Dixon; point, R. Glover; cover point, R. Thorne; forwards, W. Crossley, B. Belleghem, H. King and C. Graham.

The first of the series of games which always take place at the close of the season between the town teams, will be played on Saturday evening next at seven o'clock between the Electrics and Printers. The Electrics possess a heavier team by far, but the Printers couldn't let the challenge go past unaccepted.

The Hockey team of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. has challenged the Printers to a game. The challenge has been accepted of course and the Printers leave all further arrangements in the hands of their opponents.

CURLIANA.

In the Tankard series in Toronto yesterday the Peterborough Granites were put out of the game by five shots, losing to Scarborough. The loss of the round may be attributed to the absence of Mr. H M. Allen, who was to act as Skip Edwards' vice. He was in Huntsville and could not get to Toronto in time for the match. For six ends Mr. R. S. Davidson played two pair of stones. Then Mr. Edwards was allowed to take on Charlie Leonard, an old Peterborough boy. Skip Edwards thinks, with reason, that Skip Allen's presence would have strengthened his rink sufficiently to have made him a winner.

Judge Weller was successful in being 8 shots up. The scores were as follows:

HIGH-CLASS CASH TAILORS AND GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTERS.

Father Time's scythe is a weapon that no man can escape. Sooner or later it must lay all men low.

With premature death it is different. Nature intended that every man should live a long and useful life, and die a peaceful, painless death. Men defeat the intention of a beneficent Providence by the manner in which they live, their disregard of the laws of health and their utter failure to protect health when it is threatened and restore it when it is lost. The most common result of neglect of health is that dread disease, consumption. Not many years ago it was considered incurable. Now it is known that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure 98 per cent. of all cases if taken in time. That is its record during a period of thirty years. Many of the thankful patients have permitted their names, experiences and photographs to be reproduced in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. Any sufferer who wishes to investigate these cases may secure a copy of this book free, by sending 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and then write to the patients themselves. In consulting Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, the sufferer consults a skillful specialist who for thirty years has been chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. With the assistance of a staff of able physicians, he has successfully treated tens of thousands of cases of bronchial, throat and lung affections. He will cheerfully answer letters from all sufferers, without charge. Address the Doctor as above.

"I had bronchitis for eighteen years and I was treated by three physicians, but all failed," writes David Wartzenluft, Esq., of Shoemakersville, Berks Co., Pa. "They told me there was no cure for me. I then used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and was entirely cured. My weight is now 172 pounds."

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this. Here is the proof: Mr. John Gerlin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: 'They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart beat, dizziness and constant headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

THE STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Mr. Langmuir Tells of Mismanagement, Deception and Fraud—Shareholders Lose a Million, Creditors $300,000.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Farmers' Loan and Savings Company was held yesterday afternoon in the Confederation Life Building to appoint an advisory committee to assist the liquidators in the winding up of the company's affairs. Several hundred shareholders were present, and Mr. J. W. Langmuir, manager of the Toronto General Trusts Company, the liquidator, presided.

Mr. Langmuir presented a report, which showed that after unpaid stock amounting to $445,920 had been paid, there would not be sufficient assets to satisfy the creditors, which means a loss to the shareholders of one million dollars in hard cash.

Premising his report, Mr. Langmuir said the liquidators, owing to the absence of the manager from the office and the absconding of the accountant and teller, had entered upon their duties in an attitude of grave suspicion, which certainly had not been removed as the examination into the books and business of the company had proceeded. The failure of the company was manifestly due to exceptional mismanagement and deceptive and dishonest practices of certain of the employes and the incapacity of the auditors.

With grave defects in bookkeeping and gross irregularities in constant operation, the failure of the company was inevitable, and was deferred only by the systematic falsification, for some considerable time, by the manager and accountant of the only official documents submitted to public scrutiny, the assets and liabilities sheets and the profit and loss statements.

If the auditors had properly discharged their duties, the grossly defective system of bookkeeping as well as the deceptions practiced by the manager, accountant and teller would long ago have been exposed and much loss have been averted. Not only were the auditors grossly negligent, but they certified to the correctness of two distinctly different profit and loss statements for the year ending April 30, 1897, and for the year preceding.

The depositors' pass books also in many instances did not tally with their accounts in the ledgers. The number of depositors' accounts shown to be current in the ledger was 501, but three depositors had presented pass books showing balances in their favor and in the ledger their accounts were closed. Of 504 deposit accounts, representing $278,038.86, 342 had been found correct, leaving 162 accounts, representing $86,455 to be adjusted. In the cases of 71 of these remaining accounts the ledger showed only $59,489.86 of deposits, while the pass books showed $68,766 to the credit of the depositors, and 91 accounts remained to be examined, which would doubtless increase the discrepancies. It was evident that no unification of the depositors' pass books had been carried out since 1891, although evidence was found of an attempt at this five years ago, by a member of the staff, but not by the auditors.

Following his report, Mr. Langmuir answered many questions of the shareholders. He did not, he said, hope for any favorable liquidation. Any opinion as to how the assets would realize would be a mere guess. As to the amount of the defalcation of officials he could not say, but cited an instance when a pass book showed $4,000 to the depositor's credit and the ledger $2,700. The difference, he said, went into somebody's pocket.

The question as to where the officials, Manager Bethune, Accountant Binkney and Teller Scott were, created some amusement. Mr. Langmuir did not know.

Some one asked for the names of the auditors. Mr. Langmuir replied W. E. Murray and Benjamin Parsons.

Mr. George Bell said it looked as if the creditors would lose $300,000 or $400,000, and the shareholders a million. Mr. Langmuir seemed to agree with him.

It was agreed upon motion of Mr. J. A. Knowell, Q.C., that the appointment of a committee should be no bar to future private action, when these gentlemen were appointed: Rev. Dr. Warden, Dr. Moffatt, E. R. C. Clarkson, Alexander Patterson. The meeting then adjourned.

BEGIN IN APRIL.

Mr. McKenzie Says He Has Already Three Outfits on the Road for the Yukon Railway—To Employ 4,000 Men.

Montreal, Feb. 16.—Mr. William McKenzie, who is associated with Mr. D. D. Mann in the construction of the new Canadian route to the Klondike, is here on his way to England in connection with the franchise for the Birmingham tramway, which is to be converted into an electric railway. Referring to the reports of Mr. Mann's inability to charter steamers on the Pacific coast, the threatened hostile American bonding regulations at Fort Wrangel and opposition to the contract, he said: "We have no occasion to worry over any of these affairs. My contract has been signed, and I see no reason to doubt that it will be ratified by Parliament. Too much is being made of unfriendly American legislation. I believe everything will be arranged amicably. In any event Canadians have a right to navigate the Stikine River. Steamboats can ply on it for five months of the year.

"We have three outfits on the route already, and the line is being located. Until this work is completed there is no necessity of rushing men to the north. We will begin track-laying operations in April. Will we complete the line before September 1? Without a doubt, else we should not have undertaken the job. At least 4,000 men will be employed. Many will probably come from the east. It is probable that the Government will eventually extend the projected Teslin Lake road south to a point on the Canadian seaboard, for instance, a point on Alice Arm on Portland Canal. We tendered like the Rothschilds, for a railway from Pyramid Harbor, Alaska, via the Dalton trail, but the Government decided that the line must be entirely within Canadian territory."

The greater includes the less. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, and may be depended upon to cure boils and pimples.

GENTS,—I have used Hagyard's Yellow Oil in my family for croup and bronchitis during the past 12 years and never found it to fail. It cures every time. I have recommended it to my neighbours and they keep it on hand. I would not be without it for any price.

MAGIC WROUGHT BY RAIN.

Barren Australian Plains Suddenly Transformed Into Flower Gardens.

The whole of the interior of Australia is not, as some people appear to think, a desert. It is traversed by river courses, such as those of the Finke, Barcoo and Warburton, all draining southward toward Lake Eyre.

Nothing could be more striking than the contrast between the dry and wet season, states Professor Baldwin Spencer, who visited central Australia on a scientific mission.

In the former one travels mile after mile over bare, stony plains, with scarcely a sign of plant or animal life. The sun beats down hotly on shining fields of brown and purple stones, crossed every now and then by thin bands of dreary looking mulga trees.

Such plants as there are are comparatively few and far apart. As to the animals, they have to survive as best they can; ants, flies and grasshoppers exist in countless numbers and afford food to lizards, and perhaps smaller marsupial rats and mice.

In the rainy season, which may only occur once in 18 months, everything is changed. From the highlands in the center and from every range of hills the water rushes down in torrents. Vast areas, previously impassable by reason of drought, now become impassable from flood. Within a few hours the whole scene is changed. The water has loosened the hard ground and countless animals have appeared.

Clay pans and water holes are noisy with the croaking of frogs; crustaceans hatch out with wonderful rapidity from eggs which have lain on the dry ground for, it may be, many months; small mollusks buried in clay are released, and every inhabitant of land and water sets to work to make the best of its short life.

The ground within a day or two is green with the leaves of countless seedlings, which grow rapidly; birds appear as if by magic, and the once dry and silent country is now bright with flowers and foliage and animals, all decked out in their liveliest colors.

After perhaps a few days the rains cease and the waters quickly become confined to the river channels, scouring out holes here and there, where a small supply will remain for a time after the shallower parts have all dried up.

As the water disappears everything returns to its arid state, and it is only those animals and plants that have succeeded in reaching a sufficiently far advanced stage of growth that have any chance of surviving. The weaklings among the plants are quickly killed off.—Pall Mall Gazette.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

RUSKIN.

Painter in words, on whose resplendent page,
Caught from the palette of the seven hued bow,
The colors of our English Turner glow,
Silver of silent stars, the storm's red rage,
The spray of mountain streams, rocks gray with age,
Gold of Athens, white of Alpine snow,
Cool green of forests, blue of lakes below
And sunset crimsoned skies—O seer and sage,
Crowned with wild olive, fine of sense and sight,
In thy prophetic voice, through work, trade, strife,
The stones cry out: "By truth the nations live
And by injustice die. Be thy weights right,
Thy measures true. These be the lamps that give
The way of beauty and the path of life!"

THE LAST HILTON.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

There having been a great deal of gossip in the town of Wentworth and the country about in regard to my strange find of money and the amount thereof, and the newspapers having said much that was true and untrue in the same connection, I have determined to write a plain story and set forth the facts in the case.

In the first place, I must tell you that my name is Hilton—George Hilton—and that I am the last of my race. There is not in all this world another Hilton—man, woman or child—who can claim to be descended from Sir Hugh Hilton of the Cedars. You have many times found the name of that gallant old knight on the pages of England's history, and never has a line been recorded to his shame. He was a brave warrior and a good citizen, and peace to his ashes. The Hiltons were not a long lived race and after the year 1780 there were so many bachelors and spinsters among them that dust began to accumulate on the name. My grandfather was an only child, my father the same, and when I was born into the world there were but three Hiltons left. Death soon removed my parents and I was then the last of my race. I should be proud to speak of my father and grandfather as history has spoken of those who came before them, but candor compels me to say that the quality of the blood had degenerated when it reached them. I have been told that this might have been expected, as the Hiltons were a race of high livers and a roystering lot, but I feel it a smirch on the family escutcheon just the same. To be honest, then, my grandfather was a tyrant over his tenants, disliked by the public and so miserly in his habits that it was said he did not live out his allotted years for the want of proper food. When I came to the age of understanding, they told me pretty much the same story about my father, much to my shame and sorrow. It was necessary, however, to tell some sort of story. At the age of 12 I was an orphan and almost penniless. There was the big stone house and the 30 acres of land which had been held by the Hiltons for 300 years, but there was no money. People figured up the income and outgo of my father and grandfather and said I ought to be in possession of at least £10,000, but not £5 in good and lawful money was found in the house when my father died.

The will of my father, by which I was left all, was brief and concise, but contained a curious sentence. It was to the effect that on my twenty-first birthday I should take possession of the house, and, standing at the foot of the cellar stairs, with my face to the east, should "count one and three and take two." My solicitor and guardian was an old man and not a very keen one. He thought this clause might have reference to money, and he visited the cellar to see what he could make out. If he had any hopes, he was disappointed. The matter might have gone further, but it was a time of great public excitement, the old man had troubles on hand, and so in one way and another the will was laid away, and I was turned out into the world to get my living as I might. Nobody wanted to live in the big house, which was gloomy and ill arranged, and the little income was only big enough to pay the taxes. If it could have been legally arranged for me to sell the grounds, it was not done, and after living with a farmer for a few months I out loose and started out to see the world. I had been fairly educated in the lower branches, and this was a help to me in knocking about. For two years I managed to live one way and another and then went to sea from the port of Liverpool. Returning after six months, I blacked boots and sold newspapers in the streets of London, got temporary employment at various inns, turned fishmonger and fakir, and at the age of 17 the last of the Hiltons was a bad lot. I had many vices and few virtues. A year's cruise on a man-of-war did not help my moral character any, and it is with shame I admit that all my associations were evil. I did have pride enough, as the last of my race, to change my name and to conceal the fact that I was descended from men who had made history for England, but I was perfectly willing to drift along with the world and take the wicked side of it.

Soon after my eighteenth birthday I attended the races in company with several boon companions. That night we played cards and drank at a room in a public house, and a stranger was assaulted and robbed. It was proved on the trial that I was drunk and asleep at the time, but as I was one of the party who committed the offence I was held as an accessory and given a sentence of five years in prison. I have been frank to admit my failures, and it is only just that you should believe me when I say that my sentence was an outrage. I knew nothing whatever of the plan to rob, did not share in the spoils and was exonerated by all my companions. I had been a cheat and sharper, but had never resorted to robbery or other serious crime. Guilty or not guilty, I went to prison just the same, and I am ready to admit today that it was the best thing that could have happened to me. I had to settle down to work and a steady routine, and by and by my conscience began to awaken and my sense of shame to return. When I had had time to come to myself, as it were, I made a solemn resolution to change my course of life, and so exemplary was my behavior that after about three years I received a full pardon and one day was set at liberty. Until this day came I had scarcely thought of the old stone house down at Wentworth. I had an undefined plan that after reaching my majority I would sell the place for what it would bring, but I had never been back since leaving it, nor had I heard a word from the solicitor or met a resident of the town. Under the English law, as it was then, the warden gave each discharged prisoner money enough to pay his fare 100 miles. Wentworth was just 100 miles away, and a stage was to start in that direction within an hour after my release. These and other things influenced me to head that way. After getting fairly started on the journey I had a longing to see the old place again and thus became quite satisfied with myself. Having left the town a mere lad nine years before, I had no fear that any one would know me, and, as a matter of fact, no one did. Within an hour of my arrival, however, some of the townspeople who were gathered in the taproom began discussing the Hiltons, and I was astonished and aggrieved that reports of me had been received from time to time and that it was known I had been sent to prison for felony. They did not know I had been pardoned out nor that I had resolved to lead a better life, and they spoke so much to my detriment that I was cut to the quick. I learned from their conversation that the old house had been empty for years, and they predicted that the last of the Hiltons would hardly care to ever show his face again in Wentworth to find a buyer.

Next day after my arrival I strolled about the town and finally entered my grounds and walked about, and then entered the old house. Windows were broken, doors gone and the roof leaking in a dozen places. The place was simply an old ruin. As I wandered through the rooms the thought of that strange clause in the will flashed across my mind. It had been dismissed from my mind when I left Wentworth, nor had it come up again in all the years I had roamed about. I could not recall the wording of it now. I only remembered that I was to stand at the foot of the cellar stairs and count something, and that one, two and three were somehow mixed together. I started to descend to the cellar, but the stairs had rotted away. As I moved about I also heard some animals stirring down there, and fearing I might get into trouble I left the house and the grounds. When I made inquiries in the town, I found that the old solicitor had been dead for years and that his papers and accounts had been transferred to a firm living in a town ten miles away. I decided to go and see them and claim my own, but there was no hurry about it. All that afternoon and evening I kept trying to remember the cellar—whether it was one open space or divided. This thing preying on my mind naturally brought about the dream which followed. I dreamed that the cellar was one large room and that the floor above was supported by three brick pillars. The words in the will also stood out clearly—"count one and three and take two." I woke while yet dreaming, and leaping out of bed wrote down the words. When morning came, I decided on an investigation of the cellar, and about midafternoon revisited the house. I gained entrance to the cellar by an outside passage and after driving out a dog who had taken up his quarters there I located the spot where the foot of the stairs had been. The cellar was one large room, and the floor was supported by three pillars, just as I had dreamed. It was a distance of about 40 feet across the cellar, and pillar No. 2 was exactly in the center opposite the stairs. "Count one and three and take two." Two was the center pillar, of course, but why take it? It looked exactly like the other pillars. It was there to support the center beam on the floor, as any one could see, and where was the mystery in that? I looked it over with great care, but could see nothing different from the others. The architect had planned it, and the same hand had built the three and used bricks from the same lot. I was provoked with my father for writing the words and with myself for attaching any significance to them, and after awhile climbed out of the cellar and went walking in the town. I tried to dismiss the whole affair from my mind, but it clung to me, and an hour after dinner I was back in the cellar. If there was any mystery about the pillar, I could solve it only by attacking the bricks.

After hesitating for a long time I looked about and chanced upon a portion of an iron bar, and, removing my coat, I began work. After a few bricks had been loosened the rest was easy enough. The pillar was 7 feet high and 2 feet square and was perfectly solid until I was within two feet of the bottom. Then I found a hollow, and this hollow was covered by a sheet of tin. When I reached this point, I was so excited that I had to stop work and sit down for awhile, and it was well that things happened thus. While I was resting I heard people moving about outside and caught enough of their conversation to know that I had been seen prowling around and had aroused suspicion. After the people had departed I pulled away the cover and there was the treasure which had been left to the last of the Hiltons. The receptacle was full of gold—every pound of it in yellow metal. My grandfather had resorted to usury and half starved himself to leave it to my father, and my father had pinched and saved for a lifetime to leave it to me. I took the money, piece by piece, and counted it into my hat, and when the hat was full I carried it out among the shrubbery and emptied its contents on the ground. There was £12,000 there—£12,000 and something over, and some of the pieces must have been saved up for over 100 years. That evening I hired a cart for a couple of days, and, having possessed myself of a strong leather bag, I transferred the gold from the garden to the cart and drove to Shropshire and put it in a safe place. Later on I hunted up the solicitors who had the will, and in due time and without returning to Wentworth I came into my own and disposed of the house and lands for a small sum. Some one who visited the house discovered the work I had done there, and the amount of money I took away has been variously estimated at from £1,000 to £50,000. It has been asserted that I also secured many articles of jewelry, but I have given you the true particulars.

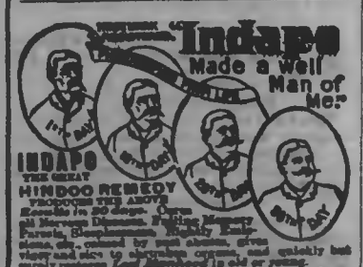
20 YEARS OF BONDAGE

Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills Loose the Shackles of Constipation and Stomach Disorders.

In summing up the causes of human misery it will be found that by far the greatest sources of disease originate in derangement of the Stomach and Bowels. People will abuse their stomachs and neglect the calls of nature till they bring on themselves her vengeance. To get back to nature's paths, to have the Stomach and Bowels once more fulfilling their function properly, to clear the system of all the results and consequences of poisons accumulating and circulating in the Blood is the work of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Thos. Miller, Lucknow, Ont., says that he was afflicted with Stomach Trouble and Constipation for about 20 years, during which time he tried almost everything he heard of, but to no purpose. Mr. H. Day, the popular druggist, sent him a sample of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills. The first dose he took did him good, and they have proved so effectual in his case that he recommends them to all those afflicted as he was.

These Pills may be had of all Dealers at 25 CENTS A BOX.



Sheridan and the Jobs.

Sheridan, himself a brilliant orator as well as a shrewd observer, was one day asked how it was he got on so well in the house of commons. "Well," he said, "I soon found out that the majority were fools, but all loved a joke, and I determined to give them what they liked." The great advantage of a joke is that it puts the speaker at once on good terms with his audience. Hence Cicero recommends it for an exordium. A common way of winning the good will of an audience is flattery. When the Jews brought down the orator Tertullus to accuse Paul, Tertullus began his speech with flattery of King Agrippa, "Since by thee we enjoy," and so on. Another way, a subtle form of flattery, is to describe yourself as a native of the same place or county as those you are addressing. The forensic formula, the fustian apostrophe to the 12 "intelligent and patriotic and high minded men" whom the rhetorical Buzfuz sees before him, is played out, but it has its modern equivalents.—Westminster Review.

Disconcerting.

Mrs. Manycooks (severely)—Didn't I hear a man talking loudly with you in the kitchen just now, Mary?

Mary (complacently)—Oi hope so, mam, for thin Oi can call yez as a witness in a case av braich av promise suit, ma'am.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Let parents not live for their children, but with them." The mother should allow no false modesty to stand in the way of her daughter's knowledge of herself, of her possibilities, of her perils. For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has used his "Favourite Prescription" as a strengthener, a purifier, a regulator. It works directly upon the delicate, distinctly feminine organ, in a natural, soothing way. It searches out the weak spots and builds them up. A woman who would understand herself should send 31 cents to the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., for Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages.

18 Years Town Constable.

The pills entirely did away with this annoying symptom. I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

ONLY ONE WAY.

To Cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and all Other Stomach Troubles.

That Way is to Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—Every Tablet Taken is a Step Away from Death—They are the Only Cure.

We have only one life-time to live upon earth. Every sane man and woman desires to be happy during life. Only insane people commit suicide deliberately and intentionally.

But thousands of people kill themselves, just as truly and as surely as if they jumped into a river, blew their brains out, or hanged themselves, although they don't realize that they are doing so. Everyone who allows disease to eat his life away, without doing all he can to cure it, commits suicide.

Some diseases can be cured by certain remedies only. Dyspepsia is one of these. Indigestion is another. There is only one remedy for all Stomach Diseases. That remedy is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Fortunately Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a positive cure for all these diseases. They cure quickly. Their effect is immediate. Their cure is permanent. It is certain. Every dose of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is a step away from the grave.

It is easy to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and other Stomach Troubles with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Simply take one or two of them after each meal. Eat heartily but not gluttonously. Then your cure is going on every day.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50. They will be sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

No Matter

No matter how obstinate the cough, how severe the cold, Norway Pine Syrup will cure and cure quickly. No other remedy equals it in sanative power over throat and lung troubles.

Adams Motsons find Dr. Low's worm syrup the best medicine to expel worms. Children like it—worms don't.

THE SWING OF VICTORY

Fight for Provincial Political Supremacy Grows Tenser.

DAY OF LIBERAL VICTORY NEAR.

The Movements of the Leaders—The Government's Chances Calculated—The Provincial Secretary Declares There Is Every Likelihood of a Majority of From 20 to 25.

The campaign is another day nearer the close, the Liberals one day nearer victory. The fight grows tenser, and the probable result is more marked as election day draws nearer. But Liberals in any portion of the province cannot afford to become the victims of over-confidence. A good cause, a fair appeal to a thinking electorate and ever increasing manifestations of public approval are calculated to inspire confidence. This very condition of affairs, however, cannot fail to stir opponents of good government to the core, and the Liberals must everywhere follow up the good work until the last vote is polled. Never before in the history of a quarter of a century of successful Liberal campaigns has the outlook been brighter than now. Day by day the swing of victory gathers momentum, and everywhere it is felt that there can be but one result.

Movements of the Leaders.

Premier Hardy was at Mount Forest yesterday, and Mr. Whitney at Hagersville.

GOVERNMENT'S CHANCES.

The Provincial Secretary Predicts a Majority of 25.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Hon. E. J. Davis returned yesterday from Guelph, where he conducted a joint meeting on Tuesday night.

"If the Government's chances keep on improving like they have been during the last week," said Mr. Davis, "we will carry the country by between 20 and 25 majority.

"I don't wish to boast, for the Government is not given to boasting, but, judging from the signs which can be depended on, we will carry the three Yorks. We will carry North Ontario, for Chapple is stronger than ever there. We will carry South Ontario without a doubt. The Conservatives concede West Durham.

"We will carry Muskoka, for Dr. Bridgeland is very strong. We will beat Miscampbell, for his election last year was due to the three-cornered nature of the fight. We will elect Davidson in Centre Simcoe, even if Train, the Patron, stays in the field. If he withdraws we will elect Davidson by hundreds.

"We will carry the three Wellingtons, North Bruce, West Lambton for sure, and perhaps East Lambton. North Perth will elect John Brown over Magwood. North Lanark will be won."

Mr. Davis said that he noticed that the Conservative press was stating that five of the seven Cabinet Ministers were in danger of defeat. Mr. Davis pointed out that every Conservative who had attained any prominence, with the exception perhaps of Colonel Matheson, was more liable to be defeated than elected, and even South Lanark was in danger.

Mr. Davis knows the province pretty thoroughly, but declined to speak on some the ridings of which he had not a very thorough knowledge. He said, however, that from advices the campaign was going just as favorably as the Government could wish.

THE C. P. R. STEAMERS.

To Ply Between Victoria, Vancouver and Wrangel Now on the Way.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Mr. Shaughnessy, Vice-President of the C.P.R., was in the city yesterday. He informed your correspondent that the two ocean liners, the Tartar and Athenian, which have been purchased by his company for the Yukon trade, have already left England and will reach Victoria by the end of March. They will ply between Victoria, Vancouver and Wrangel, the company having no intention to go into the transportation business to St. Michael. Sixteen light draft vessels for use on the Stikine River are now in course of construction.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

She Wanted a Love Letter.

"Good morning," said the young woman, as she stepped up to the window. "Is there a letter for me today?"

"I will see," replied the clerk. "Will it be among the business or the love letters?"

The girl hesitated a moment. Her face colored a little, and she finally replied, "I think it is a business letter."

The man inside the window took out a handful of letters from the case and hastily looked them over. He found no letter for the girl, and so informed her. Her face bore evidences of disappointment, and she went away.

The clerk thought nothing more of the matter and did not suppose she had taken his remark seriously. But she did, and it was not very long before she came back, and in a timid manner asked him if he would please be so kind as to look among the love letters.—Sioux City (Ia.) Journal.

Health is Better.

"I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and I was so tired that I could hardly walk I saw Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised and procured four bottles. My health is now better than it has ever been since I was a child, and I have not been sick for a long time" Miss Jessie Turnbull, Cranbrook, Ont.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

Bright as a dollar.

Heart and nerve troubles cloud the brain, tangle the memory, wrench the system and destroys sleep. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills regulate the heart, tone the nerves and bring health and vigor to the entire system.

Liver troubles, biliousness, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, jaundice, etc., yield to the curative powers of Laxa-Liver Pills. They are sure to cure.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Prize Tea Store, 238 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked, Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 238 George Street.

LOSS OF THE MAINE.

Conjectures as to the Cause of the Explosion.

THE MESSAGES OF SYMPATHY.

Public Funeral of the Victims at Havana —Witnesses of the Disaster Tell a Tale of the Wierd and Terrible Sight of Flame and Destruction—A Total Wreck.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The Government has settled back into a waiting attitude in respect to the terrible marine disaster in Havana Harbor. The great shock caused by the news has given way to a calmer and more judicial state of mind, and, realizing from the events of the day, that the court of inquiry is the sole dependence in the search for the cause of the Maine's loss. The naval officials are now resigned to await the results of that inquiry by a court named yesterday by the Navy Department. There was little news to add to the sum of information as to the disaster during the forenoon. No telegrams came, and all that could be gleaned was a denial of some absurd story or other that had crept into print or became current gossip. All the news of the day came in the late afternoon in Captain Sigsbee's report of the authorization of the funeral of his dead sailors and General Lee's brief story of the struggle for life in the dark hull of the Maine.

THE FINAL NEWS

Show That Bodies Picked Up Are Impossible of Identification—Capt. Sigsbee's Personal Thanks to Spain.

Havana, Feb. 18.—The night of the disaster to the Maine a light wind from the southwest was blowing, and her head pointed in a southeasterly direction. She was moored in about twelve metres of water forward, and drew about 18 metres aft. The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII. was about 200 metres from the American battleship.

The boats of the Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII. have picked up a quantity of wreckage, including boats and a flag, and yesterday ten more bodies were found in the harbor and were taken to the morgue. It is impossible to identify them.

Captain Sigsbee went on board the Alfonso XII. yesterday and thanked the Spanish commander, Captain Manuel Elias, for the services the Spanish sailors had rendered upon the occasion of the great disaster. Contrary to the reports current here yesterday, the divers have not yet made any investigation of the wreck, and the general opinion expressed in Spanish circles is that the explosion occurred inside the Maine.

AN AUTHENTIC ACCOUNT.

Purser Dennison of the Olivette Gives a Circumstantial Statement.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 18.—The Associated Press correspondent saw Purser Dennison of the Olivette, which arrived here last night from Havana. He gave the following account of the disaster:

"The explosion is an absolute mystery to everyone. It occurred in the forward magazine, which is just forward of amidships and below the water line. The coal bunkers are outside, but separated by two feet of space. According to custom, the magazine was inspected at 8 o'clock in the evening and the temperature found to be 55. The magazine was locked and the keys given to Captain Sigsbee. The men went to their hammocks in the forward part of the ship soon after 9 o'clock.

"The explosion occurred at 9.40, and hence the awful and overwhelming loss of life. No one can yet give a correct account. About ten men who were in the forward part of the ship were saved and of those several had their hammocks slung on the lower deck. The explosion split the big ship in two and threw these and one marine, who was sleeping on the superstructure, 40 feet in the air and into the water.

"In the magazine were 25 tons of coarse powder, used for charging the big guns, there being no dynamite, detonating powder, nor torpedo heads, and nothing in fact that could be exploded by concussion. In the main magazine aft, the high explosives were stored, and this magazine did not explode. There are no electric wires connecting with or near the magazine.

"It is not believed that the Maine was destroyed by a torpedo underneath, as if this were the case a hole would have been torn in the bottom, and the ship would not have been blown to atoms, as was the case. The aft part of the ship sank in 3 minutes, and the officers and survivors of the crew escaped half clothed. Pieces of the wreckage flew a distance of 400 yards. One large piece of cement struck the quarterdeck of the City of Washington of the Ward Line, anchored ahead of the Maine."

MESSAGE FROM CAPT. SIGSBEE.

He Says He Has Accepted Public Burial of the Maine's Dead From Spain.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 18.—The following message was received at the Navy Department yesterday afternoon from Captain Sigsbee at Havana:

"General Blanco called on me personally at the hotel last night and also the Mayor of the city. They have requested me to permit the Government here to give a public burial to the dead already found in order that public sympathy may be expressed thereby, and due honor shown the dead. Ground for the burial has been secured.

"Is it assumed that I am expected by the Government to bury the dead here? In fact it would be impracticable to transport remains to the United States. Means and facilities are lacking. I have accepted the offer of the authorities and there will be a public funeral at 3 o'clock to-day. All here from the Maine will go, also a detachment from the Fern. Fifteen bodies recovered during operations. Operations prevented by rough weather. (Signed) Sigsbee."

In answer, Secretary Long sent the following: "Telegram received and action approved. Express to Captain-General Blanco and to the Mayor and people of Havana thanks of this department and its appreciation of their action in extending the honors you have reported to those lost on board the Maine. (Signed) Long."

Despatch From General Lee.

The following despatch came from Consul-General Lee, addressed to Assistant Secretary Day:

"Merritt in junior officers' mess room; Jenkins in ward mess room at the time of explosion. Latter left before an officer who was saved. Must have gone the wrong way. Lights out immediately and water rushed in. Merritt got to hatch with naval cadet Boyd. Ladder gone. Boyd climbed through and tried to pull Merritt up, but latter let go his hands, fell back and was drowned. Bodies of these officers not yet found; possibly in wreck. Sailors' funeral to-day at 3. Will be an immense procession."

The Maine a Complete Ruin.

Admiral Sicard telegraphed Secretary Long from Key West yesterday afternoon as follows:

"In the opinion of Lieut. John Hood of the Maine, who has just arrived from Havana, the Maine can never again be utilized as a ship. He describes the whole forward body of the ship as completely collapsed where the shock of the explosion was heaviest. Photographs of the wreck will be sent to the department to-day. (Signed) Sicard."

Messages of Condolence.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 18.—A number of messages have been received at the State Department from foreign governments expressing regret in connection with the Maine disaster. Among them are the following:

"I have the honor to inform you that I am commanded by the Queen to convey to the President the expression of Her Majesty's sympathy with the American people on the occasion of the sad disaster which has befallen their navy by the loss of the battleship Maine and of so many members of her crew. I request you that you will be good enough to transmit the above message to its high destination. I have the honor to be, with the highest consideration, your most obedient, humble servant, Julian Pauncefote."

Other messages are from Emperor William, the Prince and Princess of Wales, President Faure of France, the Duke of Connaught, the Russian Minister of Marine, and the First Lord of the British Admiralty.

Lord Salisbury in Peril.

London, Feb. 17.—The Marquis of Salisbury and his second son, the Rev. Lord William Gascoyne-Cecil who is rector of Bishops Hatfield, had a narrow escape from death yesterday evening as they were entering the gates of Hatfield. A gust of wind swung the heavy gate against the brougham in which they were riding, cutting the vehicle in two between the wheels. The horses proceeded with the front part of the brougham, leaving the Marquis of Salisbury and his son entangled in the remaining debris. They received no injuries, however.

His Arm in a Planer.

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17.—Norton Olds, a man about 50 years of age, met with a frightful accident in the Mann Manufacturing Company's works. In attempting to remove a piece of wood that had stuck fast in a bed planer he accidently placed his right hand in the knives, which gradually drew the arm in, cutting it off by inches within a short distance of the shoulder. It was only by main force that he succeeded in wrenching it out then.

OUR TREATY RIGHTS.

They Were Under Discussion in the Imperial Parliament.

FREE NAVIGATION OF THE YUKON

This Is Guaranteed, Along With That of the Porcupine and Stikine Rivers, in the Treaty of Washington—Mr. George N. Curson's Remarks Thereanent in the House of Commons.

London, Feb. 18.—The Parliamentary Secretary for the Foreign Office, Mr. George N. Curzon, in the House of Commons yesterday, answering a question as to whether the rights and obligations respecting Alaska, under all the then existing treaties, had been transferred when the United States purchased the country, said that only certain articles of the Anglo-Russian treaty of 1827 regarding the geographical limits were recited in the Russo-American treaty, under which Alaska was ceded. Article 26 of the treaty of Washington, of 1871, Mr. Curzon said, provided that the navigation of the Yukon, Porcupine and Stikine Rivers were to be free and open to the commerce of British subjects and American cities, subject to the laws and regulations of either country, within its own territory, and not inconsistent with the privilege of free navigation. Inquiries, he continued, had been made by the British Ambassador as to what regulations were best applicable to the navigation of the Stikine River.

Mr. Michael Davitt, member for South Mayo, asked whether the fact of the contemplated supervision referred to was in consequence of threats made by Canada to legislate against American interests in the Yukon country.

Mr. Curzon answered, "I have heard nothing to that effect."

Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, Conservative, asked if steps had been taken to delimitate that territory. Mr. Curzon in reply said he wanted notice of that question.

DE LOME'S SUCCESSOR.

Senor Polo de Bernabe Appointed Spanish Minister to Washington.

Madrid, Feb. 18.—The decree has been gazetted accepting the resignation of Senor Dupuy De Lome as Minister of Spain at Washington, and severely criticising him.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 18.—The following despatch announcing the appointment of a Minister from Spain was received at the State Department yesterday from Madrid, addressed to Secretary Sherman:

"Have just received official communication from Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs that the Queen Regent to-day signed decree appointing Senor Polo De Bernabe Minister from Spain to the United States. (Signed) Woodford."

Washington, D.C., Feb. 18.—Spain has officially disclaimed in a positive manner the reflections contained in the De Lome letter and, as officially announced by the State Department yesterday, the incident is satisfactorily closed.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY FOR IRELAND.

Mr. Dillon Asks for One and Mr. Balfour, Government Leader, Agrees.

London, Feb. 18.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. John Dillon, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, moved an amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's speech, in favor of a Catholic University in Ireland. The motion was seconded by Mr. Timothy Harrington, Parnellite member of the division of Dublin Harbor.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, Government leader in the House, pointed out that the new university, which he for one desired to see, was not to be fenced in by any technical limitations. It was to be to Catholics what Trinity College is to Protestants, sectarian only in tone. The demand for such a university should be supported by the friends of higher education, which, under the existing system, two-thirds of the Irish were unable to enjoy. It was in accordance with the principles of unionism, was desirable, and he would welcome the demand of the Nationalists.

The Liberal Was Elected.

London, Feb. 18.—A bye-election was held for Pembrokeshire to fill the Parliamentary vacancy caused by the appointment of Mr. W. Ross Davies, the Liberal sitting member, to the Attorney-Generalship of the Bahamas. Wynford Phillips, Liberal, was elected by a majority of 1,670.

Interment of the Martyrs.

Havana, Feb 18.—The interment of the martyrs of the Maine took place yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Shortly before the hour all Havana was in movement. The flags on the public buildings were draped in mourning. All classes were represented in the throngs that filled the streets along which the immense funeral procession passed to the cemetery.

Suffocated in Bed.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—James Cruikshank, of Cruikshank Bros., plumbers, 20 Lombard street, was suffocated by smoke from a fire in the Metropolitan Printing Co.'s premises in the same building he slept in early yesterday morning. Mr. Cruikshank was unmarried and 54 years of age.

Lindsay Wins the Tankard.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Yesterday afternoon Lindsay and Dundas played the final game of curling for the Ontario Tankard at the Granite Rink here. Lindsay, which already has held the trophy, won. The score was Lindsay 23, Dundas 21.

Nervous Prostration

Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. HICKERSON, 668 Bloor Street, West, Toronto, Ontario.

WHERE WOULD THEY ECONOMIZE?

The Opposition condemn the extravagance of the Government and charge that they have "squandered" the resources of the country and the inference is fair that they wish to get office to change all that and inaugurate a reign of economy. If Mr. Whitney proposes to do the opposite of what the Government has done he can easily economize. According to the Opposition the Government has been doing a foolish thing in expending money on services that represent a return of the people's money to the people. In these several services the Government has returned to the people in the past twenty-six years the large sum of forty-three millions of dollars. Of course the people who enjoyed the benefit of these services were saved so much direct taxation, but that's contrary to the Opposition doctrine—the people's money should be hoarded and put out at interest for the benefit of posterity. Now let us go through the list.

The government has given to the people for the purpose of Education the past 26 years $14,835,186, and last year the grant was $719,816. The Opposition would hoard this money and if the people wanted the advantages it represents, why let them tax themselves for it.

For Agriculture the government has spent in 26 years $3,471,715—last year the grant was $186,064. This expenditure might be dropped, but the farmers to secure the benefits represented by this expenditure would have to tax themselves directly, but, bless you they wouldn't mind that the money would be hoarded up for the benefit of posterity.

Hospitals and Charities received in the past 26 years $2,766,998, the appropriation last year being $192,794. If, in the event of these grants being cut off, the people wished the afflicted poor to receive the benefit represented by this expenditure, they would have to tax themselves to a like amount. But they wouldn't mind that, the money of the province could be hoarded for the benefit of posterity.

Public asylums and institutions for the afflicted have received in the past 26 years a total of $15,430,076,—the grant last year being $806,131. This money is devoted to maintaining the insane, blind and deaf mute population of the province, and there's many a hamlet and there's many a home that has furnished inmates that could not be cared for at home. If the municipalities wished to tax themselves for this purpose they would doubtless willingly do so, for the money of the province would be hoarded for the benefit of posterity. Mr. Garvin, at some of his meetings in the country, insulted the intelligence of his hearers by the proposition that these institutions, maintained for the afflicted, did not yield a dividend, and that if the money they had cost were hoarded it would have amounted to so many millions. Who ever heard of "a cap of cold water" being expected to yield a cash dividend?

In the past twenty-six years the Government has distributed to the people of the province, $3,694,594, on account of administration of justice. The people, if they wished the enforcement of law and order, would have had to tax themselves directly to get the full benefits represented by such expenditure.

For the purposes of Colonization roads the people have received in the past twenty-six years $2 868,097. This is outrageous, according to the Opposition. It is bribery, and all that. Of course the settlers in the new districts don't want any help to gain access to market, and the merchants of the town don't want to be bothered with them, but the settlers and all honest men think differently. What kind of roads would our whole northern country have now if the settlers had taxed themselves for such roads and allowed the Government to hoard the money, largely derived from the districts affected, for the benefit of posterity?

Of course there is a good deal of nonsense in seriously considering such propositions, but if the Opposition are going in for economy they have their chance, and they have shown their disposition, in respect of these items. If we take the annual cost of the above services from the total annual expenditure, we shall only have to expend about $1,195 000 per year. The policy of the Government is and has been to expend the public revenues in the interests of the people. The people do not object to these expenditures and would prefer to have them increased. Government and expenditure of the people's money are to be conducted in the interests of the people and not of the politicians. The Opposition can't make any appreciable reduction in the expenditure without trenching upon the services which are specifically maintained in the interests of the people.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

THE YUKON RAILWAY.

Mr. Haggart Resumes the Debate In the Commons.

TALKS ANTI-CANADIAN VIEWS.

The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Fisher, Replies, and Makes an Important Announcement of an Understanding With Mr. McKenzie Respecting the Choice of Land Granted.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—There is every indication that the debate on the motion for the second reading of the bill to ratify the Yukon Railway contract will be protracted for some time to come. The subject is a big one, and every speaker who undertakes to treat it with any degree of exhaustiveness must of necessity devote time to the task. Four speeches were made yesterday, two in opposition and two in justification of the arrangement which has been made with Messrs. Mann and McKenzie. Mr. Haggart declared in favor of the Chilcat route, which traverses territory in the possession of the United States, and presented an argument to show that Canada cannot use the Stikine route for commercial purposes without the permission of the Americans. Sir Louis Davies deplored the attitude of the ex-Minister of Railways on an international question of so much present importance. The House was treated to an able exposition and defence of the contract by Mr. Fisher, who displayed a complete mastery of the details of the subject. The important announcement was made by the Minister of Agriculture that Mr. McKenzie has agreed to apply the principle of alternate selection to the three blocks of land which the contractors are entitled to take in addition to those on either side of the base line. Mr. Osler reiterated his former statement that the land grant would bring more in London if offered for sale than the C.P.R. grant. Mr. Bertram confirmed his right to be ranked among the able debaters in the House by a strong speech in defence of the contract. Mr. McKenzie from the Senators' Gallery listened to the debate. The first to speak to-day will be Major Hughes, who, though an opponent of the Government, recognizes the wisdom of their course in providing for the immediate construction of a railway into the Yukon country.

Routine Proceedings.

Mr. Richardson introduced a bill respecting shipment of grain.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in answer to Sir Charles Tupper, said the Government two days ago received an offer to build a railway into the Yukon from Mr. Hamilton Smith. There would be no objection to laying it on the table.

Mr. Sifton informed Mr. Davin that a permit to dredge for gold over 30 miles of the North Saskatchewan had been granted to Chevalier Drolet at a rental of $50 per annum for each 5 miles, the lease being for a term of 20 years.

Mr. Haggart on the Yukon Contract.

Mr. Haggart, on rising to resume the debate on the second reading of the Yukon bill, proceeded to criticise the nature of the proposed railway. He asked the Government to say whether they would permit the contractors to put down 28-lb. rails and draw their subsidy for each ton-mile section.

Mr. Sifton—No.

Mr. Haggart then proceeded to discuss the question of routes. He said the one by way of Chilkat Pass and Dalton's Trail to the Yukon River was unquestionably the best Probably the reason why the Government had abandoned this route was because they feared trouble with the United States about bonding privileges. Personally he believed Pyramid Harbor was in Canadian territory, and, although the Americans were in possession to-day, he did not anticipate the slightest difficulty in regard to the bonding of goods. He believed it was of greater interest to the United States to retain the present bonding arrangement than it was to Canada.

Adverting to the subsidy, he (Mr. Haggart) expressed the opinion that 1,-000,000 acres of selected gold lands would have been as good an inducement as 5,000 square miles. With reference to navigation rights on the Stikine, he pointed out that at the time of the acquisition of Alaska in 1867, Mr. Sumner, the American, had abandoned the contention that Great Britain lost her rights of the free use of the rivers from Alaska to the sea. Hence he thought there was no question as to our right to use these streams.

Mr. Haggart pointed out that under the Russian treaty we had no right to the navigation of the Yukon and Porcupine Rivers. According to Judge Crease of British Columbia the treaty of Washington was an extension of the Russian treaty, and according to Lord Carnarvon's despatch in 1877, it was plain that the territorial rights of the United States were held to be paramount in the mouth of the Stikine River. In fact the United States could make such onerous regulations in regard to transhipment at Wrangel that we would be better off with a railway starting directly from American territory.

Hon. Mr. Fisher Replies.

Mr. Fisher replied. He pointed out that the last speaker had altogether misapprehended the scope of the mining laws, which allowed five miners to do their own recording, so that the contractors would not have the advantage of their discoveries by merely watching transactions of the Government Recorder's office. Then, as to the land grant. It did not actually belong to the company till the road had been built and accepted by the Government.

Sir Charles Tupper—No, but they can select their 92,000 acres when the first 10 miles are built, and exclude everybody else from entering upon it.

Mr. Fisher contended that this, however, did not give the contractors actual ownership, and it was not to be supposed that Messrs. McKenzie and Mann were going in to work the claims themselves. Then, as to possible obstruction at Wrangel, he was not of the opinion expressed by the hon. gentlemen of the Opposition, that the attitude of certain American legislators was a cue to the policy of the responsible administrators at Washington. He did not believe that the latter would consent to a policy of obstruction as regards Canada's commercial interests in the Yukon.

Censured Mr. Haggart.

Mr. Fisher resumed his speech after dinner. He censured Mr. Haggart for saying that it would be impossible for the Government to maintain law and order in the Yukon. The Government, he contended, was justified in delaying the adoption of a route until full information was acquired, and until Mr. St. Cyr made his report of the survey of Teslin Lake and the Hootalinqua River there was absolutely no reliable or official information in the possession of the Government. He insisted that this route was strictly an all-Canadian one, and he predicted that it would be possible for ocean liners to tow barges laden with supplies from Victoria or Vancouver to Wrangel, when they could afterwards be towed up to Glenora by stern wheelers.

Selection of Land Grants.

In the clause describing the method of selecting the land granted to the contractors is this provision: "The contractors may also at their option select additional blocks lying on either end of any odd-numbered block along a base line, but such additional blocks must be three miles square each, and they shall not exceed three in number on each end of each such odd-numbered block." Mr. Fisher made the announcement that Mr. McKenzie had agreed that the principle of alternation shall apply to these additional blocks, as well as to the blocks on either side of the base line. An instructive object lesson was given the House by the Minister when he displayed charts showing the land grants for Northwest railways made by the late Government and the proposed grant to the Yukon Railway Company. The first map, the one used so effectively by Mr. Sifton last night, showed in black the immense area of 67 million acres of fertile territory between the Red River and the Rockies, pledged by the Conservatives. Mr. Fisher then exhibited a map of the Yukon country, showing the relative size of the railway grant to the whole area. It was but a speck on the face of the chart.

Sir Charles Tupper asked if the Minister would present the amendment on Friday or Monday.

Mr. Fisher replied that it would be submitted in committee. In conclusion, he thought the country would approve of the Government's action in securing the construction of this railway without payment of one cent of the people's money.

Mr. Osler of Toronto criticized the bargain from the standpoint of a business man, and he was followed on the Liberal side from the same viewpoint by Mr. Bertram. Both made good speeches for their respective sides.

Col. Hughes moved the adjournment of the debate. The House adjourned at 10.05 p.m.

EAST SIMCOE IN LINE.

'Twill Join in the Song of Victory on March 1—Reception of Hon. Mr. Hardy—His Address.

Orillia, Feb. 18.—"East Simcoe redeemed" and "It is time for a change for the better" are the battle cries with which the Liberals of East Simcoe are marching forward in solid battalions to victory on the 1st of March. Yesterday afternoon for the first time Hon. Mr. Hardy, Premier of the province, according to announcement, addressed a political meeting in Orillia. The occasion was taken advantage of by the Liberals of the surrounding district for a great demonstration in honor of the First Minister of the Crown in the Province of Ontario. Since the campaign has opened they have been putting in steady, hard, effective work in the interests of Dr. Harvey, the popular and able candidate who has accepted the pleasant task of carrying the Liberal banner in the contest. On every hand the most encouraging reports have been received of gains made and of the return to the Liberal ranks of old-time supporters of the Government in the days when East Simcoe was always to be found in the front rank of Liberalism. And yesterday they took a day off and came by hundreds to hear the Premier, and after the meeting they went home again fired with new enthusiasm to take up the work again and continue at it until they, too, will once more join in the song of victory which will mark the placing of another stone on the monument to honesty and integrity in the administration of the affairs of the province which the Government has been steadily building during the past 25 years. When the Premier arrived at the station on the morning train he was greeted with rousing cheers from the large gathering which was in waiting on the platform.

The meeting was held in the new opera house, a spacious hall, seating about a thousand people. There were not enough seats by any means to accommodate the crowd, and many remained standing throughout the entire meeting The ladies were present in large numbers and found the large gallery which had been reserved for their accommodation insufficient for the purpose. The chair was occupied by Dr. John McLean, and the speeches of Mr. W. M. Harvey, the candidate, and the Hon. Mr. Hardy, Premier of the province, were exhaustive and convincing arguments in favor of good government.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

TESTED IN DRESDEN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Win Yet Another Championship.

Dresden, Feb. 7—The report of the wonderful case of J. M. McDonald, of Windsor, has reached Dresden and causes universal and interested comment.

The power of Dodd's Kidney Pills has for some time past been universally admitted in this town, for we have had absolutely convincing proof of it.

Mr. W. G. Cragg, a prominent merchant and ex-reeve of Dresden, was for eight years a sufferer from Inflammatory Rheumatism, aggravated by Gout. Our most skilful doctors failed to relieve him, and not till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills did he find a cure. Six boxes cured him completely. He is now attending to business every day, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

An Ex-Alderman Speaks.

Mr Jas. Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kemptville, Ont., says: "For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary trouble caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired, worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong not to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn. says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cts.

A Throbbing Heart

Is caused by wrong action of the heart, and can only be cured by correcting and regulating its working. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills do this. Here is the proof: Mr. John Griffin, St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, says: "They cured me of nervous, throbbing heart beat, dizziness and constant headache. My heart beats as steady as a clock now."

For internal or external use Hagyard's Yellow Oil cannot be excelled as a pain relieving and soothing remedy for all pain.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

This is to certify that I, James Ross, Tollgate Keeper, of the Town of Woodstock, Ont., have been a sufferer from Indigestion and a very weak stomach for a number of years, and have tried a great many medicines of different kinds, but could only obtain temporary relief for a short time, but after using one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic I could perceive a great difference. My indigestion was better and my stomach was much stronger than before, and I found I had gained several pounds in flesh, where I was weak and thin in flesh before I think I used nine or ten bottles in all, and I am now a healthy man, but still I do not want to be without the medicine in the house, and I procure one or two bottles every year, and I can truthfully recommend Sloan's Indian Tonic to others suffering from the same complaint.

Last Evening's Hop.

The Foresters' hall, Simcoe street, was made bright last evening by the presence of scores of pretty girls, on the occasion of the Young Bachelors' hop. Music was provided by the Misses Hurley and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Ashburnham Ball.

At the Albion Hotel, Ashburnham, last evening, a grand ball and luncheon was held, some forty couple being present. Sherwood Bros.' orchestra provided music, while Archie Moore was master of ceremonies. At midnight justice was done to the spread provided by Proprietor Hogan, which was a most elaborate one. The ball wound up in the early hours of the morning.

Selections from the graphaphone will also be given, the whole to conclude with Miss Alma McCallum's popular farce, "The White Cap Sisters." Admission 10c.

Worth Seeing.

The presentation at the Bradburn Opera House of the "Isle of Champagne" opera will be the musical treat of the season and should make a strong bid for public patronage. In bringing such a company to town Mr. W. H. Bradburn is put under great expense and as the prices are reasonable he should certainly be encouraged through the medium of the box office. During a week's stay at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, the same company received unlimited praise from the city dailies, so that there is no doubt existing as to its being one of the highest grade opera companies on the road. All those familiar with present day opera will recognize the names of the stars as being far above the standard and as the opera itself is bright and sparkling the attendance will no doubt be very large.

THE HIGH COURT.

Some Remarks as to the Business to be Taken up.

The official organ of the Canadian Order of Foresters contains the following reference to the annual meeting of the High Court, which opens its session in Peterborough Tuesday next:

The most important business at the High Court meeting will be to receive what is necessary to discuss, regarding the work of the year 1897, as submitted in the reports given by the High Court officers. We understand that these reports will be of a most encouraging nature. The High Secretary's office has been the scene of wonderful activity during the past year, but 1897 has been an exceptionally active one. The volume of business has increased immensely, and the expectations of the management more than realized. The reports of the High Court officers will be all aglow with facts and figures that will enthuse and rejoice the heart of every loyal member of the Order "Nothing succeeds like success," may be a truism and a somewhat hackneyed statement, but when in any enterprise it can be truthfully applied, it seems ever fresh and inspiring, and this saying will be eminently applicable to the work of Canadian Forestry in 1897.

In view of all this most desirable state of affairs, it is hoped that every representative and High Court officer will do everything they possibly can to push the good work along, and in the discussion of the business coming before them see that the spirit of brotherly kindness will be ever manifested which should always characterize the deliberations of such an assembly as the High Court meeting.

While, as in the past, we may not be able to see eye to eye, in some questions that will come up, and discussions may wax warm, let us never forget that we are men and brothers. Let us be candid, and at the same time courteous and broadminded and above all, maintain the dignity of such an important assembly.

Our brethren of the District High Court of Manitoba, British Columbia and N. W. T. have had their annual meeting, and as from other parts of our great field of operations comes the tidings of successful achievements and the joyous ring of hopefulness for still greater success during 1898.

To show that the general feeling of hopefulness for 1897 is well founded, it may be stated that the volume of new business for January, 1898, is about double that of January, 1897. It was thought that the holiday season would interfere with our business, and that there would be a slacking off for a short time, but such has not been the case, and there has been no cooling of the ardour of our workers.

In short the feeling of security, peace and hopefulness that pervades the order, the confidence manifested and so warmly expressed in so many ways by our Canadian people regarding our business, and our magnificent prospects for the year upon which we have entered should make our meeting at Peterborough the brightest and best we have ever had.

Our readers will have observed in the report of the meeting of the Executive Committee, as published in the January Forester, that there would be no amendments to the Constitution submitted at the coming High Court meeting.

We are confident that the brethren generally will rejoice with us that such is the case.

We should congratulate ourselves on the fact that there has been such a hearty response to the recommendation regarding this made by the Good and Welfare Committee at last High Court meeting.

INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BY PROF. HUTTON.

HE SPEAKS BEFORE THE MEMBERS OF THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

His Remarks are Listened to with the Closest Attention—A Vote of Thanks Moved at the Close of the Address.

Last evening Prof. Hutton, of Toronto University, lectured in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club, who are to be congratulated on the selection of a speaker who, whilst giving a most instructive address on "The Greek, the Roman, the Frenchman and the Englishman," at the same time drew so largely on a fund of dry humour as to enliven his remarks to an extent as to make them interesting to all.

The speaker opened with pointing out the strong resemblance in the general characteristics of the ancient Roman and the Englishman of the present day. The Greek and the Frenchman were also compared and their characters found to closely resemble each other, both, however, from the Roman and the Englishman in mode of living, inclinations and literature.

DIFFERING WIDELY

The Roman was very conservative. He clung to old ideas and customs to such an extent as to try and adopt his new ideas to old methods, instead of his old ideas to his new knowledge. The intense practicability of the Roman was dwelt upon, as was his fondness for wealth and his economical ideas, which latter were carried so far as to prevent him making costly sacrifices to his gods, as was then the practice amongst the nations of the earth. A wonderful instinct rather than a brilliant intellect seemed to distinguish the Romans. In their domestic lives they were healthful and austere.

The character of the Roman will be found to stand out strongly in the life of the average Englishmen of the present day. That intense practibility is observable. The Englishman believes in acts and deeds rather than expression of good intentions.

IN SPORTS

the two peoples also were alike as the English cocking main and prize fight succeeds the Roman gladitorial arena and bull fights.

Altogether different from this are the Greeks of the old Athenian type and the Frenchman. Both have a fondness for the high flown language in which the Roman and Englishman have no faith. Both pay more attention to form than to fact. In both also the intellect is developed at the expense of the moral nature. They are fond of show and display, of amusements, of being before the public view.

In conclusion Prof. Hutton contrasted the Englishman and the Frenchman of the present day. The former are superior in their solid stability of character, in practical virtue, in thrift and economy, and in being content with settled conditions. The French on the other hand excel in mental, if not moral development, and in the arts and sciences as well as in style and dress.

At the close, a warm vote of thanks to Prof. Hutton was passed on motion of Messrs. D. W. Dumble and R. M. Dennistoun. Rev. H. Symonds, who occupied the chair, characterized the address as the most instructive and educative yet delivered before the Fortnightly Club.

During the evening Miss Roger played an instrumental solo on the piano in her well known finished style.

HATCHING SPECKLED TROUT.

Thriving Little Industry in Which Citizens are Interested.

Belleville will soon have a fishery which will be a dangerous rival to Newcastle. It is situated on the C. F. Smith property along the Grand Junction railway on great St. James street, and is fed by one of the best springs in this country, the water remaining the same in temperature both winter and summer.

The industry is confined to hatching speckled trout, which will be used to stock a pond in Sidney owned by a club composed of gentlemen in Belleville. There are two thousand big beauties which will be transferred to the pond in Sidney in April. They are large healthy fellows that will come into the baskets of the sports in another year.

"ALL ABOARD" THE NEW RAILWAY.

The Contract Signed—The Details Completed—And the Work on the C. N. & P. to Begin at Once.

From Cobourg comes the gratifying news that the Cobourg, Northumberland and Pacific Railway is no longer a doubtful issue, but that every obstruction in the way of its progress has been moved, the final arrangements have been satisfactorily adjusted, and active work on the road will be proceeded with at once.

Mr. R. Mulholland went to Cobourg last week and attended a meeting of the directors of the road. There were present —Mr. R. Mulholland, President; Mr. Wm. Crossen, Vice-President; Mr. Geo. Gaillet, M. P., Secretary-Treasurer; Mr. T. B. Carlaw, of Warkworth, and Mr. W. W. Armstrong, of Campbellford.

All matters of detail were entered into and arranged, and before the meeting closed the final contract was signed by Mr. C. H. Bowen, brother of the contractor.

Now that the way is clear, the contractor says the work will be pushed without delay, and he expects to complete the road from Cobourg to the C.P.R. by the first day of November next.

A gentleman of Cobourg writes, saying that men will start to work on Monday, 21st inst., getting out ties, and that grading would be in progress within ten days. All in Cobourg, he says, appear to be well pleased with the prospects of the road going on.

It is earnestly hoped that this last move means business of the right kind. The people all along the line have been disappointed many times with promises that the promoters argued could not be broken, till now some would put no faith in the road if they saw half the work completed.

The railway will undoubtedly be a help to the country through which it passes while it is in progress of construction.

A Running Sore Pronounced Incurable by Eight Doctors—Cured by Dr. Chase.

Mr. R. D. Robbins, 148 Cowan Ave., Toronto, says:—"I had a bad leg which was simply unsightly. From below the knee to ankle was one great sore. Eight doctors treated me without benefit. I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured me and all that remained to be seen are the scars."

Boys' Two Piece Suits, short pants, heavy Canadian Tweeds, medium brown shade, coat buttoned close to the throat, pleated front, regular price $2, Grafton & Co's clearing sale price, $1.50.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

Mr. Stratton will to-day return from the northern part of the riding, where he found the prospects brighter than ever before, and will be at the Whitney meeting in the Opera House to-night.

The Mail asserts that Mr. Whitney is a "voracious reader." If he were a veracious speaker, it would be more to the point.

In North Wellington two former residents of Peterborough are candidates—Mr. John Craig and Dr. Chas. Coughlin.

The EXAMINER would like, for the sake of old times, to see both elected, but for the good of the country, is compelled to vote for Mr. Craig.

A correspondent writes to ask whether a statement made by Mr. Whitney to the effect that the Province owes the Dominion $2,000,000, is true. The point is best elucidated by the statement in Mr. Harcourt's financial statement. In dealing with the assets and surplus of the Province he subjected them to the provision "less estimated balance due the Dominion $2,000,000." Not only Mr. Whitney, but his entourage, are rather fond of exploiting this debt, but carefully omit to state that it is duly counted into Mr. Harcourt's balance sheet.

The Kingston Whig pertinently asks if Clark Wallace et al. can support Mr. Foy on his merits in South Toronto, why should not the friends of Clark Wallace support Hon. Mr. Harty in Kingston on his merits?

The Review still sticks to the political heresy that the Opposition passed all the good laws on the statute books relating to labour, agriculture, etc.

If the Opposition are so powerful in their present position, better keep them there; and the people will do that same.

Mr. Garvin asserts with a great deal of pretended indignation that the grants to railways last session of the Legislature, for which his leaders voted, were bribes.

Where is the bribe in the James Bay grant, which is intended to tap a district where there are neither elections nor voters?

The Opposition are credited with carefully arranging a "spontaneous" demonstration of enthusiasm at the Opera House to-night.

The arrangement is that the public doors of the Opera House are to be closed, and kept closed, till the hall can be "packed" by Opposition "enthusiasts," properly "instructed," who are to be admitted from the committee rooms by way of the back stairs, and then the general public will be graciously allowed to enter by the front doors.

Thus we shall have a spontaneous and enthusiastic welcome to the Opposition leader, carefully manufactured to order.

This is doubtless a sample of the way in which public opinion, and the glowing prospects of success, are manufactured.

And of the substitutes for rational argument the Opposition have to resort to.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order to bring to a head the charges and misstatements rampant about the meeting at O'Reilly's School House in Ennismore as to who was the one to begin the appeals to sectarian prejudices, Mr. Garvin or Mr. Stratton, I hereby agree to put up five dollars for prizes in a race to be called the "Garvin race," at each of the next five Ennismore picnics, if he will do the same, the loser to pay if I cannot prove to the satisfaction of any reasonable committee of men to be named at once that Mr. Garvin began the references to sectarian matters at the O'Reilly's school house meeting.

HURRAH FOR THE COLTS.

PETERBOROUGH'S YOUNG CURLERS WIN THE TANKARD.

They Played off the Finals Yesterday in the Midland District Colts Curling Association Against Campbellford, and Won by Ten Shots.

By winning from Campbellford at Norwood last night, the Peterborough boys for the fourth consecutive time have won the championship of the Midland District Colts Curling Association.

In the northern group this year Lindsay won from Norwood but lost to Peterborough and in the southern group Belleville, after winning from Kingston was beaten by Campbellford. As Cobourg and Port Hope dropped out, the championship lay between the winners of the northern and southern groups—Peterborough and Campbellford. The match was ordered to be played on neutral ice in Norwood and the Peterborough curlers were successful in winning from their old time opponents by 35 shots to 25.

The rinks were composed as follows:—

Peterborough.		Campbellford.
RINK NO. 1.
H Snowden,		E Morton,
H R H Kenner,		Geo Benor,
C N Brown,		R Lowery,
D Davidson, sk..... 18		D H Douglas, sk..... 9
RINK NO. 2.

P Ferguson,		T Tait,
E Rutherford, sk...17		F J Smith, sk.....16

Majority for Peterborough Colts—10.

The Midland District Colts Curling Association has now been in existence for four years. By winning the championship the first three seasons the Peterborough Colts became possessors of the Tankard. This year another trophy was purchased and the local curlers will have their names engraved on it. If they win it in 1899 and 1900 it will also become the property of the club for all time, as was the case with the former one.

Too much credit cannot be given the Peterborough Colts for the game fight they put up every year in the series. Trouble and expense were not spared in the efforts which were put forth, as will be apparent by the inconvertible statement that they have travelled twice as much as any two clubs in the Association through having been ordered out of town to play their games.

It has been suggested that as there is a Western Ontario Colts' Association, that Peterborough play off with the winners of that series for the Colts' Championship of Ontario. At present the finals are being played of between Stratford and St. Mary's.

Yesterday afternoon Skip D. Davidson played a friendly game with a rink of Norwood colts, which resulted as appended:

Norwood.	Peterborough.
R Patterson,	H Snowden,
J McKelvey,	C LeBrun,
M McGregor,	C N Brown,

AN IMPORTANT STOCK PURCHASE.

Mr. D. D. Henderson Introduces New Durham Blue Blood.

Mr. D.D. Henderson, Otonabee, Thursday received, by Grand Trunk Railway, a thoroughbred short horn year old bull of the best milking strain. This splendid animal was purchased from Mr. James Douglass, of the Willowbank Stock Farm, Brant county. Mr. Hendren has reason to be proud of his purchase, and it is to be hoped that his fellow-farmers in the neighborhood will show a practical appreciation of his efforts to improve the dairy herds of of the district.

1898 A PECULIAR YEAR.

Some Remarkable Instances Connected with It.

The number 1898 can be divided by 13, because 13 multiplied by 146 gives 1898. Besides the sum of the four figures in 1898, which is 26, can be divided by 13. Have any of our readers lived in a year with such a peculiar number, and will anybody ever again live in a year with these distinctions? None. The last year where the sum of the figures could be divided by 13 was 1651 and the next year that can show the same peculiarity will be the year 2119, because 2119 divided by the number 13 gives 153, and 2—1—1—9 gives 13. Besides this, the year 1898 belongs to another remarkable group of four figured numbers. If you subtract the first figure from the third, you get the same number as the second and fourth (1 from 9 equals 8). Since the birth of Christ this has only taken place 8 times, and 1898 is the ninth. These years were 1010, 1121, 1232, 1343, 1454, 1565, 1676, 1787 and 1898. The difference between two successive numbers is 111. Before the next year comes when this again takes place, there will pass 111 years plus 11 years or the same as 112 years. The next century, 1901-2000, will not include any number belonging to this group.

In short, out of the above named 9 numbers, 1898 is the only one which can be divided by 13.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough juniors went over to Lindsay last evening and played the senior team of that town, which was a little too swift for them and administered a defeat of 9 goals to 6.

Although they were unable to win the local boys report having a good game and lots of fun. They do not anticipate any difficulty in being able to reverse the score if Lindsay pl.ve a return match here.

The teams were composed as follows:

Lindsay.		Peterborough.
Trembly	goal	McWilliams
Barron	point	H Glover
Keenan	cover point	R Thorne
Travers	forwards	E Belleghem
Martin	forwards	C Graham
Parkin	forwards	H King
Callaghan	forwards	W Crossley

Referee—Dr F Walters.

A traveller, who saw the game says that there was too much playing to the gallery amongst the Peterborough forwards. It seems each of them had a fair admirer up there and consequently there was too much individual play.

LACROSSE.

Secretary W. S. A. Hartley of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, who was elected to that office last night, was the unsuccessful candidate at the last annual meeting, and when Secretary Vance's resignation was accepted at the C. L. A. Council meeting Mr. Hartley was unanimously chosen to fill out the unexpired term. The council meeting was held at the Rossin House with President J. J. Craig of Fergus in the chair. The other members present were 1st Vice-President J. D. Bailey, Past Presidents H. J. P. Good and D. A. Rose of Toronto, P. McMillan, jr., Beaverton, W. H. Hall, Markham, John A. Ross and Frank Nelson, of Toronto.

President Craig said that there was a brilliant prospect for the game throughout the country, and he expected to see the C. L. A. next season more prosperous and useful than ever. The secretary was instructed at the request of Mr. Hall to ask the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada for a decision in the case of George Glover, of Markham, who had been recommended for reinstatement, but whose case still hangs fire. The council adjourned until two weeks from to-night to prepare the business of the annual convention, which is held on Good Friday.

Monday Night's Attraction.

For perfect scenic environment, beautiful costuming, sweet singing, mirth-provoking comedy one should see "The Isle of Champagne Opera Company, which will be at the Opera House on Monday evening next. When this opera had its metropolitan run, so great was its success that it is said to have packed the theatre nightly and the box office receipts amounted to more in one night than many plays reap in a week. This season the new management is striving to outrival its former success and to that end has engaged the best talent—none other than Richard Golden and Katherine Germaine in the leading roles, each stellar lights in the theatrical firmament for several seasons. Those who witnessed this opera in New York pronounce it the most amusing and perfect production ever put on a Broadway stage, and the fact that its receipts have been exceedingly large, proves its drawing power.

Judge Harlan's Treat.

Judge Harlan is the most dignified man on the supreme bench when he is on the bench. His gigantic figure looms up above the others like a giant among pygmies. He sits next to Chief Justice Fuller, and the contrast is pronounced. When he is not in court, Justice Harlan plays golf, walks, romps with his grandchildren and his dogs and enjoys life thoroughly.

One day he delayed a street car several minutes while he and his little granddaughter drove back the dogs that were bent on following them to the depot. On the car the nurse rebuked the little girl for chewing gum. "Why, grandpa gave it to me. He chews gum, and I can do what grandpa does." "Of course you can," said the judge. "Here is enough to last you all the way to Chicago." And he took out a big package of chewing gum and tucked it away in the little girl's satchel. The other passengers smiled, and the nurse was silent. The judge and his granddaughter continued to chew gum in absolute indifference to all the rest of the street car world.—Washington Post.

HIGH-CLASS CASH TAILORS AND GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTERS.

Woman's power is largely dependent upon her ability to interest, entertain, attract and please. It is for this reason that women strive to become accomplished. They study in order that they may converse intelligently on all subjects. They strive to become good musicians, graceful dancers and amiable hostesses.

All accomplishments are unavailing if a woman suffers from ill-health in a womanly way. The special weakness peculiar to the womanly organism, will rapidly wreck the general health. The sufferer will lose her natural vivacity, her wit, her good looks, and the ambition and power to display the accomplishments at her command. Any woman affected in this way should resort to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a wonderful medicine for ailing women. It is the invention of an eminent and skillful physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. It aims to cure but one class of diseases, and claims to be good for nothing else. It imparts health, elastic strength, vigor and virility to the delicate feminine organs. It prepares a woman for wifehood and motherhood.

Mrs. Ramon Sanchez, Penasco, Taos County, N. Mex., in a letter to Dr. Pierce says: "From a grateful heart my voice goes up to God both night and day in a solemn prayer that He may guard your health and preserve your life. I hereby express my gratitude to you for the relief I have received from your wonderful medicine, 'Favorite Prescription.' After suffering years of misery I am to-day a healthy and happy wife, and can truthfully recommend to women the use of the 'Favorite Prescription' as a regulator of the monthly periods."

THE BEGGAR'S NOVEL SCHEME.

How He Saves $15 a Week by Not Shaving.

Charles Coghlan, the well known English actor, walked down Broadway late one evening and was accosted by a bright looking young man, neatly but very plainly dressed, who had about a two days' growth of beard on his face. He approached the actor in a most deferential manner and caused him to stop by the novelty of the way in which he asked for alms. The young man explained that he felt considerable diffidence in asking a gentleman to aid him in his financial distress, but Mr. Coghlan looked kind hearted, and therefore he would take the liberty to relate his troubles. He had only been in the city three days and by hard hustling had managed to secure a place to go to work the next morning. He hadn't any money to pay for his night's lodging or his breakfast. He did not care for that particularly, but he did want to go to his new place the next morning looking clean and neat. He would therefore be much obliged to Mr. Coghlan if he would kindly give him 10 cents with which to get shaved in the morning.

The story was so plausible that the actor, who is notoriously indifferent to the value of money, dipped into his trousers pocket and presented the young man with a silver dollar and went on his way. About a week afterward, while going from the Lotos club to his hotel, Mr. Coghlan was accosted by the same young man on Fifth avenue, without being recognized. He was told the same story. Desiring to learn the real inside of this new scheme, Mr. Coghlan said nothing, but invited the young man to come with him to the cafe of the Hoffman House, where after sitting down at one of the tables he remarked:

"See here, young man, you told me this same story on Broadway the other night, and I gave you $1. Now I want you to tell me all about this scheme while we have a drink."

The young man's face lighted up, and he gave vent to an uneasy laugh as he replied:

"Well, mister, the drinks are on me, as I see you are 'on' to me. I have been working this scheme for nearly two years. I came to this city broke, and in two or three days secured a position, and, desiring to look clean and neat when I went to my new employer the next day, the idea came to me to ask a passerby to give me money enough to get shaved in the morning. The gentleman gave me 50 cents, and the idea struck me that if I could make money as easily as that I would be a fool to go to work all day in a store for $8 or $10 a week. So I kept it up and manage to pick up anywhere from $25 to $30 a week. I live in a boarding house where I pay $8 a week for my board and have a few dollars for clothes and spending money.

"I have saved on the average for the last 18 months $15 a week. If I can keep this up a few months longer, I am going off into some small city and start myself in some little business in which I can make a living."

"But do you never get shaved?" asked the actor. "How do you always keep two days' growth of beard on your face?"

"Oh, that's easy enough," replied the young man, with a grin. "I shave with a barber's hair clipper."

Mr. Coghlan acknowledged the corn and paid for the drinks.

It would be too bad to allow this young man to part with any of his ingeniously acquired money.—New York Telegram.

Electricity.

It has been said that if man thoroughly comprehended the powers and possibilities of electricity he might almost hope to become immortal. Electricity gathers, forms and crystallizes the elements of life, while it also furnishes the material upon which much of our life depends. It can be used to destroy disease germs and remove injurious ingredients of all sorts. Among its varied uses is that of cleansing or clarifying the sirup prepared for sugar making. A certain voltage evaporates the water in the sirup and clears it better than any known chemical substance. Passing an electric current through a solution of salt forms caustic soda and muriatic acid. Electricity is a more powerful agent in separating chemical elements than any now in use and has the additional advantage of not introducing a new compound in the work. Heat from an electric furnace surpasses that obtained from coal. It is clean, manageable and will some day be so economical that it will supersede all other means of heating. As an illuminating agent it is successful beyond the wildest dreams of its inventors. Electricity enters into almost all of the processes of human existence. It is scarcely too much to say that our heating, lighting, transportation, chemical laboratories and food products will within a few years be entirely revolutionized by this new power.—New York Ledger.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

A young woman in Detroit, while enjoying a bicycle ride on Belle Isle, was much annoyed by a "masher" on a wheel, who persisted in attempting to engage her in conversation. Slackening her speed, she suddenly dismounted, and, leaning over her wheel, began to examine one of the pedals. He was off his machine in an instant. "Allow me to assist you," said he. She said nothing, but releasing her wheel to him took his to hold, while he went down on his knees to the offending pedal. He was no sooner on his marrows, with his face to the ground, than she deftly extracted a hatpin and inserted the point into the rear tire of his wheel. By the time he had discovered there was absolutely nothing wrong with the pedal and that it was working as smoothly as mechanical skill and bicycle oil could make it the hatpin was resting inoffensively in its proper place. As she whirled merrily out the avenue a would be masher stood by his bicycle with a tire as flat as the proverbial pancake.—Exchange.

His Present.

"What do you think? My wife's father told me before we got married that he would give me a handsome present on our wedding day."

"And didn't he?"

"Well, I waited over a week, and as he didn't mention the subject I asked him for it, and all he said was, 'Why, didn't I give you my daughter?'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

An English paper says that Florence Nightingale "received her Christian name from the town in which she was born—Florence, Italy. Her name is not Nightingale, but Shore, her father being a Nottingham banker who inherited the estates of Peter Nightingale on condition that he assume the name."

DOAN'S Kidney Pills.

PAIN IN THE BACK AND CRAMPS IN THE LEGS.

Mr. H. Shephard, T. S. R. Conductor No. 885, 15 Bellair Street, Toronto, says: "About fifteen months ago I began to have a pain across the small of my back and under my heart, which, until I commenced the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, daily grew worse. For a long time the pain in my back was so severe that I could hardly turn in my bed or arise therefrom. I was much troubled with dizziness and constant and severe cramps in my legs. My urine was red color, with sandy sediment and scalding sensation in passing. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I procured a box and had not taken half of them before I experienced marked relief and my improvement was constant until my complete cure. It took just two boxes to cure me of all my pain and troubles, and I am confident that Doan's Kidney Pills, which worked such a perfect cure in my case, are the thing for anyone troubled as I was."

Sold by druggists at 50c. a box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

THE STORY OF MAN.

IT IS TOLD BY HIS BONES, THE TOOLS HE USED AND HIS MONUMENTS.

The Varied Sciences Which Aid the Student Who Examines Them—There Are Ologies That Must Be Studied and Their Principles Applied to Things Discovered.

Man leaves behind him when he dies his bones, his tools and his monuments, and these are the things from which have been derived all the items of our knowledge of him and his progress up to the time when he learned to write. And even in the historic age the story would be much less complete but for his inscriptions, his art and his relics.

Bones are of the greatest importance, for oftentimes man has left no other tokens of his existence behind him. The first study, therefore, to the archeologist is that of the comparative anatomy of the human race. It is necessary to distinguish human bones from those of animals, to study racial characters and to determine the sex. Skulls must be studied with the greatest minuteness, for in them lie some of the most important evidences of origin and progress. It is desirable also to study the animals, for the bones of men are often found intermingled with those of the animals that he had slain or that have conquered him, and in the cases where the animal is one now extinct a guess at the antiquity of man's relics may be made.

The tools which served in the rude arts of early man were first of stone, roughly fashioned to the needs of the work, and later of metal. Mineralogy is therefore an important study to the archeologist. The stone relics furnish a rough index to the amount of civilization; they indicate in a crude way the extent of intercommunication; they show how new ideas came to the races; they serve in a manner to distinguish between different grades of antiquity, and in many ways they are important. The mineralogist who finds copper nuggets in the graves of North Caroline prehistoric Indians knows that these men had some manner of communication with the great lakes.

A knowledge of zoology is requisite also. The presence of the horseshoe crab in legends and traditions of the tribes of our arid west could have been guessed at only by one with acute perception, and the finding of one of the shells as a fetich of one of the tribes was a bright exploit. It was evident that this relic had made its journey from hand to hand over 2,000 or 3,000 miles of country at a time when it was exceedingly wild.

Then there are the shell ornaments. The present craze for the river pearl is no new thing. As far back as there is any evidence of the preferences of man the lustrous river shells have been attractive to him, and the distribution of them has been exceedingly wide.

Then there is the pottery. Here one must study the beginnings of the useful arts. He must know how the pots are made, how in lieu or in advance of the potter's wheel the aborigines had a number of ingenious ways of revolving the vessel, how with fingers and combs and a hundred other implements the primitive decoration was incised and how with clays and ores of iron the first crude colors were made wherewith to paint the earthenware. This study of old pots is exceedingly interesting and of the highest importance. The materials are imperishable, and, while the vessels in a whole condition are rare, the fragments indicate the more important elements in the story. In the shapes of the vessels there is rudimentary art in form, while in the decoration there are the beginnings of painting and sculpture. In the painted or incised figures there is the key to relationships in tribes, races and religions.

Closely allied is the art of carving, the finishing and ornamenting of tools and implements. And there are besides the textiles, and, although the primitive loom is an extremely simple affair, which the savage nations have evolved or copied into very similar forms, still the materials employed and the patterns yield much information about the ancestry and affinities of ancient man.

No word is necessary to uphold the importance of the monuments when, lacking the forerunners of paper, the ancients recorded their history in cut or painted monuments. Egypt, Assyria and Central America, each in a different way, show the value of the close study of the monuments, and the stories of these countries would have lacked the greater part of their interest had the testimony of walls and obelisks and the magnificent sculptures been withheld.

Languages form an exceedingly important part of the preparation of the archeologist. Of course he must know the modern ones to keep abreast of the world's progress in research, the announcements being made in any one of the important living tongues. But comparative philology is equally necessary, for it may serve to give the key to the relationships of one set of characters with another.

After these matters are all in hand there is geology to be studied, both theoretical and practical. From such knowledge is derived our estimate of man's occupation of the earth, and the value of the evidence may be made or marred by a single slip or unscientific action. The whole story of man's early residence in New Jersey is dependent upon the position of certain bits of worked stone in certain banks of dirt.—Boston Transcript.

STAGE REALISM.

A Series of Exciting Incidents That Were Not on the Bill.

Several unrehearsed and highly exciting incidents occurred at the initial production of "The Prairie King" at the Lyceum theater, Sydney. The play is one of the wild west order and is full of sensationalism, which the management sought to make more intense by the introduction of a "real" water scene and a collapsible bridge effect. A mischance began just before the last beat of the drum in the overture, when a canvas tank, which fills so many functions during the performance, burst and the water escaping into the magazine below the stage the management had to send an apologist to crave the indulgence of the audience while repairs were being effected.

The performance crawled along somewhat sadly, as if the escaping water had washed the heart out of the actors, until it was known that the tank had been refilled. Each member of the company then played up to the great abduction scene in the second act. The part of the heroine was filled by Miss Maud Williamson. Her final escape was to have been made across the unlucky tank, and up to this point all seemed to be going off admirably. An Indian warwhoop rang through the theater, and the heroine was dragged shrieking across the stage, and finally flitted breathlessly into a canoe moored to the side of the tank. Then came a mighty splash, the canoe having capsized. Miss Williamson fell head over heels into the tank.

The audience was appreciative of the realism of the situation, for it did not know that Miss Williamson had been caught in the canoe and was in most imminent risk of being drowned. Some of the performers kept the play going, but Mr. King Hedley and some stage hands groped anxiously and unsuccessfully for the leading lady. Then the curtain was rapidly rung down, and a fireman and a stage hand plunged in to the rescue of the distressed heroine in real earnest.

Exactly how long she was submerged cannot be said, but when pulled out from beneath the canoe she was unconscious. Though the shock was considerable Miss Williamson insisted upon reappearing, and the audience, which had by this time become acquainted with her mishap, received her with rapturous cheering.

Then there followed a hitch in the bridge scene through Mr. King Hedley's alleged mustang refusing to face the risk of plumping down into the tank. The star, however, seized the untried horse and forced him at the bridge, which collapsed exactly at the right moment and let him down with a huge splash into the tank. The play was thus converted by sheer courage and quick wittedness from a threatened failure into a huge success.—Melbourne Argus.

Napoleon at Elba.

Notwithstanding his apparent affability toward the Elbans, intended, we must believe, rather to mislead outsiders than the people themselves, Napoleon was not popular in the island. Being in continual want of money, he was obliged to tax the people beyond their resources, and they naturally saw clearly that, whatever he might say and however condescending he might show himself, the money he drew from them was by no manner of means applied to the improvement of their position. His tax gatherers were insulted. Riots took place in the very churches when the priests gave out the date by which the taxes were to be sent in. In one village troops were billeted on the inhabitants until the last penny should be paid. The cries of "Vive l'empereur!" which had originally greeted him on his various expeditions ceased to be heard.

Before matters reached a veritable climax, however, Napoleon had played out his part and had left the island in which he had landed with so many fine promises. He had shown himself a clever actor, a skillful intriguer to the outside world of European diplomacy; debauched, tyrannical and exacting to the inner Elban world, into which foreign diplomats could pry with difficulty. In his vices, in his astuteness, in his ambition, Napoleon, as he revealed himself in the island of Elba, moves backward through history and takes his place beside the Borgia, the Orsini, the Medici of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.—Good Words.

A California Wedding in the Old Time.

It is said the Californians are born on horseback. It may also be said they are married on horseback. The day the marriage contract is agreed on between the parties the bridegroom's first care is to buy or borrow the best horse to be found in the vicinity. At the same time he has to get by one of these means a silver mounted bridle and a saddle with embroidered housings. This saddle must have also at its stern a bridal pillion, with broad aprons flowing down the flanks of the horse. These aprons are also embroidered with silk of different colors and with gold and silver thread. Around the margin runs a string of little steel plates, alternated with slight pendants of the same metal. These, as the horse moves, jingle like a thousand mimic bells.

The bride also comes in for her share in these nuptial preparations. The bridegroom must present her with at least six entire changes of raiment nor forget, through any sentiment of delicacy, even the chemise. Such an oversight might frustrate all his hopes, as it would be construed into a personal indifference—the last kind of indifference which a California lady will forgive. He therefore hunts this article with as much solicitude as the peri the gift that was to unlock paradise. Having found six which are neither too full nor too slender, he packs them in rose leaves and sends them to his lady as his last bridal present. She might naturally expect him to come next.—Rev. Walter Cotton in "The Land of Sunshine."

A MODERN ROMANCE.

A Little London Young Woman of 21 Who Never Knew Her Mother Now Asked for by Her.

London, Ont., Feb. 18.—Tuesday morning of this week City Clerk Kingston received a letter which revealed a romance stranger in many respects than fiction. The letter was from a woman who is a resident of California. She asked that the Clerk deliver a letter at a certain house in the East End. The letter explained that her daughter would be found at this house. The girl was a child of misfortune and the unhappy mother left here in disgrace. She never saw the child from that day to this. The woman states that after leaving here she married. Her husband died, and she is married again. She never had but the one child, and now that she is wealthy, her husband owning a large otange grove in California, on which they reside, she is anxious to have an heir to whom to leave the property. She does not ask the foster parents to give up the child, but she begs that her daughter may be allowed to write to her.

The party in the East End were located and the old folks were at time. They are poor and almost in want, but are thoroughly honest people. The City Clerk was told by them that the daughter, who is now 22 years of age, is married and has a little child. With tears in their eyes the old couple explained that the young woman to this day did not know they were not her parents. They consented, however, to break the news to her. Wednesday the young woman called at the City Clerk's office with her foster father. Her eyes were red with weeping, and when she was handed the letter written by the City Clerk, she scanned its contents with intense eagerness and gazed with wondering eyes at the photograph of her mother, whom she had never known. The scene was altogether a paint one.

The daughter prom eal to write to her now-found mother, and gave the Clerk a recent photograph of herself and her foster-mother.

C. P. R. Cuts Grain Rates.

Montreal, Feb. 18.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has made a cut in grain rates from Duluth to the Atlantic seaboard. The Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, one of the Canadian Pacific lines, has announced a rate of 28 cents on grain, flour and millstuffs. Freight Traffic Manager Bosworth stated yesterday morning that this rate is made on a basis of the present rate of 17 cents from Chicago to Boston, together with the rate of 6 cents from Minneapolis to Chicago. There is a weakness, at present, in rates out of Chicago, and the Canadian Pacific, having ascertained to their satisfaction that grain and flour rates out of Chicago to the east are being cut at least 5 cents, took the necessary step to protect itself. That is to say, the C.P.R. is now carrying grain stuffs to the seaboard for 15 cents per hundred pounds, a rate secretly adopted by some of the American lines a week or so ago.

Gibbon Has Lots of Nerve.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—James Gibbon is a big fellow, 35 years of age, who lives in Erin township, and he has got lots of nerve. He was operating a straw-cutting machine when his left sleeve caught in a revolving saw and his right arm was drawn into the machinery and was badly crushed, the bone near the elbow being completely severed and the ligaments and tendons were also cut. Gibbon was attended by local doctors and sent to the General Hospital here, where he pluckily submitted to the operation necessary to have his arm repaired. His injury is serious, but he will recover.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO-FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

APPROVES THE BILL.

Major Samuel Hughes on the Yukon Railway.

THE CONSERVATIVE POLICY.

He Replies to the Opposition Criticisms—Mr. Russell's Arguments—Rights of Navigation Under the Washington Treaty—Introduction of Private Bills—Features of the Yukon Debate.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Yesterday the Yukon bill was discussed for six hours more, and two of the speeches were notable ones. Major Hughes, from his seat on the Opposition side of the House, delivered a strong address supporting the bill in every particular, and cleverly refuting the criticisms of the Opposition speakers. Mr. Russell, the learned member for Halifax, dealt exhaustively and clearly with the international aspect of the agreement, showing that, although Canadian rights had undoubtedly been united by the Washington treaty, it was still likely that British rights to the navigation of the Stikine as secured by the Anglo-Russian treaty could be claimed. Last evening the attendance of members was exceedingly small, owing to Mr. Hardy's great meeting. Mr. McInerney spoke for over two hours to an almost empty House, criticizing nearly every feature of the bill. He made the record-breaking estimate that Messrs. McKenzie and Mann would clear on the timber limits in their land grant a profit of $400,000,000. The adjournment of the debate was moved by Mr. McClure of Colchester.

Private Bills Introduced.

The following private bills were introduced into the House yesterday:

Hudson Bay and Pacific Railway Company—Mr. Davies.

To incorporate the Lewis River Tramway Company—Mr. Morrison.

To amend the charter of the Union Bank of Canada—Mr. Belcourt.

To incorporate the Ontario & Quebec Bridge Company—Mr. Belcourt.

To incorporate the Kettle River Valley Railway Company—Mr. Bostock.

To incorporate the Canyon Railway Company—Mr. Britton.

MAJOR SAMUEL HUGHES.

Announces Himself to Be a Supporter of the Government in the McKenzie-Mann Arrangement.

When Major Hughes rose to speak there was an ominous silence on the Opposition side of the House. This impelled the Liberals to cheer, and they gave the member for Victoria an ovation such as he never received from his own friends. He began by expressing the embarrassment he felt at being obliged to differ from the leader of the Conservative party in the House on the Yukon Railway question. He gave utterance to the hope that his fellow-Conservatives, after some amendments had been made, would see their way clear to return to the old Conservative policy of Sir John Macdonald, which, he was pleased to see, had been adopted almost entirely throughout the contract with Messrs. Mann and McKenzie. This, he declared, was but another instance of the Liberals donning the clothes of the old Conservative party. The policy of Sir John Macdonald when the C.P.R. was constructed was clear and distinct; the policy of the leader of the present Government was also well marked. The Government had wisely adopted an all-Canadian route. The only fault he had to find was that they did not immediately start from a Canadian seaport and build the entire road on Canadian soil. He was opposed to the construction of Canadian roads with American termini Portland, Maine, had been built up in the east by Canadian traffic, yet never in Portland nor Boston had the Canadian farmer or manufacturer any commercial opportunities. "I for one," said the Major, amid Ministerial applause, "am determined to support the bill, even if there may be objectionable features in it of a minor character. I propose to support it on the ground of its being an all-Canadian route." Mr Hughes then took up in turn the principal objections urged by Opposition speakers against the measure and answered them. As to there being a monopoly of rates, he pointed out that under the contract the Privy Council has the right to determine what transportation charges shall be imposed by the company, and that in this the Government had but followed the Conservative policy laid down years ago. He was, he said, prepared to trust the Government to fix these rates, and he had no fear that the interests of the users of the road would be sacrificed. Another objection answered was that there was a monopoly, inasmuch as no railway might be constructed from any foreign port along those shores. This provision, Mr Hughes said, was the true essence of Canadian national sentiment Whatever other objection there might be to the contract, he was satisfied that no Canadian business man, statesman or patriot would object to it on that score. He was surprised when he heard the suggestion made in the debate that the road should have been run from Juneau or Dyea, the result of which would have been to build up American seaports, to the disadvantage of Canada.

Discussing the land grant, the Major admitted that the acreage was extensive, but when it was considered what did it amount to? Mr. Ogilvie had estimated that there are 150,000 square miles of gold-bearing land in the Yukon district. Of this but 3,750,000 acres were granted, or one block out of 26. Another feature of the case to be remembered was that five-sixths of the grant would be valueless for the purpose of placer mining. He had no doubt that the contractors would much prefer to have had 5,000 square miles in three-mile blocks of their own selection than 320 blocks each eighteen miles square. The greater portion of the land would be almost useless. In dealing with the criticism that tenders were not called for, he said that undoubtedly the policy of the Conservative party was to call for tenders, but this policy had not been followed when the Calgary & Edmonton and the Regina & Long Lake roads were constructed, nor in connection with the C.P.R. If any excuse could ever be made for not inviting tenders the present was an instance. There was the essence of the contract. He was on the coast when the arrangement was effected, and he found the agents of American outfitting houses at Vancouver and Victoria urging people to go to Seattle to outfit, that they might escape the onerous customs regulations then enforced by the United States. The policy of the Conservative party had been adhered to by the present Government. It had been said that the contract was a surrender by the Government to the company. It was, the Major declared, exactly the reverse. The Government had refused to surrender the seaports of Canada, but had insisted that Canadians should have their just share of the Yukon trade, and that the Americans must take second place. Major Hughes expressed his gratification that members of the Conservative party had not descended to the policy, too often adopted by the previous Opposition, of assisting foreigners to discover any weakness in the case of Canada when a question arose between this country and the United States.

Sir Louis Davies remarked that there were one or two notable exceptions.

Major Hughes dealt with the contention put forth by Mr. Haggart that Canadian vessels cannot transship at Wrangel without paying duty. Wrangel, the Major said, was not the only port. In case the United States Government refused to allow Canadian cargoes to be transshipped at Wrangel, transshipment could take place at Port Simpson.

As to the criticism of the Opposition, some of them showed that they had not read the contract; they had been carried away by the headings in some of the newspapers, and certain persons thought they saw in the position of Sir Charles Tupper an opportunity of taking his political head off. (Laughter and cheers.) Mr. Hughes expressed his hope that Sir Charles Tupper would long be spared to display to the House and to the nation the intellectual and political vigor which he had shown this season, a statement which was greeted with loud and long cheers from both sides of the House, and Sir Charles, veteran statesman as he is, looked as pleased at this tribute as if he had just completed his maiden speech. When the applause had subsided the Major continued, "and if he is to fall I trust he will fall in a different way from throat-cutting." (Laughter and cheers.) Major Hughes illustrated the throat-cutting with a gesture of great eloquence. After speaking of the great risks which the contractors were taking and the enormous cost of constructing a road in a country where men could get $16 a day for digging sand, Major Hughes suggested that the Government should adopt an alien regulation in regard to miners similar to that in force in the United States. He trusted that the present Opposition would not adopt the policy of the late Opposition of factiously criticising every Government measure. That policy kept the Liberals in Opposition longer than any other influence. They would have remained in Opposition until the resurrection, and he did not believe they would have got into power then, had it not been for dissensions in the Conservative ranks. When Major Hughes resumed his seat he was heartily applauded by Ministerialists and Opposition alike.

Mr. Casgrain said if he were a greater enemy of the Government and not such a good friend of Col. Hughes as he was, he might suggest that the Government should take the Colonel over to their side. They would find him so troublesome that they would soon be glad to get rid of him. (Laughter.) Dealing with the contract Mr. Casgrain pointed out that there was no guarantee required for the construction of the sleigh road. There was also uncertainty as to when the railway should be regarded as finished, in order to entitle the contractors to secure a refund of their deposit. The action of the Government in discrediting the report of their engineer, Mr. Jennings, was most extraordinary. The bonding privileges were of a sweeping nature, and England would enable the contractors to raise all the money they wanted to build the line without investing one dollar of their own money. Referring to the sleigh road which McKenzie and Mann will build, Mr. Casgrain ventured the assertion that the tolls they would collect on it would more than compensate them for their outlay. The railway charter gave them power to build roads wherever they chose in the Klondike district, and altogether the obligations they assumed were out of proportion to the enormous present given to them by the Government.

Dr. Russell (Liberal, Halifax) replied. He read at length from Sumner to show that the United States' contention was favorable to our use of the lower stretches of the Alaskan rivers for all purposes of navigation.

Resuming his discussion after dinner, Dr. Russell contended that, while the view that the rights given to Britain under the Russian treaty still inured to us was probably untenable, still it should not be given up without a struggle.

After a long argument in this line, he was asked by Mr. Borden what difference, for commercial purposes, did he see in the terms of the Russian treaty and those of the treaty of Washington.

"For purposes of commerce," replied Dr. Russell, "I don't think there is much difference, but that the Washington treaty is as good as the treaty of St. Petersburg. But for sending in Mounted Police or conveying prisoners, there was a great and alarming difference."

"Then," observed an honorable member, "it does not affect the railway after all."

Mr. McInerney, the handsome New Brunswick member, followed in a speech which was chiefly interesting because it elicited from Mr. Russell the fact that Peter Martin was landed on the Alaska shore on his way down the Stikine, and that was the only reason why the British authorities gave him up. Mr. McInerney stated that the contention of the supporters of the bill, that the provision that any five miners could appoint a registrar would prevent the company's prospectors having an advantage over others, was not well founded, because that provision only applied when there was no registry office within 100 miles.

Mr. McClure moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned at 11.20.

WIDE-AWAKE LIBERAL OTTAWA GOVERNMENT.

LOOKS OUT FOR THE PEOPLE.

A Million and a Half for the Trent Valley Canal.

HON. A. G. BLAIR.
Minister of Railways and Canals.

The Dominion Government are carrying out their pledges to construct the Trent Valley Canal, as the following letter will abundantly prove :

OFFICE OF
The Minister of Railways and Canals
Ottawa, 12th Feb., 1898.

DEAR MR BIGGAR:
I think we are making a very substantial increase this year, as you will observe when the estimates come down, in connection with the Trent Valley Canal work. We are doubling the amount which was last year appropriated for this purpose.

Yours faithfully,
ANDREW G. BLAIR.

W. H. BIGGAR,
Belleville, Ont.

We have also the voluntary promise of the Minister of Railways and Canals that he would carry on the work as it should have been, beginning at Trenton and progressing till finished. This being the case Trenton should not commit suicide in electing an opponent of the Government. Ten men from Trenton, in the Ontario Legislature could not atone for the injury an adverse vote might do on so critical an occasion. Better for Mayor Morrison's own pocket to be beaten a hundred times, than jeopardise the Canal prospects.—Trenton Courier.

WALLACEBURG, ONT.—The following letter will prove of interest to working men and others who may be in a condition similar to that of the writer:

"For three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I have been working at the barber trade for about 20 years and for the last four years I have been very closely confined and have had my meals very irregularly. I was taken with a

Very Severe Cough

and the doctors said it was caused by my stomach troubles. I lost flesh and became so weak I was hardly able to stand up to the chair to work. One day I happened to be looking over some testimonial letters and I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before I had taken two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt finely and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I have taken nearly five bottles and now I feel like a man again. I am than I have ever been in my life. My wife and children have also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a blood medicine and realized much benefit from it. As for myself I cannot say too much for it. I firmly believe that if it had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla I would not have been able to work at my trade any longer." JOHN W. COUGHLIN. Get only HOOD'S.

Stronger and Healthier

HAUL DOWN THE BRITISH FLAG.

Demand Refused, as Made by a Foreign Power.

SUCH IS THE NEWS FROM AFRICA

The Imperial Parliament Hears the News of French Aggressiveness With Some Excitement, Passes the Address in Reply, and Then Adjourns—Some Strong Comments—Cable News.

London, Feb. 19.—In the House of Commons last evening, the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, replying to a question by Sir Charles Dilke, Radical member for the Forest of Dean, with reference to the grave news from West Africa, said he would read the telegrams received, leaving the House to judge of their importance. He said:

"I received to-night this telegram from the Governor of Borrea (or Boria) a place in the Lagos Hinterland, occupied by the Bousse Guard on February 6. On February 9th 80 Senegalese, probably from Nikki, arrived at Borrea under orders to occupy it. They ordered the non-commissioned officers to haul down the British flag. The demand was refused, as made by a foreign power, whereupon the Senegalese retired and pitched their camp about three miles from the town.

Also From Gold Coast.

"I have also received this evening, through the Acting Governor of the Gold Coast, a telegram from Major Northcote, who is in the Gold Coast Hinterland. It runs thus:

"'I regret to inform you that the French have established a post at Wae, consisting of subaltern officers and about 80 native soldiers. M. Codrenier, whom I believe to be a lieutenant, though I have not yet ascertained his rank, accompanied by Captain Minola, two lieutenants and 64 native soldiers, arrived at Vasse on February 1st, and tried to establish a post. I despatched Major Fortescue to protest against passing by this point, and suggested a conference at Wae. Despite my protest, he advanced. After protests in the usual form between both parties, M. Godronier left for Leo to-day, leaving behind the above mentioned post unmolested.'"

Dr. Tanner, anti-Parnellite member for Mid-Cork, exclaimed: "Vive La France!"

Speaker Gully called him to order.

The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was then agreed to and the House adjourned amid considerable excitement.

Steddard's Strong Editorial.

London, Feb. 19.—The Standard this morning, commenting editorially on the news from West Africa, says:

"The despatches read by Mr. Chamberlain are of the very gravest importance. A French officer has established with a large force, a station at a place we regard as within our sphere. It must be recognized that the time has arrived to face the situation. The prospect is serious, but no English Cabinet can venture to purchase peace by abandoning what is considered an unimpeachable right."

KOTZE DELINES TO GO.

Will Not Except His Discharge From President Kruger.

Pretoria, Feb. 19.—Ex-Judge Kotze, who was dismissed from office for protesting against the relations between the executive and judiciary in connection with a law passed a year ago, has written to President Kruger declaring that he still regards himself as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the South African Republic. He disputes the President's power to dismiss him, and quotes various laws in support of his contention. President Kruger replied to the letter reiterating the dismissal.

It Has Caused Alarm.

London, Feb. 19.—A despatch from Cape Town to the Daily Mail says that the dismissal of Chief Justice Kotze has caused alarm and apprehension throughout South Africa, irrespective of political or racial feeling excepting the Hollander clique. The administration of justice in the Transvaal is generally regarded as having been reduced to a farce. Some persons contend that the suzerain power ought to interveno on the ground that the grave scandal is a danger to British interests.

Fresh Turkey Troops for Thessaly.

London, Feb. 19.—A despatch to the Standard from Constantinople says that 12,000 fresh troops have been ordered to reinforce the Ottoman garrisons in Thessaly. The despatch adds that the Ministry of War is active in all directions.

HEALTH LOST AND FOUND.

THE STORY OF A YOUNG BOY'S TRIALS.

Was Growing too Rapidly and His Health Gave Way—Several Months Doctoring Did Him no Good—His Parents Almost Discouraged.

From the Nepanee Beaver.

It is truly pitiable to see boys just beginning to realize the possibilities of life, stricken down with disease, the escape from which is sometimes thought to be little short of a miracle. Hearing of such a case a reporter called on Mr. J. J. Smith, living near Fredericksburg Station, in Lennox Co., and interviewed him regarding the cure of his son, who was in bad health, and regained it by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Smith is one of the oldest residents in the locality, of direct U.E. Loyalist descent, and has resided all his life on the farm on which he lives. He is consequently well known throughout the district. In reply to the scribe's query he gave the details of the case. "My son, Stanley, was taken sick about the first of February, 1895. He became very deaf and had a dull constant pain in his head. He grew very weak, such a condition being more properly described by the term "general muscular weakness." He was troubled with severe pain in the back and had no appetite, continuing to steadily grow weaker and finally lost all ambition. He had little more colour in him than a bit of white paper. A physician was consulted on the first appearance of the trouble. He carefully examined the case stating that the hearing was affected by catarrhal deafness, the pains in the back originating from muscular rheumatism and the constant tired feeling and general weakness was caused by over growth. These difficulties together with the after effects of la grippe left him a physical wreck. He had the benefit of careful medical attention for four months. The doctor had carefully treated him for the deafness, and succeeded in restoring his hearing, but in other respects he was no better. He ordered that he should be carefully nursed, which was about all that could be done. To make matters more clearly understood I might say he was at this time past twelve years of age, having grown very fast, was large enough for one six years his senior. The doctor said medicine could not benefit him, and all that could be done must come by nursing. We naturally felt greatly discouraged at the prospect, not knowing what course to pursue in the future. At this juncture one of the druggists of Napanee, who had previously compounded many prescriptions, recommended a trial of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was then the first of June when we bought three boxes and commenced the treatment with the Pills. When he had finished the second box his appetite, previously fickle and unsteady had been wonderfully improved. He continued taking the pills until seven boxes had been used. His strength returned with renewed vigour, and all signs of muscular rheumatism had vanished and he steadily regained a strong, healthy colour, and was able to do considerable light work in the harvest field, such as riding the mower, reaper or horse-rake. He has since attended school regularly and, though a year has elapsed, he has had no symptoms." Mrs. Smith, spoken to about the matter, readily concurred in all that had been said relative to her son's case, and was very decided in her views regarding the health-giving properties contained in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams's Pink Pills are a blood builder and nerve restorer. They supply the blood with its life and health-giving properties, thus driving disease from the system. There are numerous pink coloured imitations, against which the public is warned. The genuine Pink Pills can be had only in boxes the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams's Pink Pills for Pale People." Refuse all others.

Continued Success.

Continued success means sterling merit. Norway Pine Syrup has sterling merit—hence its continued success. It cures coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness sore throat and all throat and lung troubles.

Paine's Celery Compound Prove a Wondrous Blessing.

Miss Parr says: "After the First Dose I Felt New Hope and New Life Coming."

Nervous Prostration, Mental Depression, and Excruciating Sufferings Are Banished.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND THE GREAT LIFE BUILDER AND VITALIZER.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

DEAR SIRS:—For several years I have had weak nerves, and was gradually running down, and last March was prostrated with nervous debility. My sufferings were excruciating in the extreme; I really thought there never was another who suffered quite as much with mental depression and weak nerves. This lasted about three months, and I was taking doctors' medicine continually, but was getting worse instead of better.

One day, while feeling quite discouraged and wondering if I was ever to get out of my dreadful state, a dear friend said to me, "I wish you would try Paine's Celery Compound." As I had intended to try it I acted upon her advice and started using it the very same day, and from the first dose I felt new hope and new life coming. I continued using it, and am still taking it once in a while, always asking God's blessing on each bottle. I am very much improved, and cannot say too much in favour of the medicine, and would recommend it to all suffering from nervous prostration and mental depression.

Yours faithfully,

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

"THOUGHT MY HEAD WOULD BURST."

A Fredericton Lady's Terrible Suffering.

Mrs. Geo. Doherty tells the following remarkable story of relief from suffering and restoration to health, which should clear away all doubts as to the efficacy of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills from the minds of the most skeptical:

"For several years I have been a constant sufferer from nervous headache, and the pain was so intense that sometimes I was almost crazy. I really thought that my head would burst. I consulted a number of physicians, and took many remedies, but without effect. I noticed Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, and as they seemed to suit my case, I got a box and began their use. Before taking them I was very weak and debilitated, and would sometimes wake out of my sleep with a distressed, smothering feeling, and I was frequently seized with agonizing pains in the region of the heart, and often could scarcely muster up courage to keep up the struggle for life. In this wretched condition Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills came to the rescue, and to-day I state, with gratitude, that I am vigorous and strong, and all this improvement is due to this wonderful remedy. I fully realize that these marvellous pills are not transitory in their action, but a permanent cure, for they have toned up my nervous system, nourished my blood, and regulated the action of my heart, and restored my long lost health completely."

IT WAS AN ACCIDENT.

No Indication of Design in the Maine Disaster.

DENIAL BY SECRETARY LONG.

He Authorizes the Issue of a Most Reassuring Statement—There Was No Secret Meeting of the Cabinet—

A Concurrent Investigation Into the Cause of the Calamity.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The feature of yesterday at the Navy Department was the large number of rumors of a warlike tendency that came to the attention of the officials as requiring attention, and in every case contradicted. So formidable has grown the disaster that at the close of office hours Secretary Long was induced to make the following statement as the easiest manner of disposing at one time of all these stories:

Must Have Been Accidental.

"Really no information has been received since Captain Sigsbee's first despatch adding to our knowledge of the disaster. All we know is that the Maine blew up There is abundant room for speculation of all sorts, but no conclusion can be arrived at until an examination has been made by the divers and more facts obtained. It is a simple fact to say that such a thing might happen by design or it might happen by accident, as yet there is no indication of design. Therefore, my impression has been all along, and I rather think that the general opinion preponderate in the same direction, that it must have been accidental.

No Secret Meeting of the Cabinet.

"You may say absolutely that there has been no secret Cabinet meeting, that nothing has taken place in the Cabinet that the public have not been informed about; that the whole policy of this department has been to give the public all the despatches; that the department has no more knowledge on the subject of the cause of the disaster or even the circumstances attending it than have the public, and that the report which was to the effect that Captain Sigsbee had warned the department that the Maine was in danger from submarine mines or torpedoes is utterly without foundation, no such report ever having been received from him or from anybody else."

Regarding the Vizcaya.

The Secretary also denied briefly and comprehensively wild rumors that he had requested the Chief of Police of New York to guard the Vizcaya, and that he had selected Constructor Bowles to go to Havana and raise the Maine.

A Concurrent Investigation.

While no decision has yet been reached formally upon the application of the Spanish Government for authorization to examine the wreck of the Maine to ascertain the cause of the explosion, the officials seem to be inclined to regard her request as one that could not properly be refused and it is likely that each government, will make an investigation concurrently.

SAYS HE SAW A TORPEDO.

A "Maine" Sailor's Sensational Story Refuted by an Officer.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 19.—One of the maimed sailors who was taken to the Marine Hospital last night, out of gratitude for the treatment and careful nursing received from the surgeon and attendants, has broken the seal of silence enjoined by his superior officers before leaving Havana, and says he was on watch on the forward deck shortly before the explosion occurred. While looking over the Maine's bow into the dark waters of the bay he saw a black object slowly coming towards the vessel. The object, whatever it was, was apparently lighted and emitted smoke. He suspected something wrong and started to communicate the fact to the officer of the deck, and had barely commenced to tell what he had seen, when the explosion took place. The Maine was raised in the air and he was thrown to the deck stunned and bleeding. He also said that simultaneously with the raising of the Maine he saw the steam launch, which was moored alongside, also thrown out of the water. This occurred before the second explosion in the Maine's magazine was felt and which sent her to the bottom.

Denied by an Officer.

Lieut. Blandin, who was officer of the deck at the time of the disaster, says there is no truth in the report that a smoking object was seen approaching the Maine just before the explosion.

Ask for Consul-General Lee.

Havana, Feb 19.—Lieut. Podro Peral, brother of the inventor of the submarine appliance bearing their name; Senor Peral, the judge in the case of the Maine, and the members of the Technical Commission have requested the authorization of Consul-General Lee to take the depositions of officers of the Maine, and to appoint a commission to inspect the wreck of the Maine, and investigate the cause of the explosion. The United States Consul-General has not yet replied to the application, and consequently the experts have not commenced work. The divers are only employed in recovering the bodies of the dead. Up to 9 o'clock this morning 97 bodies had been recovered, and eight funeral wagons are employed in carrying the bodies from La Macina to the Colon Cemetery. The remains are enclosed in neat coffins.

Recovered 135 Bodies.

Havana, Feb. 19.—At 8 o'clock last evening 135 bodies had been recovered. A revolting incident of the day has been the presence of vultures in the air above the wreck.

The Causes of Cancer.

There are few diseases that afflict the human family that are more to be dreaded than those of a cancerous nature. The cancer proper is a most appalling foe to life. Whether it can be cured is and always has been a debatable question. Cases are cited where alleged marvelous cures have been effected, but this does not to any appreciable extent alter the facts in the case that the cancer is practically incurable once it gets any sort of headway in the system. The causes of this disease have been so imperfectly understood that any effort at prevention was worse than useless. A French scientist claims to have discovered cancer germs in wood and that artisans who work in wood are much more subject to this disease, all things being considered, than those who handle most other materials. Having once started on this line of research, he found cancer germs in wood and vegetation of various kinds. Elm and willow trees showed a greater proportion of these germs than other woods. In high altitudes or where trees are not common very few cancer germs were found. From all of which it appears that we may be at last on the highroad to some reliable and conclusive knowledge upon a subject which has baffled the skill of medical scientists for many years.—New York Ledger.

False Representation.

An Ontario Lady Compels a Merchant to Pay for Damages.

A lady writing from an Ontario town says: "A month ago I visited one of our town stores and asked for three packages of Diamond Dye Navy Blue for dyeing all wool goods. The merchant informed me that he was out of Navy Blue in the Diamond Dyes, and talked me into buying a dye of another make, at the same time guarranteeing them to do as good work as I could get from the Diamond. A lady friend was with me at the time and heard the whole conversation. I took the strange dyes home, used them according to directions, and was sadly disappointed with the results. The colour was anything but a Navy; in truth, my materials were spoiled. I at once took the goods to the merchant and told him his dyes were frauds. He offered to give me more of the same dyes or my money back. I refused both offers, and after I had threatened law proceedings he thought it best to pay for the materials spoiled. This merchant will never again have the chance to sell me any more dyes. I shall go where I can get the Diamond Dyes at any time they are wanted. I have had my last lesson with poor dyes."

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO-FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

STRATTON AND VICTORY.

Last Night's Great Political Gathering

WAS ALL THAT WAY.

Four to One on the Platform--Even up in the Hall.

FIVE POLITICAL SPEECHES IN A ROW.

Mr. Stratton Faces Four Opponents--Speeches of Messrs. Ford, Garvin, Whitney and Matheson--Splendid Reception of the People's Candidate--At Home in the Enemy's Camp.

At the Opera House last night was assembled, or rather jammed in, one of the largest political gatherings that, perhaps, ever assembled in Peterborough. The meeting was called in Mr. Garvin's interests, and it would naturally be expected that his friends would very largely predominate, but such was not the case. The gathering, apart from the ladies, who did not actively express their sympathies, was pretty evenly divided in political sentiment, and the boast of the Opposition that they were carrying everything before them in town, received a very decided tap on the head last night. We have been treated in the Opposition press to reports of the great enthusiasm with which Mr. Whitney has been received throughout the Province, and if last night was, as the Mail claims, the best of the series of grand receptions we will know very well how to catalogue the others. Of course Mr. Whitney was very cordially received, a tribute no doubt to his personal popularity but as a political speaker it cannot be said that his address aroused undue enthusiasm; he dealt in his set form of vague and general charge, and fought shy of the political conundrums propounded in the much interrupted address of the government candidate, Mr. Stratton. Without being understood as complaining, it may be respectfully submitted that Mr. Stratton did not receive that measure of British fair play which, as in a sense, the guest of the occasion, he had a reason to expect. He was pitted on the platform against four Opposition speakers, but that is not to be complained of. He was able to maintain his position even against such odds, if he had been afforded a fair opportunity of presenting his case. Of course there were unruly elements in the meeting. Mr. Garvin was somewhat interrupted in his remarks but they were brief and not in the form of a set address, and besides the chairman was able to exercise a controlling influence, but he seemed to have lost his grip of the audience when Mr. Stratton came to speak, though to do him credit he exerted himself well. Messrs. Whitney and Matheson got an excellent hearing and that they did not arouse an unusual enthusiasm is not to be attributed to the temper of the audience so much as to the matter of the addresses which in many cases was somewhat of a large tax on the credulity of the audience, who were better informed on public questions than perhaps these gentlemen credited them with being. Mr. Stratton and his friends have every reason to be highly pleased with the success of the meeting from their point of view, and it was a most favourable augury of the apposite nature of the heading of this article--"Stratton and Victory!"

The Opera House began to fill at an early hour, and at 7.30 the building was packed. After that hour it was more difficult to get into the hall than into Parliament, and as hard to escape as to get out of jail. Every aisle and corner was jammed, the stage was overflowing, and the boxes and galleries were crowded with ladies. The hall was beautifully and profusely decorated (by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons) with flags and bunting and the walls were bright with mottoes, more or less a bit or burlesque, according to the sentiments of the onlooker. The mottoes were, "Whitney and Victory," "Time for a Change," "Ontario Logs for Ontario Millmen," "Garvin and Ford," "Peterborough Welcomes her Visitors" (an old stand by) and "School Books Reduced 33⅓ per cent."

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, President of the West Riding Association, occupied the chair and upon the platform were the speakers of the evening and a large number of the leading supporters of the Opposition, though not all, for the stage and wings were packed with the general public, whose desire for a place was more to the fore than political sympathy.

Previous to the beginning of the speaking, the Whitney Quartette sang the National Anthem, and during the evening also sang a campaign song.

The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, asking the audience to accord the speakers during the evening a fair hearing. He then inquired if Mr. Stratton was present and that gentleman took his seat on the platform amidst tumultuous cheering.

Dr. Ford, of Norwood, the Conservative candidate in the East Riding, was the first speaker. He stated that he had no apologies to make in asking for the suffrage of the electors, as he had been born in Peterborough County and had been a resident of the East riding for over thirty years. He mentioned the different Conservative leaders in the Ontario Legislature and spoke of the difficulty which had been experienced in choosing a successor to Mr. Meredith. A man, however, had been found in Mr. Whitney, whom the party were proud to own as their leader. In the Province the Conservative party had been beaten time and again because they had always remained behind their entrenchments. They had now, however become aggressive and the result would be different in the present campaign.

Mr. Garvin was warmly received by his friends, and referred to the pride he felt in appearing before such an audience and introducing Ontario's pride, Mr. J. P. Whitney, the leader of the Opposition. He said he had just returned from the north country, and had travelled sixty miles to be present at that meeting. While in the north he had discovered thet the colonization road money had been used as a direct means of bribing the electors, and closed a period with the inquiry, "What did I find?"

A voice--The cold shoulder. (Cheers,)

Mr. Garvin, who dealt only in generalities, and did not speak long, went on to allege instances in which he asserted that colonisation road money had even been spent upon private property. (Cries of dissent.) He then gave some attention to Hon. Mr. Ross and included a good deal of coarse personal abuse in his references. In attempting to convict Mr. Ross of an indelicate reference, he (Mr. Garvin) was guilty, in a ten-fold degree, of the very offence he was endeavouring to condemn. He charged Mr. Ross with giving the profits of writing Ontario's school books to his own friends, and denied that the cost of foreign school books had anything to do with the price of Ontario school books. Referring to the advisory board proposed by himself and Mr. Whitney, he said that such an advisory board would not, as charged, mean any increase of officials, but that the members of such a board would consider the honour of occupying a position a sufficient reward, but would possibly demand their expenses. In disproof of the charge that the Opposition did not contains members of cultured calibre, Mr. Garvin related a visit of his to the Ontario Legislature, and amidst the good natured laughter of the audience, contrasted the sledge hammer qualifications of Mr. St. John with the abilities of Mr. Hardy, very much to the disadvantage of the latter. Mr. Garvin raised a little laughter among his friends by reviving the illustration of Mr. Ross in regard to the ploughman following a steer about a field, and claimed that he was the ploughman. Mr. Garvin concluded his brief speech amidst the applause of his friends.

Mr. Stratton Speaks.

Mr. Stratton, who was a solitary figure on the platform amongst a galaxy of opponents, in rising to deliver his address, was received with most enthusiastic applause, and so long was the applause continued, that his opponents in the audience made an effort to counteract the effect by a few lugubrious groans. Mr. Stratton began by remarking upon the pleasure it gave him to thank Mr. Garvin for an opportunity of being present to address so large a gathering of the electors. Mr. Garvin had been boasting that he had been holding meetings at Mr. Stratton's expense, and it was apparent that he was returning the compliment, for he could wish no better evidence than that large gathering to show that he was holding a great meeting at Mr. Garvin's expense. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Stratton went on to remark that party Government was the best system of conducting the affairs of the country, and while both parties were justified in being loyal to their party leaders he was sure that the independent electorate would place a just estimate upon the merits of the parties and candidates now appealing for support and cast their ballots in the best interests of the riding and the country. (Cheers) Mr. Stratton paid a grateful tribute to the personal good qualities of Mr. Whitney and Mr. Matheson and spoke of the warm personal relations they had in the Legislature. They were professional gentleman and he warned the audience that they were very plausible speakers and could make the worst cause appear the better. Commenting on the motto "Whitney and Victory," Mr. Stratton said he had no quarrel with Mr. Garvin--Mr. Garvin could have Mr. Whitney and he (Mr. Stratton) would have the victory. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Garvin had referred to the Blezard he experienced at Lakefield, but ventured the opinion that that was the Blezard that would snow under Dr. Ford in the east riding. (Cheers.) The genial doctor had come in the field rather reluctantly and had had considerably before he would consent to run. Jocular reference was made as to the effect of Mr. Garvin's eloquence in North Harvey upon the babies and it was submitted, amidst much laughter, that Mr. Garvin was the political Castoria which, according to the well known advertisement, the babies cried for. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton referred to Mr. Garvin's Colonization Roads mare's nest as on a par with the many mare's nests he had discovered in this campaign. He felt sure that the people of Galway irrespective of political convictions would approve of the manner in which the money approved for Colonization Roads had been expended. (Cheers.) No man had been selected to expend such money for party reasons. Mr. Garvin had taken a very devious course in this matter. When he began the present campaign he was in favour of giving this money to the county councils for expenditure. At a later stage he was in favour of giving it to the local councils, but in the back country the past day or two Mr. Garvin asserted that "I will have the expenditure of the Colonization Road money next year." (Cheers and laughter.) Mr. Stratton, referring to the steer and ploughman incident mentioned by Mr. Garvin, remarked that Mr. Garvin might continue to follow as industriously and persistently as he liked but in the end he would be badly left (cheers). He then went on to indicate that the financial question was one that possessed the deepest interest for the electors. Mr. Whitney, Mr. Matheson and their followers had made in all the constituencies they visited, the broad, general and vague charge that the resources and funds of the country had been "squandered." Mr. Stratton pointed out that the Government had expended nearly $10,000,000 on public buildings and inquired which of the buildings or public works erected these gentlemen would not have built and they could not specify this great amount had been corruptly expended (cheers). Referring to the grant made during last session to the James Bay Railway which Mr. Garvin had denounced as a bribe, Mr. Stratton pointed out that Mr. Whitney and Mr. Mathieson and the other Conservative leaders had voted for these grants and that Dr. Meacham and other leading members of the Opposition had lobbied in favour of the grant and were members of a deputation asking the government to make the grant. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton said that the government had spent upon the maintenance of public institutions the large sum of over fifteen millions of dollars in the past 20 years, and he defied the Opposition, Mr. Whitney or any of his followers to show where any money was improperly expended or to point to any similar institutions in any country in the world where the inmates were better or more cheaply maintained. (Cheers.) In the past 20 years the government had spent in education the large sum of over fourteen millions of dollars and these gentlemen could not point out what expenditure they would curtail. Mr. Whitney in proposing to make the public school all sufficient for the poor man, was aiming to revive the system that had long been discredited in Great Britain, that of catering to the classes as against the masses--the system that aimed to keep the poor man in his place, and forbade him to rise above his obscure state by denying the privileges of a higher education. (Cheers.) The public school system of Ontario endowed a boy or girl with the privilege of getting as good an education as their abilities would warrant. The poorest boy or girl was placed on a par with the children of the rich man in this respect, and the privilege was given them to rise under the influence of the

WHERE A SINGLE DOLLAR OF

BEST EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

in the world. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton asked these gentlemen to discard generalities and get down to details. If they do so they would fail to find any substantial fault, for they would find that under the educational system of Ontario as administered by the present government all classes were treated alike. (Cheers.) For the Administration of Justice over three millions had been expended and this was returned to the people to lessen the burden of local taxation. Let these gentlemen who aspired to hold the reins of office suggest an improvement in this regard. For hospitals and charities the government had returned to the people nearly three millions of dollars. Let these gentlemen point out when they would have economized or when they would have done better. In the interests of the greatest industry of the province, that of agriculture, the government had expended, and practically returned to the people, nearly four millions of dollars. Would they point out where value has not been received for the expenditure made? In these and and other services representing retnur of money to the people, had been spent sixty-one millions of dollars, and against this great expenditure, of which the people had received the full benefit, they would set the comparatively paltry cry that that the sum of $3,900,000 left by Sandfield Macdonald when he retired from office had been expended (cheers), The opposition charged the Government with selling the timber limits of the Province. They had not been squandered, they had been converted--one form of assets into another--converted into public buildings, which would be lasting monuments of the thrift, foresight and care of the Government for the poor, suffering, afflicted and diseased of the land, who, but for the Government's liberal treatment of them, would have to be supported by the people of the municipalities through the medium of direct taxation. The Government admits that it has spent the money of the people, but it has been spent for and what is more the Opposition could not point to a dollar that had been corruptly spent (loud cheers). If any part of these immense sums had been improperly proposed or were not in the interests of the country or were not demanded by the public welfare, where was the Opposition while this expenditure was being made? Where was the watchful Mr. Whitney, and what was he doing? He sat in the House opposite him (Mr. Stratton) for the years from 1888 (the time Mr. Whitney entered the Legislature) to 1892. In that time there was voted for the public expenditure the sum of $17,498,471, and to this amount Mr. Whitney and his followers found reason to object to only $350. (Cheers and laughter.) What was he talking about when he accused the Government of squandering the public money wastefully and extravagantly? Was he doing his duty when such reckless waste as he charges was going on, and he did not lift his voice to prevent it? The reason why he did not object was because the expenditures were proper. (Cheers.) It is now too late for him to make wild charges when, according to his statement, the damage had already been done. If the extravagance went on which he charges, and he calmly sat by and never lifted a finger to prevent it, is he not open to a charge of grave neglect of duty? (cheers,) and is he justified now in claiming that he should be placed in charge of the proviucial interests of the province? (No, and cheers.) He comes before you now condemning expenditure which he and the Opposition practically approved of. (Cheers.) Mr. Whitney's speech at Belleville on Thursday, Mr. Stratton said, contained some more of his wild statements regarding officials. He is reported in the Mail as having said:

"Dealing with the immense army of officials with which the province is seeded down and for which the public has to pay dearly, he (Mr. Whitney) asked how the government could defend the increase of these officials by four times, when, according to Sir Richard Cartwright, population in Ontario had not increased at all since Confederation."

Mr. Stratton characterized such absurd statements as a sensational scare story. It was like many other of the gentleman's statements, unsupported by fact. He his statement, and for very good reasons, because no statistics existed to show any thing of the kind. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton inquried what government officials there were in Peterborough that were not here 20 years ago. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton admitted that the officials had increased, but not more than the increase of the public service required. As the province expanded there were required new institutions for the public benefit and additional accommodation in this respect naturally required increased officials, and he went on to show that various public services were now effectively working that did not exist twenty-five years ago. We did not have a Minister of Agriculture and an agricultural department. Of course this required an increase of the public servants, and no one could object, considering the benefits that had flowed from this increase in placing Ontario in the foremost place in the farming countries of the world. Then we had large additions to our public institutions, and, besides, the inmates of our punlic institutions had increased in the past twenty-five years from a few hundreds to over 7,000, and all this demanded increased attention and it was necessary to have increased officials. In Sandfield Macdonald's time, twenty-five years ago, we did not have the Central Prison and the large staff necessary to its maintenance, an institution that relieved the jails of the municipalities of

A DISTINCT AND POSITIVE DENIAL.

A Flat Contradiction and Disproof of a Slanderous Rumour.

A copy of the following letter has been forwarded to the Review for insertion in to-days issue:

[COPY.]

To the Editor of the Review:

DEAR SIR,—On my return home from the back country to-day I learned that insinuations, the echo of direct statements made elsewhere, were being made through your columns that I had intimidated an employee of a local hotel, Mr. Wm. Creamer of the C.P.R. hotel, by threatening him in case he did not vote for me that he would "lose his job."

I desire to give this statement a most unequivocal and positive denial. As soon as I was aware of the rumour I called upon the person whom I had been accused of intimidating and he stated that I had never used the language attributed to me, but that I had solicited his vote in a gentlemanly and proper manner and that he had no complaint to offer whatever, and he made these statements in denial of the scandalous rumor in the presence of others.

The rumor that is being and has been circulated that I intimidated Mr. Overend, Mr. Creamer's employer, is equally false and unfounded. Mr. Overend has always supported the Liberal party in Ontario.

I regret that I should be compelled to bring the names of these gentlemen into public prominence but in self defence I must protect my character from scandalous statements, which I regret to say are but on a par with unworthy tactics that have been employed against me in this campaign.

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

Miss Katherine Germaine is said to be one of the handsomest vocalists on the stage to-day and her quality as a singer is reckoned among the first. Miss Germaine first won pre-eminence as Francois in DeKoven & Smith's "Fencing Master." She comes as co-star with Richard Golden, a comedian of undoubted ability and large following in "The Isle of Champagne" Opera Company, which plays at the Opera House Monday evening Feb. 21. a production of rare merit and great success. This play this season is under the management of Messrs. Biers & Co., gentlemen who believe in doing everything with a lavish hand and who are determined, it is said, to outrival the Opera's former productions and successes by providing as excellent and large a company, handsomer scenery, richer costumes and a ballet of prettier girls and two such stars as Richard Golden and Miss Katharine Germaine.

STRATTON AND VICTORY.

the cost of supporting a large number of criminals. Mr. Whitney might object to Mr. Noxon and Dr. Chamberlain, and similar officials, but if he wished to make a point he should show what officials were unnecessary and not go about making general complaints. The only fair way of dealing with such matters was to consider the conditions. Twenty-five years ago we did not have the Bureau of Mines, the Bureau of Industries, nor the Forestry Department, nor the Good Roads Department, nor the School of Practical Science, nor the Mimico and Brockville Asylums, nor the three Dairy Schools at Guelph, Kingston and Strathroy, nor Ottawa Normal and Model Schools, nor numerous court houses, jails and registry offices in the outlying districts of the New Ontario. All these services were new as compared with twenty-five years ago and it stood to reason that with

with the growth of its needs, with the increase of institutions required for the public service, there must necessarily be an increase of officials. But were these gentlemen honest in wholesale condemnation and in wild charges of increase of officials when they gave no facts, but rather conceal the fact that whatever increase there had been was justified by the conditions. (Cheers.)

Referring to another motto that adorned the walls, "School Books Reduced 33 per per cent." Mr. Stratton said that the motto was more modest than Mr. Garvin. At Nogie's Creek in the north country Mr. Garvin had held up a Third Raader and stated that six weeks after the election the price would be reduced 100 per cent.—from 30c to 15c. (Laughter and cries of dissent.) Mr. Stratton said they might say no, but half a dozen gentlemen had told him that such statements had been made. Now when did the Opposition make discovery of the enormity in the matter of school books? Why was the discovery made just on the eve of an election. The Opposition wanted a new cry. They had gone to the country on previous elections on cries that had been discredited and they wanted something new. Eight years ago school books were dearer than they were now but the prices had been reduced and yet we heard nothing then of the cry. Four years ago they were dearer than they were now, for the prices had been reduced and we heard nothing of the cry. Where was Mr. Whitney then that he did not come to the rescue? Was he asleep at his post as he was when he let millions of dollars of what he calls extravagant expenditure be made without opposing it. Thirteen years ago drawing books were 15 cents, now they were five. The readers had been reduced from 25c to 20c, from 35c to 30c, from 45c to 40c and from 60c to 50c—that is the second, third, fourth and fifth readers respectively. Mr. Stratton went on to show the unfairness of comparing a cheap and played out novel with a live standard school book. That was no argument. (Uproar and cries of dissent) and in illustration he held up a copy of a book that originally sold for $1.50 that could now be got for 10 cents, because there was no demand for it—it was dead stock upon the dealers' hands. But if Mr. Whitney could produce a school book of any other country of equal excellence in all respects with an Ontario school book, and sold at as low or a lower price, he would have an argument. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton submitted that Ontario school books could be produced more cheaply by having them manufactured in England, but in that event, what would become of Canadian labour? (Cheers.) Our Ontario school books were at union wages, and authorship and work and materials, were all Canadian. (Cheers.) Would Canadian workmen wish to be deprived of that. (No! and cheers.) Another motto was "Ontario Logs for Ontario Millmen." "We have that now," Mr. Stratton said. (Cheers and cries of No!) This was another evidence of new-born zeal. The party to which Mr. Whitney and his followers belonged had been eighteen long years in office at Ottawa and these men never asked that Government to do what the Ontario Government had done. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton went on to show that the Dingley Bill, with its retaliatory clause, was what aroused public sentiment against American agression that made Canadians feel that they would rather have two meals a day and manage their own affairs than have three meals and submit to foreign dictation, (Cheers.) In obedience to the new conditions that created this sentiment, at the request of the lumbermen of the Georgian Bay district the Government had acted, and he hoped the results would be for the best. So far as he could see neither the Government nor the Opposition deserved any particular credit for the course taken. Public sentiment influenced both and was responsible for the law requiring all logs cut on Ontario limits to be manufactured in Ontario. (Cheers.) Mr. Stratton then went on to deal with the ballot, and pointed out that the ballot was given to the country by the Liberals. The Ontario ballot was practically the same ballot as was in use in Great Britain and Australia. (Cheers.) He pointed out the advantages of the Ontario ballot in the prevention of fraud and ballot-stuffing. We don't find the ballot-stuffing and plugging under the Ontario ballot that prevailed in the Major McGillivray election in Ontario, and also in Northumberland. In fact, fraud was almost impossible. When Mr. Blake introduced the Dominion ballot at Ottawa, Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Abbot favoured the Ontario ballot, and Mr. Chapleau said that the Dominion ballot was not by any means secret. Mr. Stratton said that the Ontario ballot facilitated the exposure of frauds by the Courts, and that for all practical purposes it was as secret as any ballot in the world. (Cheers and dissent.) Mr. Stratton said that a ballot that was

should be good enough for Ontario. (Cheers.)

Mr. Stratton also touched on the Engledue "deal." The 100 square miles of Northwestern Ontario, for which we did not have to thank the Opposition, contained about 39,000,000 square acres of supposed mineral territory. In order to give British capital the habit of coming to Ontario the Government had granted the Engledue Syndicate the privilege of spending $120,000 in exploring 44,000 acres to discover whether there was gold in paying quantities. If they found any deposits they must survey and apply for claims like an ordinary proprietor. It would be a good thing for Ontario if the syndicate should discover immense wealth there; the advantages would be beyond computation. (Cheers.)

In conclusion Mr. Stratton said he believed that when the people of the province and the riding had had an opportunity of looking over the past and examining the record of the government and seeing how this province has prospered in comparison with other provinces, how our resources have been developed, they would give them their support, and he believed that similar conditions applied to himself the verdict would be equally favourable. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Stratton was proceeding further in this strain when he was prevented from proceeding by the shameful interruptions he had been subjected to during the whole course of his remarks, and was compelled take his seat which he did amidst tremendous applause followed by three cheers from his supporters, who composed at least half the audience.

Col. Matheson was then introduced to the audience and was well received. In reply to the statement that Whitney had no policy, he argued that the education of the children, the administration of the laws and the management of the Crown lands, timber and mining resources were matters which affected the people. He charged that the Government in speaking of the finances dealt only in generalities, and did not prove in detail that their claim of having a surplus was substantiated. There was a surplus last year of three or four hundred dollars, but this was received through timber sales and by borrowing—in reality the receipts of the year had failed to meet the expenditures by ten or twelve thousand dollars. Every year the expense of administering affairs under the present Government was increasing by hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Minister of Finance did not try to make ends meet. The Government claimed that the expenditure was justifiable. If this was the case, why not put on the taxation to increase the revenue? More purchasing by tender should be done, and the cost of maintenance of the public institutions thus reduced. The Government claimed that the Opposition did not object to one half of one per cent. of the expenditure when it was being made. This might be so, but the rules of the House were such that the appropriation of the different public institutions could not be cut down by a lump sum. The Opposition had to move that certain salaries, etc., be reduced and this would occupy too much time. The increase of expenditure over receipts had gone on increasing until, at present, the province owed four million dollars over all assets and had not one dollar of a surplus. The speaker then spent some time in denouncing the system of issuing railway certificates. In taking up the question of the cost of school books, Col. Matheson stated that the first half of the first reader was sold for 10 cents, whereas an issue of the Evening Globe, which contained the same amount of paper, could be purchased for one cent. The weight of this argument was considerably lightened by the pertinent query from the back of the hall "How about the advertisements in the Globe?" The speaker then mentioned the Irish system of readers as being cheaper than those in use in Canada, but did not reply to a challenge to name one other school book in the world, outside of the Irish Reader, which was not more expensive than the Canadian series.

In closing, Col. Matheson urged the electors to let no feeling of personal regard for Mr. Stratton prevent them from giving their vote for a supporter of Mr. Whitney. No personal friendship for Mr. Stratton should be allowed to interfere in the matter.

THE LEADER SPEAKS.

Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, was received with three cheers, which were followed by three more for Mr. Stratton, of whom the speaker expressed the highest possible admiration as a man.

Mr. Whitney plunged directly into the financial question. He referred to Mr. Stratton's charge that the Opposition had only voted against one-half of one per cent. of the expenditure. This might be true, as if the Opposition objected to the appropriation, the House would be in session all the time. The Opposition could not devote so much of their attention to the matter as that. It would be impracticable. Mr. Stratton had mentioned the fact that Mr. Garvin was opposed to the grant to the James Bay railway, whilst the Opposition was in favour of it. He was glad to know this—it showed that Mr. Garvin would not consider himself bound to any party if he entered the Legislature. As concerning the logging question, the speaker claimed that the government had stolen the policy of the Opposition. If the Ontario ballot was such a good a good one why had not Laurier adopted it. An elementary rule in finance was the keeping down of the expenditures to within the receipts. Mr. Whitney charged that the government had apparently no confidence in this rule. He then discussed the finances of the province at length, claiming that there was a deficit of $546,000. The government never had a surplus at any time, except that derived from the sale of capital stock. The educational question was then taken up, Mr. Whitney stating that if returned to power he would protect the High School, the Colleges and the Universities in every possible manner. Hon. Geo. W. Ross, however, had made a stepping stone of the Public Schools to these other institutions for higher learning, and therefore the children, who were not able to go further than the Public Schools, were imperfectly educated. The speaker did not explain how, if this was the case, the Ontario school system received the highest award at the World's Fair for being the most perfect in existence. He stated that Mr. Ross had issued a commission in secret to inquire into the matter of cheaper school books. The witnesses which had been summoned were all interested in the publishing trade, therefore, they had stated that school books could not be published any cheaper than they were. Mr. Whitney did not explain who else could possibly be summoned as expert witnesses nor who because they were publishers they should say that books could not be published cheaper, as it would naturally be supposed that those who did not have the contract for getting out the books would be hostile witnesses. Mr. Whitney didn't know what Mr. Ross stated was the total cost of school books, but was satisfied it was twice as much as the Minister of Education stated. The arguments used by the Opposition in speaking of the Engledue matter were again used although so often exploded.

The meeting was brought to a close by cheers for the Queen, Messrs. Whitney, Stratton and Garvin.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

After last night the Opera House is as safe for a crowd as West Peterborough is for Stratton.

Dr. Ford rather abused Mr. Garvin's hospitality last night. The genial doctor took the most of his speech to show that that he was entitled to be a representative because he had been a life long resident of the county.

Mr. Whitney "steered" clear of the pertinent questions Mr. Stratton proposed.

Mr. Whitney did not tell what public institutions were unnecessary or what he would not have built.

Mr. Whitney doesn't like to skate where the ice is thin.

Mr. Whitney assailed the governments commission school books last night for calling book-binders and publishers as witnesses to decide upon the making of school books.

Would Mr. Whitney have had blacksmiths, shoemakers or coopers selected as witnesses to judge of the price and quality of school books?

And who would make a more hostile witness than a business opponent?

Poor St. John! Wounded in the house of his friends. Four Opposition orators, and not one word of the piggery—"none so poor to do its reverence."

Of the two Whitney quartettes present last night, the oratorical and the musical the musical gave most tone to the occasion.

Mr. Stratton thanks Mr. Garvin for giving him the profit, while Mr. Garvin pays the shot.

The many beautiful bouquets lavished at the meeting last night were an improvement on the Humber piggery aroma Mr. St. John left at Mr. Garvin's last meeting.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Stratton went north to-day to address a meeting at Swamp Lake school house Galway.

The Rev. P. Murphy, of the Paulist Congregation, New York, will preach in St. Peters Cathedral to-morrow evening at vespers. Father Murphy is an old Peterborogh boy.

It is a marvel how some men will risk their lives by sheer neglect. They sleep away entirely oblivious of the danger creeping upon them. Men can hardly be made to realize that a little sputtering spark of disease which might be stamped out in an instant may mean death if it is allowed to keep on. Dyspepsia, constipation and liver complaint seem like trifling matters but they will eventually wreck the constitution as surely as a spark will blow up a keg of powder.

If your health is not strong and vigorous it is a simple and sensible thing to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain from him and his staff of eminent specialists, without charge, professional advice which will enable you to put your constitution on a solid basis of health and strength forthwith, before these ailments have a chance to reduce you to a physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is acknowledged as the most wonderful medicine ever devised for those diseases which are caused by imperfect action of the liver and digestive organs.

Mr. F. M. Robinett, of Xenophon, Hancock Co., Tenn., says in a letter to Dr. Pierce: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and torpid liver. I tried different doctors with but little result. I could scarcely eat anything—it would put me in such dreadful distress in my stomach. I had a dull aching pain in my stomach, and continual hurting behind my shoulders, bad taste in my mouth, tongue coated brown, had faint spells with a tired worn-out feeling. I took eleven bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and received great benefit. I am now able to work. If it had not been for this wonderful remedy I believe I would not be living to-day."

The most difficult diseases to cure are those which are aggravated by constipation. In such cases Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken in conjunction with the "Discovery." They never gripe. All good dealers sell them.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE CRAWFORD.

Father of the Conservative Candidate for West Toronto Passes Away.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—A large circle of friends will learn with regret of the death of Mr. George Crawford, father of Mr. Thomas Crawford, ex-alderman and ex-M.P.P. for West Toronto. Deceased, who died early yesterday morning at his residence, 99 Givens street, was one of the best known men in the cattle trade, having for years been a large exporter.

He was born at Tonlskillen, County Fermanagh, Ireland, 84 years ago. He came to Toronto in 1865 and has resided here since. He was probably the oldest Orangeman in the city, having joined the order above 60 years ago. He was locally connected with L.O.L. 404, and his was a familiar figure in all 12th of July processions. In politics he was a staunch Conservative, and he was a member of St. Phillip's Episcopal Church.

Mr. Crawford leaves a widow (who is very seriously ill), one son and three daughters. The funeral will take place on Monday under Orange auspices.

It is a great remedy, and I am glad to be able to recommend it always." Sold by H. S. McDonald.

THE SERVANT QUESTION.

How Much Worry and Vexation May Be Saved the Mistress.

"Much of the cry against the tyranny and impudence of servants comes from those who exercise their authority in a disagreeable way and who do not know the first principles of successful management," argues Jane Lowry Cummings in a thoughtful paper on "Managing the Servants," in The Woman's Home Companion.

"Every woman has her own theory of how the housework should be done, but it is not always necessary to insist upon having it done in her way provided it is done satisfactorily in another way. Bridget may come well recommended and be discharged at the end of a week or a month because her method is not what her mistress considers the proper one. Wherever she goes she is likely to be confronted with new methods and blamed for doing her work after a system which she has laboriously acquired at her last situation. She is a machine upon which each succeeding mistress imposes her own pet theories, to the exclusion of all others. Without reference to results she is compelled to change her method of handling the broom, building fires, attending to the bedchambers, etc., and because she is awkward at doing things in a new way she is probably upbraided and told that she does not know her business. If Bridget is quick tempered, she may resent this injustice, and then she is discharged without a 'character,' and her late mistress has another opportunity of confiding to her friends her troubles over the everlasting 'servant girl problem.'

"But Bridget is the one to be pitied. She is confronted by the more difficult problem of how to conform to the rules and whims of every new mistress under whose orders she may find herself. She knows how to do her work if let alone, and she proves this if she is fortunate enough to be employed by a housekeeper who is broad minded and tactful enough to give her a fair chance. The woman who does not interfere unnecessarily with the work of her servants—who judges their work by results, who speaks to them gently and treats them with consideration—seldom has trouble in getting faithful servants and keeping them. The display of a little tact, a little judgment, a little kindness, will often save the housekeeper much useless worry and vexation of spirit."

A Cord of Wood.

Few persons comprehend the productive capacity of a cord of wood. Chemical experiments are occasionally developing new uses for wood in matters remote from its ordinary adaptability, and the feature that is exciting a great deal of interest just now is the transformation of wood products into liquids. Although under the strongest kind of pressure wood yields scarcely any moisture, by means of heat wood will evolve gases and liquids of marked potency and utility. In converting wood into charcoal gases and smoke arise which can be condensed into pyroligneous acid. It is estimated that there is fully 65 per cent of this acid in a given quantity of wood, and from it are extracted wood alcohol, acetate of lime and wood tars. The alcohol thus obtained is said to be a very satisfactory substitute for grain alcohol for mechanical and manufacturing purposes, and it can be produced at less than one-third of the cost of the grain alcohol.

Investigations conducted with practical objects in view have disclosed these interesting facts: A cord of wood which weighs 4,000 pounds will yield about 2,050 pounds of pyroligneous acid and 700 pounds of charcoal; the acid will produce about 9 gallons of 82 per cent crude wood alcohol, about 25 gallons of tar and fully 200 pounds of acetate of lime. These facts indicate a future for wood outside of the realm of fuel and pulp.—New York Times.

The curate was making a call on a humble member of his flock, when the good woman, in course of conversation, very much extolled the virtues of her absent husband and finished up by saying, "And he is such a good man too."

"Why, sir," she said, "he always says his prayers every night of his life—drunk or sober—he never misses that."—London Telegraph.

GOVERNMENT PAY DAY.

Every Department Goes on Its Own Hook In Remunerating Employees.

"One of the most peculiar things in connection with the department service," remarked a disbursing officer, "is the almost entire absence of legislation regarding the question of when payments are to be made. The whole matter of paying is left with the head of each department, subject to any rules which he wishes to adopt, and this is governed by custom rather than by direct or expressed law. Thus in some of the branches of the treasury department there are weekly pay days, notably in the redemption division, while in the others there are semimonthly pay days. In most of the branches of the other departments there are semimonthly pay days, though to the clerks of the headquarters of the army in the war department, who are paid by an army paymaster, there is but one pay in each month. Congress has been appealed to time and time again to regulate pay days by legislation, but for some unknown reason it has always refused.

"Though there are now, and always have been, advocates of frequent pay days, it is not sure that weekly pay days are the best for department clerks. Getting their money in four parts, one-fourth each week, seriously interferes with them, for, as a rule, all of one week's money is expended by the time the next week comes around, leaving nothing to pay off their boarding house or rent bills, which come due every month. All through Europe department clerks are paid but once in three months, and it is said they manage to save more money by that method than is saved by those who receive their salary more frequently."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

RUNNING SORES.

There is nothing that will so waste and wear away the health as a running sore. Burdock Blood Bitters heals and dries up sores and ulcers, no matter how large or of how long standing, by cleansing the blood of all impurities and sending rich pure life-giving blood to the diseased part, thereby supplanting the decaying tissue with healthy healing flesh.

Mr. Stephen Wescott, Freeport, N.S., found (Burdock Blood Bitters) a wonderful blood purifier and gives his experience as follows: "I was very much run down in health and employed our local physician who attended me three months, finally my leg broke out in running sores with fearful burning. I had thirteen running sores at one time, from my knee to the top of my foot. All the medicine I took did me no good, so I threw it aside and tried B.B.B.; when one-half the bottle was gone, I noticed a change for the better, and by the time I had finished two bottles my leg was perfectly healed and my health greatly improved."

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

REAL NO MAN'S LAND.

AN ISLAND THAT IS PEOPLED ONLY WITH WOMEN.

They Are Able to Defend Their Own and May Be Called Amazons — Winning an Interview by the Use of a Piece of Red Cloth and a Few Beads.

My attention was first drawn to the subject of modern amazons by means of a Japanese picture book, writes Edward Tregear in the Christchurch (New Zealand) Press. It had been exposed for sale in a native shop at Tokyo and attracted the attention of a visitor, who brought the curiosity to me simply as a specimen of artistic work. The book consisted of a series of pictures delineating the adventures of the crew of a shipwrecked vessel. The boat containing the survivors arrived on the shores of an island tenanted only by women. The artist had depicted with barbaric fidelity to nature and with grim humor how the attentions of the numerous fair ones became embarrassing to the small party of visitors, until at last the sailors had to fly to their boat and escape to the dangers of the deep rather than endure the overwhelming attentions of the hostesses too fair and kind. The book and its subject would have passed from my memory as a mere pleasantry had I not soon after found what one may call the "letterpress" of the illustrations, circulating as a legend in the Friendly islands. A circumstance so remarkable as this coincidence of ideas in peoples so far removed both in point of distance and of race as the Tongans and the Japanese could not fail to strike one deeply interested in the anthropology of Oceanica.

The Tongan legend was heard by Mariner at the beginning of the century, long before any white colonists resided in the Friendly islands, and although I have not been able to get the story direct from Fiji or Samoa, I have not the slightest doubt that voyagers so hardy as Japanese and Polynesians are famous for having been in past centuries must have had some foundation of fact on which to build so strange a tale. Its confirmation we have in the relation of the celebrated missionary Dr. James Chalmers of New Guinea. Here is the modern account of the woman's island:

"At Port Moresby I had heard of a woman's land, a land where only women —perfect amazons—lived and ruled. These ladies were reported to be excellent tillers of the soil, splendid canoeists in sailing or paddling and quite able to hold their own against attacks of the sterner sex, who sometimes tried to invade their country.

"To find so interesting a community was of great moment. As no part of the coast from the East cape to Port Moresby would be left unvisited by us, we were certain to come across the amazonian settlement. We heard that Mailiukolo (Toulon) canoes with women were numerous, and some very large ones with women alone. In the early morning we were off the island and soon ready to land. On crossing the reef we met two canoes, one with men and one with women. We signed to them to go to the vessel, while we pulled up to the large village on the north side.

"As the boat touched the fine, hard sandy beach a man, the only being in sight, ran down and stood in front. I went forward to spring ashore, but he said I must not. Finding he knew the Daunai dialect, I said to him I must land, that I was a friend and gave him a strip of red cloth and stepped ashore, when he ran away into the bush.

"At our first approach I could only see this one man, but now I saw hundreds of grass petticoats on women standing under the houses. I could not see the upper parts of their bodies, only the petticoats and feet. They were indeed quiet until I advanced nearer, when one wild scream was given that would try stronger nerves than mine and signs to keep away. It required more inquisitiveness than I possessed to proceed. I retired a few paces, warning the boat's crew to keep a good lookout and especially from the bush end of the village, where the man ran to. I invited the dusky damsels to come to me if they objected to my visiting them; but no, I must return whence I came. They had seen me, that was enough. 'No, my friends; we must meet, and you will have some presents.'

"I held up my beads and red cloth; but, strange to say, they seemed to have no effect on that strange crowd. I never saw so many women together. How were we to meet? was the question. To be balked by them would never do. I threw on the beach a piece of red cloth and a few beads, walked away quite carelessly and apparently not noticing what was taking place. A girl steals from out the crowd, stops, crosses her hands, pressing her breast. Poor thing, not courage enough, so lightninglike she speeds back. It is evident the old ladies object to the younger ones attempting, and they are themselves too frightened. Another young damsel about 9 or 10 years old comes out, runs, halts, walks catlike lest the touch of her feet on the sand should waken me from my reverie. Another halt, holds her chest, lest the spirit should take its flight or the pattering heart jump right out. I fear it was beyond the slight patter then and had reached the stentorian thump of serious times. On, a rush, well done! She picks cloth and beads up.

"I have gained my point and will soon have the crowds—no need to wait so long to have the baits picked now, and after a few more temptings it is done. I am besieged by the noisest crowd I have ever met, and am truly glad to escape on board the boat. We went to the vessel and brought her round to the west side, where we anchored. Crowds met me on the beach, but no men. I gave my beads indiscriminately, and soon there was a quarrel between the old ladies and the young ones. The latter were ordered off and because they would not go I must go. The old ladies insisted on my getting into the boat, and, being now assisted by the few men we met in the canoe, I thought it better to comply. Long after we left the beach we heard those old cracked, crabbed voices anathematizing the younger members of that community.

"I am fully convinced that this is the woman's island, and can easily account for its being called so by stray canoes from the westward."

The evidence in the case proves Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt, rheum, boils humors and all eruptions.

FLOTSAM OF THE STREET.

Two Glimpses of a Life That Was Marred by Misfortune.

He is not good to look upon, but you have seen him.

At the door of the County building, as you passed on Randolph street, he has claimed your notice, and a wave of repulsion has swept over you, as, against your will, you looked at him again. Pitiful was that upon which your gaze rested—the wreck of a man's strong body, with legs cut off above the knees.

He is not clean. How could he be when mingling with the city's dirt? Coal dust is ground into his skin, his face is sad, a straggling black mustache and matted raven hair make doubly ghastly the pallor of his face.

All day he sits there on the pavement, incapable of motion, mutely offering his wares—pencils, pins and other odds and ends. When you come down to work, he is there, and when you seek your fireside he still is there. The burning summer sun and winter's icy winds make him their prey, but cannot drive him from his post.

Mere sensate driftwood of the street, something repellant, hardly thought of as a man—such he is to you.

* * * * * * *

But life is often like a shield, two sided. The other side may well be worth a look.

* * * * * * *

At dusk a rattling wagon calls for him. The driver lifts him in and drives away. Far to the south it stops before a shabby cottage. The fragment of a man is lifted out and carried to the door, which opens at the sound of steps. It closes fast behind him and shuts out the misery of the day.

What magic is there here? In a fleeting moment what a change?

He who was a helpless outcast now is king. Outside a grimy cripple, here a husband and a father. Pressure of loving arms, tender looks from faithful eyes, children's happy clamor at his coming—all are his.

Oblivious of care is he, as after the simple meal his babies climb into his arms and play with bright pennies he has saved for them. And when, the wee ones safe in bed, he sits beside his patient wife the care and sadness of the day are lost, and he is full content.

Are you more fortunate than he?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE SHREWMOUSE.

Queer Superstitions That Hedge About a Harmless Little Animal.

The shrew, or shrewmouse, as it is commonly called, is found in nearly all parts of the world. It is distinguished by an elongated, pointed muzzle, small eyes, plantigrade, six toed feet and glands that secrete a musky fluid. Altogether it closely resembles a mouse, but it is really not related to the mouse family.

When at home, it is either under a pile of rubbish or in a hole which it has burrowed in the earth. It is nocturnal in its habits, but perfectly harmless; yet at one time it was much disliked and persecuted because it was thought to be a dangerous, mischievous animal. Among the Italians the notion was prevalent that the bite of a shrew was extremely poisonous. The French and the English believed that if a shrew ran over an animal's foot the animal felt great pain and eventually became paralyzed. Hence if a horse, a cow or a goat became a little stiff in its limbs, the foolish people at once declared it "shrew struck," and the poor shrews had to suffer in consequence.

Of course the "shrew struck" animal had to have something to cure it, so an ash tree was selected and a deep hole was bored into its trunk. Then a shrew was captured, put alive into the hole, the hole was securely plugged and the innocent little animal was left to die of starvation.

The ignorant believed that, after such an act, the ash tree had power to cure "shrew struck" animals, and whenever an animal became inactive or a little numb in its limbs its owner hurried to the "shrew ash," cut a switch from it and switched the "shrew struck" beast. The smarting caused by the switching naturally made the helpless animal move about as much as it possibly could, and in a short time it was pronounced "cured."—Philadelphia Times.

"Let parents not live for their children, but with them." The mother should allow no false modesty to stand in the way of her daughter's knowledge of herself, of her possibilities, of her perils. For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has used his "Favourite Prescription" as a strengthener, a purifier, a regulator. It works directly upon the delicate, distinctly feminine organ, in a natural, soothing way. It searches out the weak spots and builds them up. A woman who would understand herself should send 21 cents to the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., for Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages.

African Dwarfs.

The Akkas, or forest dwarfs of Central Africa, gave H. M. Stanley and his followers an immense amount of trouble in his last memorable expedition. These little "niggers" are a diminutive race of people about 4 feet 10 inches in height. They were continually harassing the explorer, who found them cowardly, treacherous and very expert in the use of poisoned arrows.

Sincerity.

"In the evening," remarked the observer of men and things, "a girl will tell you that she carries her heart upon her sleeve. The next day she will carry her lunch in a music roll."—Detroit Journal.

A Fatherly Assurance.

Mr. Cumrox's son was studying his Latin lesson. There was the tremolo of discouragement in his voice as he remarked:

"I don't seem to get along with this lesson very well, father."

"Can't you say any of it?"

"Yes; I can say 'amo, amas, amat'; and then I always forget what comes next.

"What does those words mean, Johnny?" asked Mr. Cumrox, who deserves credit for being always ready to add to a somewhat deficient early education.

"They mean 'I love, thou lovest, he loves.'"

"It does seem too bad to see you starting in so soon," the old gentleman mused, "with the difficulties that has always surrounded that verb. But you might as well commence young to learn that them words in one way or another cause two-thirds of the botheration that occurs in this life."

"Please, can I quit school, then?"

"No; it wouldn't be any use. You couldn't dodge 'em, and you might as well go right along and get as familiar with them as possible. You'll find that learnin' 'em ain't half the worry that handlin' 'em is after ye know 'em. Cheer up, Johnny, and remember that most of your trouble is still ahead of you."—Washington Star.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

TRADE MARK.

This is to certify that I, James Ross, Tollgate Keeper, of the Town of Woodstock, Ont., have been a sufferer from Indigestion and a very weak stomach for a number of years, and have tried a great many medicines of different kinds, but could only obtain temporary relief for a short time, but after using one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic I could perceive a great difference. My indigestion was better and my stomach was much stronger than before, and I found I had gained several pounds in flesh, where I was weak and thin in flesh before. I think I used nine or ten bottles in all, and I am now a healthy man, but still I do not want to be without the medicine in the house, and I procure one or two bottles every year, and I can truthfully recommend Sloan's Indian Tonic to others suffering from the same complaint.

AN AWFUL SORE

A Babe's Untold Suffering And Mother's Many Sleepless Nights.

CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS.

I herewith write out in full the beginning and end of that terrible disease, Eczema, which caused my babe untold suffering, and myself many sleepless nights.

My baby was born seemingly a fair, healthy child, but when she was three weeks old a swelling appeared on the back of her head, and in course of time broke. Every one called it a boil, and, now it had broken, would soon heal, but that was only the beginning of the trouble. It did not heal but grew worse, and the sore spread from the size of a dime to that of a dollar. I used all kinds of remedies that I could think of but nothing seemed to help, in fact it grew worse, her hair fell out where the sore was and I feared it would never grow again. It continued until my aged father came on a visit, and when he saw the baby he told me "to get CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA ointment right away." To please him I did so, and to my surprise, by their use the sore began to heal over, the hair grew over it, and to-day she has a nice head of hair, her skin is as fair as a lily, and she has no scar left to recall that awful sore.

CUTICURA soothes and allays all itching and burning that cause a child to fret and the mother to worry, and gives rest and comfort both to parent and child.

Mrs. WM. BYER, Elk River, Minn.

MR. BLEZARD VISITS THE NORTH COUNTRY.

A SPLENDID MEETING HELD AT APSLEY.

A Large Gathering—Report of Mr. Blezard's Comprehensive Address—His Northern Supporters Rally Round Him Nobly — Other Addresses.

Mr. Blezard arrived at Apsley Monday evening last, the 14th inst, for the purpose of addressing the electors of this section of the country in the interests of the Reform party.

The Town Hall was the place of meeting, and by 7 30 p.m. the building was comfortably filled by the electorate, all anxious for the meeting to open, and once more hear the stentorian tones of their able and respected representative of the Local Legislature.

Mr. A. Brown, sr, was voted to the chair. On rising to call the meeting to order he said that this was not the first time he had had the honour of filling the chair at one of Mr. Blezard's meetings. He thanked the meeting for having placed him in that position. He said that he had been closely identified with the Liberal party for the past nineteen years, and had followed up the different measures brought up in the House, which were always supported by Mr. Blezard when there was the least semblance of good accruing from them, especially to any measure which interested the back country. He considered that Mr. Blezard in the past nineteen years had served us well. He had been most painstaking in trying to find out our wants, and when it was at all possible, he always succeeded in supplying them. What more could he do, and what better could we do than give Mr. Blezard to again elect him to a seat in the Legislature as the representative of the East Riding of Peterborough? He would now call upon Mr. Blezard to explain all the leading topics of the day and deal with the questions which are engaging public attention. By this time the hall was packed full, many having standing room only.

Mr. Blezard, on rising, said that it gave him the greatest pleasure to again meet the people of the back country, especially the people at and around Apsley. He always felt thoroughly at home when here. He was very glad indeed to see such a gathering here to-night of his friends and supporters, but he felt rather delicate about again appearing before them to ask for their support as a candidate for member of Parliament, as the last time he was before them he had said that he should never again address them seeking for support for himself, and he would not be here to-night with that object in view but for the circumstances under which he was placed by his friends. At the convention at Norwood he had gone there with the determination of not accepting the nomination if it was offered to him, but his friends had determined otherwise. They would not hear of him dropping out, and so there being so many against his decision he had at last given in, which now accounted for his presence here to-night, and as he had decided to be their standard bearer once more he was going to do his utmost to win the race. (Applause.) He said that the opposing party had been a long time in selecting his opponent. They had at last, by bringing prevailed on Dr. Ford to come out and oppose him in the interests of the Conservative party. He did not know whether the people were acquainted with Dr. Ford or not, but he would say that he was a thorough gentleman in every way and that no doubt we would have an opportunity of hearing what he had to say before election day, he was now going to give them a few facts and figures himself, and when they had heard both sides of the questions of the day they would be able to judge for themselves what was the right thing to do on March 1st, whether by casting their votes for him (Mr. Blezard) which would be supporting a good, honest, economical and progressive administration, or for Dr. Ford, who was upholding a party who had nothing in the world to prove wrong against the present Reform Government, but whose only cry was "That it was time for a change." (Loud cheers.) On resuming his address Mr. Blezard said that since his last appearance among us that a change had taken place in the head of the Government, the Hon. Sir Oliver Mowat, who had been our respected Premier for nearly twenty-five years, having retired to take up a position in the Dominion Cabinet, and having since that been placed in the highest position in the Province, that of Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, which is a well deserved tribute for the able manner in which he guided the ship of state for so many years. We cannot help regretting his retirement from the leadership, but when we know that he left as his successor to office a gentleman in every way fitted to carry on what he had left, we feel more satisfied with the result. I refer to the Hon. A. S. Hardy, our present Attorney General, who was ever at the elbow of Sir Oliver Mowat in conducting the affairs of the Province, and, therefore, from his experience was the most suitable man for the position. He was a man that had

from the seat he (Mr. Blezard) now occupied to his present position as Premier of the first and fairest Province of the Dominion. With him as Attorney General and the capable colleagues that were with him in his Cabinet no wonder that the affairs of the Province were in a satisfactory and progressive and prosperous condition. There were, Mr. Blezard said, a great number of new acts passed in the last four years which were of the most vital importance to the country, acts which had done the greatest good to the Province and to all communities. He dwelt at some length on the amendment to the act of the alteration of the age from 18 to 21 years of minors who were debarred from getting a drink of intoxicating liquor in a hotel, saying that it was computed that there were upwards of 135,000 youths of that age in the province who were prohibited from drinking in bar-rooms, which was virtually prohibition for 135,000 inhabitants of Ontario. Then again another strike had been made in that line by calling off saloon licenses, a place where you could not get anything but a drink of liquor, no meals, no accommodation for your horse or yourself, and no earthly good to the travelling public. The wayside taverns every 3 or 4 miles had also been done away with, which gave not only a better chance to the hotel men who kept a good stopping place to do business, but also put the temptation out of the way of your sons to go to such places of an evening to drink and play cards and learn bad habits. (Loud cheers.)

The next thing Mr. Blezard said he would take up was the revenue and expenditures of the province. The Opposition contended that the Sandfield Macdonald Government had left and I have no doubt when my opponent comes back here he will tell you so, and and that it was a large sum, upwards of $4,000,000. There was no such a sum. There was only about $3,800,000, and what surplus there was was already voted away by that government for the aid of railways—$1,500,000, and yet they say we squandered it. Our present administration, instead of hoarding up their revenue, give it back to the people in the shape of grants. There are yearly grants to county treasurers, school board trustees, agricultural societies, hospitals, charitable institutions and asylums. He was sorry to say that the accommodations of the insane asylums have had to be increased, but is it not a laudable thing to say that if any of your family should be so unfortunate as to be bereft of their reason that there are suitable places to put them where they will be well taken care of, and if there is any chance of a cure they will be cured. If a large amount of money has been spent on such institutions has it not been well spent for such an object? (Yes, and hear, hear). The cry of the Opposition is that we are on the verge of direct taxation. Nineteen years ago when I first stood on the platform on an electioneering campaign that was then the cry—that we were on the verge of direct taxation. Mr. Carnegie at that time followed me around from place to place and spoke on those lines, and he spoke so often, and so well, on the subject that I began to actually believe that it must be so, and I was shaking in my shoes for fear of the result. That, gentlemen, was 19 years ago, and we are no nearer direct taxation now than we were then, and if the present Administration holds the reins of power, 19 years from now will not see

DIRECT TAXATION.

Our timber, which handled as it is by the present Administration, is nearly inexhaustible, is one of our greatest resources of revenue. The Dominion Government if they had had control of that timber, would have thrown that great means of revenue away, as they sold when they had control of it the limits for $5.00 per square mile. The Sandfield Macdonald Government in their time sold the limits for $262 00 per square mile, while the present administration have received over $1200 00 per square mile on their sales, and also receive a ground rent of $3.00 per square mile and the lumbermen pay into the treasury $1.00 and $1 25 for every thousand feet of pine cut by them You will see by these figures what a great reform has been made by a careful and far seeing administration now under such a capable head. During the past twenty-six years there have been some of the finest buildings erected in the province that stand in the world to day, take for one the Parliament buildings at Toronto which cost upwards of a million dollars, these buildings were erected out of current revenue not a dollar was borrowed for that purpose. The late Hon. Christopher Fraser took the whole work under his own personal supervision, there was hardly a brick, or a piece of timber placed in those buildings but what he examined, everything placed in the buildings was of the first quality. What is the result of such efficiency? These buildings stand to day, the wonder of all people, how such a magnificent pile could be constructed so well, and so cheaply, is the wonder of the age. People come from all parts of the Dominion and other countries to examine the structure and for their own public buildings to be erected in the future. Why should not this Province of ours be prosperous and second to none when such capable men have the administration of affairs in hand? With these buildings the asylums and other institutions built by this Government together with aid to municipalities throughout the Province it is a great wonder that Ontario has a surplus. There is a standing grant of the House of $3,000 per mile for the construction of a railroad through new parts of the country like this, any company being formed for that purpose can call on the Government for that amount.

A voice—We had better form a company at once; a railroad is what we want.

Mr Blezard said: Well, you will find it there for that purpose when it is called upon. He further said he had been accused of bribery and corruption in procuring grants every year for the back country for Colonization Roads. He said that ever since he had sat in the House, he had done his level best to procure as much money as possible for that object, but he never had got, in his estimation, half enough. He had procured during the last nineteen years upwards of $50,000 for this back country. He had a grant now of $2,000 to be expended next summer by you people here. You require money for your roads. It is your right that you should receive money back from the revenue collected by sales of timber berths to make your roads. He said that if that was bribery and corruption—getting you people what is justly your right to have, I shall, if elected as your representative, again have to keep on continuing bribery and corruption more than ever. Another great source of revenue, or will be in the future, are

THE SUCCESSION DUTIES.

That is an act that has become law, taxing large amounts of inherited property. It is not likely that it will ever bother myself nor any of you here as a tax, as it is only levied on amounts over $100,000. The present Government should receive great credit for the framing of this act. Since its inception there has been some $744,376 collected on estates over $100,000. No estate less than that amount pays any duty under any circumstances. It very rarely falls upon direct heirs, remote heirs in nearly every case having to bear the burden. There has only lately been a case in Toronto where a revenue from these succession duties has been secured, whereas if that act had not been in force a large amount would have been lost to the Province. An old lady died worth some three millions of money, which sum she has left to a small boy, who perhaps will never know what to do with it. He will never miss the slice taken off for these duties, and the money will be expended where it will do the most good. Mr. Blezard then referred to the school books. He said that he was at a meeting in Lakefield where Mr. Garvin, the opponent of Mr. J. R. Stratton in the West Riding, was on the platform. He, Mr. Garvin, held up a school book in one hand and a dime novel in the other, and compared the two as to cost. There was no comparison between the two. The school book was printed on good paper and well bound and would last the average scholar some three or four years. The novel if carried a short time by the same scholar would be extinct and worn out in no time. It was printed on poor paper and poorly bound, the school book being far the cheapest in the end. He said he considered the school books were not out of the way as regards price,

CONSIDERING THE MATTER

contained in them. Mr. Blezard then said that he thought perhaps he had held the meeting long enough. He thought he had spoken on all the necessary subjects of the day. He hoped that he had not forgotten anything of importance. He said that most of those present had known him as their representative for the past nineteen years, and during that time he had watched with care every new project brought up in the House that would affect our interests and the interests of the province at large. He would not support any measure that was brought up that he did not consider was in their interests. He said he was a farmer like themselves and looked out specially for the farming interests and for his own riding of East Peterborough. If you consider that I have done for you as you ought to have been done by, come out on March 1st to the polls and record your vote for me and by so doing you will show your appreciation of as sound and honest and economical government as was ever known to the civilized world. I thank you all for the patient hearing that you have given me. Perhaps someone else present would like to speak or ask a question. Anything that has not been made clear to you to night I will be glad to explain to the best of my ability. I do not pretend to be a scholar nor an orator, but I claim to have to know right from wrong, and feel sure that the party to whom I have the honour to belong is doing everything which is fair and right for the good of the province. (Loud applause.)

The chairman, Mr. Brown, then called upon Mr. David Campbell, of Chandos, who was present at the meeting, to come up on the platform. Mr. Campbell addressed the meeting in a few well-chosen words. He said that he felt proud of being a supporter of Mr. Blezard, who was supporting such a good Government. He felt sure that we were safe in Mr. Blezard's hands. He knew perfectly well that Mr. Blezard would always do what was right with the people of the back country. The roads in this back country showed for themselves what has been done by the present Government towards the building of them and their maintenance and making them fit for travel. Only for the assistance we received in this way at their hands we would be shut in. Our milk waggons could not get out to the factories for the people were too poor at present to keep up the roads themselves unaided, and if we had no roads the cheese factories would be compelled to shut down, which would be taking away one of the settlers' principal sources of revenue in the summer time. He would not keep the meeting any longer on his account but hoped that on March 1st the people would follow his example by voting for Mr. Blezard and thereby assist in returning him again to Parliament as the representative of the East Riding of Peterborough with a substantial majority.

Mr. J. W. Ratcliffe was the next speaker who made a few remarks endorsing the previous speakers.

Mr. Wm, Gallon, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Blezard for the very able and lucid manner in which he had addressed the meeting. This was carried unanimously.

Cheers were given for the Queen and Mr. Blezard, thus bringing to a close one of the most influential and enthusiastic meetings ever held in the East Riding in the interests of the Reform candidate and honest government.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Price Tea Store, 328 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do beat the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. BRITAIN AND FRANCE

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE FRENCH

They Have Advanced on Sokoto and the Royal Niger Company Has Been Instructed to Compel the Retirement of the French—A Very Grave and Critical Situation.

Akassa, Niger Coast Protectorate, West Africa, Feb. 21.—Intelligence has arrived here that two French expeditions are advancing toward Sokoto, capital of the Sultanate of Sokoto, on the Sokoto River, in the extreme north of the Hausa States, and that six French officers, with a force of 200 men, have arrived at Argungu (Argungi) and Tagga. The former town is an important place on the Sokoto River, about half way between the Sultan's capital and the River Niger, and is within the British sphere.

The Sultan of Sokoto has commanded the French force to halt about 40 miles from the capital. The Royal Niger Company's representative, Deputy Agent General William Wallace, is holding the company's forces, with ammunition and stores, in readiness, and is awaiting instructions to assist the Sultan of Sokoto and to secure French evacuation of British territory.

Told to Drive Them Out.

London, Feb. 21.—It is asserted on good authority that the Royal Niger Company has been instructed, after trying all peaceable means, to compel the retirement of the French from British territory by force. The Sultanate of Sokoto is a feudatary of the company and was recently placed under British protection.

The situation is regarded as extremely grave. Great Britain's force in the protectorate district numbers between 5,000 and 6,000 men under British officers, in Lagos and Gold Coast Hinterland.

YOUNG BLOOD FIERY

And Not to Be Depended Upon Under the Strain Now Between Britain and France in West Africa.

London, Feb. 21.—The danger of leaving explosives about in the shape of armed bands roaming in the disputed sphere under youthful officers has been amply illustrated in West Africa, where the intermingling of French and British troops has already caused incidents which threaten the most grave complications. Happily, the positive instructions of both Governments have thus far been obeyed and an actual collision has been avoided. But the fuse is alight, and unless France withdraws from her provocative attitude, or Great Britain continues the graceful concession policy she has hitherto observed towards the French claims, an explosion is bound to follow.

Next week the supplementary estimate of £150,000 for the West African expenses will be presented to the House of Commons, and an interesting debate may be expected. Probably the most vital point is not so much the possession of territory as freedom of commerce. Another 26 British officers and non commissioned officers group sailed to-day for West Africa, accompanied by immense quantities of war munitions. As even the unalarmist Statist points out, the troubles augment. It says:

"Besides India, we have on hand the campaign of the Nile, fighting in West Africa, Uganda, Zululand and Charterland, numerous disputes with France, the relations between the United States and Canada are far from satisfactory, and there are critical situations both in the far East and the Near West. Added to this, the state of France, the struggles of the nationalists of Austro-Hungary, the unrest in the Balkans, the apparent breaking up of the concert and the uncertainty as to how the powers will group anew, the army of Japan, the Cuban imbroglio, and the state of South Africa, and it must be admitted that the general outlook is not reassuring."

Growing More Critical.

London, Feb. 21.—The press continues its warning that the situation in West Africa, between France and Great Britain, is growing more critical. It is impossible to abandon the British flag without loss of honor, it is said.

According to the Daily Chronicle, France and Germany are casting covetous eyes upon Liberia and are contemplating its annexation.

It is widely accepted that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, is endeavoring to put backbone into the Marquis of Salisbury's dealings with France, Mr. Chamberlain persisting in viewing the matter purely from the point of view of the Colonial Office, and urging above all things the maintenance of Great Britain's interest as a colonizing power.

Sir Thomas Pemyss Reid, editor of the Speaker, is responsible for the statement that Mr. Chamberlain would have pushed his pro-British policy in Africa to the risk of war, and the Marquis of Salisbury's attitude in opposing it, therefore, lends some countenance to the gossip that the Queen has informed the Marquis of Salisbury that she will never again sign a declaration of war.

A Revolution in France.

London, Feb. 21.—A striking article in the Westminster Gazette, by William T. Stead, says: "The news from the Niger is only serious because of the news from France. The net effect of the news from Paris to-day is that France is once more in full revolution. The third republic, although nominally still in situ, no longer exists. The long-expected upset has arrived at last, and has arrived almost to the very day, exactly fifty years after the revolution of 1848. The coup d'etat of General Boisdeffre differs from the coup d'etat of Napoleon III. only in the degree of brutality of its accessories. When the chief of the French general staff, the nerve centre of the grey matter of the brain which directs, controls and governs the whole armed force of France, enters into a court of law to proclaim to a jury that unless they return a verdict to his liking, 'the chiefs who are at the head of the army, and who organize national defence, are ready to leave their task to others,' there is no longer any Republic Government in France."

Sir Charles Dilke's Opinion.

London, Feb. 21.—Sir Clarke Dilke, M.P., the well-known authority on foreign affairs, whose question in the House of Commons Friday night elicited information from Colonial Secretary Chamberlain regarding the dangerous situation in West Africa, said in an interview that he thought the other powers would not interest themselves in the Anglo-French dispute for the reason that the West African question was only of vital interest to England and France.

The state of affairs in West Africa, he added, was what he had always anticipated might be reached in Newfoundland at any moment. He had considered the Newfoundland question the only dangerous one between France and England, because of the ever-present risk of conflict on a spot which would appear to engage national honor. Now there was imminent risk of the same thing all over West Africa.

Home to Cross the Bar.

London, Feb. 21.—It is said that Mr. Gladstone has come home to die. An eyewitness who saw his departure from the Riviera and his arrival at Calais reports a striking change in the old statesman's appearance. Arrangements had been made at Calais to carry his chair from the train to the hotel; but Mr. Gladstone was determined to walk the distance, thirty yards, and was carefully assisted down the steps, enveloped in coats and rugs. Heavily leaning on the arms of two gentlemen, he slowly tottered to the hotel. Mr. Gladstone was met at the railway station by a large gathering of friends.

Our Fast Steamship Line.

London, Feb. 21.—It is asserted that considerable progress has recently been made in the realization of the fast mail service with Canada. New arrangements have been completed by which the mails will be carried over the Canadian Pacific Railway to British Columbia, for Australia, and it is said that five 22 knot boats, costing £425,000 each, have already been ordered.

Two Waterloo Pioneers Gone.

Waterloo, Ont., Feb. 21.—Mr. Isaac Hoffman, one of the oldest and most respected citizens, died Sunday morning from paralysis of the heart, in his 64th year.

Another pioneer passed away in the person of Mrs. Hachborn on Mary street, at an advanced age of 77 years.

Passenger Trains in Collision.

Rockford Ill., Feb. 21.—Two passenger trains collided in the blinding snowstorm eight miles south of here Saturday evening at the crossing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and Burlington roads, killing two trainmen and injuring about 25 passengers.

A Change of Mind Cost Him $1,900.

Orangeville, Feb. 21.—The breach of promise suit of Miss Jessie Ann McLaren against William Barbour has been settled by the defendant paying Miss McLaren $1,900 and all the costs of the suit. Both parties to the suit are residents of Erin Township.

CAPE BRETON'S TURN.

Much Riches Found in the Whycocamah District.

ORE ASSAYS TO $144 PER TON.

The Salt Mountain Has Great Leads of the Yellow Metal—An Almost Exhaustless Amount of Quartz—Development to Proceed on a Larger Scale—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—For several months past, owing to the importance of gold discoveries in Nova Scotia, investigations have been carried on in new districts where heretofore no particular interest was taken as a gold region. An expert visited the Whycocamah district of Cape Breton about four months ago, and discovered indications of gold in Salt Mountain, Inverness county. The assays of ore have turned out so satisfactory that developments will be rapidly proceeded with. Mr. George W. Stuart, an expert mining engineer of Truro, has reported on the property, and the information which he gives is very remarkable. On his recommendation a tunnel has been run into the base of Salt Mountain, and the ore taken out of the tunnel, assayed by Mr. Hersey of McGill University. The assays were proved to run from $90 to $144 per ton. The amount of quartz at this point is said to be almost inexhaustible. The vein exposure on the surface is nearly 200 feet broad and extends in length for about three miles. It is the intention of the gentlemen who have secured the property to have a large quantity of ore assayed, and they are satisfied it will demonstrate the soundness of Mr. Hersey's assay. Nova Scotia has for years held the premier position as a gold mining province of the Dominion, and this wonderful discovery in Cape Breton will tend to assist Nova Scotia in maintaining its position, although there is bound to be an enormous development in the Yukon for the next few years.

Morley Ogilvie's Job.

Morley Ogilvie, son of William Ogilvie, the famous Yukon explorer, has been engaged as field manager for the Gold Hills Exploration and Development Company of Toronto, of which Hon. J. D. Edgar is president. Morley Ogilvie has had considerable experience in the Yukon region, which he will prospect for the company. He has taken the full science course at McGill University, and is a B.A., Ba. Sc. of McGill. He is at present in the service of the Government in the Geological Survey, but has given notice that he leaves them at the end of this month.

Where Petroleum May Go In.

The following are ports at which petroleum may be brought in in tank ships, according to the regulations prescribed by the Government, viz.: Toronto, Prescott, Kingston, Cobourg, Hamilton, Port Stanley, Sarnia, Port Arthur, Brockville, Port Hope, Port Dover, Windsor, Goderich, Owen Sound, St. John, Montreal, Quebec and Halifax.

The Nestor of Parliament.

Saturday was the ninety-fourth anniversary of Senator Wark, the Nestor of Parliament. He is possibly the oldest man in public life in the British Empire. He is a native of Taughboyne, near the city of Londonderry, in Ulster, and his long political career dates from his election to represent Kent County, New Brunswick, in the Legislative Assembly of that province, in December, 1843, upwards of 55 years ago. Since then he has been a member of the above-named body till the dissolution of 1850; of the New Brunswick Legislative Council from 1851 to 1867, and of the Senate of Canada from 1867.

Whisky Dues Go Up.

An Order-in-Council has been passed giving effect to Major Walsh's order increasing the dues to be paid for permits to sell liquor in the Yukon district from $5 a gallon to $9, under proof.

At the present time parties who desire to prospect for coal are not called upon to pay any fee for the same. By an Order-in-Council promulgated yesterday the Government fixes the fee at $10. By the new regulation parties applying for an extension of their permit are also called upon to pay a similar fee.

Mr. Perry, M.P., was very low last night. It is thought he cannot hold out for many days.

GRAND TRUNK ACTIVE.

One of Canada's Trunk Lines Seeking Entrance to Ohio's Coal Fields—The Movement Now on Foot.

Toledo, O., Feb. 21.—During the past few days evidences have been accumulating that the Grand Trunk Railway is actively seeking an entrance into Toledo and the bituminous coal fields of Ohio. Thus far transactions on the part of the railway company appear to have been conducted with the utmost secrecy, and very little of a definite character is known beyond the fact that just beyond the city limits certain farmers have signed contracts conveying to the Grand Trunk people the right of way through their property. It is rumored now that the company has secured an option on a large tract of land inside the city limits, to be used for freight yards and other terminal purposes. The location of this ground is also being kept a secret, although it is thought to be in the vicinity of the property of the Central Terminal Association, in the northern part of the city. It is generally understood that the Toronto branch of the Grand Trunk will be very nearly a straight cut to Detroit, where it will connect with the main line. The building of a Toledo line will give the Grand Trunk direct access to the coal fields of Ohio, a feature which the company seems to have had in view for a number of years past.

GOVERNMENT'S TIMBER POLICY.

The policy of the Government with regard to the timber resources of the Province may be very briefly stated.

1. To sell by public auction to the highest bidder.

2. To sell only when settlements or railways encroach on the timber belt, thus endangering its destruction by fire.

3. To reforest the timber lands previously cut down.

4. To apply the revenue from timber and Crown lands for the legitimate purposes of the Province.

Owing to the action of the Dingley bill, the Government considered it to be in the public interest to add to the ordinary conditions of the leases granted to lumbermen a condition that all timber cut in Ontario should be manufactured within the Province. By the act passed last session this condition does not apply to leases already in force, as the Government felt that it would be a breach of faith with the owners of timber limits to project into the lease, after it was issued, any new conditions. Mr. Whitney contends that the manufacturing clause should apply to lease already issued, and divided the House on this proposition. The majority of the House, however, sustained the Government in their desire to maintain the honour of the country in all contracts to which the seal of the province was attached. It will be observed that Mr. Whitney does not object to the sale of timber by auction nor to the application of the revenue from timber for public purposes, nor the sale of timber exposed to destruction by fire.

SALARIES OF PUBLIC SERVANTS

Much ado is being made by the Opposition about the alleged over-payment of the public servants of the province. A comparison between Ontario and other countries shows how unfair is such criticism, and that while Ontario's public institutions and public services are more cheaply maintained, and more efficiently, than those of any country in the world, her salaries for officials are lower than any other country.

Cabinet Ministers—Victoria, $10,000; South Australia, $15,000; West Australia, $5,000; Massachusetts, $5,000; Ontario, $4,800.

Deputy Ministers—Victoria, $4,800; South Australia, $3,000; West Australia, $3,000; Massachusetts, $3,500; Ontario, $3,200 to $3,800.

Sergeant-at-Arms — Victoria, $3,000; Massachusetts, $3,500; Ontario, $600.

Librarian—Victoria, $3,000; Massachusetts, $3,000; Ontario, $1,800.

Queen's Printer—Victoria, $3,500; South Australia, $3,500; West Australia, $3,000; Ontario, $1,400.

Clerk of the House—Victoria, $5,000; South Australia, $5,000; Ontario, $3,000.

Attorney General — West Australia, $3,500; Massachusetts, $3,500; Ontario, $3,400.

Inspector of Asylums—Victoria, $5,000; Ontario, $3,000.

Inspector of Jails—Victoria, $3,750; Ontario, $3,500.

Ministers' Secretaries—Victoria, $2,000; South Australia, $1,500 to $2,000; Ontario, $1,000 to $1,600.

In Ontario one official is Inspector of Insurance, Registrar of Friendly Societies, Registrar of Loan Companies, and Referee under the Succession Duties at a salary of $3,000.

In England four officials are employed for these, the total salaries being $31,500.

In New York the Inspector of Insurance receives $10,000 and the Assistant $7,000.

Mr. Whitney in the Opera House here on Friday night failed to tell where he would dispense with officials or reduce salaries. He didn't know. He hasn't looked at the subject practically. All he wants is the appointing of the officials. He is more concerned about that than reducing the expense. If he had any plan of improvement he would tell it quickly enough.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Is there any level headed Conservative or Independent who honestly believes—not, is trying to persuade himself to believe—that Mr. Whitney can reduce the annual current expenditure of the Province to any appreciable degree?

Is there any such man who honestly believes that Mr. Whitney will reduce the number of Provincial office holders to any extent? Will he name any class of them that are to be dispensed with?

Is there any such man who believes that the finances would be better handled, better audited, and the wealth of the Province better conserved, than they have been under Liberal rule?

TIMES charges that Premier Hardy and his Government have persistently favoured Michigan timber interests in preference to Canadian timber interests and wants to favour them, are false, and every decent Conservative knows they are false.

Every decent Conservative knows, whatever view he may take of the lines of the Government's policy, that Mr. Hardy is just as loyal to his country as is Mr. Whitney.

Let this insufferable, Peeksniffian "Our-party-is-more-loyal than-yours" be kicked out of decent company. There is no room for them in Canada's progress.

A SARNIA WONDER.

W. Barton got Health and Strength Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sarnia Feb. 21.—The case of Mr. T. Johnston of Osborne excites wide-spread interest here, as Mr. Johnston is well-known here, and the published report of his case is known to be true.

But William Barton of Sarnia claims to have been a still worse case than Mr. Johnston. Mr. Barton was afflicted with Bladder trouble for many years.

Doctors and medicines utterly failed to relieve him. His sufferings were almost beyond human endurance.

At length he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. As in scores of other cases in Sarnia, a cure followed in astonishingly short time. Six boxes were all he used. But they gave him perfect health and manly strength.

THE R.R. RATE WAR AND ITS CAUSES.

The Why and Wherefore According to the Canadian Pacific.

TO CHECKMATE RIVALS' MOVES.

Big Canadian Road Tells Its Story and Announces Big Cuts in Rates East and West to Meet the Underhand Cutting by Other Lines —Why It Believes It Will Win.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company gives its side of the rate war in the following official statement: For years past, by arrangement with its competitors for Pacific coast passenger business, the Canadian Pacific has been authorized to quote lower rates by its main line via Port Arthur than those in force by way of the other transcontinental lines, the difference being $7.50 on first-class tickets and $5 on second-class tickets. These are known in the railway world as differentials, and in this case they were accorded to the Canadian Pacific route, not only on Pacific coast business proper, but on business points beyond, reached through Pacific coast gateways, excepting trans-Pacific points.

Some weeks ago when the Klondike business commenced to move, and when it was anticipated that a large number of passengers would be offering, the western lines in the United States, with the cooperation of the Grand Trunk and other main lines, and without the concurrence of the Canadian Pacific, disregarded the differentials that had been in force, and openly quoted the same rates to and from Pacific coast points as those quoted by the Canadian line; indeed in their anxiety to secure as large a percentage of this business as possible, tariffs were ignored and tickets sold practically at any price that might be necessary to secure the passengers. As an illustration, in the early part of January agents of the Canadian Pacific Company purchased second-class tickets from several points in the east to the coast points, reading via the Great Northern and Northern Pacific lines, at rates ranging from $15.35 to $21.85 below tariff, and the movement, which in the first place was in the nature of a concert attack on the Canadian Pacific traffic, resulted in a war of rates between the Western United States lines constituting the combination to which I have referred.

When it was found that the same dishonest methods that had been adopted for the purpose of diverting traffic from the Canadian Pacific were being used in a more aggravated form by the western lines against each other, it was decided to hold a meeting, and the Canadian Pacific was invited to send a representative to agree upon and discuss rates. The Canadian Pacific replied that under existing conditions their representative at a meeting would be of no avail and at the same time suggested that the companies responsible for the demoralization of rates in the first place restore their tariffs, when the Canadian Pacific would be glad to attend a meeting for the purpose of assisting in maintaining rates. In other words, the Canadian Pacific very properly demanded that the status of each company under the agreement previously made should be first re-established, as it was when the rate-cutting commenced, before a meeting be convened to discuss a new agreement. The Canadian Pacific preferred to go into meeting to defend rights which it already possessed by consent of its competitors, rather than to hear from these competitors reasons why they had broken faith—reasons which no doubt would be accepted as sufficient by a meeting of the aggressors, by whom the Canadian Pacific would be outvoted 50 to 1.

Meantime the representatives of the western lines, unable to agree amongst themselves, have consulted the policy of business, cut the rates, knifing others by secret commissions, unsigned or improperly dated tickets, and every other device known to the railway ratecutters. Not satisfied with the demoralization of rates on this continent, they have also allowed trans-Atlantic lines to deduct commissions amounting to $17.50 per passenger, thereby extending their system of cutting into Europe. The Canadian Pacific has pursued a most conservative policy, holding aloof from the insane scrimmage and standing practically alone in its effort to bring the delinquents to their senses. Finding that it was helpless, and that the rate situation of the western lines was growing worse day by day, the Canadian Pacific, having observed the requirements of law, which had been quite ignored by its competitors, filed a schedule of passenger rates to take effect Feb. 19, making its published tariff rates as low, as far as it knows, as the lowest that had been secretly given by any of the other routes, and it contemplates a continuance of this practice of fitting and publishing as its open tariff the very lowest rates that may be justified by the action of the other lines or any of them.

The Canadian Pacific, with its own line from the Atlantic to the Pacific, has a larger interest at stake than any of the lines forming links in the other transcontinental systems, and for the same reason it is in a better position to take such strong measures as may be necessary for the protection of its traffic without substantial sacrifice of revenue. It does not act to deprive its neighbors of business legitimately theirs, but it will not remain passive aand permit those neighbors to steal its traffic or reduce its revenue by improper and unbusinesslike methods. The Canadian Pacific deplores the necessity for radical measures in an endeavor to bring about a better condition of things, but its friends need not have any fear of the result, financially or otherwise.

FOR THE EAST ALSO.

Complications in the War Which Will Benefit Eastbound Passengers.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Fresh complications have been added to the passenger rate war by the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, of the Canadian Pacific line, announcing the reduction of rates westbound from Duluth and other Lake Superior points to New York, Boston, Portland, Me., Halifax and other points in the East, to about the same basis as those made by the Canadian Pacific westbound. This will necessitate the meeting of the rates by the Chicago-St. Paul lines. The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific also applied the cut rates eastbound from Seattle and Tacoma, and carried the reductions through to Chicago, leaving the Chicago lines no choice in the matter. A strenuous effort will be made, however, to keep the reduction out of the Missouri River gateways.

A Stir in Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—The rate war is causing a good deal of stir here, and the people who travel and don't hold C.P.R. stock are getting the benefit. It is understood that the C.P.R. decided upon the cut in order to have the trouble over and the rates adjusted before the heavy western travel sets in in April next. In the meantime it is expected that a big cut will be made to-day between Montreal and Toronto.

No Effect in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—The reduced fares which the Canadian Pacific are offering to the coast have not as yet increased the traffic out of Toronto. The connection for the Pacific coast, which leaves here at 12.30, had its usual complement of passengers. It carried 75 men, engaged by contract to work on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, 21 Barnardo boys for distribution through the west, no Klondike parties and but few passengers for the coast. If there is going to be a rush of people for the coast at the reduced rates to-day's trains will show it.

The Grand Trunk handled 95 cars of cattle through Toronto Sunday en route from Chicago to Portland.

IN LEITER'S CONTROL.

That Seems to Be the Case With Wheat —Local Grain Markets Firm —All the Prices.

Saturday Evening, Feb. 19.

May wheat on curb $1.06¾.

Liverpool wheat futures ¼d higher.

Puts on May wheat $1.02¼, calls $1.12.

In Chicago the price of May wheat was advanced to $1.00, the highest yet quoted. It is generally conceded that Leiter has bought possibly 12,000,000 bushes of wheat to be delivered in May and that his cash holdings in Chicago and elsewhere will amount to very nearly 20,000,000 bushels, which is thought to comprise nearly all the contract wheat in the country. The December shorts, it will be remembered, were enabled to cover by buying contract wheat in the Northwest, but it is not expected that May shorts will be able to do this.

Better In Every Way.

Mr. William Killackey, 32 Euclid Ave. says he suffered from nervous trouble, loss of memory and general weakness and debility. He tried everything he could hear of and was almost giving up when he bought Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. In the first 10 days he gained 5 lbs. In the second 10 days the gain was 4 lbs.; his muscles got firm, his flesh solid, and he feels better in every way. He is at work every day, and all day. I can't recommend Ward's Pills too highly, says Mr. Killackey.

Head and Throat Catarrh.

Catarrh in the head and throat for years. Some of the best doctors in Toronto tried hard but could not cure me. They said no more could be done. I became alarmed at the repeated failures and tried Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills as a last resort. The result is my catarrh is cured, strength and appetite are restored, and I am now strong and well as ever.

Brain Worry and Breakdown.

I lacked confidence, snap, vim and energy. My vitality was low, my brain was worried and troubled so much that my system broke down. I got no benefit from all the other remedies I tried until at last I used Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. They restored my health to robust vigor, and increased my weight surprisingly. My nerve power came back and I feel like I used to feel.

I urge others to try them if they want to enjoy life.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Cures Erysipelas, Salt Rheum Eczema and all other eruptive Skin Diseases.

TRADE MARK.

A Marvelous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for a change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred W. Leiskau, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

In the evening a grand concert and hop will be held in the Opera House, the attendance being limited to Foresters and their friends.

AN ELOQUENT PAULIST.

Rev. Father Murphy, of New York, Lectures in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Rev. Father Murphy, a Paulist Father of the Archdiocese of New York, and whose mother resides in town, preached to a large congregation in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday evening.

The reverend gentleman has developed into a pulpit orator of a very high order, and his sermon last evening was a masterly one in every respect.

He spoke from the text, "This is the blood of the New Testament, which shall be shed for the remission of sins." He prefaced his remarks by a beautiful allusion to the scene on Calvary's hill, where Christ, through His ignominious death, demonstrated his intense love for man. He referred to the indifference and ungratefulness manifested by man in return for this love, and although our words might speak eloquent of our deep love for Christ, our actions spoke eloquent of our ingratitude for the love He has manifested towards us.

Christ's mercy was beautifully illustrated in His reproof to the Scribes and Pharisees, when turning to the woman of sin on His journey from Galilee to the Holy City, He told her to go and sin no more.

The speaker pointed to the Sacrament of Penance as a fountain of God's mercy, where sinners could seek consolation and learn of God's deep and undying love for man.

OUR BOYS' CONTEST.

On Friday evening last there was a very interesting meeting in the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Jno. Laing gave an excellent paper on "Companionship." The second part of the evening took the form of a social and prior to the refreshments a discussion took place regarding the various departments of the boys' work.

It was decided to boom the membership by having a Red and Blue contest, which will close on April 1st. The following are the sides:

Reds—C Whiten, N Cameron, P Jameson, H Daly, F Hawkins, R Davidson, E Best, Boy Armstrong, G Ferguson.

Blues—A Froude, H Wood, R Cameron, C Kempt, H Cleeves, G Perkin, H Sackville, G Rundle and S Bradd.

BIT HER TONGUE,

And Made a Cut Fully an Inch Long—It was Stitched.

Matilda Graham, the little nine-year-old daughter of Mr. Joseph Graham, fell while playing in the school yard on Friday, and in some manner bit her tongue longitudinally, making a cut fully an inch long. Dr. Clarke stitched up the wound, which bled so profusely as to greatly exhaust the little girl.

CATHOLIC ASSOCIATION NOTES.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, will deliver an address in the Association rooms on Monday evening next, Feb. 28th. His subject will be "Civilization and its essentials."

The St. Patrick's Day concert in the Opera House promises to be an excellent one in every respect, a first-class programme having been arranged.

Two sleigh loads of Association members drove to Douro last Thursday evening and gave an excellent entertainment in St. Patrick's Hall.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHEESE BOARD.

MR. J. M. DRUMMOND RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR 1898.

Salesman to be Regulated if Found Selling Privately off the Board—Only Up Beam Weight to be Given Hereafter.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held on Saturday afternoon in the town council chamber.

In addressing the salesmen and makers, President Drummond expressed regret at the fact of the death of one of the best buyers on the Board in the person of Mr. Madden. The salesmen had always been pleased with his methods of business, and he would suggest that a letter of condolence be forwarded to the family from the Board. A question which would have to be taken up was that in reference to the appointment of an inspector and instructor. From reports it was evident cheese would be low next season, so it was all the more necessary that the standard be kept up in order to secure the best prices going. It was also important that the milk of each cow be increased. Last season was one of the best ever experienced in flow of milk. He urged that the services of Mr. Kerr, as instructor, be retained, and spoke strongly on the discontinuance of private sales, which he stated would end in breaking down the Board. The matter of the two pound up beam weights which is given with the last half of October cheese was also taken up. Mr. Drummond thought this was excessive. Out of 143 boxes which Keene factory had left over from the fall of '96 till the spring of '97, the shrinkage was only 123 pounds. If the factory had sold in the fall therefore and given the two pound up beam weight per box the patrons would have lost 163 pounds. More money was thus lost in the fall than would pay an instructor. Over 7,000 cheese were sold last October, and of this 3 000 boxes might be considered "last half." This meant a loss of 6,000 pounds to the patrons. He would suggest that one pound up beam weight would be sufficient to give with the last half of October.

Mr. Galvin cited an instance of where he had held over cheese, and through the saving in the up-beam allowance had made over $300 for his factory.

Treasurer Edwards submitted a statement showing the receipts during the year to be $230 62, and the disbursements $167 22 leaving a balance of $63 40, of which $50 was owing the instructor.

Mr. Galvin was in favour of the re-appointment of Mr. Kerr as instructor and inspector as all the reports received of him were most flattering.

On motion the President, Vice-President and Secretary were appointed a committee to draft a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Mr. Madden.

The secretary read a letter from the Ottawa Board of Trade asking for the bylaws and constitution of the Peterborough Cheese Board and stating that they were reputed to be the best in the Province.

Officers for the year were elected as follows:

Pres.—J. M. Drummond.
Vice-Pres.—Geo. Stewart.
Sec.—John Riddell.
Treas.—Samuel Edwards.

On motion of Messrs. Riddell and Stewart, Mr. Kerr was re-engaged as Instructor and Inspector, and the fee of the factories fixed at $5.

A resolution was then passed to simply give up beam weight with the cheese hereafter, instead of the extra half pound and that in the case of the last half of October, if shipped out by Nov. 15th, one pound up beam weight will be given.

Another motion was passed to the effect that if any factory made arrangements to privately sell its cheese, the salesman will not be admitted to the privileges of the Board until a fine has been imposed and paid.

The Board then adjourned.

Comic Opera To-night.

"The Isle of Champagne," the most successful comic opera Americans have known in years, will be seen at the Opera House to-night. It will be presented by a company of seventy artists, including a complete ballet and orchestra. The stars are Richard Golden of "Old Jed Prouty" fame, and Katherine Germaine, formerly of "The Fencing Master." The production is said to be complete in every detail, both as to costumes and scenic environments, is under the direction of D. Blers & Co., and will be one of the most gorgeous and amusing entertainments ever seen in this city. The book of "The Isle of Champagne" is by Charles Byrne and Louis Harrison and music by Gustav Kerker. It is bright and catchy throughout. The opera has been playing the capacity of each theatre wherever presented this season, and will doubtless do the same here.

A PRESENTATION.

To Mr. Joseph Jones From the Members of St. Paul's Choir.

On Friday evening several of the members of St. Paul's church choir had a pleasant task deputed to them when they were instructed to call upon Mr. Joseph Jones, and to present him with a pair of gold rimmed spectacles on behalf of the choir.

Mr. Jones has been a member of St. Paul's choir for eight years, and as he is leaving to-day for the Crow's Nest pass in the interests of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co., the choir thought it was a good opportunity of expressing their appreciation of his services, and the presentation was made accompanied by a letter conveying the sentiments of the choir.

WEDDED IN EMILY.

Nuptials of Miss Jennie R. Rutherford and Mr. Joseph Tully.

A most interesting event took place on Wednesday last at the residence of Mr. John Rutherford of Emily, when his second daughter, Miss Jennie, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Tully, who resides in Smith, near Fowler's Corners.

The bride, who looked most attractive, was assisted by Miss Maggie Runnings, Simcoe street, town, and the groomsman was Mr. J. P. Dickson, also of town.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Tanner of Omemee.

A large number of guests were present, and the many gifts received by the bride were unusually pretty.

LASSWADE WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Mary J. Bullied and Mr. John McFadden United in Marriage.

One of the prettiest weddings that ever occurred in the vicinity of Lasswade was that which took place on Wednesday, Feb. 16th, at the residence of Mr. John Bullied, whose daughter, Miss Mary, was united in marriage to Mr. John McFadden.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe, of Stouffville, in the presence of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was attired in a beautiful wedding costume, was assisted by her sister, Miss Eliza A. Bullied.

The groom was ably assisted by Mr. T. J. Wilson.

After the ceremony the assembled guests sat down to sumptuous wedding supper, the rest of the evening being spent in a social manner.

CHURCH CHIMES.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

"Walking with God" was the subject and Genesis v., 24—"Enoch walked with God and he was not, for God took him"—was the text of a very helpful sermon preached on Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph.B.

At the evening service he chose as his subject "Procrastination." The text was Acts xxiv., 25; "As he reasoned of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come, Felix trembled and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season I will call for thee." The dangers of delay were faithfully pointed out. He also urged all to work against intemperance.

All, young and old, will find a welcome at Sunday school at 2.30 every Sunday. Come, help and be help.

Miss Edna Armstrong will take the topic at the E. L. to-night at 8 o'clock.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be withdrawn this week to enable all to attend the E. L. convention in George street church.

Mr. J. Batten will lead the cottage prayer meeting at Mr. J. Armstrong's, on Brown street. The leader will give a short talk on sanctification.

Next Sunday Rev. J. McCamus, of Norwood, and Rev. Mr. Moore, will exchange pulpits and preach educational sermons.

There will be a trustee meeting at the parsonage on Saturday evening, March 5, at 7.30, to consider very important business.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH SERVICES.

The following programme of Lenten services was distributed in St. Luke's church yesterday:

Next Wednesday being Ash Wednesday morning prayer will be at 10.30, and evening prayer with sermon by the rector, at 8.

A series of lectures will be given in the school house on the Wednesdays of Lent, to which the public is cordially invited.

March 2—The religious teaching of Tennyson and Browning, by Rev. H. Symonds.
March 9—Macbeth, by Sheriff Hall.
March 16—Good Citizenship, by Rev. L. McCalg.
March 23—The Temple, by Mr. D. Spence.
March 30—Charles Kingsley, by Rev. H. Symonds.

On the Friday evenings during Lent, at 8 o'clock, a course of short lectures on "The Life, Labours and Character of St. Paul," will be given by Rev. H. Symonds, to which the public is cordially invited:—

Feb. 25—St. Paul before his Conversion.
March 4—St. Paul's Conversion.
March 11—St. Paul's Preaching about Law and Gospel.
March 18—St. Paul as a Missionary.
March 25—St. Paul as a man.
April 1—St. Paul's Doctrine of the Church.
April 8—St. Paul's Doctrine of Sacrifice.

The Sunday morning sermons during Lent will be on the Epistles, and on Sunday evenings a course of sermons entitled "Types of Christian Service" will be delivered, as follows:—(1) Sainteship, (2) Service, (3) Ruling, (4) Business, (5) Self-Discipline, (6) Suffering, (7) Victory (Easter Sunday evening).

AFTER OFFICE.

The Review seems to grow rabid because the EXAMINER pointed out through the Toronto World that the Opposition was anxious for office. The reason why the so-called "officialism" of the Government is denounced is to lead the public to believe that the Opposition does not care for office. But is that the case? The World, as quoted in these columns, made as strong an appeal as could be made for a chance at the sweets of office. After pointing out that "for twenty-five years no Conservative had been appointed by the Mowat-Hardy Government" it went on to say speaking doubtless for its party,—"its been a long, cold snap and we are all anxious for warmer weather." Could there be any plainer demand for office by the chief organ of the Opposition? And yet the Opposition pretends to denounce "officialism." Sir Charles Tupper sent Mr. H. Corby, M. P., to Belleville from Ottawa to push his interests there. Mr. Corby at a meeting the other night, said, "a victory for the Opposition is not the chief object we have in view—we regard it as simply a means to an end." What did he mean by that? The Mail has been persistently quoting Sir Oliver Mowat to try show that the same party should not be in power at Ottawa and Toronto at the same time. Is this consistent? Is this honest? Electors that take an interest in the country read between the lines and note how likely the Opposition are to reduce the number of provincial officials in the remote event of their coming into power. It is plain that the chief desire is to get office. In Simcoe county a campaign document is circulated calling on the faithful to select their offices. "Pick out your government job, boys," it says. This document was read on a public platform in York county by Hon. E. J. Davis. What does this mean? Does it mean that the Opposition is insulted because it is charged with a desire for office, and can the Opposition, which thus plainly advertises its desire for office, be sincere in its alleged desire to serve the best interests of the province? Of course there are a few supporters of the Opposition in every riding who have no personal motives in seeking to return their party to power, but the great bulk of the active and leading partisans of the Opposition candidates have an eye on the main chance.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

The official nomination of candidates for the Legislative Assembly for West Peterborough will take place at the Court House to-morrow, at 12 o'clock, noon,

Polling, Tuesday, March 1st.

It is amusing or rather apalling to hear Mr. Garvin at the Opera House meeting on Friday night denying, what a hundred persons who attended his different meetings in the north will swear that he said, in reference to school books and roads,

That after the elections he (Mr. Garvin) would have the expenditure of the Colonization road money, and that the price of school books would be reduced 100 per cent six weeks after the elections.

But "everything goes" with Mr. Garvin and his fellow stumpers, whether it is true or not.

Mr. Lang has nothing to do with East Peterborough it seems.

Mr. Garvin assumes the right to appoint even postmasters.

Mr. Garvin has already appointed his postmaster for the new office to be called Taylor's post office, Buckhorn Road, Harvey.

Mr. Garvin should remember that he can't get so far away from town that his stories cannot get back.

The men who tell us that Whitney will win are the men who told us that if the Liberal party came into power Peterborough manufacturers would be ruined.

Were they reliable prophets and have the people any reason to trust their foresight now.

Mr. Matheson in the Opera House dishonestly contrasted the cost of keeping boys at the Penetanguishene Reformatory in Sandfield Macdonald's time with the present.

Why is the cost greater now? Mr. Matheson was not honest enough to tell that. In Sandfield's time the boys were farmed out to employers, as in the present southern convict settlements. The money earned by boys who were not criminals, but were treated like slaves, was set against the cost of their keep.

Now the boys are educated and taught trades and treated not as criminals, but as wayward boys, which the most of them simply are.

They come out of the Reformatory with an education and a trade and are not burdens on society. They can earn their own living.

The Reformatory is not now conducted as a sweat shop but as a real Reformatory and it therefore costs more to maintain the inmates.

Do Christian people object to a little more money being spent for such purposes?

The Mail and Empire brings a serious charge against the Government party in Ontario, It says it is short of campaign funds.

But the first of March will show that it is not short of votes.

Some of the Opposition candidates are advocating a commission to find out the extent and value of our minerals.

This is pure theory and moonshine. How can a commission, sitting on a rock, expect to look into and discover the extent and value of the minerals it contains?

The Opposition theorizes the Government's acts. The Government has put the best kind of commission at work—$120,000 of British capital to find out what minerals we have in a section of New Ontario.

Mr. Garvin has a new vocalist to "fire the heather." Mr. Walter Kerr was the leading singer on Saturday evening at the committee rooms.

In twenty-two years the loss to the public treasury from the dishonesty of provincial officers was less than $35,000, while in the same time, according to a return brought down in the assembly, the defalcations of municipal officers amounted to $273,754.61. The Provincial Legislature has an auditor who audits.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

The Kingston bankers may possibly come to Peterborough to play a team picked from the local bankers.

The Printers are very sore both in body and spirit to-day by reason of the result of their game with the Electrics on Saturday evening, when they received their first defeat since their organization two years ago.

The Electrics had a fast, well balanced team, but through the fine work of Glover and McWilliams of the Printers, the score was kept down to 4—3.

One of the McWilliams brothers and Dobbin were unable to play. With their assistance the Printers may be unable to make things more interesting for the Electrics in the return game, which will probably take place next week.

The teams on Saturday evening were composed as follows:

Electrics.		Printers.
Miller	goal	Hubbs
Burnham	point	Glover
Jeffrey	point	Bradburn
Crowley, Manning, Grady, Wilgar	forwards	McWilliams, Heap, Terrill, Whiteroft

Referee—Walter Phelan.

The scoring for the Electrics was done by Wilgar (2) Crowley and Burnham, and for the Printers by Glover (2) and McWilliams.

The Printers probably play the Wm. Hamilton team some time this week.

Mr. Fred Logan, the manager of the drygoods team, sends in a challenge to the Printers—Accepted.

The Lindsay team are expected here to play the Juniors a week from to-morrow. The match should be postponed as the date falls on March 1st, and the attendance would not be large.

One of the most exciting matches of the season was played on the rink on Saturday afternoon, when the Lakefield Boys' Brigade team played against the team from All Saints' Boys' Brigade.

There was quite a crowd present and the members of both teams acquitted themselves well playing quite as scientific a game as could be witnessed by the senior team, and from the local seven can be picked many a lad who will soon qualify for a place on the Peterborough, if they improve as fast in the next few years as they have during the last two.

The teams were arranged as follows:

Lakefield.		Peterborough.
M Bell	goal	Van Every
English	point	Brisbin
W Gray	cover point	H Armstrong
Q Bloomfield, R Bloomfield, B Ridpath, E Gray	forwards	Braid, R Armstrong, Crossley, Brandrette

Mr Hubert McBain, referee.

The local team was defeated in Lakefield last week by the score of 12 4, and this lead the Peterborough boys were determined to pull down, and in their effort to do so played so fast a game in the first half as to almost exhaust themselves, but when they went off the ice for a rest at half time they had tied the score by tallying 10 goals to Lakefield's 2. In the second half the All Saint's boys scored four more goals to Lakefield's two making the grand total aggregate 18—16 in Peterborough's favour.

The Peterborough Colts, who are composed largely of players from the All Saints team, with a few additions, have challenged Norwood to come up for a game.

Miss McMillan, of Lindsay, has been visiting friends in the village.

Mrs. S. Henderson, of Port Hope, returned home this week.

If you are thinking of riding a bicycle this coming season wait and see the "Peer" and the "Pilot," which R. Graham & Son's are handling this season.

Mrs. Humphrey and son Frank, of Griswold, Manitoba, are the guests of Mr. T. Gordon.

Mr. Pethick, of Rochester, was in the village this week.

Mr. W. Thompson, of Peterborough, was in the village on Thursday.

Arrangements have been about completed to hold a monster celebration here on the coming 12th of July. Invitations will be issued at once to all the lodges between Campbellford, Port Hope and Lindsay.

The contractors are now blasting out the main road on the Trent Valley Canal, and huge piles of stone are put on the road, making the grade for the high level bridge. The present bridge over the river will be raised seven feet. It is said that Mr. E. Wade, of Peterborough, has the contract. While the bridge is being raised the people and teams will have to cross the dams. A new floor and railway will be put on it to make it perfectly safe. An effort is still being made to have the bridge changed to a swing bridge at this point. If so, a large quantity of stone will have to be taken off the road that is now placed there making the grade to the high bridge.

The regular meeting of the town council was held in the town hall on Monday evening last.

Those present were Reeve Lillicrap in the chair, and Councillors Burgis, Braden and Moore.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting of the council was held Wednesday evening.

Those present were Reeve Lillicrap in the chair, and Councillors Braden, Burgis and Moore.

The following letter received by Mr. C. Quinn, in answer to one sent by him to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reference to the high level bridge, was laid before the Council:

Office of the Minister of Railways and Canals.
Ottawa, 14th Feb., 1898:

DEAR SIR,—Your letter of the 5th instant, addressed to the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, has been transferred to me.

I am somewhat surprised by your statements in relation to the proposed bridge over the Trent Valley Canal, as I had been informed by the Chief Engineer that a low swing bridge would be the proper one to construct at that point; but I will refer the matter to him again for further consideration.

Yours faithfully,
ANDREW G. BLAIR.

C. Quinn, Esq., Lakefield.

Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded by Councillor Burgis, that as Mr. Quinn has received a letter from the Minister of Railways and Canals stating that the decision to place a high level bridge over the canal at Lakefield is not yet settled, the clerk be instructed to write the Minister and urge that a swing bridge be yet constructed—Carried.

The council then adjourned to meet in the town hall on Wednesday, Feb. 23rd.

At a special meeting of the council held on Thursday evening, Mr. Hugh Morrison was re-appointed roadmaster, constable and collector at a salary of $300, and Mr. Wm. Doidge was appointed assessor at $35.

ARE YOU ENGAGED

Or about to be married? We are engaged in the business of Issuer of Marriage Licenses by Official appointment. Between now and Ash Wednesday we hope to have your order for both the Licence and the Wedding Ring. Don't think it requires a lot of money. W. J. GREEN, Merchant Tailor and Issuer of Marriage Licenses, 145 Hunter Street.

It is the primary duty of every woman to wear in her face the lilies and roses of health. It is one of woman's natural missions to please, and one of the first attributes of a pleasing woman is a complexion that shows the bloom of health.

No matter how beautiful a woman may be at the outset, if she suffers from weakness and disease of that delicate and important organism that is the threshold of human life, she will soon show traces of suffering in her face, and very shortly become haggard and homely. She will lose her animation of manner, the sparkle will fade from her eyes and the roses from her cheeks, her form will lose its roundness and her step its sprightliness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription imparts strength, health, vigor and virility to the feminine organism. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and tones the nerves. It makes weak women strong in a womanly way and able to bear the burdens of maternity. It banishes the suffering of the period of gestation, and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It restores the lost complexion and imparts strength, vitality and health to the entire system.

"I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me," writes Mrs. Etta E. Smith, of Grenola, Elk Co., Kans. "About a month before I was confined I had such pains that I could stand up only a little while at a time. I could not rest at night or at any other time. I could scarcely eat anything. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and after the second dose I felt better. From then until I was confined I carried all the water that was used up a long hill and worked in the garden every day, besides my other work and did not feel at all bad. When the baby was born I had a very easy time. The women said I had an easier time than any one they ever saw for the first time. The baby is very healthy. I got up when she was five days old. After two days I began my own work and felt stout and healthy."

DEATH OF MISS WILLARD.

It Was Due to Influenza With Gastric Complications, and Was, Although Not Unexpected, a Shock to Her Friends.

New York, Feb. 19.—Miss Frances E. Willard, the president of the World's and National Women's Christian Temporance Union, who has been suffering from an attack of influenza with gastric complications, died shortly after midnight Thursday night at the Hotel Empire, this city.

At the bedside of Miss Willard at the time of her death were her niece, Mrs. W. W. Baldwin, Mrs. L. M. M. Stevens, vice-president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; Miss Anna M. Gordon, who was Miss Willard's secretary, and Dr. Alfred E. Hill. Miss Willard had been ill for about three weeks. She had the best medical care and treatment that could be given, but in spite of all efforts she grew gradually worse until her demise.

What Dr. Hill Said.

Dr. Hill made the following statement: "Miss Willard had suffered some years with profound anemia, and on several occasions had been given up to die. Last summer she seemed to take a new lease of life and gained considerably in weight and strength, so that she went through her conventional work at Toronto and Buffalo, which was arduous, and came out much better than was expected. On her arrival here five weeks ago she was much prostrated and readily took on la grippe, which attacked the stomach, liver, intestines and later the nervous system. The disease progressed favorably, and in many respects she had improved when the fatal issue came and overwhelmed the nerve centres and life was extinct. There was no cancerous degeneration of any organ, as has been stated."

There will be funeral services in New York city and one later in Evanston, Ill., Miss Willard's home, where the body will be taken.

Shock to Her Friends.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Although the fatal termination of Miss Willard's illness was not entirely unexpected in Evanston, it was nevertheless an intense shock to her friends when they heard of it.

"Rest Cottage," where Miss Willard made her home, was always kept ready for her return. The souvenirs of her work and the many articles of household furniture made dear by association were cherished with great care, and her room was kept in constant readiness for an unexpected return.

Expressions of Condolence.

During the early morning hours to-day cablegrams, telegrams and messages of condolence continued to pour in at the Hotel Empire, where Frances Willard lies dead. They came from all parts of the world. A steady stream of callers, which started about 7 a.m., was received by Mrs. Stevens, vice president of the W. C. T. U.

On Thursday next at Evanston, Ill., Mrs. Catherine Willard Baldwin, a niece of Miss Willard and her nearest relative in this country, will, in conjunction with the National W.C.T.U., take charge of the funeral arrangements.

Sympathy in England.

London, Feb. 19.—The afternoon papers make sympathetic reference to the death of Miss Frances Willard.

A Nervous Woman.

"I was completely run down and had a bad cough due to bronchitis. I was very nervous but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have more appetite and feel a great deal better. I have also used Hood's Pills and find them very excellent." Mrs. M. Garland, 675 Crawford Street, Toronto, Ont.

ROWDY ELEMENT IN CONTROL.

Lawless Conditions Exist at Dyea and Skaguay Just Now.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Secretary Bliss is in receipt of a letter from Governor John G. Brady of Alaska, descriptive of the lawless condition of affairs at Skaguay and Dyea. It says:

"News from Skaguay by the steamboat now in port is serious. The United States deputy marshal has been shot dead in the discharge of his duty. Another man was killed at the same time at the same place. Recently the steamers have been carrying great lists of passengers. Many of these are gamblers, thugs and lewd women, from the worst quarters of the cities from the coast. They have taken in the situation at Skaguay and Dyea, and appear to have combined to carry things with a high hand. The best people at these places are powerless, because they have no municipal form of government. The United States marshal is powerless, because he can appoint only a few deputies, and when they undertake to act they are singled out as targets by this rough element."

Catholics and the Y.M.C.A.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—The edict of Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, forbidding Catholic young men from joining the Y.M.C.A., has caused considerable talk in the city. At the Basilica yesterday the clergy stated that the Archbishop was only interpreting the law of the Church, when he forbade young men from being members of that association. The order will apply to Ottawa.

THE OTTAWA MEETING.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Supports Mr. Hardy—Eloquent Tribute Paid by the Dominion Premier—A Great Triumph.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Before a great audience of the people of Ottawa and many members of both Houses of Parliament last evening the Premier of Ontario made a magnificent presentation of the case for his Government and the election of the Liberal candidates in the City of Ottawa. The interest of the proceedings was greatly increased by the presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, and the eloquent tribute paid by the Premier to the beneficent and enlightened government enjoyed for a quarter of a century by the people of Ontario. The meeting was a great triumph for Mr Hardy, who has never before addressed a popular audience in Ottawa. It was held at the Russell Theatre, a very fine place of meeting, which was gay with the costumes of the ladies of Ottawa and of the Parliamentary delegation. The stage was draped with bunting and mottoes, "Welcome—Bienvenue" and "Hardy, O'Keefe, Lumsden and Victory," stretched across it in huge letters. Long before 8 o'clock the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity and hundreds of persons who tried to secure admission had to be turned away. As well-known political leaders arrived they were greeted with outbursts of cheering again and again renewed.

Verdict re H. H. Haight's Death.

Platt, coroner for Prince Edward, held an inquest to ascertain the facts in respect to the death of Henry H Haight, who was killed on Monday, 7th inst., by being run over near Picton while on his way home to Milford. The jury yesterday returned the following verdict:

"Henry H. Haight's death was caused by the furious and unlawful driving of Byron Harrison and Philip Kellar, and it was the team driven by Philip Kellar which ran over Mr. Haight."

Both men were placed under arrest, and gave bail to appear before Police Magistrate Curry on Wednesday.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes. Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

DECLINED THE JAM.

REASONS WHY M'WILLIAMS DECIDED TO FOREGO THE DAINTY.

It Was the Special Feature of a Banquet Got Up to Entertain His Guests, but He Could See the Kitchen From a Window of His Room.

When a man has enthusiastically planned a hunting trip in the Rockies, inviting friends from London and Paris, and a slight mishap at the beginning threatens to spoil everything, he may be excused for adopting desperate measures. That was the position of McWilliams from New York. A mountain freshet had delayed his party at a half way house among the foothills of the Rockies. Lord So-and-so, considering himself a great hunter of the grizzly, seemed to think the elements had conspired against his own august personage. The German count fumed and fussed. The Frenchman, by asking questions that took all edge from the German's stories of prowess in the chase, increased the general irritation. Mutterings about "colonial savagery" came from the British member of parliament. The Indian guides hung about in disconsolate groups, while the valets bore the brunt of all ill humor. Unexpectedly taxed, the little half way house was in an uproar of confusion finding room and food for the unusual number of guests. McWilliams was not accountable for the irresponsible mountain stream, but he began to feel very uneasy about the outcome of his plans. When the other men chafed at the delay and grumbled over the accommodation and talked of turning back, he was in desperation. He appealed to the French Canadian and the half breed wife who kept the house.

"See here, Joe!" And McWilliams displayed a roll of bills. "You're to lay such a spread for the next few days as hungry men never before set eyes on."

"Oui, monsieur!" grunted the frontiersman, promising a feast that very night which was to include fresh salmon and prairie chicken and venison, with a rare French Canadian jam made only on the occasion of a birth or a marriage. This promise the Frenchman confirmed with a stout English oath and a kick at the Newfoundland pup.

Greatly relieved, McWilliams told his friends of the banquet in preparation, mentioning especially the jam. The announcement caused a perceptible clearing of glum expressions, and Mac withdrew to have a smoke over the dilemma. A savory smell that verified Joe's pledges steamed up to his room overlooking the back kitchen, and by and by the Frenchman and his dusky spouse carried out a huge iron pot between them. From the spicy odor rising McWilliams concluded the pot must contain the promised jam, and, if the smell were any index, very good jam too. It stood in the yard cooling, and when the clumsy pup wabbled near Mac gave a hiss that sent the dog floundering off.

The dinner bell rang, and the sponsor for the party heard the others hurrying to the long, unplastered hall that did duty as dining room. Knocking the ashes from his pipe, he was about to join those below when a doleful chorus of repentant howls sounded from the back yard. After the manner of its kind that pup was bent on investigating the contents of the forbidden pot. Having shambled and sniffed closer and closer, the Newfoundland finally got his forepaws on the edge and leaned over. Then a long neck stretched down farther and farther toward the jam, till the wagging end of that dog's anatomy was overbalanced, and with a dull splash he tumbled in bodily. The squaw was on the scene in a second. If it had not been so serious, McWilliams would have laughed, but the mishap was now no laughing matter to him. The woman grabbed the squirming intruder by the scruff of the neck. Dripping with preserves, the howling animal was lifted out and held aloof. The dangling legs pawed the air, but the squaw relentlessly held on and carefully scraped every precious morsel of trickling jam down the soaked fur into the pot. Then, with an expletive that was neither Cree nor French, she plumped that pup on the strong instep of her moccasined foot and hoisted him high through parabolic space to a remote corner of the yard.

"Don't you dare serve"— roared McWilliams, but the squaw had darted back to the kitchen.

Now, as a man of honor, what was the proper course for McWilliams? Each discontented sportsman had been consoled by the thought of that treat. The mere prospect of the banquet had allayed irritation. They were heaping curses enough on the food and accommodation of the half way house without this additional mishap becoming known. What should he do? He hesitated, and in hesitating, like many before him, was lost, for as he was going down stairs with the purpose to do an indefinite something the jam was being served. The squaw had been in too great a hurry to place the delicacy before the guests, and every man of the crowd already had a lavish helping and was relishing the dainty along with venison.

"By Jove, McWilliams," exclaimed Lord So-and-so, "late to a feast with jam like this?"

"Bon!" pronounced the Frenchman between mouthfuls. "Tres bon."

"Gut!" echoed the German, for once agreeing with his adversary. Truly, thought the host, harmony is restored.

"Here's to Joseph's health for the treat and to success for the trip," said the British M. P., raising his glass.

"Amen!" responded McWilliams fervently. "There's nothing like that jam under the sun, but I'm afraid it's a little too rich for me."

"Zay," afterward inquired one valet of Lord So-and-so's man, "Meester Veelam not take no sham?"

"Those blawsted Yankees," answered blase buttons, "don't know a good thing when they see it."—New York Sun.

FEATHERY.

You've heard of the girl in the Gainsborough hat,
With its plumes of snowy white?
Now, I know a blond maiden more artless than that,
With feathers as black as night,
A plume laden hat with an upturned rim
And a red rose, like her cheek.
She tall pompoms nod, and the velvety rim
Shades a face Madonna meek.

Is it true that "a kiss is far better than that?"
I'm dumb as I win her smile.
The feathers are beckoning, while pitapat
My heart beeps throbbing the while.
Ten tips gently nodding, and each one a-count—
I vow I am dizzy with bliss!
'Tis an audacious hat; she's a mute, modest girl—
Shall I woo with words or a kiss?

Now, the law in the Gainsborough and who was kissed
By the poet in the song
Simply looked so coquettish he could not resist,
But this lassie might think it wrong.
Still, I'll follow his method of courting and try
To steal a draft from her lips.
She is timid and chaste and alarmingly shy—
The girl with bold ostrich tips.

The chapeau, top heavy, almost hides her eyes
Of fond, forgetmenot blue.
Oh, will she be angry or show mad surprise
When I dare begin to woo?
Heigho! something soft swept my cheek, I declare—
And my yet innocent lips!
But if it were kisses I'm—quite unaware;
I'll swear 'twas only the tips!

The Eclipse.

On no other occasion does the display of tremendous power in the economy of the physical universe exercise so subduing an influence over the mind or produce so humiliating a conviction of the impotence of all human efforts to control the immutable laws of nature and arrest the course of events as when the glorious orb of day, while riding in the heavens with unclouded splendor, begins to melt away from an unseen cause and soon totally disappears, leaving the whole visible world wrapped in the sable gloom of nocturnal darkness. The scene is rendered still more impressive by the circumstances accompanying so remarkable an occurrence.

The heavens assume an unnatural aspect, which excites a feeling of horror in the spectator. A livid hue is diffused over all terrestrial objects. Plants close up their leaves as on the approach of night. The fowls betake themselves to their resting places. The warbling of the grove is hushed in profound silence. In other words, universal nature seems to relax her energies, as if the pulse which stimulated her mighty movements had all at once stood still.—Sir Norman Lockyer.

Trying to Wake Up Wordsworth.

Alfred Tennyson's largeness of mind and of heart was touchingly illustrated by his reverence for Wordsworth's poetry, notwithstanding that the immense merits he recognized in it were not, in his opinion, supplemented by a proportionate amount of literary skill. He was always glad to show reverence to the "old poet." "Wordsworth," he said to me one day, "is staying at Hempstead in the house of his friend, Mr. Hoare. I must go and see him, and you must come with me."

As we walked back to London through grassy fields Tennyson complained of the old poet's coldness. He had endeavored to stimulate some latent ardors by telling Wordsworth of a tropical island where the trees, when they first came into leaf, were a vivid scarlet; "every one of them, I told him, is flush all over the island, the color of blood! It would not do. I could not influence his imagination in the least!"—"Memoirs of Lord Tennyson."

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years, used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result.

Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her throat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements.

U. S. RELIEF EXPEDITION.

Sir Julian Pauncefote's Letter to the United States Government.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 19.—The Secretary of State has received a communication from Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador here, relative to the passage of the United States Relief Expedition through Canadian territory en route to the gold region.

Sir Julian says he "is authorized by the Marquis of Salisbury to state that the Dominion Government are quite willing that United States troops, which are destined for places in Alaska, beyond the 141st meridian, and are considered necessary for the protection of the relief expedition while in United States territory, should pass through Canadian territory under the same regulations which govern the passage of Canadian Mounted Police through United States territory, namely, that the men shall not be under arms, and that arms and ammunition of war shall go through Canadian territory as baggage."

Sir Julian adds: "The Dominion Government at the same time desires to make it clear that they fully appreciate the wish of the United States Government to afford relief, and have forwarded instructions to the local officials to facilitate the expedition is every possible way. An escort of Dominion police will be furnished for the expedition during its passage through Canadian territory."

In conclusion he says he will be glad to learn as early as possible whether the above arrangement is satisfactory to the United States Government, in which case he will so advise the Marquis of Salisbury and the Governor-General of Canada.

The State Department has accepted the terms offered.

"Let parents not live for their children, but with them." The mother should allow no false modesty to stand in the way of her daughter's knowledge of herself, of her possibilities, of her perils. For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has used his "Favourite Prescription" as a strengthener, a purifier, a regulator. It works directly upon the delicate, distinctly feminine organ, in a natural, soothing way. It searches out the weak spots and builds them up. A woman who would understand herself should send 21 cents to the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., for Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages.

MISS FRANCES WILLARD.

The Simple Funeral Services in New York City—Arrangements for Obsequies in Chicago and Evanston, Ill.

New York, Feb. 21.—The funeral service over the remains of Miss Frances Willard, President of the World's and the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, took place in the Broadway Tabernacle Sunday afternoon. The service was held in this city by the official decree of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, because of Miss Willard's many friends and admirers in the east. On Thursday next a service will be held in Evanston, Ill. Before final interment takes place, however, the body will be in state in Willard Hall, at the W.C.T.U. Temple at Chicago, probably the greater portion of Wednesday next, and while en route to the western metropolis will also lie in state for a short time in Churchville, N.Y., Miss Willard's birthplace.

The church was crowded, among the attendants being many women from neighboring States, representing the State Unions. A great number of floral tributes had been received and these together with palms were used as decorations in the church. Such names as Misses Helen Gould, Susan B. Anthony, Rev. Anna Shaw and many of the W.C.T.U.'s prominent world representatives were written on the cards attached to the floral gifts. In pursuance of a cablegram sent by Lady Henry Somerset, Miss Katherine L. Stevenson, the corresponding secretary of the national organization at Chicago, a bunch of white roses was placed over the heart of the dead temperance reformer.

Miss Willard's request that her funeral service be simple was carried out. Portions of the Scripture which Miss Willard loved most were read and her favorite hymns were sung, and then the Methodist Episcopal funeral service was read. Rev. R. S. Tipple, pastor of St. James' M. E. Church, was the officiating clergyman. He was assisted by Bishop John P. Newman and others. The presidents of the State organizations of which Miss Willard was the head were the honorary pallbearers.

Floral Tributes From Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—The funeral of the deceased world's president will take place in Chicago, and to-day the Toronto Union will send a tribute in the form of a maple leaf design of flowers. The Dominion Union will also send a floral tribute, and the president, Mrs. Rutherford, will go to Chicago and be present at the funeral ceremonies.

MR. HARTY'S HEALTH.

His Medical Adviser Urges the Kingston Liberals to Spare Him in This Campaign—Patron Haycock.

Kingston, Feb. 21.—President Pense of the Kingston Reform Association has received the following letter from Hon. William Harty's medical adviser in Toronto: "For over two years I have been intimately associated with Hon. Mr. Harty personally and professionally, and have had opportunities of learning his condition thoroughly. Mr. Harty entered this campaign in direct opposition to the advice of Dr. Janeway of New York and myself. For some time back Mr. Harty has been making steady and substantial improvement physically, but on his arrival in Toronto this week the detrimental effects of his recent campaigning in Kingston are too apparent, and I have told him that he must desist at once. If he mingles in the excitement and turmoil of the campaign the result may be disastrous, and no one would regret this more than myself. Under the circumstances let me beg of you to keep him almost entirely out of the campaign, and the only way to do this successfully is to keep him away from Kingston. At the rate he has been progressing lately he has many years of honorable and useful labor in him, which will be a credit to his constituency and a pride to his friends and supporters. Do not wreck these prospects in a few brief days. My anxiety in the matter compels me to write you." Mr. Harty will return to Kingston to-morrow in order to meet the electors at Tuesday's nomination.

Mr. Duncan McRae, who has retired as the Liberal candidate in Frontenac, is confident that Mr. J. L. Haycock will receive a large enough majority in the southern Frontenac district to elect him even if the back townships go strong against him. The Patron leader is sure of from 400 to 600 majority.

NAVAL COURT OF ENQUIRY.

First Meeting Set for To-day—Capt. Sigsbee on the State of the Wreck.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The naval court of enquiry appointed to investigate the Maine disaster will begin its work to-day. This news came to the Navy Department yesterday morning from Admiral Sicard at Key West. He simply telegraphed as follows:

"The court of enquiry will sail for Havana 20th by lighthouse steamer Mangrave."

Capt. Sigsbee was heard from late last night, but the telegram was not delivered at the Navy Department until this morning. His message goes to confirm the press reports of the events of yesterday in Havana harbor so far as they relate to the exploration of the wreck. It reads as follows:

"Only most experienced working divers can do effective work on the Maine. In the upper works I can use service divers. Did some work to-day, but with little success. Will do better to-morrow. Parts of the Maine, especially the superstructure and connections, are one confused mass of metal."

Canada Sends Condolences.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Messages of condolence are still coming to the State Department from abroad. Among those received Saturday was the following from Canada:

I have the honor to inform you that I am in receipt of a telegram from the Earl of Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada, stating that the Dominion Government desire to offer to the President of the United States the expression of their deep sympathy with the whole American nation concerning the lamentable loss of the Maine and of so many of the officers and men of her brave crew. (Signed) Julian Pauncefote.

London, Feb. 21.—The Prince of Wales, as President of the Royal Commission for the Paris Exposition of 1900, is devoting himself to his task with the greatest energy. He presided at a meeting of the full commission at Marlborough House and made a speech, showing a comprehensive grasp of the subject. The Prince announced that he had secured allotments of space in all the eighteen groups into which the exhibition had been divided, and he added that he hoped to get the Treasury to augment largely the grant. His Royal Highness named the committees and announced that he would personally preside over the Executive and Finance Committees.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomenal price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO-FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Prize Tea Store, 323 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 2 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked, Baked Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 323 George Street.

MR. MULOCK'S OFFER.

The Postmaster-General and Farmers' Loan Company.

A SURPRISE FOR CREDITORS.

The Former President of the Company Will Give $200,000, $150,000 to Be Devoted to the Payment of Liabilities and $50,000 to the Company's Widows and Orphans.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—A great surprise awaited the creditors of the insolvent Farmers' Loan Co. yesterday afternoon when they met for further business in connection with the estate. After routine business, and when some creditors indicated the making of a hot time, Mr. Langmuir, the liquidator, read a letter from the Hon. William Mulock, who had been president of the company. After reciting how he had been misled with regard to the affairs of the company, Mr. Mulock concluded his letter as follows:

$25,000 for the Widows.

"In this situation the question of responsibility of the directors becomes a legal one, and whilst it would not be proper for me to prejudice the rights of other directors, yet, speaking for myself, I desire to state that whether I was or was not warranted in law in relying upon the reports of the manager and auditors in assenting to the dividends paid, I have determined to invite you at once to take the opinion of a judge upon my liability as a director up to the date of my having sent in my resignation, and the extent thereof. I will facilitate in every way in my power the disposition of the question, and I will waive any right to appeal and to the extent of my means I will promptly pay all that may be awarded against me. I also desire to say that if my legal liability does not absorb all my means, I undertake to set apart a sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) if I am still able to do so, which I will pay over to a committee, to be named by the judge, with instructions to distribute the same to those widows and others not in business, and not possessed of other sufficient means, who have lost by this disaster, and who acquired their stock during my occupancy of the office of president of the company.

Raised to $200,000 in All.

"I am also willing, should you think it in the general interests, without any question of liability being decided by the judge, to pay a lump sum, which, without prejudice, I am willing to state at a sum larger than I am advised my total liability can be placed at, namely, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000), which sum, if accepted, is to be taken as a discharge of all liabilities of every kind in relation to the matter, and if this sum is accepted, I am willing to make a Widows' Fund, as above mentioned, up to the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000).

"In thus writing you, I desire to be fully understood that in this unfortunate matter I have no desire or intention other than to do my duty to the full."

Applause greeted the conclusion of the letter, and after congratulatory speeches by several gentlemen the meeting broke up.

FARMHOUSE HOLOCAUST.

Three People Perish in a Fire in the Township of Rama—Another Yet to Die.

Orillia, Feb. 22.—Last night, about 12 o'clock, fire broke out in the dwelling of James Arthurs, a settler in the Township of Rama, three miles north of Scright, and about 20 miles from here. Mr. Arthurs was awakened by the cries of his son James, who was sleeping in the attic. He endeavored to rescue the young man, but was forced to desist, with his left arm and head badly burned. Mrs. Arthurs ran out of the house, but returned for her nine-year-old son, who slept in the room with his parents. She and Archie, as well as James, were burned to a crisp.

Agnes, the 18-year-old daughter, who slept in an adjoining room, attempted to escape through the kitchen, but was driven back by the flames, and broke her way out through the window. She then ran three hundred yards to arouse a neighbor, Mr. McFayden, her track marked in the snow by blood. She was terribly burned about the head, shoulders and breast, and from her hips to her feet. The flesh fell from her feet like a pair of sandals, exposing the bare bones.

Dr. Gilchrist of Orillia was summoned, and did what he could to alleviate her sufferings, but she cannot live long.

Two other children, a son and daughter, were absent from home, and therefore escaped. The fire probably originated from the stove, in which fire was left for the comfort of the absent son on his return, when the family retired about 9 o'clock. Dr. Grant of Beaverton decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

MISS WILLARD'S WILL.

Less Than $20,000 of an Estate, Which Goes to the Chicago Temple Fund.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—By the terms of the will of Miss Frances E. Willard, late President of the W.C.T.U., her estate will pass into the Temple fund, after the life interests of her secretary, Miss Anna Gordon, and of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Willard, have expired. The property consists of "Rest Cottage," at Evanston, valued at $16,000; a small cottage in the Adirondacks and $3,000 in cash, which was presented to Miss Willard on her 50th birthday.

By the original will the estate was to pass to the W.C.T.U., but a codicil dated after the Buffalo convention diverts it to the Temple fund. The Temple trustees will probably waive their rights and leave the estate entirely to the direct beneficiaries.

THE IRISH LOCAL BILL.

Government by Councils and Local Boards Accorded to Ireland—Welcomed by Liberals and Irish Members.

London, Feb. 22.—The House of Commons was crowded yesterday when the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Gerald Balfour, introduced the Irish Local Government bill. In so doing, he said he thought it possible the new order of things would at first seem to be a failure, but he believed it would work through failure to the success which would be the beginning of better and brighter days for Ireland.

The Government, Mr. Balfour continued, proposed that the local administration be distributed between county councils, urban and rural district councils and boards of guardians, the election of which would be by Parliamentary franchise, with the addition of peers and women. The qualifications and disqualifications for election as councillors would be the same as in England, except that ministers of religion would be disqualified from sitting in the country or district council, the Government acting therein in accordance with precedents.

For the sake of convenience, Mr. Balfour further explained the boundaries of the existing unions, and also of the counties, would be modified and the county councils would take over the duties of grand jurys, but only in fiscal matters, and would not include criminal jurisdiction or questions of compensation for malicious injuries. (Irish "Oh's.") The elections for county and district councils would be triennial, and all would retire together. The county councils would be the sole rate collecting authority and would control the expenditure. They would also be responsible for dealing with exceptional distress, and would decide when the requests of boards of guardians for outdoor relief should be granted. Dublin, Belfast, Cork, Limerick, Londonderry and Waterford would be constituted independent county councils. The county would be responsible for half the extra expenditure.

Mr. Balfour also pointed out that the bill provided that the occupier was liable to both the county cess and poor rate, whether in a town or rural district, which would involve a readjustment of rents, an equal sum to be granted from the Imperial Exchequer as an agricultural grant.

Mr. Balfour said he thought the bill was based upon broad, democratic lines, adding that if extravagances occurred those responsible for them would bear the burden, while they would reap the benefits of any economy.

Mr. John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland in the late Liberal Administration, welcomed the bill as being "a genuine democratic effort."

Mr. John Dillon, Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, said he thought the measure was an immense advance over the bill of 1888, and fulfilled the promises of the Government; but, he claimed, it was not equal to the English and Scotch measures. He pointed out that control of the police was not given to the councils. Nevertheless, he added, the bill would do much good, and his party would endeavor to execute it in good faith.

Mr. John Redmond, the Parnellite leader, also welcomed the bill, but he criticized some points of the measure. If it worked successfully it would be an unanswerable argument in favor of Home Rule.

Col. Edward J. Sanderson, Conservative member for North Armagh, said a majority of the landlords recognized the necessity of the measure, which offered an opportunity for all classes of Irishmen to unite for a common purpose.

Mr. Timothy M. Healy, Irish Nationalist, member for North Louth, praised the bill, and Mr. Michael Davitt, Irish Nationalist, threatened opposition to the part of the bill promising relief to the landlords in the shape of an agricultural grant.

The Irish Local Government bill eventually passed its first reading.

STARTLING RATE CUT.

The Canadian Pacific's Big Blow at Its Adversaries.

GREAT SLASHING OF RATES.

Passenger Traffic Changes in Ontario Almost Cut in Two—From Toronto to Montreal and Return for $8.35 —London to Toronto for Only $1.00—Other Big Cuts.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The Canadian Pacific are into the rate war in earnest. Yesterday they made a big cut in the passenger rates between Toronto and the principal cities and towns in Ontario, and reduced the fare between Toronto and Montreal to less than one half what it formerly was. In accordance with instructions received from the Canadian Pacific head offices in Montreal, Mr. U. E. McPherson, the district passenger agent at Toronto, telegraphed the company's agents at Hamilton, Guelph, Galt, Woodstock, Chatham, London, St. Catharines, Ingersoll, Harriston, Windsor, St. Thomas, Peterboro, Owen Sound, Brampton and Detroit, authorizing them to sell tickets at the new rates. This telegram was sent out at 5.30 last evening, and read as follows:

"In effect at once, the following rates from Toronto: Hamilton 50c, Niagara Falls, Ont., $1.90; London, Woodstock and Ingersoll $1, Chatham $1.50, Windsor $2, Elora, Fergus, Preston and Hespeler 75c, Guelph 50c, Berlin, Waterloo, Brantford and Paris $1.25, Simcoe, via Goderich, Clinton, Kincardine, Listowel and Walkerton, $3; Southampton $2.50, Sarnia $3, Montreal $5, Brockville and Prescott $3, Kingston and Napanee $2.50; rates not to be exceeded to intermediate points. Apply in both directions. Sell from your station at rates given, basing on Toronto. Round trip rates use tariff No. 208. Limit of one week. Have locals inserted as news items, free. Newspapers will be glad to get this item.

"(Signed), C. E. McPherson."

To Montreal and Return for $8.35.

The tariff No. 208, which is to be applied, provides that the fare for a return trip shall equal one single fare and two-thirds of a single fare, and, according to this schedule, the return fare from Montreal to Toronto or from Toronto to Montreal is $8.35. Tickets sold at these reduced rates are valid for seven days after issue, during which time the purchaser must have utilized his ticket and arrived at the station on which the ticket was issued.

A prominent Canadian Pacific official here stated that this cut in local rates had been made in retaliation upon the Grand Trunk for co-operating with the Western American roads to fight the Canadian Pacific in the transcontinental business.

The Grand Trunk's Side of It.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—Mr. George B. Reeve, general traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, says that so far they have not done anything to meet the C.P.R. cut in rates, nor will they do so until they have consulted the Western Traffic Association and the Grand Trunk Directorate in London.

The Boycott Is On.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Western roads have assumed the aggressive in the war with the Canadian Pacific. They have thrown that road out of the Western immigrant clearing house. The effect of this action will be that the Canadian Pacific will be shut out from any participation in immigrant traffic arriving at New York or Boston. Acting in harmony with this action of the roads, the trans-Atlantic steamship lines, which are parties to the immigrant agreement, with the western roads, have cabled to their agents not to sell tickets or prepare calling orders for tickets over the Canadian Pacific. These instructions apply to all immigrant business. The South Pacific road is also a party to the boycott.

THE MAINE INVESTIGATION.

The Divers Find the Magazine Thought to Have Exploded Intact.

Havana, Feb. 22.—The divers yesterday continued the work of trying to recover the bodies of the victims of the disaster to the battleship Maine.

Incredible as it may seem, it is said that after a partial examination of the magazines of the Maine, the divers report that the one in which the explosion is supposed to have occurred, is intact.

According to my information, the contents of this magazine are unharmed. Therefore, if this report be true, an entirely different aspect is given to the terrific explosion which brought death and destruction to the Maine.

This report reaching Key West, it is said, caused the members of the court of inquiry to decide to proceed to Havana and begin their investigation at once, instead of organizing the court here.

At any rate, the lighthouse tender Mangrove, with the court of inquiry aboard, left for Havana.

Upon arrival in Havana the court will make personal examination of the wreck and will then take testimony regarding the loss of the vessel.

The Court of Enquiry.

The board of enquiry into the Maine disaster met on the lighthouse tender Mangrove at 10 o'clock yesterday, with Captains Sampson and Chadwick and Lieut. Commander Potter and Marix present. Captain Sampson presided and Lieut.-Commander Marix, recently executive officer of the Maine, acted as recorder.

Captain Sigsbee, the commander of the Maine, was the first witness called. He was under examination until 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

ONTARIO'S LABOUR LAWS.

As in agriculture the Liberal Government of Ontario has recognized the greatest industry of this country, and—by the establishment of the Department of Agriculture with a responsible Minister at its head in the person of Hon. John Drydes, a thorough, practical farmer, possessing superior administrative ability, has been able to wisely and economically assist those who are engaged in the various branches of farming, so its record as to labour legislation is regarded by competent authorities as the most advanced and progressive of any self-governed country in the world.

The well-known Conservative, Mr. E. F. Clarke, M.P., for years one of the most prominent of the Opposition members in the Provincial Legislature, speaking on this subject at Dundurn Park, Hamilton, last Labour Day, said:

In looking up the history of the province for 25 years, the people might well congratulate themselves on the strides that had been made. It was less than 25 years since Parliament declared labour organizations to be legal.

Before 1872 it was an illegal thing to be a member of such organizations, but no man need not now apologize for standing on the platform on behalf of organized labour. The objects of organization were peaceful and progressive and he was bound to give full credit to the Attorney General, Hon. A. S. Hardy, and Hon. J. H. Gibson, for the efforts they had made during many years on its behalf. They have always been willing to accede to any reasonable demand of organized labour. As the combined effort of organized labour there had been placed upon the Statute books a body of legislation that is a credit to those who have enacted it and to those who have demanded it." These are the words of a political opponent of the government.

EQUAL EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGE.

It is true, as Mr. Whitney says, that the education of the great mass of children of Ontario begins and ends in the Public Schools. The present Minister, by increasing the efficiency of the training schools for teachers; by the public school leaving class; by making drawing the basis of a technical course, obligatory; by encouraging the teaching of agriculture; by the study of physiology and hygiene, has made the Public Schools more practical, has widened their scope and increased their efficiency. And there are persons who object to the teaching of such subjects as drawing, music, botany, hygiene, etc., in the Public Schools. If these benefit one class more than another it is the class composed of children who receive their only education in the Public Schools. The talk of teaching only the three "R's" is in the interest of anybody but the people who depend upon the Public Schools and the High Schools for a chance to rise in the educational scale.

TEST YOUR CASE.

Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and be Cured of Stomach Disease.

You Can't Lose Anything, and You Will Gain Health and Strength—Dyspepsia and Indigestion Will Vanish at Once and for Ever.

Why will some people suffer pain, when there is absolutely no necessity for them to do so? No man would think of putting his hand in the fire, "just for fun."

But thousands of persons suffer the miseries of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Nausea, Waterbrash, Biliousness, Colic, Nervous Prostration, and other stomach diseases, week after week, although they need not do so, any more than they need to put their hands in the fire "for fun."

There's not a bit of guess work about this statement. It is "dead certainty." It is the plain unvarnished truth.

So long as Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets can be got, there need be no such things as stomach diseases. This is another fact, another piece of simple truth.

If you don't believe it—test them. They'll convince you by curing you.

Why not make a test-case of your own? It is very easy to do. It won't cost you much. It won't take long. If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets should fail (but they won't) you won't be any worse. If they cure you (as they positively will) you are rid of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, or whatever your trouble may be, for ever.

All you have to do is to take one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. You need not restrict your food. Eat heartily. Eat, laugh, take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and grow fat and healthy. Try this rule. Take this advice. Test Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see if they don't cure you.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for a change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred W. Leiskau, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

THE YUKON DEBATE.

The Opposition Seems to Be Wearying of Its Task.

BELATED OFFER TO BUILD ROAD.

After the McKenzie-Mann Contract Was Signed Mr. Hamilton Smith Comes Forward With a Railway Proposition—The True Inwardness of the Scheme—Who Wrote His Letter?

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The batteries of the Opposition after a week's fight over the Yukon bill are almost silenced, and the supply of ammunition is on the point of exhaustion. The only result has been to solidify opinion on the Government benches, and the Conservative leaders are seeking to bring in new issues, and to that end are pursuing decidedly questionable methods. Under their advice and with their knowledge offers are being made to the Government now by gentlemen who were exceedingly backward with proposals a few weeks ago when there was danger of their being accepted. Mr. Hamilton Smith, for example, offers to build the Yukon railway over the same route as that laid down in the McKenzie-Mann agreement for 1,000,00 acres. In a day or two, when this offer is laid before the House, the Opposition will shout that the Government in giving a grant of 3,750,000 acres for a railway that another firm has offered to build for a million acres is guilty of the utmost prodigality. The game, however, is entirely too transparent.

Questions and Answers.

Mr. Sifton told Mr. Davis that there was no Indian title on the Yukon.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in answer to Sir C. H. Tupper, said the Government had the question of Canada's right to exclude or regulate the passage of vessels registered in the United States through the territorial waters on the coast of British Columbia to and from Alaska, under consideration, but they did not deem it expedient, in the public interest, to make any statement now.

Mr. Wallace was informed that customs dues were collected in the Yukon as follows: 1895, $3,947; 1896, $21,691; 1897, $9,879; 1898 to date, $83,884.

Mr. Martin asked: Does the Government intend to provide for the employment of Canadian labor only in the building of the Yukon Railway? Does the Government intend to take any steps to provide that Canadian labor only shall be employed in the construction of railways receiving subsidies from the Dominion Government?

Mr. Blair replied that the necessity for constructing this line immediately rendered it inadvisable to insist on the exclusion of foreign labor on this work. In the case of the Crow's Nest Railway foreign labor of foreign contractors had been prohibited.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—In the recent negotiations with the United States authorities respecting customs regulations and the shipment of goods via Dyea and Skaguay to the Canadian Yukon territory, was any precaution observed or provision made so that the negotiations proceeded without prejudice to the claim that Dyea and Skaguay are in British territory?

Mr. Sifton replied that negotiations were unofficial, but it was understood that whatever was done was without prejudice to any claims Canada might have to possession of this territory.

Sir Richard Cartwright, answering Dr. Borden (Halifax), said the Government had general assurances from Petersen, Tate & Co. that they proposed to carry out their fast line contract. He was not aware whether steamers were actually under construction; indeed, he thought they were not.

The Yukon Bill Debate.

The debate on the Yukon bill, which, it must be confessed, has lost much of its interest, was resumed by Mr. McClure, the gentlemen who redeemed Colchester to Liberalism. He first addressed himself to the consideration of the international question as to the rights of navigation on Alaskan rivers and presented a well-reasoned argument abundantly supported by unimpeachable authorities showing that the rights Canada had under the St. Petersburg convention of 1825 to navigate the Yukon, Porcupine and Stikine Rivers were curtailed by the treaty of Washington negotiated by Sir John Macdonald in 1871. Mr. McClure, having made his point clear, left the legal aspect of the question and entered upon a discussion of the other features of the project, the wisdom of which he had no difficulty in demonstrating. Through Mr. McClure's audience was necessarily limited in its dimensions by reason of the absence of a majority of the members of the House, those who listened to his forvid eloquence listened appreciatively and applauded frequently. Speaking particularly for Eastern Canada he said that the Maritime Provinces were willing to pay their share of the expense of developing the West. But while Canada was willing that the West should be opened up, the people would authorize no Government to invest their money in a speculative enterprise. "The Klondike must pay for the Klondike" was the closing sentence of an exceptionally good speech. Mr. McClure was the recipient of hearty congratulations from his friends, among them Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mr. Maclean.

Mr. Maclean (East York) said the Yukon Railway proposition before the House ought to be condemned because the time has come when great monopolies must be regulated, when the supremacy of the State over the great corporations must be vindicated, and when an end must be put to these monopolies and the power they possess. He hoped yet to see something done by the House in that direction. After reviewing the nature of the questions which had engaged Canada since Confederation, he said the great question to-day is the transportation problem, and he thought the Government was bound to do something to regulate the transportation monopoly that exists to-day. We find, however, that instead of regulating this monopoly, the Government are strengthening it and even building it up. The Government was to be condemned for the position they have taken and for the legislation they have introduced in this House. No doubt there is a monopoly created by the legislation proposed to build the Yukon Railway. Speaking for himself and for a large section of the community, he made bold to say that we must restrain those monopolies and declare in favor of the supremacy of the State over them; we must do something to minimise their strength and importance, and not increase and strengthen them, as hon. gentlemen opposite are now doing. The contract is bad, because its terms are bad. Hon. gentlemen opposite contend that it is necessary in order to build this railway to give McKenzie and Mann over 4,000,000 acres of most valuable mining lands. It is not necessary to do so. The Government have to-day a proposal which is a much better one for the people of this country than that accepted from McKenzie and Mann, and he read the letter of Mr. Hamilton Smith, the general manager of the Rothschilds' Financial Co., in support of his statement. He concluded by saying: This proposition of Mr. Hamilton Smith is to build a railway beginning at Pyramid Harbor, and I stand here to-day to contend that Pyramid Harbor is in Canada, that the road from Pyramid Harbor right into Dawson City is entirely in Canada, and that it is a better Canadian route than the one the Government proposed.

Mr. D. C. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser, the member for Guysboro, who is listened to when he addresses the House because he speaks well and not too often, made an effective reply to Mr. Maclean and then proceeded with his own speech. He regarded Sir Charles Tupper's commendation of the contract in his better moments as evidence of wisdom. Sir Charles would have been patriotic enough to hold to his first opinion of the bargain had he not allowed himself on coming to Ottawa to be influenced by small minds and small souls. He was arrested by the members for York and York and York (Foster, Wallace and Maclean), who had determined to throttle him, and the winter of Conservative discontent had been made glorious summer by these three sons of York. Mr. Fraser made out a strong case in justification of the course of the Government in recognising the urgency of the situation in the Yukon and in taking prompt measures to meet it. The Government were, he said, met with a condition, not a theory, and the Government had to act. Discussing the belated proposition of Hamilton Smith, he said it was either being made upon the strength of the wild statements that members were making in regard to the richness of the country, or it was being made in the interest of the Opposition. The proposition was suspicious. If the Government's proposition had been to vote money to build the road the Opposition would have favored any kind of a land subsidy and would have called upon the farmers and fishermen to condemn such an expenditure. Mr. Fraser supported the proposition before the House because it will enable the people to get out whatever riches there are in the Yukon, because it will enable the men who go there to secure the necessaries of life, because it will enable the Government to maintain law and order in Canadian territory, and lastly because it will give a new channel of trade to the country.

Mr. Clarke Wallace.

Mr. N. Clarke Wallace spoke and urged that a new arrangement should be made, one more in the interests of the country than the one now under consideration.

Mr. Paterson.

Mr. Paterson, the Minister of Customs, whose fame as a Parliamentary debater was won while helping to fight the battles of the old Liberal Opposition, made a speech under somewhat dispiriting conditions, which must be regarded as among the able deliverances of the debate. He threw light upon the Hamilton Smith proposition by recounting some of the circumstances preceding its submission, which, to say the least, are suggestive. Before proceeding he asked Mr. Maclean of York who supplied the Ottawa Evening Journal with Mr. Smith's offer and who helped him to get up the letter—questions that Mr. Maclean answered by referring his interrogator to Mr. Smith. Mr. Paterson said that he understood the Rothschilds to be an honorable firm. Mr. Maitland Kersey told the Government that he represented the Rothschilds. Mr. Kersey offered to build the Stikine-Teslin road for $6,000 cash a mile and $1,000 cash a mile for a sleigh road, expecting that subsidy to be supplemented by the British Columbia Government. That offer was not accepted. Mr. Kersey, who understood that a land grant of 35,000 acres per mile was under consideration, communicated with the Rothschilds, who refused to touch the project. Yet after the contract with Messrs. Mann and McKenzie had been signed and after the Rothschilds had refused a subsidy of 3,750,000 acres of land, Mr. Smith came along professing, according to Mr. Wallace, to represent the Rothschilds, proposing to accept a subsidy of 1,000,000 acres of land.

Sir Charles Tupper interrupted Mr. Paterson while he asked the Minister of the Interior if Mr. Smith was not in communication with his department before the contract was signed. Mr. Sifton's reply was an unequivocal negative.

Mr. Paterson's defence of the arrangement made for the construction of the roadway was able and complete.

Mr. Monk, Jacques Cartier, moved the adjournment of the debate.

Proof That the Marvellous Compound Cures When all Other Medicines Fail to Give Results.

Give It a Trial, Sufferer, it Will Surely Meet Your Case.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

DEAR SIRS:—For over four years I have been in poor health, and received treatment from two doctors, besides using seven kinds of patent medicines. I also sent to New York and got a month's treatment of a special medicine, but no good results came from it. I was run down, suffered terribly, could not rest at night, and every morning had a severe pain in my head, and vomited bitter green matter, and had no appetite. I heard of Paine's Celery Compound and decided to give it a trial, and am happy to report that it worked wonders. The pains are all gone, I rest well at night, my appetite is good, and my health is now splendid. Paine's Celery Compound has worked miracles for me. I recommend it to all sick people as the best medicine.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomena price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO-FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS.

The High Court Assembled This Afternoon.

MANY DELEGATES ARE PRESENT.

Visitors Welcomed to Town by Addresses From the Local Foresters, the Town Council and the Board of Trade—To-nights Big Concert in the Opera House.

This morning the officers and Executive Committee of the High Court of Canadian Foresters were driven around the town in hacks by the Chief Rangers of the four local courts, returning to their hotels in time to welcome the big influx of delegates which arrived on the noon trains, bringing the total attendance up to about 300.

At two o'clock the High Court opened its first session, when Mr. F. J. Jameson, local member of the Executive, introduced R. A. Kemp, D.D H.C.R., and a deputation composed of J. Hardwick, C.R., Court Peterborough; R. Morrison, C.R., Court Littlejohn; John Smith, C.R., Court Forest Queen, and T. Drew, C.R., Court Langton. The D.D.H.C.R. then read the following address of welcome:

To the Rt. Worthy High Chief Ranger, Officers and Members of the High Court of Canada, Canadian Order of Foresters:

BRETHREN,—On behalf of the Canadian Foresters of the town and county of Peterborough, we have pleasure in extending to you a hearty welcome and fraternal greeting on the occasion of your high and honourable body meeting in its 19th annual session in the town of Peterborough.

It is nearly thirteen years since Peterborough had the distinguished honour of having the High Court assemble here, and it is with feelings of pride and satisfaction that we look back upon the progress and advancement that our beloved Order has made during that time.

Those of you who were present then will long remember the very important and momentous question that occupied the attention of High Court upon that occasion, viz., the change from the level insurance premium to that of a sliding scale according to age. The wisdom of that change cannot now be doubted, as upon it depended the life and future of what has since developed to be, the leading Fraternal Benevolent Insurance Association of Canada.

On the 31st of May, 1895, the Order, (then in the sixth year of its existence) had 4,395 members, with a surplus of $6,264.43; to-day it boasts of over 27,000 members, and a cash surplus of almost $600,000.00. Up to that time it had paid out about $70,000 to the widows and orphans of deceased brethren, to-day we find that upwards of $1,500,000 has been distributed in insurance and sick and funeral benefits. This is a showing brethren that we may justly feel proud of, and with such a record is it any wonder that to-day our Order commands the respect and confidence of the people of Canada.

We in Peterborough look upon Canadian Forestry as one of the formost, if not the greatest, beneficiary institutions of the age, an organization whose grand precept and substantial standing have so commended it to the good judgment and feelings of the people that it has become more than a household word—a household necessity—and there is hardly a home, high or low, in this district that does not shelter under its roof tree one of Robin Hood's merry men.

In welcoming you to Peterborough we voice the sentiment of a thousand Foresters in town and district, a circumstance that you will recognise as an indication that in the matter of fraternal progress on the plan of Canadian Forestry, our Order has kept pace with the industrial and material advancements that marks the foremost town of the premier province of the premier colony of the first empire of the globe, under whose meteor flag the world over the grand watchwords of our Order, "Liberty, Benevolence and Concord," find congenial expression as well as in Peterborough, the banner Forest Home of the Dominion.

In concluding we again welcome you to our town, and trust that the legislation enacted at this your second visit, may be as fruitful in good results as that of your visit in 1885, that your stay amongst us may be pleasant and enjoyable, and that when the business of the session is ended you will retire from this, your temporary Forest Home, carrying with you pleasant recollections of the High Court meeting in Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the Canadian Foresters of the Town and County of Peterborough.

J. HARDWICK,
C. R. Court Peterborough.
R. MORRISON,
C. R. Court Littlejohn.
JOHN SMITH,
C. R. Court Forest Queen.
G. DREW,
C. R. Court Langton.

A depatation from the town council, headed by Mayor Davis, was then introduced, and His Worship read the following address:—

PETERBOROUGH, Feb. 22nd, 1898.

To the High Chief Ranger and Members of the High Court, Canadian Order of Foresters:

GENTLEMEN,—It is a pleasure that the citizens of this town again bid you welcome to Peterborough. Pleasant recollections of your former visits and the knowledge we have of the work the Canadian Order of Foresters has done and is doing, unite in making our welcome a most hearty one. We are always pleased to receive a body of representative citizens of the Dominion, such as you are, for we are convinced that such a gathering, convened for any good purpose, cannot but leave a good impression and one that will be of benefit to the town in which it is assembled. And we also have a hope that the advantage will be mutual, and that having spent a few days in the first town of the Dominion will be of benefit to the gentlemen who who have come here from the different parts of Canada.

We are also pleased to welcome you as a representative body of the Canadian Order of Foresters. Your Order, we are glad to say, is a strong one in Peterborough, where four Courts and five hundred members are engaged in the work of ministering to the sick, relieving distress, and generally carrying out in practice the principles of your Order. It must seem to you like coming home to come here, for certainly a large number of your family reside here, larger than you will find in any other town in the Dominion. This is no doubt a pleasing fact for you, and it is also gratifying to us, for it shows that the citizens of Peterborough are animated by a spirit of benevolence and concord that leads them to band together for the purpose of mutual assistance.

It is not only the five hundred Canadian Foresters of the town, or the one thousand of the town and county, that bid you welcome, but representing the town as a whole we welcome you heartily and hope that your sessions will be of great advantage to your Order, and that as a result of your deliberations while here your society will be enabled to do even better work and will continue progressive and prosperous, and that on the solid foundations of good principles and sound finance that have been laid you will continue to build up a society strong in numbers and strong in the power to do good.

While we hope that your sessions will be beneficial, we also hope that your visit will be pleasant. We desire you to carry away such pleasant memories of Peterborough that you will be looking forward to the time when the claims of other cities and towns will permit you to again assemble here, and we can assure you that nothing will be left undone that we can do to enhance your enjoyment.

On behalf of the town council, and on behalf of the citizens, we bid you welcome.

A. L. DAVIS,
Mayor.

Mr. Wm. Manson, Vice-President of the Board of Trade, headed a deputation from that body composed of Messrs. T. A. S. Hay, H. S. Macdonald, Peter Campbell, Hampden Burnham and Robt. Fair. The appended address was read by Mr. Manson:

To the Most Worthy High Chief Ranger, and the Canadian Order of Foresters:

GENTLEMEN,—The Board of Trade has much pleasure in extending to the honorable the Canadian Order of Foresters, the hearty welcome of the business men of Peterborough. The commercial activity of this thriving town will no doubt attract the attention of men vitally interested in the welfare and progress of our great Dominion. The large mills and factories here have felt the immediate influence of returning prosperity, and the William Hamilton Co's foundry, which produces so large a share of mill and mining fittings for British Columbia and the west, the Canadian Electric Co's works, the most extensive of the kind in Canada, the Auburn Woollen Mills, the various canoe factories, now working at full pressure to supply the Klondyke trade—all will afford an opportunity for spending a profitable and entertaining hour of inspection.

Though possessing 14,000 of a population and the various requisites of an incipient city we have preferred to remain a town in name, and we feel that the Foresters assembled here will will form as pleasant an impression of Peterborough as Peterborough has formed of them.

We assure, you, gentlemen, that the Board of Trade is delighted to accede the Council in its desire to extend to you the freedom of the town during your stay.

[Signed] W. MANSON,
Vice-President.
H. S. MACDONALD,
Secretary.

THE OFFICIAL NOMINATIONS

FOR THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE HELD TO-DAY.

Mr. J. R. Stratton Proposed by Mr. Peter Hamilton and Mr. A. J. Gough.

A large number of electors were present at the Court House to-day at noon, when the nominations for the Provincial Legislature took place.

After Sheriff Hall had read the statutory declaration, Mr. Peter Hamilton rose and stated that as an elector of West Peterborough he desired to nominate Mr. Stratton. In connection with the nomination there was a most unique circumstance, it being the fourth time he had the honour and pleasure of doing the same thing for Mr. Stratton. He desired to place his name in nomination as being a fit and proper person to represent the riding in the Legislature. He expected the usual success would attend his nominee.

The nomination was seconded by Mr. A. J. Gough, who stated that it gave him great pleasure to endorse Mr. Hamilton's nominee, who had been the representative of the riding for the last twelve years. As a business man he could testify as to what Mr. Stratton had done for the town through opening up the back country and bringing trade into Peterborough from the northern townships. He was sure that he would do even better in the future.

In nominating Mr. Garvin, Mr. H. C. Winch stated that although he came out as a perfect stranger, yet by this time the electors had doubtless found out who he was. It was not necessary for him to say more. Mr. John Lynch seconded the nomination with no remarks.

Mr. Stratton stated that as there were apparently no other nominations and as it had been arranged that there would be no speaking on the part of the candidates, he would simply thank his mover and seconder for nominating him and for the kind words they had spoken in his behalf. In concluding he expressed the hope that the electors would see fit to again return him to the Legislature.

Mr. J. W. Garvin thanked the mover and seconder of his nomination and hoped that Mr. Stratton would not be the next representative.

AN ELECTOR'S OPINION.

He Presents Strong and Conclusive Reasons Why Mr. Stratton Should Receive the Hearty Support of the Electors of West Peterborough.

As an elector of the town and West Riding of Peterborough, I have a very deep interest in its welfare, and am naturally anxious that that welfare should be served by the best possible representative we can get in the Ontario Legislature. I believe that we cannot do better in any sense than retain the services of the present representative, Mr. Stratton, and would therefore beg to submit reasons which, to my mind, are completely conclusive why he should receive at this time the hearty support of the electors of West Peterborough.

Now that the official nomination is over the electors of West Peterborough are called upon, on Tuesday next, March 1st, to select a candidate to represent them in the Ontario Legislature for another parliamentary term; they will be called upon to decide between Mr. Stratton and Mr. Garvin, a decision which, for reasons I may be permitted to urge, should not be any matter of difficulty to the intelligent electorate of West Peterborough. The measure of the usefulness of a representative should not, when an opportunity of judgment on such a basis exists, be decided upon promise so much as performance, and if this standard is adopted, there is not even room for comparison between the claims of Mr. Stratton and Mr. Garvin. I have no quarrel with Mr. Garvin personally, but as a candidate I submit that, compared to Mr. Stratton he has not the slightest claims upon the support of the electors of West Peterborough.

The electors of West Peterborough have known Mr. Stratton from boyhood. As both newspaper publisher and proprietor of a thriving business, and as representative for the past twelve years, he has been kept in close touch with the people all his adult life, and the entire body of the people know that, irrespective of party or creed, race or other considerations, Mr. Stratton, in his private, public and business life has dealt out even-handed justice, as far as was consistent with the interests of the public.

In his relations to the general body of the electorate, Mr. Stratton has taken a course which shows that he properly considered himself the representative of all classes and all parties, opponents as well as supporters. Certainly no Conservative has reason to feel that Mr. Stratton has not treated him as generously as party animosities would reasonably permit, and even in this regard the lines were not drawn by any means closely, and the Liberals will acknowledge that Mr. Stratton has put a reasonably strong case in the present contest against an unscrupulous opposition, and has deserved the hearty, united and enthusiastic support he is receiving, which I believe is a certain augury of victory.

In no part of the riding has he spared his time, his energy, and the ability he possesses in his efforts to give substantial advantages that accrue to a constituency from possessing a live,

ENERGETIC REPRESENTATIVE, ever on the alert to advance the interests of West Peterborough.

It is well known that his services have been freely, and not unsuccessfully, given wherever there was a demand for them, whether in the interests of the several religious, agricultural or industrial affairs of the riding, or in enlisting Government co-operation at Toronto or Ottawa for the benefit of the riding.

Mr. Stratton with a fair-minded and broad-minded attitude has pursued a course that can be commended on more sentimental grounds, affecting the harmony of our people and the peace of the community which have no inconsiderable influence upon its material welfare. When creed cries were being raised and unworthy appeals made to the religious prejudices of the people, THE EXAMINER and Mr. Stratton used their best efforts to show the unreasonable and injurious character of these inexcusable, party tactics, and events have justified his attitude, for, aided by a fair-minded electorate, the attempts to disseminate religious rancour in the community, and to deprive the religious minority of their status of equality as citizens, and to deprive them of the educational rights guaranteed by the constitution, were frustrated, the tide of hostile attack stemmed, and peace and harmony restored to the community.

Mr. Stratton, I also submit has claims to support, on the grounds of what he has done, which is to be regarded as a fair indication of the service he is able to give the riding in the future. When every member of the Opposition in the local Legislature, with a single exception, endeavoured to saddle upon the County of Peterborough, one half of the cost of maintenance of the Bobcaygeon bridges and tried also to of Victoria from any responsibility in connection with the maintenance of the Pigeon Creek bridge Mr. stratton successfully opposed the scheme. At that time it required, as the County Council of Peterborough well knew, the exercise of the most strenuous efforts to protect the rights of the people of this county and Mr. Stratton, with the aid of Mr. Blezard, proved himself equal to the occasion and brought about the result that the bridge in question is maintained in the interest of Peterborough, without any thanks to the Opposition which seemed to show a determined intent to saddle Peterborough with the cost of maintenance. Mr. Stratton succeeded in enlisting the interest of Hon. Mr. Mowat and Hon. Mr. Hardy and had it not been for his persistence in putting the case and claims of the county strongly the county would have been compelled to pay one-half the cost of maintaining the Bobcaygeon bridges, which are of no direct benefit to Peterborough and the county would have besides been compelled, if it desired to keep the trade that reaches the town, by way of the Pigeon Creek bridge to have kept the bridge at its own expense instead of having the cost of maintenance equitably divided. This failure to keep up this bridge would have cut off a large trade from the west and north, for, as is well known, the channel the bridge crosses cannot, even in winter, be travelled on account of the insecurity of the ice. The merchants of Peterborough appreciate the importance of this bridge, and the large trade it brings to town, which but for the bridge, would find its way to Lindsay.

The merchants and other business men of Peterborough can testify that the people of South Harvey are now seen week by week in town.

ENLIVENING BUSINESS

with their trade, whereas their visits were few and far between before the exertions of Mr. Stratton, the representative of West Peterborough, resulted in the construction of better and shorter roads to enable the farmers to get to their market town more quickly and easily.

The people of Smith, Ennismore, Galway and Cavendish know what benefit it is and has been to them to have in Mr. Stratton a representative who has looked, and will continue to look after the interests of these districts. The people in the northern part of the county, where are found the "Weak" and Poor Schools, know that through the exertions of their representative the Government has given the most generous treatment which has enabled them to maintain schools, and to give their children the benefits of education which their own lack of means, did not permit themselves to do.

Is not a representative entitled to credit who has been largely instrumental in facilitating the bringing to the town the trade of a large section of one of the most fertile townships in the riding. Through his persistent efforts Mr. Stratton has contributed to shortening the distance between the part of South Monaghan referred to and Peterborough, from an average of fifteen to eight miles, and he is also to blame for the improvement of a road through North Monaghan to enable a portion of South Monaghan to more easily reach the town.

The advantages which have been outlined are substantial and important—how important neither town or county can appreciate fully unless deprived of them; then their value would be more thoroughly appreciated. They are to be attributed to two circumstances—to a representative who is and considers no effort too great to serve the interests of the people he represents, and to his supporting a government that acts on the principle of expending the public revenues for the benefit of the people. It is a matter of common knowledge that the government has returned in this way to the people of the province the very large sum of nearly forty-four millions of dollars, and of this the share of Peterborough county has been for the past 26 years up to January 1st, 1898 the large sum of $800,969.47. I have been placed in possession of the following figures representing the money paid by the government to Peterborough county to relieve the municipalities from so much direct taxation:

For the purposes of Education	$201,000 00
Public Libraries	12,900 00
Agricultural Societies	39,800 00
Farmers' Institutes	425 00
Nicholls Hospital	13,000 00
Protestant Home	4,500 00
St. Joseph's Hospital	5,400 00
House of Providence	3,550 00
Support of patients in Asylums from Peterborough county	124,668 52
For Administration Justice to county of Peterborough	46,750 00
For Colonization Roads, county of Peterborough	124,000 00
Public improvements — dams, locks, piers, booms, slides, etc	67,000 00
Aid to railways	70,000 00
Support of prisoners from the county in Central Prison	12,440 57
Support of inmates from the county, Reformatory for boys	13,327 03
Support of pupils from the county in the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Institutes	18,000 00
Municipal Loan Fund	49,208.35
Grand total	$800,969.47

And deducting the sum of $42,000 received from licenses from the county, leaves as the net return of money to the people of Peterborough the large sum of $758,969.47.

Besides important improvements of the northern waterways have been made, such as those at Union Creek, Burnt River, Swamp Lake, Squaw River and other places for the benefit of the districts affected. Since the construction of the Massassaga dam for the reservation of water, there has been no shortage of water in Peterborough and those depending upon the water supply for power know what an important advantage that represents and the dam served the double purpose of affording more regular power and the development of the resources of the district. In regard to the foregoing figures it may be remarked that the aid to Peterborough charitable institutions, the Nicholls Hospital, the St. Joseph's Hospital, the House of Providence and the Protestant Home, which have received in round figures $30,000 since Mr. Stratton became representative of West Peterborough, receive a grant according to inmates, thirty cents per day for each patient or inmate. The grants to the Public and Separate Schools in the town and county and Collegiate Institutes are based upon attendance, and Peterborough received about $3,000 from the Government last year alone. All the other services mentioned represent so much or a deprivation of the benefits enjoyed. Under the Municipal Loan Fund distribution the following sums were received to assist in making permanent improvements of various kinds:

Peterborough	$ 1,376 23
Ashburnham	2,523 62
Asphodel	6,023 06
Burleigh	1,360 00
Belmont and Methuen	3,200 64
Douro	5,489 56
Dummer	4,185 50
Ennismore	2,288 91
Galway and Cavendish	1,075 92
Harvey	1,302 31
North Monaghan	2,513 34
Otonabee	10,251 72
Smith	6,577 54

It is to be noted that South Monaghan, though in another county municipality, received a pro rata share of grants of provincial moneys.

Mr. Stratton is not undeserving of consideration at the hands of the town. When the Carbon Company was in difficulties, Mr. Stratton became interested in its success, and was a loser by the practical interest he took in the concern. Mr. Stratton also became identified with the Peterborough Lock Works. When the Peterborough Canoe Company, after the fire in Ashburnham, was being established in Peterborough, Mr. Stratton became financially interested in it also, and it is pertinent to inquire what more liberal contributor to matters affecting the public interest can be found in Peterborough. He has shown his faith in the town and in the principle that one of the most beneficial and effective means to advance the interests of a town is to give the greatest possible amount of employment to labour. He is also himself a large employer of labour, and apart from his personal efforts he is always willing to use his representative capacity and influence for the benefit of the industrial welfare of the town. When the Liberal party, with which he is in sympathy, came into power, and the tariff was being rearranged, he practically showed his inclination to of local manufacturers in a manner well-known to those interested, and in all ways he has always stood for the advancement of the town and its material interests. In view of these consideration, so far as influence with either of the Governments at Toronto or Ottawa (for there is no shadow of a doubt that the present Provincial Government will be handsomely sustained in the present election contest) the contrast is marked between the two candidates.

In view of the certainty of the return of the Hardy Government to power it stands to reason that the town will be placed in the position of greatest advantage by being represented by a supporter of that Government. Aside from this aspect Peterborough has interests that must be regarded from a Dominion standpoint, and in view of the fact of how closely certain material interests of the town are affected by amicable relation with the Dominion Government, it is wise and possible to have a representative Peterborough citizen who has the confidence of the people, so that when the claims of Peterborough are to be placed before the Government they will be advanced by the maximum of weight, for governments are only human and will naturally be more easily advised and more effectively by a friend in sympathy with them than by an opponent. There are large and important interests that will have to be looked after from Peterborough's point of view, and a party victory is as nothing in comparison with the prosperity of the town of Peterborough. We have a great and good town and we should be public spirited in our view of matters that so intimately and extensively concern its advancement and substantial progress. Mr. Stratton has made good use of his opportunities and has reached a position in his political career where his representations on behalf of his town and riding are listened to respectfully by the Liberal leaders at both

OTTAWA AND TORONTO.

Of this fact deputations from town to the provincial Capital can bear testimony without uncertainty—that, with the present and future government of Ontario, whatever he says is regarded with respect, for the government has confidence in his good judgment and respect for his persistent efforts on behalf of his constituents.

I do not claim, nor do I believe, that Mr. Stratton thinks himself perfect, but I do believe that he has made few mistakes during his representative career of twelve years, or we should have something specific urged at this time against his record.

I believe that the thinking classes of the citizens, if they will take the trouble to consider what I have presented, will arrive at the same conclusion that I have done, that in the matter of a representative, as in the matter of a Government, it is wise to let well enough alone, and not only that, but that it is wise to make certain that we make no mistake. This town and this riding have much at stake in this present contest, and as a citizen with substantial interests in the town and county, I feel that I shall best subserve those interests by standing by and supporting a representative, who has stood by and supported the cause of the town and riding with success, and who has supported a Government whose minor faults are infinitely outweighed by the splendid administration it has given our great province, which affords ample warrant that its future course will represent as capable exercise of Government and administration as the province has enjoyed the past twenty-six years.

Yours truly,
AN ELECTOR.

A NEW ELECTION "YARN."

The new "yarn" that is now being circulated in Peterborough, with the object of arousing narrow prejudice against Hon. Mr. Hardy, is that Mr. Hardy is a Roman Catholic in religion. The EXAMINER has been requested by an elector, who was canvassed on such grounds by the Opposition, to give the facts. Hon. Mr. Hardy is a Protestant of the Anglican Communion; but even if he were a Roman Catholic, that fact would have nothing to do with his fitness for the position he now holds. So long as he is the worthy and capable head of an administration that has given, and will continue to give, good government to the province, his religious convictions are not a matter that should be urged for or against him. In this enlightened age and province no man's religion should be a bar to his enjoying the highest privileges of citizenship. The Hardy government stands for even-handed justice to all classes.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY SCHEME.

Last night Mr. Alex. Elliott appeared before the Committee of the Whole Council in reference to the Starr Electric Railway line. It is known that the proposition involves the expenditure by the company of $200,000, and a request that the town guarantee only the interest on $150,000 of the bonds. The council have asked the promoters for details of the scheme, and when these are forthcoming and presented to the public, the latter will then have an opportunity of passing an opinion as to whether the town will be benefitted, and the people, as they are accustomed to do, act in conformity with what they consider the best interests of the town. When the details asked by the council are supplied, then an intelligent opinion can be formed of the scheme in relation to its influence upon the prosperity of the town of Peterborough.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order to bring to a head the charges and misstatements rampant about the meeting at O'Rielly's School House in Ennismore as to who was the one to begin the appeals to sectarian prejudices, Mr. Garvin or Mr. Stratton, I hereby agree to put up five dollars for prizes in a race to be called the "Garvin race," at each of the next five Ennismore picnics, if he will do the same, the loser to pay if I cannot prove to the satisfaction of any reasonable committee of men to be named at once that Mr. Garvin began the references to sectarian matters at the O'Rielly's school house meeting.

CHALLENGE.

Mr. Garvin is billed to address the electors of Young's Point to-morrow night. By the time Mr. Garvin has conducted two or three unsuccessful election campaigns he will learn that it pays to tell the truth, and that thus he will be saved the necessity of going twice over the same ground to explain away his false statements.

Speaking at the close of the elections in 1894, Mr. Whitney is reported in the Morrisburg Herald of June 28th, 1894, said that "the opposition to him in this election was brought about by four or five time-servers who had their own ends to serve. He did not consider his election a Conservative triumph, but one brought about by the respectable voters of both the old parties. It was his wish that no demonstration be made, but that all should be satisfied to rest content with the knowledge that justice had triumphed and that the "nobodies from nowhere" could now seek the seclusion from which they had sprung."

Mr. Stratton Returns After Holding a Most Successful Series of Meetings.

Mr. Stratton has returned from the back townships where he has been addressing a series of meetings, closing with one held on Saturday night at Swamp Lake.

The meetings held were most interesting and the enthusiasm shown was such as to inspire great confidence as to the result in the forthcoming elections.

Mr. Stratton will address the electors of East Peterborough at Warsaw on Thursday evening and on Friday evening will meet the electors of Smith at Bridgenorth.

MR. BLEZARD'S CAMPAIGN.

Keene Turns Out in Throngs to Do Honour to the Liberal Candidate.

The largest political meeting ever held in Keene was that of last evening, when Mr. Blezard addressed the electors of that village for over an hour. The hall was packed to the doors and many were unable to find even standing room.

To all appearances old Otonabee is going to give the Liberal candidate heartier support than ever.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Blezard took exception to a statement made by Dr. Ford, to the effect that $500 had been spent by the Ontario Government on a bridge near Stony Lake, which could have been erected for less than $100, the foreman having drawn too much of the money himself. Mr. Blezard explained that no bridge had been built, but a crossway had been laid down at the head of Stony lake, and three miles of roadway had been built, the whole costing $568. Of this amount the foreman had drawn $39.20. The pay sheets were submitted in proof of this, and attention was drawn to other charges made by Dr. Ford, which were equally foundationless.

Mr. R. C. Clute, Q.C., of Toronto, followed in an able address, in which he took up the school question, Moore Lumber Co, Eagledue deal, license question and other issues of the campaign.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem and cheers for Hardy, Blezard and Clute.

A CERTAIN TRIUMPH IN WEST PETERBOROUGH.

Grand Rallies at Liberal Committee Rooms—Where the Swing of Victory Focuses—As the Campaign Progresses the Victory Looms Larger—Fighting Enthusiasm All Along the Line.

As the campaign in West Peterborough progresses the evidences of victory grow and the splendidly encouraging reports from all parts of the riding, fire the working supporters of Mr. Stratton with grand enthusiasm. The news from the province indicating a sweeping victory for the Hardy Government adds fuel to the fire of enthusiasm, and every night the Committee rooms are thronged with enthusiastic workers. Last night there was a magnificent rally, and a large amount of effective work accomplished. And the grand rally on Saturday night to round up was a companion evening to last night. Rousing speeches in discussion of public questions, as pointers to canvassers and in encouragement of workers were made by Messrs. F. D. Kerr, R. R. Hall, W. Eyres, Mr. J. A. McClennan, J. J. Hartley, —. Grant, A. McCallum, H. Stabler, G. M. Roger and others. The characteristic that most marked these gatherings was the spirit of confidence and the determination to carry out in winning the victory—as we are sure to do on March 1st—the principle that what is worth doing, is worth doing well. The news from every part of the riding and from the Province at large are of the the most cheering character. It is a safe prediction that Hon. Mr. Hardy will carry fifty seats in the new House and he has a good fighting chance in ten ridings besides. With steady, persistent work, for great victories are not won otherwise, there will be a magnificent triumph to record in West Peterborough and all over Ontario on March 1st.

The cold chills of fear run up and down the back of the bravest man when he looks down the barrel of a death-dealing Winchester in the hands of a man who means "shoot."

Every hour and every minute men face death in a more frequent and equally certain form—death in the guise of that deadliest enemy of mankind—consumption. Out of all the tens of thousands who yearly die from consumption 95 per cent. could be saved. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an almost unfailing cure if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. It will cure consumption and all allied diseases, as bronchial, throat and nasal affections. It cures by going to first principles. A man's body starves a long time before consumption attacks him. The tissues of his lungs starve for lack of sufficient nourishment. They become inert and half dead and then are attacked by the baccilli of consumption. The "Golden Medical Discovery" restores the long-lost appetite; it strengthens the weak stomach and corrects the impaired digestion; it promotes the flow of digestive juices and facilitates the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food into the blood. When the blood is pure and rich, old inert tissues are torn down, carried off and excreted, and new, healthy, muscular tissues replace them. It allays inflammation of the mucous membranes, soothes the cough, facilitates expectoration, and deepens the breathing, supplying the system with a much needed stock of oxygen. It drives out all impurities and disease germs. Medicine dealers sell it.

"I was first taken nearly two years ago with choking and aching in my throat," writes Mrs. D. Z. Moore, of Deming, Grant Co., N. Mexico. "I took everything I could think of and spent a great deal of money. Three doctors treated me. My throat ulcerated and I lost my voice. I could scarcely talk. The doctors called the trouble bronchial affection, and said the larynx was badly affected. I was almost dead with consumption. My neighbors thought I would not live a month. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. From the first, I commenced to improve and now have as good health as ever. I owe my life to Dr. Pierce."

BILLY GORDON.

"Our mate was a man anyway!" cried Hillyard.

"What d'you mean?" said Luker sullenly. "'E wiped me over the eye with a stopper and nigh blinded me. If I 'adn't bin a poor man, I'd 'ave 'ad the law on 'im."

"You'd 'ave 'ad thunder," said Hillyard, and he turned to the others. They were sitting in the smoking room of the Sailors' home at Hull, chewing tobacco and the cud of dismal reflection such as comes up when times are hard and the weather beastly, for outside Salthouse lane was ankle deep in slush, while rain and bitter sleet mingled upon an easterly wind fresh from the North sea.

"Bah! Shut the bloomin door, can't you?" said Hillyard impatiently as a newcomer came in.

"I was shuttin of it," said the other man. "Do you want me to shut it when I'm on'y 'arf in or outside, mate?"

"No, but it's that cold it would freeze the toes off of a North sea pilot, and I'm just out of the Mediterranean," said Hillyard more good temperedly than he had yet spoken, for he was evidently the boss of the crowd by right of strength and a certain savage temper. He spoke with decision, and there was the salt of the seven seas on his tanned face. Not a craft afloat but he knew her; the paint and the funnel of a tramp were common inevitable knowledge to him.

"But I was tellin you," he went on, "about Gordon, our mate in the Japan, when we went to Reval with a mixed cargo, what Eyetalians calls a fritter minster, and come back with rickers. 'E was a man. Now, wasn't Gordon a man, you Thompson?"

And Thompson nodded.

"You see what Thompson thinks," said Hillyard to Luker, "and what 'e says goes with me. I don't care if 'e did bung up your eye. If so be 'e'd bunged up mine, I'd say the same, 'cause I knowed 'im long afore I ever clapped eyes on the Japan, with 'er bloomin old eight ton a day and eight knot an hour steady crawl. I knew 'im in the W. H. Smith, out of Frisco for Ilo-Ilo, and 'a was afore the stick with me ('e 'adn't no second greaser's ticket then), and I'm tellin you it wouldn't 'ave bin 'Tom's bound to Milo' with us if it 'adn't bin for 'im. I own that as a man in the fo'c'sle 'e was a bit of a sea lawyer; but then 'e 'ad addication. I seed 'is sisters' photos, and the girls was daisies—quite the lady.

"But, as I was sayin, 'e was a sea lawyer, and when 'e shipped in the W. H. Smith 'e took it into 'is 'ead as she warn't seaworthy and was too deep, and 'e tried to get us to skin out.

"Oh, but if Gordon 'ad the 'savvy 'and (when it was wanted, Luker) 'e 'ad a tongue, and 'e could make up any kind of a yarn as easy as make sennit, and 'e'd work round of a man before 'e knowed it, and 'e'd enough brass about 'im to shoot a cruisin frigate with.

"Says 'e one day as we squatted in the fo'c'sle of the W. H. Smith—for we went aboard that time three days afore she sailed, 'ell itself not bein fuller of devils than Frisco was of sailors and the skipper bein noways scared of our skippin—says 'e—Gordon, I mean, 'This bloomin old hooker is a doomed craft, mates.'

"'Ow's that?' I arsts 'im, for 'e spoke serious, and serious 'e looked.

"'She is,' says 'e, 'she's that deep, and they've got 'er by the 'ead now, and at this season we shall get it stiff from the northeast, and the seas out yonder when it do blow, why, they're short and steep, and she'll dive, and, what's more, she'll never once up no more.'

"'You believe it?' says a Dutchman.

"'I do, solemn,' says Gordon. 'I met a man as was shipmates in 'er on'y yesterday, and I says to 'im, "I'm in the W. H. Smith," and 'e says, "Do you know 'er?" And of course I answers, "No; what's wrong?" 'E screws 'is face up and says, "Well, she's rather a wet ship." "Wet? Is that all?" I answers, and then he says, "She's worse than the Leander as washed over and killed more than 70 men in five years."'

"So we came on board, and out to sea we goes.

"'You mind your bloomin stops,' says the old man, 'and bygones is bygones. You was all skippers awhile back, but I'm skipper now, and I'll skip you if you ain't good and smart. So now then, my bullies, you can turn to. Calashee watch till we gets outside the gate.' For we lay off Goat island another 48 hours.

"You'd 'ave thought Gordon would 'ave took it bad, bein so cushred. But no, 'e didn't. I don't take no back seat when sailorisin is on, not with no man, bar that I'm not so quick as I was, but Gordon—Billy we called 'im then—was up to my mark at everything, and over it on navigation, for that I know'd nothin of. And 'e was as quick as any cat, I'll say that, aloft as in jaw. And no man could best 'im with his tongue.

"Howsoever, we 'ad a good time for about three weeks, though the wind was light, and then it breesed up from the nor'-nor'east, and it began to look bad.

"The second night was worse than the first, and never a man turned in. Leastways no man took more'n 'is boots off. Though what good, I dunno. If so be she 'ad done an Atalanta, we'd 'ave been left, for nothin could 'ave lived in the sea. It was get through or bust, and it looked more like bustin, I must say. For when they could 'ave 'ove her to they didn't.

"Billy and me stood most of the night just aft of the deck'ouse, and with us was the bos'n's mate. I never seed any one so 'appy as Billy was, for the worse it got the more 'e cheered up.

"'Let 'er rip,' says 'e, 'there ain't nothin like excitement. It'll be the death o' me one of these days. What cheer; go it, my beauty.'

"'Oh, dry up,' says the bos'n's mate, who 'ad the fear of God in 'is 'eart. 'She'll go; she'll go. And this time. Oh, Lord!'

"And down went the W. H. Smith with a plunge that made me a bit sick. And she took it in over the 'ead, solid green it was, and it came over from the topgallant fo'c'sle two feet deep, roaring like a cataract.

"The skipper yelled out from the break of the poop, and the bos'n crawled aft, hanging on to the rail.

"'Get a couple of canvas bags and oil,' says the old man, 'and sling them over forward from the cat'eads.'

"'Yes, sir,' says the bos'n's mate. And me and Billy helps him.

"'Who's goin to bell the cat'ead?' says Billy. 'For the man as goes on the fo'c'sle 'ead takes 'is bloomin life in 'is 'and.'

"'Yes, that's it,' says the other chap, lookin pea green by the light of the lamp in the bos'n's locker.

"And Billy laughs.

"'I'll do one,' says 'e

"And 'e looks at me.

"He forced my 'and, mates. And though I felt sick enough to believe that even a sailorman's life was worth livin I says, 'I'm on for the other.' And then the bo'sun's mate looked a bit easier and not so much like a Calashee in cold weather.

"But I'm tellin you it was a pretty job. It came out all right for me, for we waited for a smooth, and though it was as black as the Earl of Hell's riding boots I nipped up quick and got the bag fast with no more than one small sea over me. But the way she felt and the wind and the blackness rather cooled me down. And though I knew Billy was close 'andy on the starboard side I couldn't see my 'and before my face. And the roar of her when she rose was deafenin. But at last back I come. I found the bos'n's mate peepin round the deck'ouse, and when I grabbed 'old of the rail there says 'e:

"'Where's Gordon?'

"And just then she yawed and caught a heavy one right on the port bow, and she rolled to port and then right over again. And near six foot of green water came over the starboard rail amidships and filled 'er up to the topgallant rail, and as she rolled again it went over the port side. I 'ung on the 'andrail aft of the deck'ouse, and of a sudden I was caught round the waist by the bos'n's mate, as I thinks, an them, though I did feel as if the W. H. Smith was a clean goner, she began to recover and not on

THE SWING OF VICTORY.

New Watch for Whitney's Waterloo—The Movements of the Leaders—Prospects of the Campaign.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—One week from to-morrow the people of Ontario will make their choice of legislators for the coming four years, and hard work by the Liberals during the next few days in every subdivision of every riding in the province will have the salutary effect of making Mr. Whitney's Waterloo so pronounced that there can be no mistaking the will of the people. To-morrow the formal nominations will be made, but the entire field has been so thoroughly gone over that there will be very few changes.

Mr. Hardy rested Saturday, and Mr. Whitney closed his tour at Almonte and Carleton Place. Mr. Harcourt spoke at London, Mr. Ross at Lambeth, Mr. Davis at Glenville and Mr. Dryden at Ashburn. In Toronto several meetings were held, the chief being the Pavilion mass meeting of the Liberals, at which addresses were delivered by the four candidates, and by Messrs. James Lister, M.P., and George H. Bertram, M.P. Although the meeting was only announced the day before, the large Pavilion was filled, the gallery being crowded, hundreds of ladies turning out. Several other successful Liberal meetings were held. The Conservatives also held largely attended meetings in Ayres' and St. Andrew's Halls.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Mr. Gustave Drolet, who some months ago became possessed of certain mining rights in the Saskatchewan River, has, in mining parlance, struck it rich. A syndicate, which has been recently formed in London, has paid Mr. Drolet $50,000 in cash and $250,000 stock in the new company for his rights.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

BILLY GORDON.

an even keel and rose again. I catches hold of the man as 'eld me and sets 'im on 'is legs.

"'Oh, Billy's gone,' I cries out. 'E's gone, 'e's gone!'

"And the chap gasps. And then I seed it wasn't the bos'n's mate at all. It was Billy. 'E'd been washed overboard right at the cat'ead and washed aboard again when the big sea came over the starboard rail.

"'E tells me quick in my year.

"'And where's Higgins?'

"'Where?' says I.

"But we never seed 'im again. The sea as put Billy on board took the bos'n's mate over, and 'e wasn't the only man, for the cook's mate went, too, either then or later, and the mate 'ad 'is leg busted ag'in the signal box.

"The oil for'ard did but little good. It made a bit of a smooth between the whiskers and the foremast, but not enough to stop the sea comin in farther aft thick and 'eavy, and the sea got worse and worse.

"'Them little bags is just like spittin on a burnin kerosene cask to put it out,' says Billy. 'I'm goin to get the two five gallon cans with the taps and set 'em goin for'ard.'

"'Ow get 'em?' I arsts, for Higgins 'ad took the keys with 'im.

"'Very careless of Higgins,' says Billy, but 'e burst open the locker with a big splice bar, and 'e got out the cans and shoved' em in for'ard in what Eyetalians calls retreaters and turned on the taps at a fair, good, steady trickle.

"Now I'd 'eard tell often of oil and what it does, but I never believed it before. After Billy 'ad set it flowin we never took a drop aboard, and the quarter deck fair dried up. I went aft and stood under the poop ladder, and presently the second mate comes down.

"'That scheme of them oil bags works, don't it?' says 'e. 'I believe it was just touch and go when we put 'em over.'

"'Yes, sir,' says I, but I never told 'im about Billy, and I 'alf forgot to tell 'im 'ow Higgins was gone.

"And about four bells in the mornin watch we was quite through with the thick of it, and the sea went down with the rain which come on then.

"But the bos'n was mad when 'e found 'is locker burst open and the oil cans gone.

"'E went aft flyin and makes a complaint to the skipper.

"'Who done it?' says the old man, and Billy, bein then at the wheel, speaks:

"'I done it, sir.'

"'Then by the tail of the sacred tail, you—saved the bloomin ship!' says the old man. 'I thought it was them bags.'

"But the bags alone wouldn't 'ave fetched us into Ilo, for the difference them tanks made was enough to make a man believe as a 'ogs'ead of oil would smooth all that lies between the cape and the south pole.

"At Ilo-Ilo Billy skipped out, and 'e 'ooked it off into New Guinea and 'ad three years foolin round. I met 'im again right 'ere in Hull, and then 'e 'ad his second mate's ticket. We went one trip together, me bein bos'n, to St. Petersburg and back. And two years later 'e was mate of the Japan, and a thunderin good man as mate 'e was.

"Work was what 'e loved, and when out of a job 'e was sick. At sea 'e was merry, but not to be played with by no means. Between this time and 'is last trip with me 'e was in several lines, mostly in the Baltic, Mediterranean and Black sea trades. 'E was in every port in the Mediterranean and to Batoum and Poti and Kertch and Novorosisk and Sulina and Galats and Ibrail. But what I started out to tell you chaps was our trip to Reval this last time.

"We left this 'ere place just in about time to get there when the ice broke up and there was plenty of it round. But the old Japan was built for such work, and she plowed through ice that would 'ave stove the guts out of a common Mediterranean fair weather tramp. She came back right enough, or mebbe I would not be talkin here. But just as we came away from Reval most every one on board was queer, for that rotten disease they calls influenza was layin 'em out in Russia like the cholera. Before we'd been three days at sea the old man, a thick 'eaded old smorter 'e was, was down with it, 'ollerin like a man with delirious trimmin's, and the third mate (she was a good boat for the officers and 'ad three watchers), he went down too. Criminy, they was bad! I 'ad a touch of it, and for three days I wanted to die and get ont of such a black world. I 'adn't no more 'ope in me than if I was in 'ell on a grid. Fryin it was, and 'elpless as a kid. Why, man alive, I cried! And then the second mate 'e goes under, fair knocked out. A rag of a man 'e was at 'is best, but no more in 'im when 'e 'urt 'imself than in an old soup and bully tin. So poor Billy Gordon 'ad it all to 'imself.

"You chaps—for all you're mostly chaps as never saw real tall water—knows what a blasted 'ole the Baltic is when it is bad weather. It was bitter then, and a northeaster as sharp as a razor that went through a man. There was ice about even then—ice in bergs and small floes drifted out of rivers—and it blew at least three-quarters of a gale all the time.

"So you may guess that poor Gordon 'ad an 'ell of a time on the bridge. What could 'e do with all the rest down? Why, nothin, as 'e said to me, but stick it out. And 'a stuck it out like a man as 'e was and as I told you.

"Says I to 'im, 'For Gawd's sake, sling it, Mr. Gordon!' For I could see 'e was sickenin for the fin; but 'e answers, angry.

"'And who'll be in charge of 'er?' says 'e.

"That night the fever got 'im. After 'e'd bin six and thirty hours on the bridge, with 'ardly a get off for ten minutes all the while, 'e calls me.

"'I've got it at last,' 'e said. 'Now look you 'ere, Tom; I'm not going off. They're all down, and none of you knows nothing.'

"'I knows the rule of the road,' I told 'im, and 'e laughed.

"'You think so, sonny, but wait till you get into the thick of it and red lights and green lights as thick as a chemist's shop, and your 'ead'll go off, and so will the old Japan.'

"And 'e stuck on the bridge till 'e just couldn't stand. All the time the skipper was as weak as a kid and would weep if the steward said a word to 'im 'e didn't like, and the second and third were real bad, too; but I've my doubts if they was as bad as Gordon.

"For now 'e was lyin on that freezin cold bridge, wrapped up in blankets, achin in every limb and just 'orrid to look at. But 'e said: 'Don't you touch me. Just you tell me what's ahead.' I stood there most of the time watchin 'im and lookin out, and accordin as I told 'im what lights there was, so 'e said, 'Port or starboard.' And then I saw as my rule of the road would sometimes 'ave cured 'im and me and the others of the flu, and any troubles, too, for that matter.

"And now we was gettin down to London river, where we was bound. But sometimes I did think as Billy would go out before we ever got in sight of the Nore. For 'e couldn't hardly speak, and 'e looked just pitiful and like a ghost. But 'e was true grit, and never even moaned, unless 'e slept for a few minutes. And all the time 'e should 'ave bin in 'is blankets, and even then it was a chance for 'im. And at last 'e fainted dead away, but not till I told 'im there was a pilotboat nigh handy. The old man was a river pilot, and so they didn't look for us to take one. But Billy says, 'Signal for one,' and 'e fainted as I rung the telegraph for them to ease 'er down.

"When the pilot came on board, I took Billy in my arms—a skeleton 'e was—and carried 'im down below. I knew 'e'd never get over it, and 'e never did. 'E died inside of a week or so. One of 'is sisters wrote and told me. She was a regular lady, and I kept 'er letter by me a long time, until I got drunk and lost it. But if I did it could not be 'elped, and she sent me Billy's likeness. 'E was what I call a man, and not a thing in the shape of a man. 'E could 'it 'ard, and swear 'ard, and at the right time drink 'ard, but 'e knowed 'is work as few bloomin officers knows theirs. And when ninety-nine men ont of a 'undred would 'ave caved in 'e stuck there and done 'is duty, knowin, if a man could know, as it would be 'is death. A man, I say, 'e was. And if 'e did wipe you over the 'ead with a stopper I dessay you deserved it, Luker."

"I dessay, too," said Luker. "I never said as 'e warn't a good man. It takes a good man to 'it me."

"I done it myself," said Hillyard.

"Well, did I hever say you didn't?" asked Luker. "But there ain't no other bloomin swine in this room as can say the same."

As they were all sober and mostly Dutchmen nothing came of the challenge.

"Hark! Don't it blow?" said one. And the deadly northeaster roared down the dismal street.—Morley Roberts in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Met His Match.

"Henrietta," said Mr. Meekton, as he gently pushed the door open, "you left word that you wished to see the milkman. He's here."

She went out immediately, and confronting the man, who stood on the step, exclaimed:

"So you are the person who has been bringing us alleged milk for the past six weeks."

"Yes, ma'am," was the answer. "But my responsibility ends right there. I ain't the cow, you know."

She caught her breath and looked at him hard. "I have paid you regularly, have I not?" she inquired, with sarcasm.

"Very regular, ma'am. And I make free to say that I've brought the milk regular in return, and, what is more, it's as good milk as anybody in town has been getting."

"I have no fault to find with the milk," she remarked in tones that were not loud, but very cold and metallic. "The milk is all right."

"Thank you, ma'am."

"I have no doubt that it is as good milk as can be purchased."

"Yes'm."

"But there is a stratum of limestone under your farm. Water that comes from limestone always did annoy me. I don't wish to seem too particular, but I will say right here that if you can't go to the trouble of digging a cistern in order to supply customers who don't like limestone water, you're going to lose my trade."—Washington Star.

It makes the skin clear by making the blood pure.

No better beautifier than B.B.B.

Mrs. R. E. Lees, Fenelon Falls, Ont., says: "I feel thankful to say that through the use of B.B.B. I am strong and healthy to-day. I was troubled with eczema, which broke out all over my body in a scarlet rash and then turned to large sores, some as large as a 25 cent piece. I tried two doctors and they did me little good. At last I got Burdock Blood Bitters and took four bottles which entirely cured me and I cannot say too much in its praise. It has made my skin clear and smooth."

Furs at Cost for Cash

Here is our helpfullness—on all Fur Goods the prices followed the mercury downward—lowest prices on Fine Furs just when your need is greatest.

It's worth something to have a good Fur Coat, Cape, Jacket and Cape to help the winter out, worth more to save the difference in added cost when next season comes with its bigger prices.

Buying Furs is for 5 to 10 years service, perhaps much larger by wise choosing—make money by buying now.

On some lines of Furs, Collarettes, Ruffs and all fancier articles we are quoting less than cost.

You'll save money by spending—if you invest now.

THAT ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The Company would Guarantee to Spend $200,000—Action Deferred.

The town council met in Committee of the Whole last night when a grant of $50 was made to the local Canadian Foresters to assist in entertaing the delegates to the High Court. Messrs. Wm. Mannies and H. Nesbitt appeared for the Foresters.

Mr. Alex. Elliott appeared and strongly urged on the council the necessity of taking up the proposition of the company which wishes to operate electric railways connecting Peterborough with Chemong and Lakefield. The company was prepared to spend $200,000 on the scheme if the town would assume the interest on bonds for the additional amount of $150,000. So great is Mr. Elliott's confidence in the idea that he stated his intention of putting Chemong Park into the scheme as stock. It was proposed to run excursions to the back lakes from all portions of the Province, as well as from the United States. In the event of the company not being able to fulfil their agreement the town would be given power to seize and sell the railway and rolling stock.

It was decided to defer any action until the fourth of March, when Mr. Star would be present to explain the details even more fully.

At the close of the programme a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. R. H. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Lewis Rye, who remarked that St. Luke's always gave its audience more than their money's worth, and carried. Mr. R. H. Leary was also warmly thanked for his kindness in gratuitously conveying the performers to and from the school house.

ZOLA SPEAKS FOR DREYFUS.

Charges Premier Meline With Having Ordered the Jury to Find a Verdict of Guilty—Declares Dreyfus Innocent.

Paris, Feb. 22.—At the Zola trial yesterday the Advocate-General concluded his address to the jury by expressing confidence that it would condemn M. Zola without hesitation. The session of the court was then suspended.

After a short recess the session was resumed and M. Zola addressed the court, affirming his good faith. He created a sensation by accusing the Premier, M. Meline, of having ordered the jury to avenge the national honor by returning a verdict of guilty, whereupon the presiding judge told M. Zola that he must not make such charges.

M. Zola declared that the Government know everything, was perfectly aware Dreyfus was innocent, and, he added, the Ministers themselves would some day announce his innocence.

"I swear before the whole world," exclaimed M. Zola, in conclusion, "that Dreyfus is innocent, and that France, some day, will thank me for saving her honor."

The speech was constantly interrupted by hisses and protests.

Verdict in the Baby Case.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—"We, the jury, find that the infant Thomas Perth came to his death from starvation and exposure, and we believe that the child was taken by Mrs. Elizabeth Malone to the corner of Perth and Bloor streets, Toronto, where she claims to have found it."

Such was the verdict rendered by a coroner's jury last evening in the West End baby case. It took the jury nearly an hour to reach a conclusion. Mrs. Malone was sent back to the jail at midnight shortly before the verdict was rendered. Asked if the charge now against Mrs. Malone would be changed to manslaughter, the Crown Attorney was unable to say just what proceedings would be taken.

Thomas Gamey, ex-M.P.P. for Centre Grey, died on Sunday at his home in Osprey township, aged 73. He had lived there 40 years, and held the wardenship of the county for some time, besides having been reeve of the township for 20 years. He was a Patron in politics. Paralysis was the cause of death.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

The Limit of Great Britain's Forbearance About Reached.

London, Feb. 22.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, said he received yesterday a despatch from Lieutenant Pilcher, commnding at Lokojah, stating he had received information that four French European officers, with a hundred men, had arrived at Argungu (or Argungi) on the Sokoto River, and within the sphere of British influence. Mr Chamberlain added: "I cannot believe that, pending the negotiations, the French Government can have authorized this invasion of territory over which our rights have been recognized by the convention between Great Britain and France."

The Times, commenting editorially on the news from Sokoto, says it cannot credit the report, and reproves the levity of the French press regarding a grave situation.

"The presence of a French force at Argungu," the Times declares, "would be so flagrant a breach of any possible construction of the Say-Bayrua agreement of 1890 (Anglo-French treaty at Busah) that nothing but its immediate withdrawal could avert the most deplorable consequences."

Other papers publish similar articles, urging Lord Salisbury to intimate plainly that Great Britain's limit of "squeezeability" has been reached.

Times Favors the White Pass.

London, Feb. 22.—The Times refers editorially to a route by rail to the Klondike. It compares the White Pass and Stikine-Teslin routes, and says there can be no surprise at the opposition aroused against the Dominion Government proposals regarding the building of the railway. The article strongly favors the White Pass route.

Ogilvie for England.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Mr. William Ogilvie, the famous Yukon explorer, has been granted three months' leave of absence by the Government, and leaves for England to-day on private business. While in the Old Land Mr. Ogilvie may address one or two public audiences. It is said he has received several lucrative offers from mining syndicates in the Yukon, but he has declined them all, preferring to remain in the Government service.

Frank Oliver, M.P., received a telegram yesterday from Edmonton stating that 400 sloighs had left that point during the past week, destined for Dawson City by way of the Peace River Pass.

Comptroller Fred White yesterday received a telegram from Vancouver stating that Major Walsh is now believe to be in Dawson City.

No More Eaton Cases.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The suits of W. A. Thompson of the John Eaton Company, against the Sun, Caledonia and Queen insurance companies were entered for trial at Osgoode Hall yesterday. It was announced that settlements in each case had been effected. The sums sued for are amounts of insurance upon the burned Eaton building. The total amount of insurance on the building was $89,500, of which $8,500 was in the Queen's and $8,000 each in the Sun and Caledonian companies and $14,000 in different American companies. The money thus received must, according to the terms of the lease, be used in rebuilding.

PROVINCIAL NOMINATIONS.

South Bruce and Prescott Return Liberals by Acclamation.

NO NOMINATION IN RUSSELL CO.

Owing to the Great Snowstorm the Returning Officer Could Not Reach the Place of Nomination—A Resume of the Candidates Put Up—Names of All the Contestants.

Toronto, Feb 23.—The friends of good government, reviewing the field after the first definite stage of the election contest has been passed, have every reason for congratulation. Two supporters of the Government are elected without opposition. In Prescott this result was expected, as no opposition had been offered to the re-election of Mr. Evanturel. In South Bruce, however, there was no certainty up to the last moment that there would not be a contest, although no supporter of Mr. Whitney dared tempt the issue. The only possibility of a contest lay in the direction of the Patrons, and they appear eventually to have determined not to court defeat in South Bruce.

The other changes that the nominations have developed may shortly be summed up. There was some probability that there would be an election by acclamation in Parry Sound, but it appears that the Conservatives have put up a candidate against Mr. W. R. Beatty. Mr. Beatty during the last Parliament gave the Government an independent support, and will unquestionably continue to do so. His election is not a matter of speculation—it is certain. Mr. Bock, the Independent candidate in Monck, has retired, leaving a straight contest between Mr. Harcourt, the Provincial Treasurer, and Mr. Galbraith. In Centre Bruce Mr. Shouldice, the Conservative candidate, has retired, leaving the field to Mr. Malcolm, Liberal, and Mr. Macdonald, Independent: In North Essex a third candidate, Mr. Joseph Martin, has appeared in the field. London is blessed with a plethora of candidates, two Independent Labor candidates, in addition to the nominees of the regular parties, having been put up. In East Middlesex Mr. Shore, the Patron candidate, who was a member of the Legislature just dissolved, has retired. North Oxford, like London, has four candidates, two Independents and the nominees of the two parties. In South Renfrew three candidates are in the field, and the same number in North York.

No Nomination in Russell.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—As a result of the storm there will be a bye-election in Russell County. Returning Officer Mr. Alex. Robilland was unable to get to Duncanville and there was consequently no nomination yesterday. As it is necessary to have seven days between nomination and polling day, the election will be held subsequent to the general elections.

THREE FATALITIES.

Iroquois Man Killed—Quebec Man Grasped a Live Wire and Died.

Morrisburg, Ont., Feb. 23.—Charles Van Allen, a resident of this town, employed at Iroquois, started to walk home on the Grand Trunk track in a blinding snowstorm, which was raging yesterday morning. He was probably struck by a passing train, and was not found until the noon express went west. When picked up he was still alive, and was taken home, where he died in the afternoon.

Grasped a Live Wire.

Quebec, Feb. 23.—A man named Fiset, chief clerk of M. Simard, grocer, was killed last night about 8 o'clock by electricity. It seems he went down with a line-man to show him where the wires had burned, when he turned on the switch, taking hold of the wire at the same time. the shock of which caused instant death.

Doctor Dropped Dead.

Granby, Que., Feb. 23.—Dr. F. X. Gatieu dropped dead yesterday afternoon while attending a patient. The deceased was about 55 years old, and had long been one of Granby's citizens. He was Mayor of Granby, Coroner of this district, Collector of Inland Revenue, etc.

Brakeman Begin Was Badly Hurt.

Sherbrooke, Feb. 23.—A G.T.R. brakeman named Begin, whose home is in Levis, fell beneath a freight train between Waterville and Compton Saturday morning and his right hand was crushed by the wheel. With his left hand he grasped the beam, and was thus dragged into the station, a distance of nearly a mile. He was brought to Sherbrooke and his hand was amputated.

Ontario Boy Killed in Manitoba.

Stratford, Feb. 23.—News has reached here that John Harris, a former North Easthope boy, has been killed by a falling tree at Silver Creek, Man. The deceased was engaged in cutting wood when a tree fell on him. He was rendered unconscious, and died the next day without regaining consciousness.

Scriptural Names.

We smile at such Puritan names as "Praise God Barebones" and "How Agag In Pieces Before the Lord Smith." The Moors, it is said, give similar names, but of course the phrases are chosen from the Koran. They are quite as singular as were the Puritan names, and are said often to be as bad a fit. Some examples of these names are given by Mr. George D. Cowan.

More than one owner of false weights of our acquaintance rejoices in the title "Slave of the Trustworthy." A former governor of Naba—detested throughout the province for his cruelty and extortion—answered to the name "The Blessed One."

There is, too, in Mogador a loafer whose fiery eyes, dark skin, strong language and drunken habits have gained for him on the English steamers, where he now and then works, the sobriquet "Devil," whereas in his family circle and among the faithful he is styled "Pilgrim of Salvation."—Youth's Companion.

THE SOKOTO AFFAIR.

Pacific Message From France Read by Lord Salisbury.

THE TIMES' CRITICAL REMARKS.

China's Water Highways to Be Opened to British and Other Steamers in June Next—A Triumph for British Diplomacy—War Vessels Now Building in England.

London, Feb. 23.—The Marquis of Salisbury in the House of Lords yesterday said: "My Lords, before moving the adjournment perhaps it would be convenient that I should read a telegram received from Sir Edmund Monson (the British Ambassador at Paris) with reference to matters which have excited some attention: 'I placed in the hands of M. Hanotaux, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, as soon as I could obtain an interview, a note drawing attention to the report published this morning of a French advance into Sokoto. I said that if the report was correct the news must be regarded as of a very serious character.

"'M. Hanotaux replied that he had no knowledge of any such proceedings, and that if anything of the kind had occurred it must have been done not only without the orders of the French Government, but against their wishes and instructions, as they had no desire to approach Sokoto. He said he did not believe the news was true, and he has since communicated to me the assurance that there are no French troops in that region.'"

The reading of the despatch was received with cheers.

M. Hanotaux Ambiguous.

London, Feb. 23.—The Times, commenting editorially on the statement of Lord Salisbury in the House of Lords as to the reply of the French Foreign Minister, M. Hanotaux, to the British note, presented by Sir Edmund Monson, complains of "a certain ambiguity in M. Hanotaux's statement that there are no French troops in that region." It adds: "Previous experiences of French diplomacy suggest the possibility that M. Hanotaux means us to infer that Argungu is not recognized as in Sokoto."

CHINA'S WATER HIGHWAYS,

Through British Diplomacy, to Be Opened to the World's Steamers.

London, Feb. 23.—The Foreign Office has issued the following statement: The following are the arrangements in the interest of British trade which have been agreed to by the Chinese Government on the representations of Sir Claude MacDonald, British Minister at Pekin:

"The internal highways of China are to be opened to British and other steamers in the course of June next. Thus, wherever the use of native boats is now permitted by treaty, foreigners will be equally allowed to employ steamers or steam launches, whether owned by them or by the Chinese. In view of the great importance attached by Great Britain to the retention of the Yang-Tse region in Chinese possession, the Chinese Government has formally intimated to the British Government that there can be no question of the territory in the valley or region of the Yang-Tse being mortgaged, leased or ceded to any power. The post of Inspector-General of Maritime Customs, in the future as in the past, shall be held by a British subject so long as British trade at the ports of China continues to exceed that of any other power. A port will be opened in the Province of Hu-Nan within two years."

The Times' Congratulations.

After congratulating Lord Salisbury upon the successful results of British diplomacy in China, the Times points to the "peculiar wording of the Foreign Office statement as to the inland waterways of China." It says: "If limited to where we by treaty are permitted, the Yang-Tse, between Ye-Hang and Chun-King, where there are difficult and dangerous rapids, we can scarce suppose, however, that the concession is so limited."

GREAT BRITAIN MAKES THEM.

The War Vessels of Various Designs Now Being Built for Foreign Nations.

London, Feb. 23.—Six armored vessels, six protected cruisers, thirteen torpedo boat destroyers and five torpedo boats are now building in Great Britain for foreign governments, of which a number are purchaseable, although Japan is supposed to have the option on several of them. Those warships which have been ordered for South American governments are considered as being for sale to the highest bidders.

Spain Will Take Two of Them.

Thomson Bros. inform the Associated Press that Spain has arranged to man the two remaining destroyers of the four completed some time ago at the Clyde Bank Yards, but they were not delivered, presumably owing to lack of payments.

England Gets the Loan.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—It is announced that the Chinese loan of £16,000,000 ($80,000,000) has been arranged with the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Bank of London, and the Germain Asiatic Bank.

Gladstone Requests Prayers.

London, Feb. 23.—Sir Algernon West, who was Mr. Gladstone's secretary when he was Prime Minister, incidentally alluded in a speech last evening to his long secretarial connection with Mr. Gladstone. He said: "I saw him to-day. I think he is a little better, but his age is great. He said: 'You must pray for me.'"

Canada's Greatest Medicine

Is Hood's Sarsaparilla

GREATEST, Because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to which the bulk of the people naturally turn when overtaken by sickness, caused by impure blood, scrofula, dyspepsia, etc., or when recovering from debilitating blood-poisoning diseases like diphtheria, scarlet fever, etc.

GREATEST, Because of the vast number of testimonials which come from every city and hamlet in the land, telling of marvelous cures and overflowing with gratitude.

GREATEST, Because it eradicates every vestige of scrofula, cures the worst cases of hip disease, subdues the itching and burning of eczema, heals all sores, boils and eruptions, and every ailment due to impure blood.

GREATEST, Because it conquers dyspepsia by toning and strengthening the stomach, cures rheumatism by neutralizing the acid in the blood, overcomes catarrh by removing the scrofula taints that cause it.

GREATEST, Because unequalled by any other medicine for supplying the nerves with pure, rich, nourishing blood, and thus curing nervousness, neuralgia and nervous prostration.

GREATEST, Because of economy and strength, Hood's Sarsaparilla being the only medicine of which it can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar."

GREATEST, Because it is prepared in the largest Laboratory on earth—a building which contains more than three acres of floor space.

GREATEST, Because it is peculiar in combination, proportion and process and possesses curative properties unknown to any other medicine.

GREATEST, Because Hood's Sarsaparilla actually purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach, creates an appetite, energizes, vitalizes and strengthens the whole system.

GREATEST, Because it is the result of scientific knowledge, careful study and wise experiment in adapting Nature's own remedies to the needs of the human system.

GREATEST, Because it holds the first place in thousands of households as the medicine which, having accomplished so many marvelous cures of serious diseases, may be depended upon to overcome lesser ills.

GREATEST, Because of the greatest cures, greatest merit, greatest sales, greatest hold upon the confidence of the people as an honest medicine, while other preparations fail to do any good.

"For a number of years past I have been afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and I had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and by the time I had taken all of this medicine I was cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me as I have a family and must always be at my post." WILLIAM HASKETT, Brantford, Ontario.

A RAILWAY ROMANCE.

Premier Laurier Brings Down Mr. Smith's Correspondence.

SIR WM. VAN HORNE'S DENIAL.

The C. P. R. President Says He Did Not Act as an Intermediary Between Hon. Mr. Sifton and Mr. Smith—What the Correspondence Reveals—House Adjourns for a Week.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The Opposition have been prophesying that the Hamilton Smith offer to build the Yukon Railway, of which they have talked so much during the past few days, would produce a rapid change of public sentiment when the papers on the case were laid upon the table. They were right. The papers brought down yesterday by Sir Wilfrid Laurier produced a sensation in the House, because they proved that Mr. Hamilton Smith is a romancer of talent, and, in the course of serious negotiations in regard to the Yukon railway, made the assertion that he had offered, through Sir William Van Horne, to build a railway over the Dalton Trail for a reasonable subsidy, or over the Stikine route, if the Government preferred that route. This offer, Mr. Smith stated, was made to the Minister of the Interior, and doubtless by him transmitted to the Government. The story is denied in the most unqualified terms, and not only is Mr. Smith shown to have made a serious misstatement of fact, but the Opposition have discovered that the feature of their case upon which most dependence was placed has vanished into thin air.

The Correspondence Submitted.

In laying the correspondence on the table the Premier said he desired to read it to the House.

The Premier then read the first letter of Mr. Hamilton Smith. It is addressed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and dated "Ottawa, Feb. 14," and sets forth that "In connection with several London associates, we have made application to the present Parliament for a charter for a railway from Lynn Canal by the Chilkoot Pass, to a point of the Lewis River, just below Rink Rapids. As I find by late returns from London that your Government has made a provisional contract, which, if carried out, would prevent any charter being granted to myself and associates, I beg leave to submit the following statements and propositions."

Mr. Hamilton Smith goes on to say that he and his associates, having been for years connected with the Treadmill mine in Alaska, are familiar with the country. Last year they sent Mr. Henry Bratnober out exploring for a route, with the result that he reported in favor of the Dalton route, from Pyramid Harbor to Rink Rapids. Accordingly, on the return of Mr. Sifton from the West, the writer approached him through a "mutual friend," and offered to build the railway for a land grant subsidy. As the Government seemed to prefer the Teslin route, however, the writer submitted an offer to build by that line. Mr. Smith assumed that these offers were communicated to the Cabinet, and was therefore surprised to learn while in England of the McKenzie-Mann contract.

Thinks the Dalton Trail Best.

While still believing the Dalton to be the best route, Mr. Smith proceeded to say that his company would be willing to build over the Stikine-Teslin route. The former alone, they would build for a subsidy of 1,000,000 acres of land, and the Stikine and Dalton Railways both for a concession of 2,000,000 acres. And Mr. Smith's letter closed with a note to the effect that he "enclosed a copy of our first map, which was shown to the Minister of the Interior last year."

"On Friday last," said the Premier, "I received an amended proposal in the following letter, which was read yesterday by my hon. friend from East York."

Where Sir Wm. Van Horne Comes In.

Sir Wilfrid went on to observe that as regards the intimation of Mr. Smith in his first letter, that, through a mutual friend, the offer had been communicated to Mr. Sifton last fall, and doubtless by him communicated to the Cabinet, no such offer had been communicated to the Cabinet by Mr. Sifton, and when he spoke to the Minister about it he declared he had never received it directly. "Thereupon," continued Sir Wilfrid, "I wrote a short letter to Mr. Hamilton Smith, asking him to meet me in my office on Saturday last at 10.30 in the forenoon, which he did. With me at the time were Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Louis Davies, Mr. Blair and Mr. Sifton. Thereupon Mr. Smith declared that the mutual friend through whom the offer had been made to Mr. Sifton was Sir William Van Horne. It so happened that on that day Sir William Van Horne was in the city, and I therefore immediately wrote to him as follows:

"Privy Council, Canada,
"Ottawa, Feb. 19, 1898.

"Dear Sir William Van Horne—On the 15th inst. I received from Mr. Hamilton Smith a letter, as to the statements of which I would desire to communicate with you. Mr. Smith in his letter makes the following assertions:

"'My associates and myself have for many years been connected with the Treadmill mine and other gold mines on the coast of Alaska, so that we have been especially familiar with that northern country. Last year, at our instance, Mr. Henry Brantnober was sent on an exploring expedition from Lynn Canal to Dawson, with instructions to see what route was best adapted for the construction of a railway from the coast to the unobstructed waters of the Yukon. He returned via the so-called Dalton trail from Rink Rapids, by Hootchie and Dalton's Post, to Pyramid Harbor, noting elevations, distances and the character of the country. He was, we are informed, the second white man who had passed over the entire length of this line. His report to us was so favorable as to the many advantages of this route, that as soon as your Minister of the Interior returned from the West I approached him, through a mutual friend, offering to build in the year 1898 a substantial railway from Pyramid Harbor to Rink Rapids, with no cash subsidy, but with a reasonable land grant, covering mineral rights. I referred by authority to several of the leading financial firms in London, showing that our ability to build such a line was beyond question.

"'The answer I received was that the Government might prefer the Stikine-Teslin route to this.'

"'I replied that, in my judgment, which I felt sure from my familiarity with the country, was correct, the Stikine line had practically no value as a commercial route and that no sane capitalist would invest a penny in it. But of course, if the Government would give the right assistance we would build the line, while disclaiming any responsibility for its value when constructed.

"'Doubtless these informal negotiations were communicated to the Cabinet.'

"The Hon. Mr. Sifton, to whom I gave immediate communication of this letter, stated that the above assertion was altogether untrue. I thereupon invited Mr. Hamilton Smith to meet me this morning in my office, and he accordingly met me there, in presence of a few of my colleagues, and there, in answer to our enquiries, stated that you were the 'mutual friend' who had communicated between himself and Mr. Sifton. Under such circumstances I would feel obliged if you would let me know, at your earliest convenience, whether, as is claimed by Mr. Hamilton Smith, you can corroborate his statement.

"Believe me, as ever, dear Sir William, yours very sincerely, Wilfrid Laurier.

"To Sir William Van Horne,
"General Manager, C.P.R."

Sir William's Reply.

Sir William Van Horne's reply to the foregoing, Sir Wilfrid then read, as follows:

"Rideau, Club, Ottawa, Feb. 19, 1898.

"Dear Sir Wilfrid—In reply to your enquiry of this date, I beg leave to say that I have never communicated to the Hon. Mr. Sifton, or anybody else, any proposition from Mr. Hamilton Smith concerning the building of a railway towards the Yukon district, nor had I authority from him to make any proposition. Faithfully yours,

A WEEK'S ADJOURNMENT.

The House of Commons Quits the Yukon Debate and Business Until the Ontario Elections Are Over.

The following bills were introduced:

Respecting the Federal Life Assurance Company—Mr. Casey.

To incorpate the Lake Bennett & Klondike Railway & Tramway Company—Mr. Haggart.

Respecting the Ontario & Rainy [River Railway Company—Mr. Sproule.

To incorporate the Pacific & Yukon Railway, Navigation and Mining Company—Mr. Sproule.

Respecting the Columbia & Western Railway Company—Mr. Bostock.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that when the House adjourns it stand adjourned until Tuesday of next week. The motion carried.

On the order of the day being reached, Mr. Wilson (Lennox) arose and asked if the Government were aware that a messenger of the House of Commons, one E. Lalonde, for the Liberal candidate, is or has been canvassing in the County of Russell.

Mr. Speaker said the matter was one which came within his department, but so far as he had heard there was no such party canvassing.

Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier) resumed the debate on the second reading of the Yukon Railway bill. In his speech he reviewed the contract from a legal and constitutional standpoint.

Mr. Semple moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 5.50 p.m. until Tuesday next.

AVALANCHE CAUSED DEATH.

Snow From the Cliffs at Point Levis, Que., Crushed Four People.

Quebec, Feb. 23.—About 7.30 o'clock last night two houses situated on Saint Laurent street at the west end of the Grand Trunk yard, Port Levis, were crushed by an avalanche of snow, which fell from the cliff above. One of the houses, the property of Mr. J. C. Hamel of Levis, was occupied by four families, and the other by Mr. James King, a carter employed by the Grand Trunk. In the tenement, Mr. Emile Angur and two of his children were killed and Miss King, a young daughter of Mr. King, aged about 8, also met the same fate. A son of Mr. King had his two legs broken and Mr. King was also badly injured. Several of the other occupants are also injured.

KITTIES IN A JUNKSHOP.

They Are Old Sewing Machines That Are Bought For $1.

"Got any kitties?"

The junk dealer looked startled, for the question betokened an intimate knowledge of the jargon of his kind.

"Why, yes, I guess so," he responded when he could get his breath. What the buyer meant was an old sewing machine which could be turned in to the sewing machine company as part payment on a new machine. The company allows $5 on an old machine, and sometimes the agent or canvasser allows $5 more out of his commission on the sale.

The public imagines that in some way these old machines are valuable to the company, but, in truth, they are of use only as arguments in forcing a sale. In the standard makes of machines there is supposed to be absolutely no cut in prices, and the only way that a seeming reduction can be made is by taking in an old machine and allowing for it. The company does this not for the sake of getting the machine, but for the sake of making a trade. Once the old timer is in their possession it is broken up and sold to a junk dealer.

The companies know, of course, that a large number of the families who turn in old machines said to have been bought by them before the flood really come from the secondhand stores and cost only $1. At this rate the buyer gets an allowance of $10, which, deducting the $1, leaves net $9. If there does happen to be an old one in the possession of the family, the whole $10 is realized.—New York Press.

Midnight Harmonies.

The quaint old English church poet George Herbert was walking to Salisbury one evening to join a musical party when he met a poor man with a poorer horse that had fallen under his load. They were both in distress, and Mr. Herbert pulled off his coat and helped the man to unload his horse. He then gave him some money and left him. At his arriving at Salisbury his friends wondered at his coming into their company so soiled and discomposed. He explained the cause, and when one remarked that he had disparaged himself by so dirty an employment he answered that the thought of what he had done would prove music to him at midnight and that the omission of it would have upbraided and made discord in his conscience. "For if I am bound to pray for all that be in distress so far as it is in my power I am to practice what I pray for, and, let me tell you, I would not willingly pass one day of my life without comforting a sad soul or showing mercy, and I bless God for this occasion. These are the places in which to attune one's conscience to midnight music."

M. D., F. R. S.

An eminent physician and Fellow of the Royal Society, seeing over the door of a paltry alehouse, the Crown and Thistle, by Malcolm MacTavish, M. D., F. R. S., walked in and severely rebuked the landlord for this presumptuous insult to science. Boniface, with proper respect, but with a firmness that showed he had been a soldier, assured the doctor that he meant no insult to science. "What right, then," asked he, "have you to put up those letters after your name?"

"I have," answered the landlord, "as good a right to these as your honor, as drum major of the Royal Scots fusileers."—Sanitarium.

The Modern Drama.

"Have you copyrighted your play?" asked the theatrical manager.

"No," replied the dramatist, lowering his voice, "but I copied it right."—Chicago Tribune.

THOMAS GOFFATT, ORILLIA.

He Is Charged With Being Implicated in an Unsavory Case Which Resulted in a Girl's Death.

Orillia, Feb. 23.—An inquest was opened yesterday morning before Coroner Wallwin of Barrie on the body of the young girl named Fanny Young, who died at her father's home from the supposed effects of an attempt at abortion. The case is creating great interest from the fact that a well-known citizen of the town, Mr. Thomas Goffatt, is held by the Crown as suspected of being implicated in the attempt. County Crown Attorney Cotter conducted the enquiry. The jury is composed of prominent business men of the town, with Mr. G. H. White as foreman.

The evidence taken showed that the deceased had been ill for over a week, having given birth last Friday, the 11th inst., to a prematurely still-born child. On Thursday last the deceased gave signs of getting well, but took a change for the worse on Friday, and died Monday morning. From talk about town, Constable Moffat thought it well to notify the coroner, and the result was an order for an inquest. After hearing the testimony of the parents and the medical attendants, it was thought well to await the post-mortem examination, and the inquest was adjourned for a week. Immediately after the adjournment of the inquest, Mr. Goffatt was brought before the Police Magistrate charged with the crime. He pleaded not guilty and bail was accepted in two sureties of $1,500 each.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomena price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS.

The High Court Assembled in Conference.

BRANTFORD IS THE NEXT PLACE

For the Annual Meeting of the High Court—London Was a Close Second—Nomination of Officers—Extracts From the Reports.

At the session of the High Court yesterday, after H. C. R. Gammer had suitably acknowledged the welcome extended the delegates by the local Foresters, the Town Council and the Board of Trade, the reports of the officers were taken up and discussed. Appended is a summary of the reports:

REPORT OF THE HIGH CHIEF RANGER.

To the Officers and Members of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters:

BRETHREN.—As your High Chief Ranger it again becomes my pleasant duty to submit for your consideration, and I trust approval, the report of my work in connection with the Order during the past year. My former report, on account of the change in the time of holding the High Court meeting, only covered a period of seven months, but this report covers the full year of 1897 as my last report only dealt with matters that had transpired up to the 31st of December, 1896.

It is a source of much gratification for me to be able to state that the year has been a most successful one from every point of view. It has, in fact, been the most prosperous year in the history of the Order as far as our numerical and financial progress is concerned.

We are met together for the purpose of attending the Nineteenth Annual High Court Meeting, and it is with a feeling of much pleasure that I am privileged to extend to you all a hearty fraternal welcome to this prosperous town of Peterborough. It was at the High Court meeting held in this town in the year 1885 that I first had the opportunity of assuming an official position in this High Court. At that time our worthy brother, Past High Chief Ranger Robert Elliott, occupied the position that I do to-day, and he it was who appointed me to the responsible position of High Court Auditor. Since that time, as most of you are aware, I have been an officer of this High Body. I held for a period of seven years the position of Auditor, then you did me the honour to elect me to the second position within your gift, that of High Vice Chief Ranger, and afterwards honoured me by placing me in the Chair.

I can see no obstacle in the way of successful and aggressive work. Our financial standing is one to be envied, our business carefully managed, and there is every reason why the present year should show larger results than have ever been attained before in the history of the Order. I trust that every brother will remember that upon individual efforts depend the success of the Order. Let every member consider the glorious future that is ahead of us, and put forth every effort to advance the interests of the Order, so that it may grow more rapidly, both numerically and financially, than it has ever done before.

Any assistance to that end that can be given by the officers of the High Court will be promptly and cheerfully given, and I ask for your earnest and hearty co-operation in the upbuilding of the Order, and feel assured that you will not withhold it.

The death rate for this year has only reached 6.44 per thousand, which is a remarkable showing when we consider the fact that the Order has been nearly nineteen years in existence.

The low death rate speaks well for the care exercised by the Medical Examiners of Subordinate Courts and Medical Board. Were these officers to be lax in the discharge of their duty in the acceptance of applications, there is no doubt that the death rate would be materially increased, and therefore, I think that these officers are deserving of the thanks of the membership for the faithful manner in which they have discharged their duties.

When last I had the honour of addressing you from the chair it was my pleasure and duty to acknowledge the value of the services rendered by the worthy brethren who held the chief executive positions of the Order. I am glad that the honest tribute I then paid to their efficiency, earnestness and zeal, can be doubly emphasized in the present instance.

Respectfully submitted in L., B. and C.

H. GUMMER,
High Chief Ranger.

HIGH SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Members of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters:

BRETHREN,—In submitting my report for the year 1897 I do so with no small degree of pride, for the work of the year has been eminently prosperous.

We have now in the Order 27,165 members.

We initiated from Jan 1st, 1897, to Dec 31st, 1897, 5,058 members. 147 of our beloved brethren have gone through the gates of death and 1,848 have allowed their membership to lapse, leaving a net increase of 3,064, being much more of a net increase than for any previous year.

I submit the following table, showing the comparative growth in membership and finances summarised since 1880. It should be observed that in the line beginning with 1896 the figures cover a period of 19 months.

Year ending May 31.	Members.	Claims Paid.	Total Reserve.
1880	350	$ 5,898	$ 898

96	24,005	173,808	595,179
97	27,165	154,338	898,768

We sent out during the year from our office 1,945 cheques in payment of the Sick and Funeral Benefits and $99,077.38 was thereby distributed throughout our Domicile.

There has been issued from my office during 1897, 5,134 Insurance certificates. In addition to that we have sent out 675 certificates that were sent for change of disposition of insurance, and we have issued 90 duplicates, making a total of 5,719 insurance certificates handled and duly registered.

Since the law came into force for giving each member initiated an illuminated membership certificate there has been issued 2,400 of these. This number added to the 5,719 insurance certificates makes a grand total of 8,119 certificates sent out during 1897.

Respectfully submitted in L., B. and C.

THOS. WHITE,
High Secretary.

Brantford, February 5th, 1898.

HIGH TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Members of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters:

BRETHREN,—Once more—and for the fifteenth time—I appear before you to render an account of my stewardship.

I submit herewith statement accounting for the moneys I have received and paid out as High Treasurer during the year in connection with the several funds of the Order, namely, Insurance, Sick and Funeral Benefit, and General Funds, and also showing the balances in favour of or against these accounts, as the case may be.

I have received from the High Secretary in insurance moneys, as per Statement No. 1, the sum of $174,389.38, representing the remittances made to him by Subordinate Courts coming directly under the jurisdiction of this High Court; there has been reported to me by Molsons Bank, Winnipeg, $33,311.12 as deposited by the Treasurer of the District High Court of Manitoba, B. C. and N. W. T., and the interest on our investments has amounted to the sum of $2,285.14, bringing the total receipts on account of insurance for the year up to $209,989.64.

The interest receipts, $33,285.15, are again the largest in the Order's history, and form an item to which we may point with justifiable pride.

The balance on hand in the Insurance Fund on 1st January, 1897, was $535,179.43. Adding the income for the year, as given above, the total receipts were $745,119.04. From this has to be deducted the sum of $156 336 53 paid out to the beneficiaries of 147 of our brethren who joined the silent majority during the year. The net amount left in the Insurance Fund at 31st December was $562,782.51.

In the Sick and Funeral Benefit Fund there was on hand at the beginning of the year $1,633.07. The receipts were $7,114.58, making a total of $38,652.65. The expenditure in this Fund, however, I regret to say, has made it keep pace with the receipts, and the result of the year's business is to leave an adverse balance of $981.24.

In the General or Expense Fund account, set forth in Statement No. 3, the Order began the year with a balance on the wrong side of the ledger of $1,293.05. The receipts during the year were $31,910.53, and the expenditure $30,011.23, thus wiping out the adverse balance and leaving on hand the sum of $606.24.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF ORGANIZATION.

To the High Chief Ranger and Members of the High Court, Canadian Order of Foresters:

BRETHREN,—Compliance with established custom requires the superintendent of the Organization Department to submit at this meeting, a report reviewing the administration of the affairs of that department of the Order. With this custom I cheerfully comply.

It affords me pleasure to state that notwithstanding the strong agitation over the Sick and Funeral Benefit Branch so manifest at the beginning of the past year, that at no time in the history of the Order was their more faith in the stability of the C.O.F. than to-day.

During the past year sixty new Courts have been organized, with a charter membership of 1,346; 3,813 applicants for beneficiary membership have been initiated into the various Courts throughout the Order, making a grand total of 5,058 new beneficiary members added to our number during the year ending Dec. 31st, 1897; which, considering the difficulties under which we have had to labour during the first quarter of a year, is an excellent showing and demonstrates the fact that the work of recruiting our membership has been thoroughly performed.

The membership record for the year 1897 surpasses that of any previous year in the history of the Order in the number of initiations and net gain. In order to exhibit this more clearly I present a record beginning with the year of organization and ending with the year just closed, as follows:

Year.	Number of Courts Organized.	Number of Members in good Standing.	Net Increase During the Year.
1879	19	490
1880	14	830	340
1881	22	1,710	880
1882	12	2,110	400
1883	11	2,900	790
1884	12	3,500	600
1885	24	4,305	805
1886	28	5,131	826
1887	58	5,788	657
1888	32	7,251	1,503
1889	26	8,625	1,364
1890	51	10,282	1,657
1891	69	12,514	2,232
1892	44	14,218	1,704
1893	57	16,295	2 057
1894	65	18,641	2,346
1895	61	20,791	2 150
1896	55	22,631	1,860
1896 7 mos.	42	21,092	1,461
1897	60	27,165	3,061

Extended comments on the results exhibited by the above table are scarcely necessary. It might be safely said that we have maintained during the past year our record for steady and healthy growth.

During the past year commissions were issued and renewed to the following named organizers viz: Bros W G Strong, R U Gavin, J W Rossell, H J Alexander, Sam H Cater, Wm Doig, P N Breton, Wm Leggat, Geo F Gibson, Wm Struthers, W J Cameron, R J Stuart, W H Finch, Jno A Trollope, Alf Beaujean.

Bro R J Stuart, of Norwood, organized twenty-three courts; Bro P N Breton, thirteen; Bro J W Rosswell, six; Bro Wm Leggatt, four; Bro W H Finch, three; Bro Sam H Carter, two; Bros R C Gavin, Alexander and Davis, one each; Bro Wm Kirkland, D H, Secy, six.

If the work is steadily continued along the line already established, and strict attention given to the vital importance of the safe and proper adjustment of membership, as regards loss by death, and increase, so that a safe equilibrium be always maintained, then our Order will be as safe as any human institution can be, otherwise elements of weakness will necessarily creep in.

With the hope that the good work done by and through the Order in the past may be excelled in the future, I respectfully submit this report.

Fraternally and faithfully yours, in L., B. and C.,

ERNEST GARTUNG,
Superintendent of Organization.

ELECTORS---STAND FOR STRATTON

THE CERTAINTY OF VICTORY.

"Hardy and victory" in the Province at large is a moral certainty, and "Stratton and victory" are a moral certainty in West Peterborough.

Never in West Peterborough were there stronger evidences of the triumphant success of the Government candidate, Mr. Stratton. The reports from the country indicate that the outlying districts will roll up a big majority and in town the prospects are brilliant for making large additions. Mr. Stratton will take a majority in Peterborough that will astonish the Opposition managers.

Never in West Peterborough have Mr. Stratton's supporters rallied around him and worked for him as they have in this contest. Night after night the committee rooms are crowded with enthusiastic workers—with men who do not come for mere talk but to work for the success of the candidate and to bring in cheering reports of success. There is no doubt that the first of March will witness the triumphant return of Mr. Stratton to give, for another four years, the excellent representation he has given for the past twelve years, and to give the same independent support to the government that has so ably and wisely governed the province in the past.

In the province at large there are the most cheering assurances that the Hardy Government will be triumphantly sustained.

The contract Mr. Whitney has cut out for himself is too large for his capacity.

Before he can become Premier of Ontario it is necessary that he should hold the twenty-four seats which the Opposition held in the last Assembly, and add to these twenty-four more.

The thing cannot be done.

As a matter of fact, the Opposition must share with the Ministerialists the uncertainties of the ballot-box. There will be surprises for them as well as for Mr. Hardy's supporters, and at least a half-dozen seats can be named, with Liberal records, but recently "gone wrong," which will on March 1 return to their old allegiance. Mr. Whitney will require to carry at least thirty seats that he did not hold in the last Assembly before he can enthrone Arthur S. Hardy as Premier of Ontario.

That would be a big job for a party with a strong leader and a good case. It is a hopeless task for a new leader, with weak lieutenants, and with a policy that is so vague and shadowy, when contrasted with the record of the Liberal government, that it can be said of no part of it that it has caught the ear of the people.

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT WILL BE SUSTAINED WITHOUT DOUBT.

Hon Mr. Davis estimates the Liberal majority at twenty-five, and Hon. Mr. Harcourt, after a careful review of the situation, expresses the belief that his colleague's estimate is not too high.

Then, of course, West Peterborough and East Peterborough will be in the swim and derive the benefit of representation by members who in the past have presented the case of the respective constituencies so effectively before the Government as to receive the rights they had to a liberal share of the money of the Province, which it is the policy of the Government to return to the people according to their needs; and these needs will be much more effectively presented by having friends at court, who know the ridings, than by sending representatives comparatively unknown and hostile to the Government.

The returns of the canvas in West Peterborough, from Cavendish to Bensfort, are of the most encouraging character, and indicate a sweeping victory all along the line in West Peterborough.

As equally cheering news comes from the East, and we have no reason to doubt the solid West will greet the solid East and exchange congratulations on the first of March.

THE PRESAGE OF VICTORY.

Mr. Hardy starts into the contest that ends next Tuesday with a majority of two, as the result of yesterday's nominations. In South Bruce and Prescott the candidates of the Government were returned without opposition. This is a good start and a presage of victory all along the line. In the 94 constituencies in the Province the Liberals have 90 candidates—candidates of whom they have every reason to be proud. Never have they gone into a contest with a stronger, a more resolute or more confident set of standard-bearers, and four days of hard work is all that is required to secure one of the most decisive victories that the party has yet scored in this Province. This is the estimate of every man who looks at the facts with an open mind.

THE policy of shouting through an election contest has never been successful. Bluster and brag don't count.

THE Review, with its usual inaccuracy on political subjects, said last night that an effort was being made to secure Hon. Mr. Hardy for a meeting in Peterborough. The public is informed, as the Review knows, that the report was manufactured to order. Not the slightest idea was entertained of asking Mr. Hardy to come to Peterborough. Mr. Hardy and his Government are practically represented now in West Peterborough—for the success of Mr. Stratton is certain.

Mr. Garvin feels that he is playing a losing game. He was unusually abusive at Bridgenorth last night and more than unusually reckless in his statements, so much so that the people who knew that he was making false statements, "called him down," and invited him to "tell the truth and we'll listen to you." He drew the long bow with a vengeance. But he was talking to a reading people and his false statements only did him harm. The other speakers were Messrs. Gilchrist, Donnistoun and Burnham, and of the latter two those present state that they "spoke like gentlemen." By his unfair tactics Mr. Garvin lost his grip on the meeting, and the loud cheers given for Mr. Stratton and the Hardy Government at the close of the meeting showed him what a mistake he had made.

MR. JOHN GILCHRIST would like to have the people think he is an honest debater. He would like to pose as being fair and just. He has the appearance of innocence. Yet he had the effrontery at Bridgenorth to compare the cost per inmate of the Reformatory at Penetanguishene with the expense as it exists to-day. He knows—or if he is ignorant of the fact, he should not assume to teach the electors—that in 1871 the boys were treated as slaves, hired out to contractors and the money they earned set against their keep. He knows that now the boys are educated, taught trades and sent out, not as criminals but as lads equipped and able to be useful members of society. Mr. Gilchrist should apologize to the people of Bridgenorth for deceiving them, as Mr. Garvin is apologizing to the people of Young's Point to-night and will apologize at Bensfort to-morrow night, and Buckhorn on Friday night. A cause that cannot be supported except by straight misrepresentation, will find the bottom fall out of it on March 1st—as it is sure to do.

THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH.

Every man has a conscience that must be respected,
When a cause comes to view he may closely inspect it,
And if good make his choice, but if evil reject it
Standing true to his country, his fellows and friends.
Now a cause is at stake—our provincial election,
Cast aside every issue of creed race or section;
Give your vote for the party that by its protection,
Has made most of the bounties that Providence sends.

We are part of a country that surely advances,
And most favoured of all Mother Nature entrances;
We are "Banner and therefore will not take the chances
To ruin our future by Whitney misrule,
We have sailed twenty years with true "Grit" at the helm,
And no dark "Tory" waves can the good ship o'erwhelm;
And for foresight and justice the truth will compel 'em—
Our opponents to speak out "Mr. Grit is no tool."

Then hurrah for Tom Blezard and staunch "Jimmy" Stratton,
If J Garvin struts proud, then his crest we must flatten,
And he'll look like a rooster that lately was "sat on,"
When the polls are made public the first day of March.
And the man from the East who is "Ford ing the river,"
Will be chilled by the Blezard and drop in a shiver,
We will roll up the count for our Tom high as ever,
That will knock Ford's ambition much stiffer than starch.

Its Record as to the Labouring Classes

Its labour legislation is regarded as the most advanced and progressive of any self-governed country.

It passed the Mechanics' Lien Act, the Employers' Liability Act, the Factory Act, the Railway Accidents Act, the Act for the Relief of Co-operative Associations, the Creditors' Relief Act, the Masters' and Servants' Act, and an Act to Secure Compensation to Workmen for Injuries.

It passed an Act relating to truancy and compulsory school attendance; an Act under which labour organizations may incorporate and register; the Woodmen's Lien for Wages Act; the Registration of Manhood Suffrage Voters Act, and the Conciliation and Arbitration Act of 1894 to settle disputes between employees and employers of labour. It has exempted from taxation living incomes up to $700 a year.

It passed an act enabling trade unions and like labour organization to become registered and incorporated, thus securing them a legal status and other advantages.

It passed the Bakeshops Act, which provides for the proper sanitation of bakeshops, places them under the supervision of Provincial Inspectors, and defines that "no employer shall require, permit or suffer an employee in any bakeshop to work on Sunday, nor more than twelve hours in any one day, nor more than sixty hours in any one week."

It enacted a law providing that contractors and sub-contractors on public works in the Province shall every month promptly pay all wages due foremen, mechanics, labourers or teams, or, failing so to do, the Government may pay the same out of any moneys in the hands of the Government to the credit of such debtors, besides imposing a fine of not more than $100 or less than $10 for every day in default.

It passed a law rendering null and void any agreement whatever as between master and servant, which purports to deprive the employee of the legal rights guaranteed and provided for under the provisions of the Master and Servant Act, the Mechanics' Lien Act, the Woodmen's Lien for Wages Act, or any other act heretofore passed providing remedies for the recovery of wages. It also provides that where no specific rate of wages has been expressly agreed to between the parties, the city police magistrate may order the current rate of wages prevailing in the city to be paid in cases of dispute, and such order shall be payable forthwith, and in default the defendant shall be subject to Division Court rules.

It passed an Act amending the Street Railway Act so that mechanics, labourers or other persons working for, or performing labour on, the railway, or works in connection therewith, shall have a lien on such railway for a sum not exceeding the wages of thirty days, or a sum equal to his wages for thirty days, and providing for the recovery of such wages.

It passed an act providing for the proper protection of motormen and others employed on electric railway cars from rain, sleet or snow.

It passed a law making provision that, in the administration of deceased persons, any person in the employment of deceased at the time of his death, or within one month before, shall be entitled to his salary or wages not exceeding three months thereof, in priority of all other claims, and shall rank as an ordinary or general creditor for the balance (if any) of his claim.

It has also, by Department Order, provided that in a contract for printing and binding certain required work, Union or equivalent wages shall be paid to employees engaged on such work by the contractor.

It passed a law providing that the council of every city may pass bylaws from time to time to compel every electric railway company operating its railway within such city to provide proper and sufficient enclosed vestibules upon the street cars to protect the motormen and persons in charge of such cars, during the months of November, December, January, February and March, in each year, from exposure to cold, snow, rain or sleet, while engaged in operating the cars.

It passed a law that the Boards of Police Commissioners in cities shall pass bylaws for regulating the hours of labour of persons employed in livery or boarding stables, or as drivers of cabs, carriages or sleighs kept for hire within said cities, and may also pass bylaws for regulating the hours of labour of persons employed by the owners of horses, carts, trucks, omnibuses, and other vehicles kept for hire within said cities, and for licensing drivers of cabs within said cities.

THE CONTEST IN EAST PETERBOROUGH.

Yesterday Mr. Blezard, the veteran representative of East Peterborough, and Dr. S. P. Ford, a practising physician of Norwood, were nominated to contest East Peterborough. It is generally conceded that so far as the results are concerned, the nomination was a mere formality. Mr. Blezard is certain of being elected. He has all the qualifications to commend him to the favour of the electors of a rural constituency. He is a practical and successful farmer and just such a representative as a farming community needs and prefers. Mr. Blezard entered the field contrary to his own desires and wishes but his friends urged him to allow himself to be placed in nomination and Mr. Blezard is too conscientious a man to turn his back on the plain call of duty. The farmers of the East naturally desired one of their own class as a representative. There is too much disposition in certain quarters to explode farmers from the House. While there are few public men that are perfect, Mr. Blezard has shown himself to be an honest man and a faithful representative. He is not heard very frequently in the debates in House, but when he does speak he commands respect, because what he has to say is to the point of the subject under discussion. He is an excellent worker on committees, and on the Municipal and Private Bills Committees his practical advice is of great assistance in the transaction of the public business with which these committees are charged, and on all occasions his vote is recorded for the benefit of the country and especially for the agricultural interests he specially represents. Mr. Blezard has worked well for the interests of West Peterborough and has been instrumental in procuring substantial improvements especially for the northern part of his riding, and in the next House will still be in a position to enlist the interest of the Government he supports, for there is no doubt that the Hardy Government will be handsomely sustained.

While farmer representatives are needed in the House it would be a mistake to replace Mr. Blezard with Dr. Ford, not on personal grounds, but because the professional members of Parliament are numerous enough already. Mr. Blezard, as the representative of a rural riding, knows what his constituents need and will work for their interests. His opponent, as a professional gentleman, may very skillfully attend to the bodily ailments of the people of East Peterborough, but he cannot be so well qualified to look after the needs of the body politic. Dr. Ford is doubtless an estimable gentleman, but the people cannot elect every estimable gentleman to parliament. A farmer's constituency should be represented by a farmer, and when, as at last election, the electors preferred Mr. Blezard to another farmer, equally as estimable a gentleman as Dr. Ford, it is not probable that they will now turn their backs on a practical farmer who has represented them so well, in order to support a professional gentleman. Mr. Blezard's claims upon the electorate of East Peterborough are such as make his return merely a question of majority.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

We heard these wild weird cries from Opposition press just previous to the elections of 1894 :

Mowat is beaten!

"God be with you, Sir Oliver," for the Province isn't.

The sweep of victory will be made by a new broom.

The ballots and records of next Tuesday's voting will be in the hands of a new Government.

"God be with you," Sir Oliver, but you're a goner.

If the name Hardy is substituted for Mowat, we have the same thing now. After the elections of 1894 we had these same papers wailing thus :

We didn't know it was loaded.

The tombstone man is always bound to be on top in the end.

Somehow or other it didn't come out right.

Once more: Election canvasses bring out, as with a lime light, the painful fact that a very large number of men are liars.

We move that the majorities of candidates be figured up from the votes they were going to get instead of from the votes they have received.

It is said that history repeats itself. It certainly will in this case, and March 2nd will tell the tale.

CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order to bring to a head the charges and misstatements rampant about the meeting at O'Rielly's School House in Ennismore as to who was the one to begin the appeals to sectarian prejudices, Mr. Garvin or Mr. Stratton, I hereby agree to put up five dollars for prizes in a race to be called the "Garvin race," at each of the next five Ennismore picnics, if he will do the same, the loser to pay if I cannot prove to the satisfaction of any reasonable committee of men to be named at once that Mr. Garvin began the references to sectarian matters at the O'Rielly's school house meeting.

CAPT. MARTIN'S DENIAL.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The large audience present at the Opera House Friday night last heard Mr. Stratton allege that Mr. Garvin, speaking in Harvey, promised that if he was elected the price of the Third Reader would be reduced in six weeks to fifteen cents. At that time Mr. Garvin denied having made any such statement and Mr. Stratton took it back, but I see he repeats it now in his newspaper. Now, sir, I was present at all the meetings that Mr. Garvin addressed in Galway and Harvey. I can deny the statement of Mr. Stratton most positively. What Mr. Garvin did say was this, that he could promise the people of Harvey and Galway that if Mr. Whitney was elected to power just as soon as the monopolies made by the Hon. G. W. Ross could be broken up the school books that were now selling for thirty and thirty-five cents could be reduced to twenty cents. This is Mr. Garvin's statement and the other alleged by Mr. Stratton is absolutely untrue. I remain

Yours, etc.,
CAPT. J. MARTIN.

Peterborough, Feb. 23rd, 1898.

[We give Mr. Garvin the benefit of Capt. Martin's denial. Probably Mr. Garvin and Capt. Martin would like to deny a good deal more that they said in the north country, but if it were worth while to bring down the many electors in Harvey and Galway that heard these statements made, that are now denied at a safe distance, then the correctness of the report could be proven, as well as the absurdity of other wild statements effectively exposed. It will be in order for Captain Martin to write another letter denying that Mr. Garvin stated in the back country that he (Mr. Garvin) would spend the road moneys after the election. And he also might write another letter denying, on behalf of Mr. Garvin, the false statement Mr. Garvin made at Buckhorn that Mr. Stratton's property in Peterborough was all mortgaged—and explain at the same time, Capt. Martin, what that had to do with politics.

FOR 1898—THE COLUMBIA BICYCLE. COME IN AND SEE THEM.

Mercer's

Importing Tailors and Gentlemens' Outfitters.

Oh, what a warm welcome the first little traveler whom Heaven guides to the door of a woman's heart receives from the happy mother. Every thought and care is given to the comfort and well being of the new comer after it has entered into the portals of life and taken its place at the family fireside.

Yet during the time when baby is expected few women do all they should to insure the little one's constitutional strength and vigor. No mother wants to have a puny, weakly, sickly baby yet unless she herself is entirely healthy in the special, delicate structure which makes motherhood possible, the baby is certain to suffer in some way for her weakness or neglect.

The surest way to avoid this is for the mother to reinforce her own strength by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during the time of anticipation. It will make her perfectly healthy. It will lighten and brighten the time of waiting. It will make the ordeal of motherhood absolutely safe and comparatively free from pain and will insure a strong, healthy constitution for the baby.

Mrs. Nannie J. Taylor, of Lovelace, Hill Co., Texas, says: "I am the mother of eight children. I suffered from female weakness. I tried physicians with no avail. When I last became with child I saw the advertisement of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I bought two bottles and took according to directions. When baby was born I had a very easy time and have not suffered one hour since, from female weakness. Baby is as fat and healthy as can be."

Prospective mothers should send to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which will be sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only, or cloth-bound 50 stamps.

FOMENTATIONS.

How to Prepare Them When No Hot Water Is at Hand.

Fomentations of hot or cold water are often very useful, and every one should know how to give them. A flannel cloth may be folded, wrung out of hot or cold water as is desired and applied directly to the skin. It is much better after wringing out the flannel as dry as desired to fold it in a dry flannel cloth of one or two thicknesses before applying it to the patient. A little time is required for the heat of the fomentation to penetrate the dry flannel, and thus the skin is allowed an opportunity to acquire tolerance for the heat, and a higher degree of temperature can be borne if the moist cloth is brought directly into contact with the surface. The outer fold of dry flannel will also serve to keep the cloth warm by preventing evaporation.

A hot fomentation is sometimes needed when no hot water is at hand. It is not necessary to wait for water to be heated in the usual way. Soak the flannel in cold water, wring as dry as desired, fold in a newspaper and lay upon the stove or wrap it about the stovepipe. In a few minutes it will be as warm as the patient can bear. The paper keeps the pipe from becoming moistened by the wet flannel and at the same time prevents the flannel from being soiled by contact with the pipe.

Fomentations thoroughly applied will relieve most of the local pains for which liniments, lotions and poultices are generally applied and are greatly to be preferred to these remedies since they are cleaner and aid nature more effectually in restoring the injured parts to a sound condition.

The fomentation may be changed frequently, and after it has been removed massage may be given either by the person himself or another, so as to strengthen the part and promote a better circulation of blood in it.—Exchange.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

UNCLE SAM 10 CENTS AHEAD.

Five Envelopes Out of a Bunch That He Wouldn't Redeem.

A reporter went into the New York postoffice the other day with a bundle of misdirected stamped envelopes in his pocket to see if Uncle Sam would not redeem them for cash. He found a window in a room on the second floor, where this is the special business attended to. Uncle Sam's representative looked over the lot of envelopes, handed back five, with the cash for the others, and said:

"You will have to take a trip to Falls City, Neb.; Columbus, Ga.; Newark, N. J., and Brooklyn to get those four redeemed, and here is one we won't redeem at all. You see, it is this way: It does not matter where an envelope is addressed to; the point is where it comes from—what postoffice issued it. A postoffice can only redeem envelopes which it has issued itself. If an envelope shows on the face of it that some other office issued it, I can't give you cash for it.

"Now look at this one. Here in the corner is a note, 'After ten days return to Mr. Blank, Falls City, Neb.' Evidently the Falls City postoffice issued that, and you will have to go there to get it redeemed if you are fond of long distance economy of that sort. These envelopes here with no 'Return to' note may have been issued by some other office, but we have no means of knowing it and take them on faith. Here is one marked, 'Return to P. O. box 2,856, New York city.' We will take that, for we evidently issued it. The principle is simple, even if its workings look complicated."

The reporter reminded the clerk that he had refused one envelope altogether. The clerk took it up and looked at it. It had no "Return to" note in the corner, but the name and address were printed on it.

"Well, you see, that comes under a different rule," he continued. "The idea is to redeem envelopes which have been misdirected by accident. This man has spoiled this envelope to help on his business, sending it to some correspondent inclosed with a letter asking for a business order likely. He expected the other man to use this envelope only in writing to him and to keep him in mind of it he printed his address on it. He did not intend to furnish free stamps for his business acquaintances unless he got them back on letters to himself. His correspondent—you in this case—either did not send him an order or sent it in a new envelope. Now you want to get back 2 cents. The business man spent that 2 cents simply to boom his business. Uncle Sam is not booming any one's business, even to the extent of 2 cents, except where all share alike through general prosperity. You cannot get that envelope redeemed anywhere."

The reporter thanked the clerk. After calculating the cost of a trip to Nebraska, Georgia, Newark and Brooklyn and comparing it with the value of the four stamped envelopes which might be redeemed by it he concluded it was cheaper on the whole to drop the envelopes in the waste paper basket.—New York Sun.

Africans and Work.

All hard labor, all rough and unskilled labor, is, and owing to the heat of the climate must be, done by blacks, and in a new country like Matabeleland the blacks, though they can sometimes be induced to till the land, are most averse to working underground. They are only beginning to use money, and they do not want the things which money buys. The wants of a native living with his tribe and cultivating mealies or Kaffir corn are confined to a baross (skin cloak) or some pieces of cotton The prospect of leaving his tribe to go and work in a mine in order that he may earn wages wherewith he can buy things that he has no use for does not at once appeal to him.

The white men, anxious to get to work on the gold reefs, are annoyed at what they call the stupidity and laziness of the native and usually clamor for legislation to compel the natives to come and work, adding, of course, that regular labor would be the best thing for the natives.—"Impressions of South Africa" by James Bryce.

OF INTEREST TO MEN.

The attention of the reader is called to an attractive little book lately published by that eminent Expert Physician, G. H. Roberts, M. D., 252 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. This book is one of genuine interest to every man and its plain and honest advice will certainly be of the greatest value to any one desirous of securing perfect health and vigour. A request for a free and sealed copy will be complied with, if addressed as above and the Peterborough EXAMINER mentioned.

To Be Washed With Care.

"Yes," said the man whose narratives are almost invariably interesting, "I had some curious experiences in that mining country. One day I met two children with the dirtiest faces I ever beheld."

"Poor things!"

"That's what I thought. I said to them, 'Children, why don't you wash your faces?' and one of them answered: 'We daren't. We've been playin on pap's best claim, and he's liable to lose money if anybody touches us but him.'"—Washington Star.

A Good Imitation.

SUGAR EATING NATIONS.

Figures That Indicate That Maritime People Excel In Its Consumption.

The sugar crop of the world amounts in a normal year to about 8,000,000 tons, of which the larger part, about 4,500,000 tons, comes from beets and the balance, 3,500,000 tons, from sugar cane. Of the latter the largest proportion comes from the West Indies and a large amount from the island of Java. Among the countries producing beet sugar Germany comes first with about one-third of the world's crop; then Austria with about as much, and then France, Russia and Belgium and Holland together, with substantially the same quantity.

Among scientists the opinion has been general that a moderate amount of sugar, like a moderate amount of salt, should enter into the dietary of the people of each nation, but it is only when the figures of the consumption of sugar are examined that it is seen that the quantity consumed varies radically, and it is a curious fact that in those countries in which the maritime spirit—the spirit of navigation, commerce, travel and colonization—is strong, there is a very considerable consumption of sugar per capita, whereas in those countries in which these qualities are not predominant among the inhabitants the consumption is smaller. In England, first among the maritime nations of the world, the consumption of sugar is 86 pounds a year for each inhabitant. In Denmark it is 45, in Holland 31, in France 30 and in Norway and Sweden 25, whereas in Russia it is only 10, in Italy 7, in Turkey 7, in Greece 6 and in Servia 4. The consumption of sugar seems to have very little connection with or relation to the production of sugar, for in Austria, the sugar product of which is large, the average consumption is only 19 pounds, while in Switzerland, in which there is no production to speak of, it is 44. And another curious phase of the matter is that there is a great disparity in the consumption of sugar in the two tea drinking countries, England and Russia. The large amount of sugar consumed in France is attributed in part to the fact that the French confectioners and candy makers, and more especially those doing business in the city of Paris, use in their trade enormous quantities of sugar in a year, adding abnormally to the average consumption of sugar in the French republic.—New York Sun.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

SETTLE UP! All parties indebted to us are requested to call and settle immediately.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

A MAID'S MOOD.

Rose Dare was the petted darling of a large circle of friends, both male and female, for, strange to say, she was greatly admired by both sexes. She was not rich, but that did not prevent many lovers of all sorts and conditions coming to woo, but to Rose they were all the same, and she gave them very little encouragement except a smile at odd times, for which they were evidently thankful. But it was not intended by her poor but fond parents to allow her to lose the freshness of youth without in some way settling her future. She was to marry money—that had been decided long ago. She had rare beauty, and while she maintained that anything was possible.

"This is the last time I shall aid you in any way to obtain a suitable husband," said Mr. Dare one day angrily. "All my efforts in the past have been useless, but you ought not, in fairness to your mother and myself, to go on for ever like this. I cannot afford to keep you in dress and fallals such as you like much longer, for year by year, as you know, the value of our property is decreasing, and what the end of it will be heaven only knows."

"But, dad, I do not want a husband. I do not want to marry yet," answered Rose, her pretty lips pouting.

"But you have said that for the last three years. Now, my dear child, do listen to reason."

"But, dad, I do not love Harold Rodney."

"Do you love any one else?"

"No."

"Then, my child, love will come. Now do not let this excellent chance go by. You know how hard your mother has worked to entertain him and what an expense his visit has been. Now run away, child, and no more nonsense." Mr. Dare waved his hand toward the door with an air of a pasha and a look on his face that forbade further conversation.

Rose wandered out into the sunshine, her white dress and childish pink sash looking fresh as the morning itself.

She sighed as she went nevertheless. The sun had no charm for her that day, and, strange to say, her dress gave her no delight either, although it was new, and a very pretty one, too, donned with much pleasure and pride an hour before.

"I wish I was like 'Alice In Wonderland,'" she thought, "oh that I could change my appearance by growing too big or too small for my dresses, so that I should look a sight; for then perhaps Mr. Rodney would not propose. That would save dad right."

A sudden thought seemed to enter her head at that moment, and with a merry twinkle in her eye and mischief lurking in the dimple in her cheeks she hurriedly entered the house again, and ascended to her room, from which she came forth half an hour later looking a different Rose altogether.

"Let him propose now if he can," she murmured. "As he spoke to dad last night, I suppose he means to do it today."

She smiled a satisfied smile as she turned her head to view the hang of the back of her skirt. Presently from amid the trees she smelled the perfume of a cigar and made straight for the place whence she guessed the aroma came.

She walked very strangely too. Perhaps something hurt her foot, and her boots looked extremely large for such a small, dainty body to wear.

"Good morning," she said, with a drawl. "Doesn't the weather make one lazy? Too lazy to wash oneself even."

"Good morning," answered Harold Rodney, allowing his eyes to wander from her head to her heels with widest astonishment and pain mingled. "It is rather warm," he continued as he threw his cigar into the hedge and proceeded to seat himself upon a fallen tree, looking the picture of a healthy, handsome English gentleman.

"You are out early, are you not?" she asked, seating herself beside him and thrusting into sight a boot with half the buttons undone.

An amused smile rested on his face, but he did not let her see it, and, indeed, it was hard not to laugh, for Rose had on an old gray dress too small for her, a dirty ribbon tied around her neck, and another of a different color around her hair. Her hat was a green one which had seen some hard winter weather, and her boots were her mother's.

"What in the world does it mean?" thought Harold, for he had seen her go out before in her fresh white gown and had followed her, hoping to speak of his heart's desire. But he could not find her.

This Rose was not the dainty maiden he had seen there.

"Yes," he answered, "I was restless and unsettled, so I came here to look for you."

"For me!" Rose exclaimed, looking rather frightened, clutching at the brim of her hat with hands covered with white cotton gloves which had, by the look of them, been used for fruit picking.

"Yes," he answered. "I wanted you to talk me into a better frame of mind. I"—

"I can't talk. I never do. At least I am generally considered rather silly at conversation of any sort!"

"Indeed! Since when, Miss Rose?" he inquired.

"Oh, always," she answered, moving her arm so that a hole in the sleeve could be seen.

"I think I must differ with you, for ever since I have been here your conversation has been charming."

"Ah, I expect that was after dinner," she said.

"After dinner!" he exclaimed in a surprised tone.

"Yes, I generally wake up a bit then, you know."

He gazed at her for a moment trying to grasp her meaning. Her whole behavior was strange, but even this did not dispel the vision of the other Rose—the Rose he loved and hoped to make his wife. So, glancing away from her so as not to be disturbed by her appearance, he said slowly:

"I spoke to your father last night upon a subject that has given me a good deal of food for reflection lately."

"Yes, he told—no, I mean—did you?" she stuttered.

He turned suddenly toward her and tried to see her face, which she turned away.

"This explains it," he thought. "It is evidently my ladylove's intention to shock me—to keep me from declaring my love. It is a good hint, but faint heart never won fair lady, and if she does not love any one else I will win her." So he drew a little nearer and said in low and tender tones, "Rose, do you guess the subject on which we spoke?"

"No; haven't the least idea," she answered.

"May I tell you?" bending forward.

"Oh, no, no!" she cried, springing to her feet hurriedly.

"Why not, dear?" he said. "Rosie, darling, I must tell you."

He arose and stood before her, and certainly the mischief in his eyes equaled hers as he continued, "For you look so very sweet today."

"I—look sweet?" she cried in a dazed sort of way.

"Yes, Rosie—always sweet to me. Won't you marry me, dear, and make my happiness perfect?"

"No, no, I cannot! What must I say?"

"Say 'Yes, Harold, I will marry you.'"

"But I do not love you."

"Do you love any one else?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why not give yourself to me, dear, for I love you dearly?"

"I cannot," she commenced; then, suddenly remembering the conversation with her father, she continued, "I suppose I must say 'Yes,'" with a frown.

"But that, Rosie, will not do. I want your love."

"Why do you worry me? You know I don't love you."

"My dear, what has your father said? Did he tell you I had spoken to him about you, and that I wished to make you my wife."

"Yes."

"And what else, dear?"

"He said I ought to marry you, for you are rich, and he"—

Rose got no further; but, hiding her face with her hands, began to cry pitifully. "Did he want you to marry me even if you did not love me?"

"Yes." Her lips were trembling, and the efforts she made to control the sobs were almost more than the man could bear.

How he longed to take her in his arms and comfort her.

He looked quite aged and worn as he stood there battling with himself and thinking, "Shall I marry her and chance gaining her love or go away and try and forget her?"

The hungry, sorrowful pain would be as bad for him either way, and if he thought of her happiness he must leave her.

The victory soon came; the better part of his love rose uppermost. Just then he thought only of what would be the best for her, so, taking her hand in his and gently stroking her dainty fingers, he said in tender tones:

"And this is why you dressed so strangely. If you only knew how much I loved you, you would know that whatever you wore you would still be as dear to me, still my little rosebud."

Rose hung her head. How awfully silly she must be to be found out so easily!

"There, dear," he said presently. "Forget all this and be your own light hearted pretty self again. I shall not offend any more."

"But dad!" Rose exclaimed.

"He need never know. I will go away tomorrow morning on most important business. You understand, dear?"

"Oh, thank you, thank you!" she said, and she pressed his hand for a moment to her breast in sheer thankfulness.

She did not know how hard it was for Harold Rodney not to take her in his arms there and then and say he could not give her up, come what would.

He went, as he promised, next day, much to Mr. Dare's disgust, for he felt sure he had not spoken to Rose. She would not be so silly as to send him away after what he had said to her.

Only two or three days passed before Rose found that she missed her gray eyed, tender lover, missed his care and attention, and the place seemed very lonely. Before a month had passed she wished him back again, but the knowledge that she loved him did not fully develop until she heard one day that he was married. Then it came suddenly to her with overwhelming force. Then she cried and called herself naughty names and longed and longed that she could live the past year over again.

How many of us, I wonder, have done that? But it was no good. The love of her life had come and gone so quickly that she had hardly time to recognize the fact.

She was sitting one day on the same tree where he had told his love, trying to recall every look and word he had uttered to her there, and unbidden the tears gathered in her eyes and presently overflowed and fell one by one on to her clasped hands.

"Oh, I wish—I wish he were here!" she murmured sorrowfully.

"Who?" inquired a voice she knew so well.

"Some one who is not worth a 'bought."

"Rose, it was not I?"

"You—a married man?" with horror.

"You have been misinformed," he said. "I am not married, nor am I likely to be, unless"— He paused, putting forth his hand yearningly.

"Not married?" she cried. "Unless"—

"Unless you love me and will marry me, dear. I was going away tomorrow—far, far away—to try and forget, and came down today to get a last glimpse of you to carry away with me; something for my heart to feed on, but now"—

"Now?" she echoed.

"Will you, dear?"

"Yes."—Princess.

A Marvelous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for a change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred W. Leiskau, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

A MAID'S MOOD.

Rose Dare was the petted darling of a large circle of friends, both male and female, for, strange to say, she was greatly admired by both sexes. She was not rich, but that did not prevent many lovers of all sorts and conditions coming to woo, but to Rose they were all the same, and she gave them very little encouragement except a smile at odd times, for which they were evidently thankful. But it was not intended by her poor but fond parents to allow her to lose the freshness of youth without in some way settling her future. She was to marry money—that had been decided long ago. She had rare beauty, and while she maintained that anything was possible.

"This is the last time I shall aid you in any way to obtain a suitable husband," said Mr. Dare one day angrily. "All my efforts in the past have been useless, but you ought not, in fairness to your mother and myself, to go on for ever like this. I cannot afford to keep you in dress and fallals such as you like much longer, for year by year, as you know, the value of our property is decreasing, and what the end of it will be heaven only knows."

"But, dad, I do not want a husband. I do not want to marry yet," answered Rose, her pretty lips pouting.

"But you have said that for the last three years. Now, my dear child, do listen to reason."

"But, dad, I do not love Harold Rodney."

"Do you love any one else?"

"No."

"Then, my child, love will come. Now do not let this excellent chance go by. You know how hard your mother has worked to entertain him and what an expense his visit has been. Now run away, child, and no more nonsense." Mr. Dare waved his hand toward the door with an air of a pasha and a look on his face that forbade further conversation.

Rose wandered out into the sunshine, her white dress and childish pink sash looking fresh as the morning itself.

She sighed as she went nevertheless. The sun had no charm for her that day, and, strange to say, her dress gave her no delight either, although it was new, and a very pretty one, too, donned with much pleasure and pride an hour before.

"I wish I was like 'Alice In Wonderland,'" she thought, "so that I could change my appearance by growing too big or too small for my dresses, so that I should look a sight; for then perhaps Mr. Rodney would not propose. That would serve dad right."

Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy organs and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor description, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

A sudden thought seemed to enter her head at that moment, and with a merry twinkle in her eye and mischief lurking in the dimple in her cheeks she hurriedly entered the house again, and ascended to her room, from which she came forth half an hour later looking a different Rose altogether.

"Let him propose now if he can," she murmured. "As he spoke to dad last night, I suppose he means to do it today."

She smiled a satisfied smile as she turned her head to view the hang of the back of her skirt. Presently from amid the trees she smelled the perfume of a cigar and made straight for the place whence she guessed the aroma came.

She walked very strangely too. Perhaps something hurt her foot, and her boots looked extremely large for such a small, dainty body to wear.

"Good morning," she said, with a drawl. "Doesn't the weather make one lazy? Too lazy to wash oneself even."

"Good morning," answered Harold Rodney, allowing his eyes to wander from her head to her heels with widest astonishment and pain mingled. "It is rather warm," he continued as he threw his cigar into the hedge and proceeded to seat himself upon a fallen tree, looking the picture of a healthy, handsome English gentleman.

"You are out early, are you not?" she asked, seating herself beside him and thrusting into sight a boot with half the buttons undone.

An amused smile rested on his face, but he did not let her see it, and, indeed, it was hard not to laugh, for Rose had on an old gray dress too small for her, a dirty ribbon tied around her neck, and another of a different color around her hair. Her hat was a green one which had seen some hard winter weather, and her boots were her mother's.

"What in the world does it mean?" thought Harold, for he had seen her go out before in her fresh white gown and had followed her, hoping to speak of his heart's desire. But he could not find her.

This Rose was not the dainty maiden he had seen there.

"Yes," he answered, "I was restless and unsettled, so I came here to look for you."

"For me!" Rose exclaimed, looking rather frightened, clutching at the brim of her hat with hands covered with white cotton gloves which had, by the look of them, been used for fruit picking.

"Yes," he answered. "I wanted you to talk me into a better frame of mind. I"—

"I can't talk. I never do. At least I am generally considered rather silly at conversation of any sort!"

"Indeed! Since when, Miss Rose?" he inquired.

"Oh, always," she answered, moving her arm so that a hole in the sleeve could be seen.

"I think I must differ with you, for ever since I have been here your conversation has been charming."

"Ah, I expect that was after dinner," she said.

"After dinner!" he exclaimed in a surprised tone.

"Yes, I generally wake up a bit then, you know."

He gazed at her for a moment trying to grasp her meaning. Her whole behavior was strange, but even this did not dispel the vision of the other Rose—the Rose he loved and hoped to make his wife. So, glancing away from her so as not to be disturbed by her appearance, he said slowly:

"I spoke to your father last night upon a subject that has given me a good deal of food for reflection lately."

"Yes, he told—no, I mean—did you?" she stuttered.

He turned suddenly toward her and tried to see her face, which she turned away.

"This explains it," he thought. "It is evidently my ladylove's intention to shock me—to keep me from declaring my love. It is a good hint, but faint heart never won fair lady, and if she does not love any one else I will win her." So he drew a little nearer and said in low and tender tones, "Rose, do you guess the subject on which we spoke?"

"No; haven't the least idea," she answered.

"May I tell you?" bending forward.

"Oh, no, no!" she cried, springing to her feet hurriedly.

"Why not, dear?" he said. "Rosie, darling, I must tell you."

He arose and stood before her, and certainly the mischief in his eyes equaled hers as he continued, "For you look so very sweet today."

"I—look sweet?" she cried in a dazed sort of way.

"Yes, Rosie—always sweet to me. Won't you marry me, dear, and make my happiness perfect?"

"No, no, I cannot! What must I say?"

"Say 'Yes, Harold, I will marry you.'"

"But I do not love you."

"Do you love any one else?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why not give yourself to me, dear, for I love you dearly?"

"I cannot," she commenced; then, suddenly remembering the conversation with her father, she continued, "I suppose I must say 'Yes,'" with a frown.

"But that, Rosie, will not do. I want your love."

"Why do you worry me? You know I don't love you."

"My dear, what has your father said? Did he tell you I had spoken to him about you, and that I wished to make you my wife."

"Yes."

"And what else, dear?"

"He said I ought to marry you, for you are rich, and he"—

Rose got no further; but, hiding her face with her hands, began to cry pitifully. "Did he want you to marry me even if you did not love me?"

"Yes." Her lips were trembling, and the efforts she made to control the sobs were almost more than the man could bear.

How he longed to take her in his arms and comfort her.

He looked quite aged and worn as he stood there battling with himself and thinking, "Shall I marry her and chance gaining her love or go away and try and forget her?"

The hungry, sorrowful pain would be as bad for him either way, and if he thought of her happiness he must leave her.

The victory soon came; the better part of his love rose uppermost. Just then he thought only of what would be the best for her, so, taking her hand in his and gently stroking her dainty fingers, he said in tender tones:

"And this is why you dressed so strangely. If you only knew how much I loved you, you would know that whatever you wore you would still be as dear to me, still my little rosebud."

Rose hung her head. How awfully silly she must be to be found out so easily!

"There, dear," he said presently. "Forget all this and be your own light hearted pretty self again. I shall not offend any more."

"But dad?" Rose exclaimed.

"He need never know. I will go away tomorrow morning on most important business. You understand, dear?"

"Oh, thank you, thank you!" she said, and she pressed his hand for a moment to her breast in sheer thankfulness.

She did not know how hard it was for Harold Rodney not to take her in his arms there and then and say he could not give her up, come what would.

He went, as he promised, next day, much to Mr. Dare's disgust, for he felt sure he had not spoken to Rose. She would not be so silly as to send him away after what he had said to her.

Only two or three days passed before Rose found that she missed her gray eyed, tender lover, missed his care and attention, and the place seemed very lonely. Before a month had passed she wished him back again, but the knowledge that she loved him did not fully develop until she heard one day that he was married. Then it came suddenly to her with overwhelming force. Then she cried and called herself naughty names and longed and longed that she could live the past year over again.

How many of us, I wonder, have done that? But it was no good. The love of her life had come and gone so quickly that she had hardly time to recognize the fact.

She was sitting one day on the same tree where he had told his love, trying to recall every look and word he had uttered to her there, and unbidden the tears gathered in her eyes and presently overflowed and fell one by one on to her clasped hands.

"Oh, I wish—I wish he were here!" she murmured sorrowfully.

"Who?" inquired a voice she knew so well.

"Some one who is not worth a thought."

"Rose, it was not I?"

"You—a married man?" with horror.

"You have been misinformed," he said. "I am not married, nor am I likely to be, unless"— He paused, putting forth his hand yearningly.

"Not married?" she cried. "Unless"—

"Unless you love me and will marry me, dear. I was going away tomorrow—far, far away—to try and forget, and came down today to get a last glimpse of you to carry away with me; something for my heart to feed on, but now"—

"Now?" she echoed.

"Will you, dear?"

"Yes."—Princess.

Living, I have not used you for a smile;
Dying, I do not ask you for a tear;
For that might other hapless hearts beguile,
And this to death's self make you all too dear.

And some will crave a look, and some a touch,
And some a word, albeit 'twere but rebuff,
But none of these for me—each were too much,
Too much in faith, and yet not half enough.

Your scorn can do no less, your love no more.
From both or either I am safe at last.

A Marvelous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for a change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred W. Leiskau, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

POLICE COURT.

Wednesday, Feb. 23rd, 1898.

This morning at the police court, James E. Spellman, the bartender at the Bodega, was charged with having supplied Wm. C. Simmons, a person apparently under the age of 21 years, with liquor, contrary to the License Act.

Mr. Haverson, of Toronto, solicitor for the License Hoteliers Association, appeared for Spellman, and pleaded that the licensee Joseph Armstrong, had been convicted on the 21st inst, of the same offence and that Spellman therefore could not be convicted inasmuch as the conviction of the actual offender was a bar to the conviction of the licensee.

Mr. Edwards, town solicitor, appeared for the prosecution. The magistrate gave effect to Mr. Haverson's contention and dismissed the charge.

Geo. Graham, of the Oriental Hotel, was then charged with having supplied liquor to one Edwin Heron, an infant, on the 9th inst. Heron, a youth in the neighbourhood of six feet, testified that in company with his brother and another young man, both older and bigger than himself, he called at the Oriental bar and got two glasses of liquor. Mr. Haverson had the young man and his friends stand out on the floor and appear as they had in the bar-room. Heron stated he used a razor regularly, and had frequently been taken for over 21 years of age. The father gave the boy's age as 19, and also corroborated the boy's statement as to his appearance, being that of a young man of over 21 years.

The Magistrate thought the young man's appearance was such as justified the sale, and dismissed the charge.

As a result of Spellman's case the conviction of Moore, the bartender of the Little Windor Hotel, and that of the conviction of the bartender of the Croft House, are illegal, and were this afternoon recalled by the Police Magistrate. Moore was also as a consequence liberated from the charge of perjury preferred against him.

It was Largely Attended in All Saint's Church Last Evening.

A pancake social and at home was held in All Saint's church last evening.

There was an impromptu programme of excellent merit, provided. The evening was spent very pleasantly, playing such games as crockinole, authors, etc.

The affair was a success in every sense of the term. Mrs. Wm. Ballen kindly loaned her Newcomb piano for the occasion.

The Tea Cup Test

It is well enough to talk about the good qualities of a tea, but after all it is what is shown by brewing that is the final test. The number of cups of good tea that can be brewed from a single pound has as much relation to economy as the price per pound. From a pound of Ram Lal's Pure Indian Tea, 200 cups of tea can be made. Beside, the strength there is the quality of the brew, and in this Ram Lal's stands above all others.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Prize Tea Store, 328 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked, Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and as prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 328 George Street.

DUE TO TREACHERY.

Such Is the Belief Relative to Maine Explosion.

U. S. CITIZENS ADVISED TO LEAVE

What the Divers Have Discovered—U. S. Officials Confident That General Blanco Knew Nothing, But Junior Officers May Have Had Something to Do With the Disaster.

Havana, via Key West, Feb. 24.—The situation, which may be changed at any moment by fresh discoveries, may be summed up, when this dispatch was sent yesterday afternoon, substantially as follows:

The divers have discovered cases of brown hexagonal powder for the 10-inch guns unexploded, and believing also that others unexploded will be found in the 10-inch magazine on the starboard side forward, the conviction grows that this magazine did not blow up. If this be so, and many have insisted from the first that it is, the further conviction is forced that the explosion which wrecked the Maine came from the outside on the port bow.

As previously wired, the main portion of the wreck, as seen from above and noted from below, was blown to starboard.

The highest American officials here are confident that General Blanco and the other high Spanish officials had no knowledge, direct or indirect, of the conception or execution of a plot to blow up the Maine, if such a plot existed; but they believe the junior Spanish officers, who, from the nature of things, are more conversant with modern explosives than their elders and superiors, were at the bottom of the disaster, if there were any ou side agency.

NEWS FROM HAVANA.

Maine Explosion Believed to Have Been Due to Treachery—U. S. Citizens Advised to Leave.

New York, Feb. 24.—A despatch to the World from Havana says: The situation in Havana is more grave than a week ago. Although the officers of the Naval Enquiry Board preserve an impenetrable reserve, it is learned that some of the best naval experts now believe that the explosion was the result of treachery. They do not believe that Spanish officials were part of the conspiracy.

Consul-General Lee has informally advised Americans not necessarily detained here to leave for home at once. Many families will sail by the Olivette to-morrow. This is an indication that those on the ground realize the possibility of trouble arising suddenly and their inability to protect women and children if an outbreak occurs.

A despatch to the Herald from Havana says: The further the enquiry into the causes that led to the Maine disaster proceeds the more remote appear the chances that any evidence will be discovered to show that the disaster was due to accident.

Those divers who penetrated into the forward part of the wreck found that the whole forward end of the ship from a point just abaft the forward turret had been twisted fifteen or twenty degrees to starboard. That part of the vessel was a wilderness of debris and curled and twisted plates.

One important discovery made was the position of the bodies found in the wreck, one hundred of which were floating about the torn compartments. A full score of these were examined by my informant. All of these bodies were in hammocks, and all had the arms curved upward. They looked as if the men had been startled by some sudden shock of danger, and were in the act of reaching up for their hammock hooks to swing themselves on deck when death came.

STARVATION AT SANTIAGO DE CUBA.

Fourteen Thousand People Said to Be Without Food—Big Death Rate.

Santiago de Cuba, Feb. 24.—While the United States cruiser Montgomery was at Matanzas recently a board of officers was reported to enquire into the condition of the people of the province. There are 14,000 people absolutely without food and clothing within the city limits.

These 14,000 are the laboring people, who have been driven into the cities from their country homes, which have been destroyed by the operations of the war. Most of them are women and children, and they are all emaciated, sick and almost beyond relief unless they can have the benefit of regular treatment in the hospitals. As it is, they are dying in the streets for want of food.

According to statistics gathered from the best official sources, the number of deaths in the Province of Matanzas from starvation is 59,000, and the number of starving people at present in the province is estimated at 98,000, out of a total population of 253,616 in December, 1897. The number of starving people is rapidly increasing.

In the city of Matanzas alone there have been about 11,000 deaths during the past year, and the number is increasing daily. The death rate at present averages 46 per day.

SPAIN WILL NOT SELL CUBA.

All Politicians in the Old Country Are United on That Question.

Madrid, Feb. 24.—As the question of the purchase of Cuba is again being pushed in Washington, it may be of use to state, on the highest authority, that Spain will never, no matter what Government is in power, consider any such suggestion or any compromise in Cuba beyond the broad measure of autonomy drafted by the Liberal Government. This is an absolute, irrevocable decision. People who suggest anything else are only wasting time and arousing unfounded hopes.

THE GREAT SNOWSTORM.

The Effects Very Generally Felt—A Fatal Accident—Harvey Sent for Trial—General Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The snowfall is without precedent. Since Sunday morning at 8 o'clock there was a continuous fall, and according to the register at the Experimental Farm the record is 24 inches. Yesterday afternoon there was a fall of six inches. All railroad traffic was at a standstill yesterday; no trains arrived from Montreal over any of the lines since Monday until the afternoon at 3 o'clock. On the C.P.R. no trains arrived from Montreal up to noon. Prescott trains did not move either way to-day. At Chaudiere Junction four engines and a plough are stuck in seventeen feet of snow. At St. Martin's Junction and St. Scholastique four passenger trains have been held for two days. Mails from various points came in on the Brockville mixed at 9.45 to-day; there were over 100 bags altogether. On the Canada Atlantic the line is all clear as far as St. Polycarpe, where a gang of men and ploughs are working night and day. The regular train for Montreal left here this morning on time. On board were sixty men with shovels to assist in the work. The storm struck St. Polycarpe heavier than at any other point east, and both the C.P.R. and C.A.R. lines are blocked there. All the sidings are full of cars waiting to get away as soon as a clearing is made. Yesterday seven engines were off the track. The Prescott line is closed up and also the line between Smith's Falls and Montreal. The Brockville line is all right.

In connection with the clearing of the tracks of snow, a sad accident is reported. Mr. William Holtby, mechanical foreman of the Canada Atlantic Railway, was killed at Coteau Junction yesterday. He was superintending the replacing of an engine on the track when he slipped and fell under the train.

Harvey Sent for Trial.

James Charles Harvey, the Canadian Homestead publisher, was yesterday morning sent for trial to the Assizes on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences from A. W. Burrows of Toronto. Prisoner broke down when he was committed.

Ottawa General News.

Director Saunders of the Central Experimental Farm has issued a short bulletin on the possibilities of agriculture in the Yukon district. The possibilities around Dawson are very remote, but the bulletin is of interest, in that it gives some valuable information regarding agriculture in the Peace and Mackenzie River districts.

It is understood that Major Cook of the Prince of Wales' Rifles, Montreal, will command this year's Bisley team. The adjutant will be Lieut. A. E. Smith of the St. John Rifles. Major Cook succeeds to the command of his battalion next month.

The Board of Trade has endorsed the position of the St. John Board, that all canned goods should be marked with net weight of contents and date when packed.

His Excellency the Governor-General will attend the banquet of the Canadian Press Association in connection with the annual meeting here.

The House of Commons has decided to extend the time for presenting petitions for private bills until March 10.

Mr Perry, M.P., was very low last night. He is quite unconscious and cannot last much longer.

E. E. Sheppard of Toronto is here on business with the Department of Trade and Commerce.

"THAT'S THE WAY TO DO BUSINESS."

Mr. Phillips Thus Characterizes a Government Transaction.

A CABINET OF BUSINESS MEN.

A Case That Shows How the Laurier Administration Is Working in the Interests of This Country's Trade—A Decision Which Means Great Things for Canada.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—The Klondike business is assuming large proportions here. Half a dozen parties started to-day, and more will start to-morrow, and more or less outfitting is done here by all of them. By long odds the heaviest purchaser has been L. A. Phillips of the Alaska Exploration Company, whose headquarters are at San Francisco, and in which the Rothschilds are interested. Since February 2 Mr. Phillips has been hard at work considering offers and inspecting samples. His contracts signed and sealed had almost reached $200,000, when late last week he was made aware of the fact that he could not get vessels at Vancouver, and this meant that all his vast purchases would have to be shipped from San Francisco. Under the coasting laws he would have to pay duty on the goods on re-entering Canada. Should there be no way out of such a contingency he would be forced to not only stop purchasing, but to cancel orders already given. Mr. Phillips went to Ottawa, and he came back again contented.

A Business Cabinet.

"What a splendid lot of business men you have in your Cabinet," he said in an interview yesterday. "Mine was a case of business. I was not seeking a favor; it was business pure and simple, and fortunately for your country your Ministers are men who can handle a business proposition. I saw Hon. Mr. Paterson at 11.30 a.m. and explained my position. I pointed out that it was out of the question to make purchases if a duty was placed on them on the re-entry. An hour or so afterwards the Cabinet heard the facts and on Saturday morning an Order-in-Council by which the goods will go through in bond was passed. That's the way to do business. As it is now every shipper will get a certificate from the customs, the bales and cases will be properly marked for identification, and when Canadian territory is reached after leaving San Francisco the certificate will be handed to the Canadian customs officer, and there you are."

"Then you will spend the $500,000 as at first reported?"

"Yes, easily. Then there will be a lot of orders duplicated, which I may mail. As a matter of fact, my purchases just now are only limited by the transportation accommodation."

SAFE-BLOWING IN MONTREAL.

Rascals Got Away With Swag Valued at From $10,000 to $15,000.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—At 3 o'clock yesterday three burglars entered the Belfast dry goods warehouse of Haycock & Dudgeon, 2401 St. Catharine street, ransacked the premises, blew open the large safe with a powerful charge of gunpowder, took whatever contents were of value, set fire to the building and escaped over the snowclad roofs of back premises. One or more of the men were evidently badly cut, as a trail of blood shows the path which they took to at least temporary safety. It was in many respects the most daring and well-planned of a series of crimes, with robbery as the sole end in view, that has ever been perpetrated in Montreal, and it is quite evident that the firing of the building was an afterthought, and done with a view to covering up the original crime. The estimated loss is from ten to fifteen thousand dollars.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC BLOCKED.

Monday's Grand Trunk Train Still Snowed Up at Craig's Road.

Levis, Feb. 24.—The G.T.R. train due at Levis at 2.10 p.m. Monday is still blocked at Craig's road. The Q.C.R. line is open between St. Henri Junction and Sherbrooke. Their trains are running between Sherbrooke and Beauce Junction. The St. Charles Branch is badly blocked with snow and two ploughs are blocked between Hadlow and Chaudiere. A plough special that opened the road for No. 83 train from Halifax yesterday has been blocked at St. Pierre since about 5 o'clock yesterday, and the express that followed her has remained over night at Montmagny. Mr. Pottinger, with his official car, are on the blocked train at St. Pierre. The English mail train that left Halifax early yesterday morning is waiting at River du Lonp until the road is clear. No. 83 train of yesterday is about eight hours late, and will likely wait at River du Loup also.

Three Men Saved.

Provincetown, Mass., Feb. 24.—The tug Mercury, Captain Evans, has arrived here bringing news that three men of the crew of the British ship Asia were rescued alive yesterday by the crew of Handkerchief lightship. The men were taken from a piece of wreckage on which they had been floating for twenty-four hours, and were greatly exhausted.

As soon as they could talk it was learned that the Asia struck on Great Round Shoal off Nantucket during the gale Monday and went to pieces. Captain Dakin of the Asia, with his wife and daughter, were among those on board at the time, and all are supposed to have perished.

NORWOOD C. O. F.

Grand Meeting of Canadian Foresters at Norwood.

Norwood, Feb. 23.—On Saturday evening last from all parts of the village you could observe ladies and gentlemen going towards the Town Hall in large numbers to spend a few hours with the Foresters as Messrs. Gartung and Strong, superintendent of organization, and inspector were to be in town, the guests of organizer R. J. Stuart. Hence the brethern of Courts Norwood and Rob Roy took advantage of their visit and decided to spend a little time with them also. The brethren invited every one to come and partake of a free concert, and they arranged an excellent programme which was carried out in a very creditable manner, both by the ladies who took part, and by the orchestra, who furnished the music, assisted by Mrs. D. A. Fraser who so very ably presided at the piano. The following is the programme:

Bro R J Stuart	Chairman
Selection	Orchestra
Address	Rev Bro Peer
Duet	Misses Cumming and Nicol
Address	Rev Bro Somerville
Recitation	Miss Bretherton
Duet	Mrs D A Fraser and Miss B Scott
Solo	Miss Sherry
Solo	Mrs J Patterson
Address, "Aims and objects of Forestry"	E Gartung
Solo	Miss B Scott
Address	Rev J McCamus
Selection	Orchestra
Address	Bro W G Strong
Solo	Miss E Waters
Selection	Orchestra

It is unnecessary to say that the programme was very ably carried out. Those who took part are too well known to need any comment; it is enough to say all received a very hearty applause. The following gentlemen occupied seats on the platform: Revs. Peer, Somerville and McCamus, H. G. Buck, reeve of Norwood, Jas. Andrews, reeve of Asphodel, W. H. Bretheren, P.C.R., Jno. Walker, M.W., A.O.U.W., Dr. Hall, P.C.R., J. G. Keefer, P.C.R., E. Gartung, superintendent of organization, W. G. Strong, Inspector, J. Davidson, M.A., Principal of High School, and proud are we to say all are Foresters. The ushers were Bros. H. Squires, E. Squires, J. White and W. Doughty, who were kept busy and did their duty very creditably. Bros. Gartung and Strong made some very able hits on Forestry, and think it should be the means of bringing many others into the forest paths. They gave great credit to Bro. Stuart. Out of the 61 courts organized the past year Bro. Stuart has had the pleasure of organizing 28, which is a good record for him, and we hope he will be long spared to do good for Forestry.

After the programme a vote of thanks was tendered those who assisted when all arose and sang God Save the Queen, after which they proceeded to the residence of Bro. J. R. McKelvey, where about forty sat down to a very sumptuous spread got arranged in his usual good style. Bro. John Davidson, M.A., occupied the seat of honour, to his right the guests of the evening Bros. Gartung and Strong. After Bro. Peer had asked the blessing the oysters were passed and all seemed to enjoy them. The usual toasts were dispensed with on account of the late hour. Messrs. Strong and Gartung briefly addressed those assembled on the strong points of our grand and noble order, after which all arose and sang Auld Lang Syne, and brought a very pleasant evening to a close by shaking hands with each other and wishing soon to meet again.

Bro. R. J. Stuart deserves the greatest praise by bringing around such a pleasant evening, if there was more such men and courts Forestry would be the society of all societies. More social meetings, more brethren to help it along, a better attendance by all and less drones. Brethren turn out and make your meeting attractive

THE GOLDEN KLONDIKE.

AN ENORMOUS RUSH OF GOLD SEEKERS GOING IN.

Some Sound Advice From One who has Made the Trip, and Knows Something of the Hardships the Hardships the Gold Seekers Must Undergo.

In the rush towards the golden fields of the Klondike, there are thousands who are ill-fitted to stand the strain of hardship and exposure, which are inseparable from that trip. Illness, disease and death is almost certain to claim many of the ill-prepared adventurers. The following letter from one who has undergone the hardships of the trip, will prove interesting to those who intend going into the desolate but gold-laden north:—

SKAGWAY, Dec. 12th, 1897.

DEAR SIRS,—My object in writing this letter is to give a word of advice to those who contemplate going to the Yukon gold fields. For ten years I have followed the occupation of prospecting, timber estimating and mining, and the hardships and privations which one has to undergo, are enough to wreck the strongest constitution. In the spring of 1897 I was stricken with pleurisy, as the result of exposure. I recovered from this, but it left behind the seeds of disease which manifested themselves in the form of heart and kidney troubles. I managed to reach Vancouver, but did not have much hopes of recovering. I was advised, however, to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and at first purchased but two boxes. Before these were gone I found beyond a doubt that they were helping me, and their continued use "put me on my feet again," to use a common expression. I then engaged to go to the Yukon country and only those who have made the trip to Dawson City can form the faintest conception of the hardships that have to be borne in making the trip. Before starting I added to my outfit two dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I can honestly say no part of my outfit proved of such invaluable service to me, and I would strongly urge every man who goes in to take a supply with him, as he will find the need of such a tonic and upbuilder of the system on many occasions. I went in and returned to this place by the Dalton trail, which consists of 350 miles of old Indian trail, starting at Pyramid Harbour. In going over the trail one has at times to wade through mud more than a foot deep, and ford streams waist deep in ice cold waters. When I started for the Yukon my weight was only 149 pounds, and I now weigh 169 pounds, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

I am soon starting for another trip to Dawson by the same route. This time, however, the travelling will be on snowshoes, and you may depend upon it Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will again form part of my outfit.

I write this letter for the two fold purpose of letting you know what your medicine has done for me and urging those who go in to take a supply with them. Every man, whether he is sick or well, who undertakes the trip to the Yukon will require something to brace him up and keep his constitution sound in that country. I may say that my home is at Copper Cliff, where my wife now resides.

Yours very truly,
JOHN PICHE.

A FINE AND PRISON

Is the Fate of the French Novelist, Emile Zola.

TO GO TWELVE MONTHS TO JAIL

And to Pay 3,000 Francs for Espousing the Cause of Dreyfus M. Laborie's Eloquent and Impassioned Appeal for His Client - He Makes His Hearers Weep - Cable News.

Paris, Feb. 24.—There was increased excitement yesterday in the precincts of the Palace of Justice, and the audience within the Assize Court, where M. Zola and M. Perrioux have been on trial since Feb. 7, was restless and loudly discussed the features of the case.

M. Laborie, counsel for Zola, resumed his argument for the defence when the proceedings opened.

Referring to the Bordereau, counsel maintained that it was written by Major Esterhazy, and said that the presentation of several secret documents at the court martial fully established this.

M. Laborie exclaimed: "I believe the country will soon realize the gravity of the situation and will revolt and protest in the name of eternal morality. This is what M. Zola has done."

The speaker's touching references to the unhappiness of the Dreyfus family, the courage and abnegation of the wife of the prisoner, and the letter from Dreyfus in September, 1897, protesting his innocence more energetically than ever, produced a profound sensation, many of the persons present in the court weeping.

There was a commotion in court when M. Laborie, referring to Dreyfus, said his appointment on the general staff was "badly received by the Jew-haters." Counsel further said: "Dreyfus could not have divulged anything about the hydraulic brake for the artillery, because the contrivance has been known since 1889."

Here the Advocate-General protested against M. Laborie going outside of the case, but counsel insisted, adding:

"Infantry officers, including Major Esterhazy, could have been acquainted with this contrivance. Yet, without proof, an innocent man had been arrested, who, although a Jew, was the last man to betray secrets, for he was only too happy to serve France as a member of the general staff."

M. Laborie then reviewed the "shady conduct" and indebtedness of Major Esterhazy, who, he said, all eminent men believed, wrote the Bordereau. Counsel then asked who could be Major Esterhazy's backers, and declared that the "fairy tale" representing Emperor William of Germany corresponding with Dreyfus was "simply laughable."

"It was impossible," continued M. Laborie, "to obtain justice at the court-martial which tried Major Esterhazy, and then a man arose, M. Zola, who needed every ounce of his courage, to do this." (Murmurs in court.)

"He stands before you," added M. Laborie. "M. Zola's stand was made against the Minister of War, who dared, though in good faith, to take the responsibility of getting Dreyfus condemned, while the authorities endeavored to stifle the truth."

Then, perorating, the counsel said: "Don't allow yourselves to be deceived with the idea that the honor of the army is involved because some of its members have ignored the law. Don't allow yourselves to be troubled or intimidated by rumors of war, which do not exist, but fear nothing, for the moral energy of the country still lives. It is with the hearts of honest men that victorious battles are achieved. Give an example of firmness, for you must feel that in this man lies France's honor. (Protests from those present in the court room.) Your verdict will signify three things, 'Vive l'Armee!' 'Vive la Republique,' 'Vive la France;' that is to say, 'Vive le Roi,' and that is what I ask you to proclaim by your verdict."

Amid loud applause, mingled with hisses and cheers for the army, and for the republic, the hearing was suspended. Immense crowds of people then gathered outside the Palace of Justice and the police were reinforced, trouble being feared.

When the hearing was resumed, M. Clemenceau, for M. Perrieux, made a speech, seconding the remarks of M. Laborie and concluding with appealing to the jury, by the acquittal of M. Zola, to "remove from France the danger of religious wars."

The Advocate-General made a brief reply. The jury retired at 6.30 p.m., and was absent half an hour.

M. Zola was found guilty on all counts, and sentenced to one year's imprisonment and was fined 3,000 francs.

Another Snow Avalanche at Quebec.

Quebec, Feb. 24.—At 2 a.m. another heavy snowslide occurred about a quarter of a mile west of the scene of last night's disaster. An avalanche swept down the cliff and over the roof of a house underneath, crossed the main road and struck the railway track, knocking down a semaphore switch and two or three telegraph poles. The heavy snowstorm still continues to rage. It is the worst storm that has visited the city for 40 or 50 years. From four to five feet of snow must have fallen, and the drifts are from 20 to 25 feet high.

There's a remedy that will make you strong; will give you new vitality and energy; invigorate the heart; enrich the blood; make the pale cheek rosy.

It's Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Here's HOME PROOF that you can readily verify.

Mrs. John O'Brien, 360 Downie street, Peterborough, says:—"I had a very severe attack of La Grippe, which left my head and heart both in a very bad state. So intense were the pains that I often could not work. My nervous system was shattered, and I felt completely run down. My blood was impoverished so much that I became very weak and debilitated.

"Although I tried many remedies, I received no relief from them, and despaired of a cure, until I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They put new life in me. From the very first their splendid renovating powers were manifested. My nerves became steady, the distressing symptoms disappeared; and to put the matter shortly, I was completely restored to first-rate health in a short time by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

A SERENADE IN THE "WEE SMA' HOURS."

A Detachment of High Court Foresters Peacefully Invade Mr. Stratton's Residence.

Last night, or rather this morning, about two o'clock a company of about sixty of the High Court Foresters delegates peacefully invaded the residence of Mr. Stratton and aroused him from his slumbers with a ringing rendering of the following adaptation of a local campaign ditty:

Poor old Jim
Is still in the swim,
And will be for four long years more.

The serenaders, which contained representatives of Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Kingston, Galt, Berlin, Guelph and all the principal cities and towns of the Dominion, were warmly welcomed by Mr. Stratton and given the freedom of his residence. Speeches, songs and refreshments helped speed away a delightful hour. The speeches, which were delivered by both Conservatives and Liberals, were complimentary to the host both personally and politically, and the gathering left with warm assurances of their friendly feelings to the host and the belief that his victory in the coming contest in West Peterborough was assured.

A DUMMER WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Emma Howson and Mr. Wm. D. Sargent.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 23rd, 1898, a very interesting event took place at the residence of William J. Howson, Esq., of South Dummer.

The occasion was the marriage of his eldest daughter, Emma E. Howson, to William D. Sargent, youngest son of Samuel Sargent, Esq., of Salem, Otonabee.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. N. McCamus, of Port Perry, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. J. A. McCamus, of Norwood, and Rev. F. W. White, B.A., of South Dummer.

A large number of friends were present. Many beautiful presents were offered in evidence of high esteem and good wishes.

A TIE GAME.

The Peterborough Colts Played Hockey Against the Norwood High School.

Excitement ran high at the rink last night when the Hockey colts played their first game of the season against the Norwood High School boys.

The colts have hitherto been an unknown quantity, but hereafter their matches at the rink will be well attended as those present last evening were delighted with the way the boys played.

The result of the match was a tie, each team scoring five goals, but if the score was equal the teams were not—at least in the matter of weight, as the heaviest colt did not weigh as much as the lightest of the visitors, some of the local players not being able to tip the beam at even a hundred pounds.

The teams were composed as follows:

Norwood.		Peterborough.
Pierson	coal	Cochrane
Matheson	point	E Graham
Pearce	cover point	H Armstrong
Sherry	forwards	R Armstrong
McGregor		Braddi
Pettigrew		P Crossley
McPherson		H McBain
R Cameron	umpire	W Crossley

Referee—Ernie Wesson.

The visitors possessed a very fast forward line, and a stalwart defence, but the Colts excelled in combination work, and through adhering strictly to team play were able to hold down the visitors to the above named close score. The first game went to the Colts in 8 minutes. Norwood evened the score in a minute and a half, and in eight minutes more got another goal. Peterborough took the fourth game and Norwood the fifth, the score standing 3—2 in favour of the visitors at the end of first half.

On recommencing play Peterborough took the lead by scoring two goals in succession. Then Norwood evened up and took the lead by scoring still another. After nine minutes' play Peterborough again tallied, making the score a tie. No more goals were scored by either team.

The officers of the Colts were so delighted with the way in which they held down their big opponents that they gave the boys an oyster supper after the match.

Mr. Ames bought his goods for cash. Kidd bought his stock of shoes at 55c on the dollar and will give you them away below cost on Saturday, 405 George street.

THE LAKEFIELD CANAL BRIDGE.

Correspondence on the Subject Between the Department and the Village Council.

The following letter has been received from the Minister of Railways and Canals:

DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS,
Ottawa, February 21st, 1898.

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th inst, accompanying a resolution adopted by your council in relation to the bridge proposed to be constructed over the Trent Valley Canal at Lakefield. Although I am advised by the engineers and officers of my Department that a high level bridge should be built at Lakefield, you may assure your council that I will give all possible consideration to their representations in the matter.

Yours faithfully,
ANDREW G. BLAIR.

Alex. Bell, County Clerk, etc., Lakefield, Ont.

The following is the Minister's reply to Mr. S. McKibbin's letter:

DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS,
Ottawa, 21st February, 1898.

DEAR MR. MCKIBBIN,—I have yours of the 18th before me, and I am sorry to learn that there is such a strong feeling in the locality against a high level bridge and in favour of a swing bridge over the canal. Our friends in the country should reflect that if we put up a swing bridge over the canal the expense of maintaining and attending it will for all time be a very serious charge, and we would not be justified, except in a case of the most extreme urgency, in imposing a burden on the country in respect of all these bridges over the canals. After a very careful consideration of the whole question, and on the advice of the engineers and officers of my Department, I have felt myself impelled to favour the construction of a high-level bridge.

Your faithfully,
ANDREW G. BLAIR.

S. McKibbin, Esq.,
Lakefield, Ont.

ELECTORS---STAND FOR STRATTON

WILL MR. GARVIN EXPLAIN?

The movements of a political candidate, appealing to public support, are a perfectly legitimate subject for discussion and inquiry. Will Mr. Garvin explain to the public, which has a right to know, what he was doing in the Township of Ennismore last Sunday, when he was going from house to house in company with Mr. Michael Murray? The fact of his presence in Ennismore on the sacred day cannot be disputed, and the inference is natural that he was prosecuting a political canvass and desecrating the Sabbath at the same time.

If his visit to the township on the Sabbath day was not for political purposes' Mr. Garvin owes it to the people to explain why he was there. A political candidate, driving around from house to house on the Sabbath day, part of the time, at least, under cover of darkness, will have a very difficult task to make the public believe that he was not once breaking the Sabbath by prostituting it to secular purposes, and encroaching upon the day of rest to push his political interests.

Ennismore is a moral, law-abiding township. The people, for the sake of having a quiet, Christian Sunday, removed drinking places from its borders, but it seems that another evil has come upon it in the shape of the Sunday politician, for if Mr. Garvin was not in Ennismore for electioneering purposes on Sunday last, he was either there on some secular business or as a missionary, trying to improve the moral condition of the people of the township. Both of the two latter suppositions are, to the highest degree, improbable, and Mr. Garvin must not complain if the people draw the inference that he visited Ennismore last Sunday for political purposes.

A candidate must indeed be hard pushed and in a reckless state of funk, who will show an excess of zeal that sets at defiance the divine command "remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

The Mail and Empire in its columns today classes Mr. Garvin as a Presbyterian in religion. The Mail and Empire must be mistaken. An adherent of a church which exalts to the highest plane the sanctity of the Sabbath, certainly could not be so far lost to decency as to go forth on the Sabbath day soliciting votes.

SIGNS OF A WEAK CASE.

Mr. Garvin had a bad quarter of an hour at his meeting at the Grange Hall, Smith. In the course of his oration he made the astounding promise that when his party got their hands on the reins of power at Toronto, they would appoint an auditor that would be responsible to the Senate or Upper House. A gentleman in the audience, who pretended to take Mr. Garvin's wild cat "break" seriously, asked him if he proposed to establish a Senate at Toronto. Mr. Garvin was nonplussed; and was still more confused when the same gentleman asked him why it was that under the kind of auditor he favoured there had been such a terrible reign of boodling and corruption at Ottawa? Why hadn't the model auditor-general been able to prevent that? Mr. Garvin's reply was to the effect that he had never looked at the matter in that light before, But the people have, Mr. Garvin. The people of Smith and other parts of the West Riding are a reading people, and they know that while an efficient and faithful auditor can prevent a great deal of wrong-doing, he can't, to do his best, control a party in office that is bound to use its power corruptly. The model Auditor-General at Ottawa, whom the Opposition now affect to so much admire, is the best man that could be selected for such a position—just, exact vigilant and capable; but he was unable to stem the tide of corruption that drove a Conservative minister in disgrace from the Cabinet and put a Conservative member of parliament in gaol. On the other hand under the Provincial Auditor at Toronto not a dollar of public money has been corruptly spent and a vigilant Opposition have been on the lookout for such a case for years. It is simple falsehood for the Opposition to say that the Provincial Auditor can be dismissed by any power but the representatives of the people. The Government has no more power to dismiss him than they have to depose Her Majesty, the Queen. Mr. Garvin and the Opposition have a weak case when they resort to such disgraceful mistatements of fact. The people will pronounce their opinion of such unworthy tactics next Tuesday with no uncertain sound,

IT PINCHES HARD.

"Elector's" letter in the EXAMINER seemed to have troubled the Review to no little extent. The local organ pretends to treat it lightly, but it hangs heavy on its mind, for it devotes a large part of a column and a dozen paragraphs to an attempt to break the force of it. But without avail. Thinking and reasoning electors will see in it cogent reasons for retaining the faithful services of Mr. Stratton. If "Elector's" letter was of no importance, the organ wouldn't make such frantic efforts to belittle it. If any elector could be found to say as much on behalf of Mr. Garvin's past and prospective usefulness to the town of Peterborough and the West Riding, then he might have some reason to think that he had some sort of claim upon the support of the people.

HE MUST SHOW CAUSE.

When a man has represented an important constituency for a number of years, and is able to give a clear and satisfactory account of what he has done in his representative capacity, and can show that he has pursued a course that has resulted in benefit to his constituents and to the province and is creditable to himself, then, in the public interests such a man should be retained. If an opponent seeks to displace such a representative, he must come with some solid claims to show that he can do better. It will not do for him to simply go before the people and say that he "wants the job." The people wish the new-comer to show cause why the tried and trusted representative should step aside. The electors can have no difficulty in making the application.

HARD PRESSED FOR POINTS.

The Review, hard pressed for campaign ammunition, complains of the cost of officials appointed under the act relating to "Neglected and Dependent Children." This is the height of partizan rancour. No law has ever been passed of its kind that has been productive of greater good to the classes it aims to benefit, than the beneficent law upon which is founded the Childrens Aid Society. Of that we have abundant evidence in this very town, and it must be a surprise to Mr. Hampden Burnham that a party with which he is actively identified should thus attack a movement with which he has also been actively identified, and which he knows has been the means of doing an immense amount of good. An evidence of the benefit of the Childreh's Aid Society, and the charitable impulses it awakens, is afforded by a letter of Mr. Macknight in another column—"For Sweet Charity's Sake." A party and cause must be at a low ebb of hope when it feels warranted in trying to make a partisan point at the expense of the noblest secular charity of the age.

WHY DIDN'T THEY OBJECT THEN?

Mr. Whitney takes objection to the Government's action in granting the Engledue mining concession. Why did he not bring up the question in the House and make his objection there? The present outcry against the grant against is too late to have any effect, if indeed it were worthy of consideration. It is a dead issue, however, as nearly everyone now admits that the Government did a capital stroke of business when it entered into the bargain. Nothing whatever was given away; merely a three years' prospecting right was granted over some 44,000 acres of land in the mineral belt, entirely unknown and unexplored, in return for which the syndicate bound themselves to spend $30,000 in exploring during the first year, $40,000 in the second year, and $50,000 in the third. If they succeeded in finding any valuable mineral lands they must buy them at the same price and subject to the same conditions as mining lands are sold to any one else. In the whole arrangement, in fact, the advantage lies with the Government, as is conceded by every mining man familiar with the circumstances. To bind the bargain, the syndicate were obliged to deposit $20,000 with the Government, which is forfeitable on non-fulfilment of the conditions. The area covered by the concession is only one-eight hundredth to one-ninth hundredth of the mineral territory of northern Ontario, so that there is no reason to fear the creation of a monopoly, even if the syndicate bought the whole tract, which they are not likely to do, but which would be a good thing for the country if they would do. With millions of British capital developing our mineral resources the province would be sure to have a big "rake-off" on what are now comparatively valueless stretches of rock.

WITH TWO FACES.

If the friends and supporters of Mr. Garvin are not trying to carry two faces in this contest, why do they send in Mr. Garvin's behalf a political emissary to speak at the meeting of the Young's Point True Blues on Tuesday night? Why doesn't the Review publish the campaign speeches made at this meeting by Mr. Garvin's political friends from Lakefield and Peterborough. It might be interesting also to publish the political speeches of Mr. Garvin's missionaries at Buckhorn under similar circumstances.

It is not difficult to draw correct conclusions.

SOME CONVINCING FIGURES.

"The Province had in the banks of the Province at the close of 1897, $605,000. It had drainage debentures, being security for money loaned to municipalities, to the face value of $352,000, bearing interest at 4 per cent. These could readily be sold for 3½ per cent., and a profit made on them. These two items together made nearly $1,000,000. In addition the government had four trust funds:—The common school fund, Upper Canada building fund, land improvement fund, and grammar school fund. These, the Dominion held for the Province. Under the Act of 1884, known as 47 Victoria, chapter 4, the Dominion Government also owed the Province $2,248,000. The latter sum, added to the first mentioned, aggregated $7,121,000. An arbitration between the Province and Dominion has been going on for years, and to be perfectly safe as to the result, the speaker had deducted $2,000,000 from the province's claim. This left a genuine surplus of $5,121,000. It was as to the railway obligations that there was any particular difference between the government and their opponents. Their opponents asked why they did not pay these liabilities if they had the money. The government did not think it wise to withdraw money bearing 5 per cent. interest when they could borrow it at a lower rate. Subtracting these railway obligations (which were paid out of current revenue) and the province had an unassailable surplus of nearly $3,000,000 by their opponents' own figures."

So says Mr. Treasurer Harcourt. It scarcely seems as though there was anything seriously wrong in all this. The Opposition will stick at nothing to discredit the country in every way for the sake of gaining office.

THAT Ontario should leave funds with the Dominion bearing 5 per cent. and borrow at 3¼ per cent. is regarded by Mr. Whitney as bad finance. He has a weakness towards general taxation, but there are other methods.

"Not lightly fall,
Beyond recall,
The written scrolls a breath can float;
The crowning fact,
The kingliest act
Of freedom is a freeman's vote."

The voters should commit this to memory before next Tuesday.

"I WOULD like to be a minister," says Mr. Whitney, "but I don't want to be saddled with responsibility. I believe in having an advisory council on which to put the blame of my blunders. 'Contrary to the principle of responsible government,' eh? Who cares for 'responsible government'? It's office I want, and a chance at that surplus."

An Opposition speaker at Ottawa says the third plank in the Opposition platform is "to allow no special favours to any corporation." This is a new departure for Mr. Whitney, who seems to desire to ignore all his past platforms and records, and appeal to the people as a new kind of politician. It is notorious that Mr. Whitney has always stood as the friend of corporations, while Hon. Mr. Hardy has always taken his stand for the people. Electors will make their decision between practice and promise next Tuesday.

AN independent opinion is thus expressed by the Toronto Telegram:—"There is a superfluity of references to 'the good old cause,' the 'grand old party' in Opposition meetings and newspapers. There is a corresponding scarcity of reasons why people who care more for Ontario than they do for either party should support Whitney and oppose Hardy. Opposition orators and editors may have a large supply of such reasons, but if so they ought to use the same in an effort to give the independent electorate a motive for going against the Ontario Government."

A NOBLE RECORD

Here is the record in part of twenty-six years of honest, progressive and economical Liberal administration in Ontario:—

Its Record as to Provincial Rights.

It has established the legislative rights of the Province, after a series of appeals to the Privy Council, in the following cases:

- The Insurance Case.
- The Escheats Case.
- The Rivers and Streams Case.
- The Act as to Assignments and Preference by Insolvents.
- The Liquor License Case.
- The Boundary Award.
- The Indian Titles Case.
- The Queen's Counsel Case.
- The Taxation of Brewers and Distillers.

Its Record as to the Representation of the People.

It has established Manhood Suffrage for the Legislative Assembly.
It has provided the system of voting by ballot.
It has passed effective and advanced voters' lists acts.
It has perfected the law relating to elections and election trials.
It has readjusted and equalized the representation throughout the Province.
It has provided for the registration of manhood suffrage voters in cities and towns

Its Record as to Legislation.

It has enacted one of the best code of laws possessed by any province or country.
It has enacted much-needed legislation regarding joint stock companies, insurance companies and loan corporations.
It has legislated for the protection of fish and game.
It has passed an advanced law relating to Succession Duties.
It has established a Children's Department, under which societies are organized which assist in providing for neglected and homeless children, thus relieving some of the cost of maintaining industrial schools, etc. Between 600 and 700 children have been provided with foster homes during the last four years.
It regulates the importation of British children, provides for the reception of only bright and healthy ones, and supervises such as are admitted.
The Government leads both Great Britain and the United States in the progressive character of its children's laws.

Its Record in Connection With the Municipalities.

It has produced a Municipal Law which, in the opinion of the late Chief Justice Harrison, "forms the most complete and perfect code of the kind that he knew of in any country in the world." This law inclues:
Assessment and Exemption reforms; control of city police by Commissioners.
Improvement of the law regarding watercourses, line fences, bridges and highways.
Consolidation, improvement and extension of the drainage laws.
The local improvement plan for street improvements.
Extension and lowering of the municipal franchise.
The establishment of industrial farms and houses of refuge.
Facilitating the purchase and abolition of toll roads by municipalities.
Abolishing the rights of municipalities to grant bonuses to manufacturers.
It has distributed $3,388,777 to municipalities under the Municipal Loan Fund. It has invested $1,301,433 in drainage debentures and works.
It has appointed a provincial municipal auditor.

Its Record as to Aiding Colonization Railways.

The "Railway Fund" was increased in 1872 from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000 a "Railway Subsidy Fund" was created by setting apart the sum of $100,000 a year for twenty years.
Aid has been granted to hundreds of miles of colonization and other railways in the new districts and elsewhere, 1872-'97 amounting to $6,609,413.
Their liberality in this respect has secured the building or projected building of over 3,000 miles of railway in Ontario.

Its Record as to Temperance Legislation.

It has efficiently regulated the the liquor traffic, and has given us an act which has reduced the number of licenses from 6,185 in 1874-5 to 3,006 in 1896-7, or one license for every 287 persons in the province in 1875, as against one license for every 725 persons in 1897.
It has made temperance teaching compulsory in schools under Government supervision from a special text book, by which means, during 1897, over 200,000 pupils were instructed on the moral and physical evils of intemperance.
It has, by means of education and legislation, assisted in the diminution of drunkenness so that commitments for this offence have fallen from 4,032 in 1877 to 1,716 in 1897. Thus while there was one commitment for every 441 persons in the Province in 1877, there was in 1897 one for every 1,308 persons. The Dominion Government, in its Statistical Year Book, has for several years published statistics, obtained directly from official sources, which show that in the sobriety of its people Ontario stands at the head of all the Provinces of the Dominion. It may be added that no state or country from which statistics are obtainable shows so good a record.
The following are nine of the principal features of the Government's license law:
(1) It has given the Province a local option law which permits the entire prohibition of the liquor traffic for beverage purposes in municipalities. (2) It has provided that not more than three licenses may be issued for the first one thousand of a population and one for each full 600. (3) It has provided that municipal councils may still further limit the number of licenses. (4) It has conferred the power of prohibition as to new licenses upon a majority of electors in polling subdivisions. (5) It has given legislation which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors in vessels navigating the lakes and rivers of the Province. (6) It has provided that after April, 1899, saloon licenses shall be abolished. (7) It has prohibited the sale of liquors to all persons under 21 years of age. (8) It has given legislation enabling relatives or employers of persons who drink to excess to prohibit the sale of liquor to such persons. (9) It has prohibited the sale of liquor from seven o'clock on Saturday evenings until six o'clock Monday mornings and during municipal or parliamentary election days; and that for three violations of these provisions, within two years, the license shall be cancelled. It is further provided that on other days in townships and villages no liquors shall be sold after 10 p. m. until 6 a. m.; and in towns and cities from 11 p. m. until 6 a. m., and that standard time shall govern.

Its Record in Dealing With the Afflicted.

It has expended over $18,000,000 since 1872 upon hospitals, charities and asylums.
It has six large asylums for the insane, and an asylum for the idiotic, accommodating in all 5,712 patients, at a lower per capita cost than any asylum in the States or other Province.
It has institutes for the deaf, dumb and blind, and grants aid to 112 charitable institutions. It leads the world in its care of the afflicted classes.

Its Record as to Finances.

Out of a total of $86,821,785 expended since 1872, it has returned to the people the following sums, amounting to $68,824,893, or 79 per cent. (with smaller sums):—

Agriculture	$ 3,471,794
Education	14,835,186
Maintenance of public institutions	15,432,075
Hospitals and charities	2,768,998
Public buildings and works	9,355,098
Administration of justice	8,412,319
Colonization roads	2,898,097
Aid to colonization and other railways	6,609,413
Municipal loan fund distribution	3,388,777
Of miscellaneous expenditure of $1,908,000, ⅞ was returned to the people	1,663,216
	$68,824,893

In addition to this liberal expenditure it has a surplus of $5,121,345.
Out of the total expenditure under Supply Bill in 14 years, 1894-'97, the Opposition opposed only $243,146 out of $47,417,493, or about one-half of one per cent.

Its Record as to Public Works and Buildings.

It has expended $9,355,098 on Public Works and Buildings (including $1,300,000 for construction of new Parliament Buildings) since 1872.
It has expended nearly $3,600,000 on the erection and improvement of Asylums for the Insane and Idiotic.
It has expended nearly $425,000 on the erection and improvement of Institutes for the Blind and Deaf.
It has expended nearly $800,000 for the erection and improvement of Educational Buildings.

What do the mechanic's think of the Review's condemnation of the Factory Act, as shown by its complaint of the expense of its operation. How can the complaints of employees of disregard of the Act, be attended to without an inspector, whose business it is to give their complaints effect? The Review might as well complain of the expense of the county clerk and treasurer, and town clerk and treasurer. Both are like the factory inspectors, employed because their services are necessary.

What has become of Messrs. A. P. Poussette, John Green, Charles Stapleton et al., at whose head Mr. Garvin set forth so bravely to stump the country in the beginning of the campaign? Have these gentlemen given up the job as a bad one, or has Mr. Garvin asked them to stand aside? Else why has he selected Mr. Gilchrist to go with him over the ground again? If Mr. Garvin's first series of meeting were so unsatisfactory to him that he has to repeat them, it seems that he is finding that his political ghost stories in his second round are more unsatisfactory still.

AN INQUIRY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I am informed that Mr. J. W. Garvin was in the township of Ennismore on Sunday last, going from house to house, in the interests of his candidature as Conservative candidate in West Peterborough. Can you tell me whether or not I have been correctly informed? If such is the case, he will lose the votes of a hundred persons in Peterborough who have always voted with a party that strongly disapproves of such proceedings.

Yours truly,
INQUIRER.

Peterborough, Feb. 24th, 1898.

[For our correspondent's information the EXAMINER may state that on the most indisputable authority, it is informed that Mr. Garvin was in Ennismore on Sunday and went to several houses in company with Mr. Michael Murray, and it is not likely that he was prosecuting his life insurance business, but, doubtless, looking after his political interests. There is no language too strong to condemn such tactics.

A man in the darkness of hopeless disease is of all men most miserable. When doctors and medicines innumerable have been tried and found wanting, and loving friends vainly urge upon him the food he cannot eat and which brings him no nourishment or strength, what is to be done?

Men and women who have sunken so far into weakness and disease that the whole body seems to be permeated and poisoned by it have found health, strength and vigor through the transforming, electrifying power of that wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" which Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., proffered, thirty years ago, to sick and suffering humanity.

During all the years since then this marvelous "Discovery" has been building up weak and debilitated constitutions by its extraordinary influence upon the human, nutritive system. It gives the digestive organism keen power and capacity to appropriate every life-giving element from the food taken into the stomach and transforms it into rich, highly vitalized blood and healthy flesh, bone, sinew and nerve fiber.

Consumption in all its earlier stages is arrested and counteracted by the tissue-building, flesh-making, life-promoting power of this grand medicine and there is no darkness of bodily ailment so dense but it will shed upon the sufferer the light of renewed hope.

A LOVELY MODEL.

Mrs. Bonnano Has Sat Some Thousands of Times For Photos.

Perhaps there is not a woman in this country or in the world, whether actress, professional beauty, queen or princess, who has been photographed as many times and in as many different poses as has Mrs. Domenico Bonnano. In Mrs. Bonnano's case it was nothing but a tribute, first, last and all the time, for in each instance she was photographed only because she was beautiful. Moreover, the photographer was a recognised authority on female beauty, a past grand master of the art of photography, a magician of lenses.

He was Napoleon Sarony, Mrs. Bonnano's first husband.

When Sarony established his photograph gallery in New York, he conceived the idea of advertising his business by placing in prominent locations samples of his work. There were professional beauties and handsome actresses in those days, just as there are in these days, but Sarony never found a more inspiring subject than his own wife, and he used to delight to make pictures of her in all sorts of artistic attitudes and in all sorts of garb to which her remarkable figure and charming features best lent themselves. So it came about that hundreds if not thousands of photographs were taken of Mrs. Bonnano before her first husband died. These photographs extend over a period of many years, showing Mrs. Bonnano in the flush of youth and up to the maturity of her personal charms. They make a remarkable collection that is highly prized by members of her family. Not only was Mrs. Bonnano photographed often, but her picture was painted and sketched hundreds of times. Sarony himself drew her portrait in charcoal or crayon at every opportunity.—Philadelphia Press.

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

THE WAR OF RATES.

The Battle Against the C. P. R. to Begin on the Other Side Shortly—The Grand Trunk's Position—Cut Results.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has suspended the operation of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act, in favor of railroad lines in the United States in competition with the Canadian Pacific road as to passenger business between points in the Province of Manitoba and contiguous territory and points upon the Detroit and St. Lawrence Rivers, and easterly thereof in the Dominion of Canada, and in that portion of the New England States reached directly by the rails of the Grand Trunk Railway. It is understood that the Canadian Pacific road is now materially cutting passenger rates to St. Paul and the Pacific coast. In view of this, it is said that the American roads to-day will ask the Interstate Commission to extend the scope of this relief so as to take in these additional competing points, conditions being similar.

RATE CUTTING DENIED.

Grand Trunk Says the Report of Underhand Work on Its Part Is Incorrect.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—The railways are having so much trouble with the snow that little time is given to the rate war. There are, however, no new developments.

"I see by a despatch this morning," said Mr. Reeve, traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, "that an alleged C.P.R. official states that the Grand Trunk (for the Grand Trunk is the only rival of the C.P.R. at the points mentioned) were cutting the Montreal-Toronto rate to $9 in an underhand way. There is some mistake about this, as the charge is not based on truth. Therefore, I cannot think that it came direct from any C.P.R. official.

"The facts are," continued Mr. Reeve, "our rate has been $10.40 for a long time. It is our rate to-day, and we have not sold a ticket at less. It is true there was combination of rates to Coteau Junction and from there on, which had the effect of making a reduction. But there was never a ticket sold at such a combination and no one knows this better than the passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. I can say that we have not knowingly cut a passenger rate for the last two years at least, unless by our quoting the same fares as our friendly neighbors are doing we can be termed as cutting rates."

IMMEDIATE RETURNS.

How the Rate War Prices Caught on in the Queen City.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—A telegram was received in Toronto at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening from Mr. George B. Reeve, general traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, instructing those in the passenger department here to "maintain rates until further advised." It is not known to the Grand Trunk officials here what action is contemplated by the authorities at Montreal, and pending further orders tickets over the Grand Trunk will be sold at the old figures and no cut made at competing points to meet the rates in force over the Canadian Pacific. Several of the points to which the Canadian Pacific have cut the rates are reached only by the Grand Trunk, but under an agreement between the two companies, the Grand Trunk have to accept such traffic when handed to them at the nearest junction point and are allowed the local fare over their line.

How the Cut Was Appreciated.

The cut rates so extensively advertised by the Canadian Pacific yesterday drew a great many customers to the passenger agent's office, corner King and Yonge streets. From 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. the staff of clerks there had all they could attend to. A great part of the time the office was crowded to the doors. A clerk in the office who has been a number of years at ticketing, affirmed that yesterday was quite the most busy day he ever remembered.

Many Passengers for the Far West.

The Canadian Pacific train which leaves the Union Station at 12.30 for Vancouver and intermediate points consisted yesterday morning of two cars of baggage and four well-filled passenger coaches. In all, there were 208 passengers aboard this train, including 58 men from Strathroy and London, engaged by contract to work on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway.

Thomas Hood.

Hood's position in literature has been affected by the circumstance that he did two things excellently which in the general view are incompatible, in which case popular opinion generally fixes on the inferior gift as representing the writer's real capacity. He was a "funny man" as well as a lyric poet of real quality and earnest aims and was so admirable and original in the former and more abundant character that it probably caused many to regard the serious verse as merely an ambitious bid for a reputation it was not in the writer's power to achieve. Hood doubtless helped to strengthen this impression by practically ceasing to produce serious poetry for some 15 years of his short life. But that this was due to a necessity for finding a ready market for his wares is, I think, beyond a doubt.—Ainger's "Poems of Thomas Hood."

Men and medicines are judged by what they do. The great cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla give it a good name everywhere.

FRANCO-CANADIAN S.S. LINE.

Company Wants Subsidy to Provide a Direct Service With Old France.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Papers were brought down yesterday respecting the offer for a direct steamship line between Canada and France. The company for a yearly subsidy of $100,000 from the Dominion and a similar amount from France will make 12 voyages between Boulogne or Dunkirk and Montreal in summer, and Halifax in winter. The vessels, which would fly the French flag, would have a gross tonnage of 4,000 tons, and a speed of 12 knots. Failing a cash subsidy, the company asks a guarantee of interest at 5 per cent. on a capital of $6,000,000.

To Raise the Maine.

New York, Feb. 23.—The Merritt & Chapman Derrick and Wrecking Company yesterday signed contracts with the Government to raise the battleship Maine. Their most powerful tug, the Monarch, will proceed at once to Havana. Other tugs will follow, and the work will be begun as soon as possible.

The terms of the contract provide for the payment to the wrecking company of the sum of $871 per day for their regular plant, and an additional payment of $500 per day for the use of the Monarch while the latter is actually employed. An express provision is made that the Government may terminate the contract at any moment. It is also provide that the compensation shall not exceed the $200,000 appropriated by Congress for this purpose. Finally, it is provided that if the company succeeds in raising the Maine, and towing her to New York, they shall receive a bonus of $100,000.

It is reported, according to the Pall Mall Gazette, that the Prince is running an elevator in a big New York hotel.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? In Death. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

THE HORIZON AT SEA.

A line inexorably straight—
In larger truth, a girdling ring—
Fixed, either way, as firm as fate
And always onward beckoning.

Clear cut and far or near and blurred,
As powers of sun and cloud decree,
By those thy provocations stirred,
We seek the farthest mystery.

Emblem of boundaries strictly set,
Emblem of venturous search and hope!
Circled by these, can man forget
His limitation and his scope?

ON ESCORT DUTY.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

One day a mail rider arrived at the frontier fort with such news that a sergeant and six men and an ambulance were ordered out within an hour to escort and convey the colonel's wife down to the railroad. For a year there had been no open act of hostility on the part of the Indians, but we had known for weeks that they were making ready for an outbreak. It was queer enough that the colonel should come down to us in person as we stood beside our saddled horses, knowing nothing of where we were to go or the object of the trip, but stranger yet that all "military etiquette" should go out of his voice and demeanor as he said:

"Men, I am going to send my wife down to the railroad to go east. You are to be her escort. It is a case of life or death, or she would not go. I am afraid of the Indians, and yet I think you will get through all right. You are to make the best time possible. If attacked"—

"We shall beat them off, sir," replied Sergeant Gregg after waiting half a minute for the colonel to finish.

"I hope you can. I can only send the seven of you and a driver. Eight men ought to beat off 100 Indians, unless taken in ambush. Be watchful and prudent. Sergeant, you are an old Indian fighter. You will know best what to do. You will get away by 1 o'clock. Travel as fast as you can and as late as you can, so as to finish the journey tomorrow. If you are attacked"—

The colonel did not finish. He looked at each man and horse, inspected the ambulance and its pair of mules, and with a half nod to us he walked away. His wife must go, and, owing to details and sickness, no commissioned officer could be sent along. If the Indians were out, an escort of 50 men would not be too large. Only eight of us were to go. Had he finished his sentence he would have said:

"If attacked and you are about to fall into the hands of the red devils, do not let my wife be captured alive."

We understood what he meant, though we said nothing to each other. No matter what he or any one else feared, the little woman was almost merry as she took her seat in the ambulance for the start. Nothing had happened when we reached the valley, and as we looked around us and across it nothing could be seen to alarm. We had just taken the ropes off the blocked wheels of the ambulance when the warwhoop of the hostile Indians sounded behind us, and we looked back over our trail to catch sight of 100 mounted warriors bearing down upon us. They had picked our trail and run us down.

"Mount! Now, straight across the valley! Fall in to the rear of the ambulance."

The voice of the old sergeant was hard and firm as he spoke. The curtains of the ambulance were up, and I glanced at the colonel's wife. She had seen and heard. Her cheeks had paled, but she was removing a repeating rifle from its hooks as we fell in behind the vehicle. It was a clear five mile dash. The prairie was as level as a floor, and the mules needed no urging after hearing the yells of the Indians. The soldier driver wound the lines about his hands, braced his feet, and away we went. We had a start of half a mile. No man looked back. The pace was a hot one, and there was cover five miles away. The Indians gained on us, but only inch by inch. The mules took up such a gait that our horses had to lie right down to it to keep up. Not a word was spoken as we rode, but every ear listened to locate those coming up behind us. If they came too near, we must halt and open fire while the ambulance pushed on. We had almost reached cover before three or four rifle bullets came singing over our heads. Three minutes later we were among the trees and rocks, and the race was ended. As the ambulance halted and we flung ourselves off our horses I looked back and saw a band of at least 70 Indians almost within rifle shot of us. The road struck the hills at a gulch and they dared not follow us into that. They gave vent to their disappointment by shouts and yells and a waste of ammunition, and for a few minutes they had no plan in view.

"Well, we beat them in a fair race," said the colonel's wife as she descended from the ambulance with the rifle in her hands. "Sergeant Gregg, what are you going to do now?"

"Take cover, ma'am," he replied as he gave her the military salute.

"Yes, of course," she said as she looked about. "Did you ever see a pair of mules run faster? I might have got a shot but for you men behind. There must be near 100 Indians out there, but I guess we are safe enough now."

She rattled on in that fashion while we were taking the mules from the ambulance and unsaddling our horses, and it was a great weight off our minds to realize that she would not be a burden on our hands. It was idle to think of pursuing our journey in the darkness which would soon close down, and before morning there would be plenty of Indians on the trail beyond. We must take cover and hope to stand them off until help arrived or they grew discouraged at the siege. As we were consulting about location and defense the colonel's wife came back to us from the mouth of the gulch and said:

"That's the place, over to the left, men. There's a spring on that hill, with a good growth to shelter all, and you can see plenty of bowlders lying about."

The sergeant had selected the same spot, and in the course of a quarter of an hour we were occupying it. We got the horses and mules up there, but the vehicle was left behind. It was a cone shaped hill amid half a dozen such, but it commanded the others. It was covered with pines and cedars of small growth, and there was a splendid spring right on the crest. If the Indians had been fierce in their pursuit or crafty in their plans, we could not have reached it. It was the outbreak of war again with them, and they were overcautious. They drew back into the valley to consult, thus giving us a fair show, and we were snug enough when night fell and they made a dash for us, which we easily repulsed. Darkness found us occupying a circle about 40 feet across, with stones and bowlders and trees for shelter, and, though the situation was an anxious one and full of danger, all were in good spirits. We made a fire between two rocks and cooked our supper, and by the use of blankets we put up a tent for the colonel's wife, though against her protests. After the one single effort of the Indians, which was doubtless more of a reconnoissance than an attack, we were left in peace, though all through the night we heard sounds to prove they were taking up positions on all sides of us and making ready for the morrow.

None of us except the woman slept an hour all night long. We used levers to loosen bowlders and roll them into the circle, and with our knives we cut off limbs and cut down small trees to further strengthen our fort. We got the horses into a sort of gully below us and made the position as safe as possible, and when daylight came there was nothing more to be done. We had above 600 rounds of ammunition, food for three days and water was at hand.

Daybreak found us ready for an attack. The colonel's wife took her place, rifle in hand, between two men, and for half an hour we expected a sudden rush. At the end of that time a single warrior appeared to view at the base of the hill and in broken English demanded our surrender. The sergeant answered him that we were ready for them, and at the same time fired a shot which rolled the redskin's pony over. Three minutes later there was a circle of fire about us. Indians had mounted into trees to the right and left of us to get a plunging fire, and from the tops of two lower hills they poured in their bullets at random. We simply crouched down behind the rocks and smoked our pipes, pleased that they were throwing away their cartridges. At the end of an hour they ceased firing. Not a man of us had been touched, but stray bullets had killed one of the mules and wounded two horses. There would be a rush now, and as we made ready for it the colonel's wife sank down beside me and quietly said:

"I've tumbled over sage hens and jack rabbits, and I ought to be able to hit an Indian. Do I look frightened?"

"You are as white as a ghost, ma'am," I answered as I turned to her.

"But I'm all right," she smilingly said, "and here they come."

So they did. With every painted warrior yelling at the top of his voice the entire band charged us at once, taking in the whole circle. It was not until they got close up that we could see anything to shoot at, and every few seconds the sergeant cried out to us to hold our fire. It was over in a minute. They did not expect to find us intrenched, and we knocked them over like ninepins.

I believe we killed or wounded a full score, and it took the fight out of them so thoroughly that not a rifle was fired at us again until afternoon. Then, soon after 3 o'clock and without the slightest warning, we were charged again, and for three minutes it was a wild melee. We fired into their very faces as they sprang upon the defenses, and two warriors were shot down inside our fort, and both by the colonel's wife. It was their final and supreme effort, and well it was for us that it was thus. When we had beaten them off, Sergeant Gregg and another man lay dead, four men were badly wounded, and they had cut our animals out of the gulch and run them off. Had the attack lasted a minute longer or been renewed two men and a woman would alone have opposed it. And among the queer things of that last dash was the behavior of the colonel's wife. With my own eyes I saw her shoot down the two warriors who leaped the breastwork, and I believe she killed two or three more outside of it, and yet when the attack had been repulsed the little woman fell over in a dead faint, and for ten minutes we believed her dead from a bullet. When she came back to life, she had a fit of weeping, and when that was over she turned to and attended our hurts and was ready for another brush.

We put in another night right there, not knowing that the Indians had drawn off, but soon after sunrise next morning were relieved of all anxiety by the appearance of a scout, who passed on and sent us aid from the fort. The colonel's wife did not get down to the railroad, for that was the opening of a war which lasted for months, but there was no blame attached to any of the living who returned with her. On the contrary, the old martinet of a colonel took each one of us by the hand, breaking over "military etiquette" once more in his life, and said:

"You did well, my man, and here's my hand on it, and I won't forget you!"

A NOTE OF LIFE.

Take it as you find it—
Black or beaming sky.
Smile and never mind it—
Little time to sigh.

Fast the clouds are creeping
Over heavens of blue.
Little time for weeping—
Skies'll weep for you!

Keep the pathway steady—
Heaven is not so high.
When God calls, my "Ready!"
Smile and kiss goodby.

Germany Working With England.

London, Feb. 23.—The officers of the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Bank confirm the report regarding the Chinese loan, which, it is added, had been arranged in all its details, and will be signed in a day or two. It is at a low rate of interest, probably 3½ per cent., and will be issued below par. The security is of two kinds, revenues already unpledged and international security in the shape of new ports to be opened, the port dues of which would be pledged, as would be certain industrial and mining concessions, as security for the loan, which would not have been concluded had not Germany insisted in order to prevent Russia from obtaining it.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of the symptoms are sick and bilious headaches, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indictative of derangements of the liver stomach and bowels, and are all caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

18 Years Town Constable.

Mr. B. Kinsley, Hagersville, Ont., holds the record of having been town constable for 18 years. Mr. Kinsley says: "I was cured of kidney and bladder weakness by three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. I often had to rise five or six times in the night on account of bladder weakness. The pills entirely did away with this annoying symptom. I highly recommend them for all kidney or bladder troubles."

Piles! Piles! Itchin Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture, intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumour. All druggists or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman Sons & Co. High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not entirely according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

TRADE MARK.

A Marvelous Cure for Erysipelas by Sloan's Indian Tonic, in Lambton County.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, of Corunna, writes:—

I received the medicine all right, and am much obliged for it. I had Erysipelas every summer for five years, sometimes so bad my face, arms and body would swell to an enormous size and my eyes would be shut for days at a time. I tried two doctors but they did me no good, and I even went for a change of climate, but all to no avail, until I got your TONIC. After taking one bottle the swelling ceased, and I improved every day and am now entirely cured.

Fred W. Leiskau, writes:—

Please send me another bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic. I bought one bottle from your agent early this spring, and I must say it is the best medicine in existence. I was troubled with a soreness in my right side and tried many doctors, but they could not cure me, and after using the one bottle I have had no trouble with the soreness. I am very glad I can state this.

The first paper read was by Mrs. J. G. Lewis, of Tamworth, subject, "The Holy Spirit in Christian Endeavour." By this paper the members of the E. L. were reminded that the Holy Spirit is necessary in all lines of Christian work. He is needed in the pew, as well as in the pulpit. The need of honouring the Holy Spirit was emphasized by the writer.

"How can we reach the young men" was the subject assigned to Rev. C. H. Coon, Janetville. Mr. Coon spoke of the responsibility of the Lookout Committee, whose members should be among the most zealous, consecrated persons in our Leagues. To win these young men for Christ they must be dealt with individually. The appeal must be made to their better self. They must not be allowed to feel that they are the most neglected persons in the community.

Following this paper was a free parliament on "The Pledge," conducted by E.A. Totten, D. D. S., Lindsay. This proved, as did every part of programme exceedingly interesting. From the tone in the discussions the conclusion was that the pledge was not at all too strict and that the members of the League should be urged to keep it faithfully.

An address was next given by

REV. D. BALFOUR,

Thomasburg, on "Spiritual Life in the League." The spiritual life of the League is made up of the spiritual life of the individual members.

How is this life sustained? As food is necessary for sustaining the physical life so food must be found for the soul if life is to be sustained. The Bible is the food for the soul. The leagues should be able to pray and work.

The "soul winner" was the next subject discussed. This was divided as follows: (a) qualifications, (b) inspiration, personal work, reasons and methods. The first was very ably answered in a paper by Miss Nina Sherin, Lakefield. The different qualifications were indicated. 1st personal knowledge of salvation, 2nd willingness, 3rd perseverance, 4th patience, 5th consecrated common sense, 6th love.

The second part was taken by Mr. Matchett, Peterborough. The reasons mentioned were: 1st God's command, 2nd the good to the soul saved, 3rd the good to society.

The methods, he said, must be 1st a general invitation, 2nd personal invitation.

At this stage of the meeting the report of the ballot for the nominating Committee was announced, the following persons being elected, Revs. Shorey, Campbell, Crossley, Bartlett, Lewis.

WEEKLY PRAYER SERVICE

was the next subject brought before the convention. This, like the previous subject, had two divisions, the 1st, "Leader and Topic," was discussed by Mr. W. J. Gardiner, B.A., Millbrook. 2nd. "Ruts and how to avoid them," by Mrs. Hudgins, Madoc. Mrs. Hudgins said that the singing should be cheerful and suitable for the meeting. A change should be made in having different persons lead in prayer. The place should be attractive. The monthly reports should be prepared with care.

The last address was given by Rev. T. M. Campbell, Campbellford, on "The League an evangelist force." The speaker urged upon every Leaguer the necessity of wisdom and power.

The singing of Miss Hendren, of Lakefield and the Messrs. Rines, of Hamilton, added much to the enjoyment of this session. The meeting was closed by Rev. J. Liddy.

EVENING SESSION.

After devotional exercises and an inspiring quartette, the greetings of the town was given by Mr. Armstrong in behalf of Mayor Davis, who was prevented through illness from being present. Following this address was one from Rev. Mr. Dykeman, extending a welcome from the local C. E. Union. Rev. T. M. Campbell replied to these two addresses.

"The Bearing of Mental Culture on Spiritual Growth," was ably handled by Mr. Fred. McDiarmid, Lindsay. The speaker assured his listeners that the nations which acknowledge God and serve Him are the highest nations intellectually. The many discoveries, inventions, etc., which have been a boon to society have been made by men who, if not Christians, were influenced by Christianity. Four-fifths of the wealth of the world is in the hands of those who claim to be Christians. Through Christianity, hospitals have been built for the suffering, homes have been erected for the incurable and works of philanthropy have been carried on. As with the nation so with the individual. The man who loves God will study the Bible, and no man can be without mental culture who studies the Bible. God's plan, stated Mr. McDiarmid, is to educate. Moses, David, Solomon, Daniel, Christ and Paul were quoted as examples.

The last address was given by Rev. Dr. Potts, Toronto—subject: "The E. L. for Christ and the Church." Dr. Pott's stated that while each department of League work is important, the supreme work is that of leading souls to Christ. If Christ is not in the E. L. then she cannot continue as a soul-saving agency within the church. For the Leaguer to be truly successful he must be (1) a man of prayer; (2) he must know the Word; (3) there must be Christian fellowship. His advice was: Let the Leaguers be (1) intelligent Methodists, (2) connectional Methodists, (3) life-long Methodists. He had no sympathy with those who left the Methodist church, simply for society. This masterly address brought a very profitable and successful session to a close.

THURSDAY MORNING.

At 10 a. m. an enthusiastic speech was given by Rev. G. Clare (Greenwood.) Subject, "The Benefits of Giving to the Giver," while by our gifts we assist those who need our help we may advance the interests of the cause of God, but the greatest benefits are received by the giver."

A valuable paper was read by Miss Hambly (Manilla) "How to secure Missionary Information." Miss Hambly spoke of the vast millions who have never heard of Christ, also of the important commission given by the church to Jesus, the indifference of the church to the claims of Jesus is amazing. Much of this is owing to the lack of information. To the Epworth League has been given the work of making known to our Methodist people this intelligence. Let missionary literature be widely distributed, for as soon as the young people of our leagues receive information so will they become zealous and as a consequence will give largely to the missionary cause

"The Missionary Committee at Work," was presented by Rev. W. S. Boyce, South Bay. Mr. Boyce recommended the establishment in our Leagues of a missionary library, where pamphlets, tracts and books on missionary subjects might be procured. Let a class be formed in the League for the purpose of reading missionary work. Let the work be in harmony with the work of the W. M. Society. Let the W. S. give the programme in the League occasionally.

Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Wilfrid, spoke on "The Watchword for the C. E. Department." One qualification needed in all our gatherings was power from on high. The following may be indicated as necessary for efficient work in our Leagues:

1. Purpose.
2. Organization.
3. Work.
4. Earnestness.
5. Reception of the Holy Spirit.

Rev. Mr. Wight gave an encouraging paper on "Inspiration to the Soul Winner." The reward was held up before us as an inspiration to effective work.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomena price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO-FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

CURLIANA.

Tuesday the games for the Dryden Cup were played in Lindsay. For some reason the Peterborough men were the only ones that turned up there. The present cup was given by the Hon. John Dryden in 1896, and was first played for in Oshawa in that year when Lindsay rinks, skipped by Messrs. Brodie and McMillan, succeeded in winning the cup and taking it to Lindsay. Last year the cup was played for by Bobcaygeon, Whitby, Peterborough and Lindsay. The Lindsay rinks were skipped by Messrs. G. A. Little and J. D. Flavelle; they were successful, beating Peterborough in a close contest in the final game. Tuesday's game was quite exciting and close from the start to the finish, Lindsay being a few ahead until the thirteenth end, when Peterborough caught up then and slowly forged ahead until on the sixteenth end they had a lead of six points both rinks being up. However, this end resulted badly for Peterborough, as both the Lindsay rinks scored four points at the same time, this gave them a lead of two, and from this out they were never again headed, but slowly drew away until the finish. McMillan ending three points to the good. Little had then two ends to play and was seven points up, so that Peterborough required ten points to tie and eleven shots to win, to be made by Ray's rink in two ends. Lindsay's play was not up to the mark in this end, and when Little went to play his last shot Ray was lying four shots and all fairly safe. Little drew to the tee, but lay open, so that Ray had a chance to count five if he took out Little's last stone. He played wide and Little scored, and Lindsay enthusiasts breathed free as the game was now sure. The last end yielded Peterborough two shots, so that the game ended Little six points up, McMillan three points up. The attendance at the rink during the game was very large, the ladies of the town being out in great force.

The rinks were composed as follows:—

Peterborough.		Lindsay.
H M Allan,		H Cuthbert,
J Connal,		F Keowlson,
C McGill,		J D Flavelle,
T Rutherford, sk..	18	J A Macmillan, sk...	22
J B Pentland,		F Crandell,
M Hamilton,		W McLennan,
E Rutherford,		M Kennedy,
S Ray, sk.....	15	G A Little, sk..	21
Total.....	33	Total.....	43

The Lindsay Post says: On Friday of this week the first game for the Peterborough-Lindsay cup will be played. Three Lindsay rinks skipped by Messrs. Flavelle, McLennan and Edwards will play in Peterborough, and three rinks will play in Lindsay, skipped by Messrs. J. A. McMillan, G. A. Little and M. W. Kennedy. The Peterborough curlers have not picked their skips yet for the event.

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Pure Tea Store, 328 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another question an says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which we could be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and as prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 328 George Street.

KINGSTON'S PRIMATE

Succumbs to an Illness of Three Months' Duration.

A BRILLIANT SCHOLAR'S CAREER.

Archbishop Cleary, Who Has Just Passed Away, Came to Canada From Ireland in 1880, and Was Made Archbishop of Kingston Ten Years Later—Funeral on Tuesday.

Kingston, Feb. 25.—After three months' illness His Grace Archbishop Cleary died shortly afternoon yesterday. On February 19 Dr. Ryan succeeded in getting the aged prelate to take a drive, and that was his last appearance in the open air. A day or two later he had to take to his bed and grew weaker from day to day, being able to take none but liquid nourishment. On Monday he became subject to nausea, and the constant reaching greatly enfeebled him. Tuesday afternoon he grew faint and soon after passed into a semi-conscious state. He was aware on Monday that the change was for the worse, and declined medicine. He said he did not want to torture himself in view of the approaching dissolution. Mgr. Farrally, Vicar-Generals Gauthier and Kelly, with nurses, were at his side at the last. He died peacefully.

James Vincent Cleary, D.D., was born on Sept. 18, 1838, in Dungarvan, a seaport town in the County of Waterford, Ireland. He was a son of Thomas Cleary and Margaret O'Brien, both natives of

THE LATE ARCHBISHIP CLEARY.

Dungarvan. James Vincent Cleary received his elementary education in a select private school of his native town. The English course embraced Grecian, Roman and English history, which were extensively and accurately taught, also mathematics and literary composition. The Latin and Greek classes, prose and verse, were studied more diligently in that and similar private schools in Ireland in those days than in many colleges of high repute at the present time.

At fifteen years of age, having completed the English and classical curriculum of studies in the Dungarvan school, he was sent by his parents to Rome for his ecclesiastical education. Pope Gregory XVI. then wore the tiara; and Dr. Cullen, subsequently Cardinal Archbishop of Dublin, was rector of the Irish College in Rome, this being an exclusively ecclesiastical seminary, in which every Catholic Bishop in Ireland had the right of placing a certain number of pupils. The Bishop of Waterford, to whom James Vincent Cleary was subjected, recalled the latter from Rome, and placed him in the Royal College of Maynooth. Here he passed five years in the pursuit of ecclesiastical sciences. Philosophy, history, dogmatic and moral theology, scriptural exegesis and canon laws constituted the curriculum. He won the highest prizes at the college in each department of study. His course in Maynooth having been completed in five years, he received the order of deaconship, which bound him irrevocably to the ecclesiastical state, and he returned home to Dungarvan in June, 1851, being still too young to be admitted to the priesthood. In the following September, the day after he had completed his twenty-third year, which is the prescribed age, he was ordained priest in his native town, at the hands of the Bishop of Waterford, and immediately proceeded to Spain, where he entered the famous University of Salamanca.

In 1854 he was summoned home by his bishop to occupy the chair of dogmatic theology and scriptural exegesis in St. John College, Waterford. Soon his health gave way under the strain of excessive labor, and for some years he was compelled to relax his studies. In 1863, after three days public examination, the degree of D.D. was conferred upon him. Ten years after this Dr. Cleary was appointed to the office of president of the Waterford College, and also filled the post of doctrinal expositor in the Cathedral of Waterford. In 1876 he was promoted to the living of Dungarvan, his native parish. It was then that Dr. Cleary first took any part in politics. He deemed it part of his duties to direct and control his parishioners in the discharge of what he propounded as a high conscientious obligation, the honest exercise of the suffrage. His teaching on the grave criminality of giving or accepting bribes in exchange for suffrage attracted attention all over Ireland.

In September, 1880, Dr. Cleary received the appointment as Bishop of Kingston, Ont. He did not want to leave Ireland, and communicated with the Pope. The appointment, however, was not changed, and on Nov. 21, 1880, he was consecrated Bishop of Kingston by Cardinal Simeoni in the chapel of the Propaganda, and on July 28, 1889, was created Archbishop. Upon arriving in Kingston, Archbishop Cleary was given a warm reception. He has labored faithfully, and has done much in the way of organizing missions and keeping the church to the front. He arranged it so that all the priests now live in their parish. By his people and priests Archbishop Cleary was held in affection.

Archbishop Cleary held aloof from politics except when he considered that Roman Catholic education and Separate schools were affected. Then he spoke and wrote with great freedom and force. "He dealt," he said, "not with politics, but with irreligious politicians." About the election time for the Provincial Legislature in 1890, he engaged in public controversy with the hon. leader of the Opposition (now Sir William Meredith) on this subject. His letters were read with lively interest by all classes of citizens, and, referring to them the late Sir Daniel Wilson, President and Professor of English literature in Toronto University, once said to a large assembly, "That for purity of style they are the best specimens of controversial literature given to Canadians in later times." In social life Archbishop Cleary dealt with Conservatives and Reformers as a friend of both, and in matters of purely benevolent or civil character, took a place frequently among the men of action in Kingston, and has delivered some public addresses that have commanded reverent attention from good men of all creeds.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday forenoon next.

GRAND TRUNK DECIDES.

It Will Not Cut Rates in Retaliation, But Will Open a New Line to Manitoba—The Details.

Montreal, Feb. 25.—To-day the Grand Trunk will announce that they will not cut rates, but will open a new line to Manitoba. Free colonist sleepers will be run from Portland, Montreal and Toronto to Winnipeg. Special trains will be run for settlers who may wish to accompany their live stock. The Northern Pacific extends from St. Paul to Winnipeg and other principal places in Manitoba. By an arrangement with the Great Trunk between Chicago and St. Paul the distance of about 400 miles has been bridged and the Grand Trunk system in the east joined with the Northern Pacific system in the West, and active competition at once inaugurated with the Canadian Pacific.

It is claimed this will hurt the Canadian Pacific where it will feel it most, and that new developments will soon follow, aimed to increase the Grand Trunk's earnings from traffic heretofore almost monopolized by the Canadian Pacific.

I. C. R. Extension to Montreal.

Mr. A. H. Harris of the Intercolonial has written the following to the Board of Trade: "The Intercolonial division of the Canadian Government railway has been extended to Montreal, and will be open for traffic on Tuesday, March 1 next. Close connections will be made with the Grand Trunk and C.P.R. express trains to and from all points in the Lower Provinces."

New Zealand Out of It.

London, Feb. 25.—The Daily Mail announces to-day that "New Zealand has deserted the Imperial Institute."

The Imperial Institute of the United Kingdom, the colonies and India, was founded in 1887 as a record of Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee. It has from the first been regarded by the Imperial Government as furnishing one of the strongest bonds between the Mother Country and the colonies, especially the Australian.

THE TRIAL OF ZOLA

Discussed in the French Chamber of Deputies.

MOTION OF CONFIDENCE PASSED

The Radicals and Socialists, However, Protest Against the Attitude of the Generals and Wish a Declaration of the Supremacy of the Civil Over the Military Power—Zola Will Appeal.

Paris, Feb. 25.—The Chamber of Deputies voted confidence in the Government by 416 ayes to 41 nays.

The Chamber of Deputies was thronged yesterday, and it was decided to request the Premier, M. Meline, to discuss immediately the interpellations of MM. Hubbard and Gautier relative to the conviction and sentence of M. Zola yesterday. M. Hubbard, Radical, asked whether General Pellieux and Boisdeffre had intervened at the trial by authorization or order of the Minister of War. Continuing, the deputy spoke, amid incessant interruptions, on the danger of a religious war and concluded with inviting the Government to end the tumult and rioting in the streets. M. Viviani declared that the Socialists, although they might be divided relative to the Dreyfus case, were in entire accord in regard to the prerogative of civil over military power. The speaker then referred to the "coalition of the chiefs of the army with the clergy," and expressed the belief that liberty was menaced. Therefore he asked the Chamber to protest against the attitude of the generals.

M. Meline's Impassioned Speech.

M. Meline replied: "Popular democratic justice has given a verdict after a military court, and the country will accept it. General Billot (the Minister for War) gave no orders to the generals summoned to testify before the tribunal of the country. Our General had been accused on account of his utterances. Undoubtedly he spoke a word too much, but you must remember the frightful charge thrown in his face." Continuing, M. Meline said that the charges made against the army were unjust, and he asserted that there was not a single officer who had been guilty of plotting against the country, even in his dreams, adding: "Our officers are haunted by other dreams. (Cheers.) If, after yesterday's verdict," the Premier further remarked, "the agitation continues we shall know that the matter has been made a party question. Enough injury has already been done to the nation. The life of the nation has been arrested. A portion of the foreign press has gathered all the ill we have been saying among ourselves. It will always be punishable for those who speak ill of France to receive foreign applause. Every day there are cases of espionage abroad. Did the French press get excited about them as the foreign press did about Dreyfus? No. There is a moral to be drawn therefrom, that the present agitation must be ended. (Loud cheers.) Must cease in the interest of the army, in the interest of public tranquility, in the interest of our external safety, and in the interest even of those who embarked so foolishly and audaciously in this campaign which might take us back to the age of intolerance."

A Witness Dismissed.

The Government has dismissed M. Le Blois, one of the witnesses for M. Zola, from the position of Deputy Mayor of the Seventh Arrondissement of Paris.

NEW TRIAL FOR ZOLA.

His Counsel Has Lodged Notice of Appeal Against the Sentence Imposed.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Maetre Laborie, counsel for M. Emile Zola, yesterday lodged a notice of appeal on behalf of M. Zola, from the sentence imposed upon him yesterday of one year's imprisonment and a fine of 3,000 francs. To-day a similar notice will be filed in the case of M. Perrieux, nominal director of the Aurore, in which the alleged libel for which Zola was indicted appeared.

Interviews With Zola.

London, Feb. 25.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News who interviewed M. Zola yesterday says:

"He appeared fatigued, but was quite frank, natural and unconcerned. He did not say a word of regret or bitterness in his conversation, and he expressed great pleasure in knowing that foreign nations almost universally sympathized with him."

Mr. David Christie Murray, who interviewed M. Laborie on behalf of the Daily News, yesterday, says:

"M. Laborie has little hope of a revision of the sentence and no hope whatever of its reversal. M. Zola, however, will be even better treated than first-class misdemeanants in England. He will have a suite of rooms, access to books and newspapers, many personal comforts and the privilege of receiving visits from his wife and freinds."

Mr. Murray also interviewed M. Zola. The latter said he did not grieve for himself, but was cut to the heart by the condition of his country that could sanction such a verdict. He declared that he would not abandon the crusade, but said sadly:

"Where can we make the next appeal? Our lack of means is obvious. France believes her honor assailed, and therefore she is reluctant to be influenced even by foreign opinion. She would rather resent the attempt to impose foreign judgment upon her own free will. For the present patience is the only wisdom."

OMEMEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A large number of farmers visited the Peterborough market with their products Saturday, securing good prices.

Mr. W. H. Curry, Merchant, Omemee, has purchased the Faulkner farm in Emily, of 100 acres, for about $3,000.

The funeral of the late Patterson Boyd, living near Mount Pleasant was largely attended by the people of the district. He was a Methodist in religion, the services at the grave being conducted by Rev. Mr. Kilgour.

John Austin, manufacturer and timber merchants, and Liberal candidate for East Victoria, is sure of splendid support from the stalwart sons of Emily. He is sure of a sweeping vote in the north townships.

Mr. Spellman is one of the managers of hotels that should receive a license without any objection, as this house has no such record for order and good regulations in the history of the village, and is aiding our village materially.

Major Evans is taking his final course in equitation and infantry at Stanley Barracks, and will come out on the 1st of April one of the best qualified staff officers in the district.

U. S. UNWILLING TO GRANT

Lightering Privileges to Canada in the Case of the Stikine River—Mr. Edward Farrer at Washington Negotiating.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The State Department has informally expressed to the officials of the Treasury Department having the matter in charge that the so-called lightering privileges cannot be claimed by Canada in the Yukon region as one of her rights under treaty arrangements with the United States.

Accordingly the Treasury officials are proceeding in full sympathy with the members of the Senate, who are trying to secure legislation declaring that the lightering privileges shall be withheld from Canada in the case of the Stikine River. The question is under active consideration by the Treasury Department, and there is little chance that the outcome will be favorable to Canada.

The ostensible reason for withholding the privilege is that the Canadian Government made a contract with the promoters of the proposed Stikine Railroad which is unfavorable to this country. The State Department believes firmly that the bonding privilege, which would, if extended, allow British and other vessels to proceed to the still waters of the Stikine, and there transfer their cargoes to river boats, can be withheld at the discretion of this Government, and that it is not a privilege which Canada is entitled to under treaty rights.

Nevertheless, it is evident that the Department does not expect to maintain this point without some diplomatic protests on the part of Canada.

Edward Farrer of Toronto is here in consultation with Senator Hansborough and several other members of the Public Lands Committee, in regard to bonding privileges at Wrangel, which the Alaska bill refuses unless the Dominion Government rescind the monopoly given to the Yukon Railway. On Tuesday Mr. Farrer addressed the committee and made a very plausible case.

The Book of Job.

A story told of Carlyle in an English review forcibly recalls the days when in England religious services were long enough to test the zeal of the worshipers.

According to the story Carlyle had been asked to take the reading at family prayers during a short visit paid to his friend, the provost of Kirkcaldy. The Bible chanced to open at the first chapter of the book of Job, and Carlyle immediately became absorbed in his subject and read on and on to the end of the last chapter, when, closing the volume, he remarked:

"That is a marvelous, lifelike drama, only to be appreciated when read right through."

It is fair to infer that it was appreciated for once. Any one who has taken a long, solitary afternoon and attempted to give the book of Job an opportunity to be appreciated by reading it honestly through at one sitting can realize the consternation of the provost. Such a one will not be likely to wonder, with Carlyle, why he was not asked again to assist at family prayers in that household.

Interesting Relics.

A couple of interesting relics are in the possession of Albert Turner of 1514 York street. One of them, and that which Mr. Turner prizes probably as much as anything he owns, is a brick from the old house that stood on Water street, New Castle, Del., from 1687 until torn down in 1894, and which was the home of the Dutch governors of the three lower counties for 100 or more years. The bricks of which the old house was constructed were brought over from Holland and, like all bricks of that time, were yellow in color. The relic Mr. Turner has, and which, by the way, is one of very few in existence, is in a good state of preservation, and, barring its slightly crumbled edges, shows but few signs of its two centuries and more. The other relic is a quaint old Revolutionary sword, carried and used with deadly effect by Captain Cunda, Mrs. Turner's great-grandfather, at the famous battle of Bemis Heights.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

THE HATED SPANIARD

Must Be Driven Out of Cuba If Ohio Can Do It.

WAR BETWEEN SPAIN AND U. S.

Has Not Been Declared, But If Some Hotheads in Both Countries Get Their Way the Fighting Will Not Long Be Delayed—A Warning From a Wise Man.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 25.—Senator Fick (Democrat) yesterday introduced a resolution in the Senate setting forth that the preponderance of evidence shows that the battleship Maine was blown up by Spaniards, and expressing to the Ohio Representatives and United States Senator and President McKinley that the sense of Ohio people is that the time for interference on behalf of Cuba has come. The resolution seeks to pledge the Administration unqualified support, with men and money, to accomplish the desired ends, be the consequences what they may, and if need be that this nation be drenched with blood and her treasury poured out that the hated Spaniards may be driven from Cuban soil.

The resolution was made a special order for next Tuesday.

Axline Is for War.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—In a speech delivered last night before the Western Reserve Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, H. A. Axline, Adjutant-General of Ohio, who was Adjutant-General of the State when McKinley was Governor, declared that if he could have his way he would level Morro Castle to the ground and erect on its ruins the American flag as a monument to the sailors of the Maine.

A MILD BULLETIN.

President McKinley Says if the Emergency Arises He Will Act in a Manner to Win Loyal Approval.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The following official bulletin was sent out from the White House yesterday: "Late reports from Havana have not changed in any degree the views of the high officials of the Government as to the probably cause of the disaster to the Maine. It can be stated on the highest authority that absolutely nothing of a disquieting nature has been received at the White House, nor is important news of any character expected until the court of enquiry shall have completed its investigation and submitted its report."

What the President Said.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25.—General William H. Powell of Belleville, who was in command of the regiment in which President McKinley served during the civil war, and who was recently appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the Southern Illinois district, returned from Washington yesterday. The General, who is a personal friend of President McKinley, said that while at the capital he discussed the Maine incident and its possible results with the Chief Executive.

"The President stated to me," said the General, "that he was only waiting for a complete report of the Naval Board of Enquiry, and that should it report that our sailors had met their death through Spanish treachery, he was prepared to act at once, and in a manner which would meet the approval of every loyal American citizen."

General Powell said preparations for war were being pushed with the utmost vigor.

Monitor Terror Sent to Sea.

Norfolk, Feb. 25.—The monitor Terror left Norfolk at 10.15 a.m. yesterday on her way to sea under sealed orders. Her departure created considerable excitement, and thousands witnessed it.

Mr. Boutelle Talks Sense.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 25.—Representative Boutelle, Chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs, referring to the massacre of Chinamen in connection with the Maine disaster, said yesterday:

"I feel that any man, who, by spoken or written utterance, adds a spark to inflame public sentiment at this juncture, is as guilty as the man who would touch a match to the powder magazine of a vessel. This is a time for the calmest judgment, instead of unguarded talk, wholly without basis of established fact, of a war which would entail the loss of thousands of our people."

Torpedo Boat Sent Out.

Elizabeth, N.J., Feb. 25.—The submarine torpedo boat Holland started shortly after noon yesterday on her initial trial trip. She was in tow of the tug boat Erie, and was taken in the direction of Perth Amboy. The ultimate destination of the torpedo boat was supposed to be Sandy Hook, where it was said the trial trip would take place. The Erie is said to have supplies and also torpedoes on board for the use of the Holland. It is expected the latter will be away from Nixon's shipyards for some days. The Holland boat is being closely watched by a police launch, containing eight officers sent to Elizabethport by Chief of Police McCullough

SPAIN IS NOT IDLE.

Arranging to Send a Squadron to Cuba—Admiral Villamil and the Queen.

New York, Feb. 25.—A despatch to the World from Madrid says: The Queen invited to lunch with the royal family Captain Villamil, the commander of the Spanish squadron about to start for Cuba. He had called at the palace to take leave of the regent.

After lunch the Queen talked a long time with Villamil, enquiring into all the details of the contemplated cruise. He left last night for Cadiz, where he will spend three days to complete the preparations for departure.

The squadron will be composed of three torpedo destroyers—the Pluton, the Teror and the Furor—and the torpedo vessels Rayo, Alcor and Ozor. These crafts will be accompanied by the steamer City of Cadiz, conveying coal and provisions. The vessels will stop at the Canary Islands and also at Porto Rico before reaching Cuba. It is officially announced that there is no hurry for their joining the cruisers Oquendo and Vizcaya at Havana.

Hypocritical Yankee Policy.

Madrid, Feb. 25.—The United States Minister, General Stewart L. Woodford, gave a banquet yesterday in honor of the new Spanish Minister to Washington, Senor Polo y Bernabo.

Much political importance was attached here to the incident, and the banquet, "coupled with the peaceful utterances of President McKinley," according to a semi-official report, have been "optimistically utilized by the Ministerial press," but the Imparcial yesterday takes the Spanish Government to task for its apathy "contrasted with the patriotic feeling of the country," and warns the nation against the "hypocritical Yankee policy, which really aims at the independence of Cuba."

Continuing, the Imparcial remarks: "President McKinley may make and reiterate protestations of friendship and pacific intentions, but his actions contradict his words.

Must Prepare for War.

"We must prepare for war. There is no time to acquire warships, but we should fit out immediately what we have, sending the Pelayo, Colon, Carlos V. and Maria Teresa to follow the Almirente, Oquende and Vizcaya to Cuban waters, and the rest of the fleet to guard the peninsula. Other policy than preparedness is only to play the American's game, which is to exhaust our resources and gain the independence of Cuba without risking anything. How long does the Government intend to favor the American plans? How long will the agonizing nation tolerate the apathy of the Government?"

Cuban Independence Imminent.

This language, from a semi-official organ, is much commented upon. The Paris frankly declares that Cuban independence is imminent.

Went Through Without a Word.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The increase of artillery force of the country by two regiments, as provided for in the Senate bill, was agreed on by a sub-committee of the House Military Affairs Committee yesterday and will be reported to the full committee at the regular meeting to-day without the change of a word.

Dr. Evans and the Emperor Frederick.

Dr. Evans was more than a friend of the late Emperor Frederick and his wife. But he was annoyed at the confidence they placed in Sir Morell Mackenzie, about whose treatment he had strong views. Evans' opinion greatly influenced the opinion of the old emperor and empress, of Bismarck and of the Berlin physicians about the throat doctor from London. Evans was originally a Quaker. The theatrical and society tastes of Sir Morell Mackenzie were repugnant to him. His feeling about them made him scrutinize keenly the man and his treatment. But the crown princess had a strong bias and followed it. Dr. Evans was given impressions of all the photos taken of Frederick during his illness. The later ones, which were signed by him, were inexpressively sad. The signature was bold, free, characteristic and written slantingly in gold ink across the lower part of the image. Above it were a few friendly words. In the photos taken at San Remo martyrdom was stamped on the face. The crown prince then could not speak. He generally wrote on a slate.

Dr. Evans asked him to write on black cards or tablets the size of a slate when he had occasion to communicate with him. "Why?" asked the prince. "I want to have them as a precious relic for my wife." The request was complied with. Very seldom, indeed, did the handwriting betray weakness, but it became sharp and attenuated.—London Truth.

You need it to bear the daily burdens of life. If your back's weak—Doan's Kidney Pills will strengthen it. If it pains and aches—Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it. No experiment in taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured hundreds of weak, aching backs long before other kidney pills were dreamed of.

MR. JAMES ROW, Belleville, Ont., suffered for nine years with terrible pain in the back, rheumatic pains, and pains in the bladder. He spent $300 doctoring, but got little relief. Doan's Kidney Pills have completely cured him, banished the back pains, and all the other pains and aches.

MR. WM. RYAN, 60 Cornwallis Street, Halifax N.S., said he had very severe pain in the back. If he stooped over it was hard to straighten up. Since taking Doan's Kidney Pills the pain in his back has disappeared, and his general health has greatly improved.

No remedy like Doan's Kidney Pills for Backache and Kidney trouble, so be sure you get DOAN'S.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomena price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture. The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

TOO GOOD HEARTED.

Mr. Lem Felcher Loses $100 Through Being Too Obliging.

A few weeks ago two carloads of horses passing through on the C.P.R. for Boston from the west, were laid off here in order that they might be fed and watered.

The owner stating that he had made no provision for purchasing hay, oats, etc., for the horses, explained his dilemma to Mr. Lem Felcher, with whom he was formerly acquainted. Lem went down into his pocket and lent the man $100 He received in return two drafts on a Boston firm for $25 and $75 respectively.

A few days afterwards the drafts which were sent to Boston for collection were returned with the information that the firm on which they were drawn had no existence.

Mr. Felcher has ascertained the number of the cars in which the horses were shipped and the name of the consignee and he proposes to make a big effort to square things with the man who has treated him so scurvily after being helped out of a difficulty.

Junior League Work Discussed—What is to be Taught—The Newly Elected Officers—Rev. J. S. I Wilson, the President.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Most of the afternoon was devoted to Junior League work. The 5th Vice-President, Mrs. J. R. Real, conducted the proceedings. The first paper was read by Miss Werry, Tyrone, on the "Qualifications, Duties and Opportunities of a Junior League Superintendent." Miss Werry presented a splendid paper, which was well received by the large audience. "Has the League a place of worth in connection with our church? Many speak of the home as the proper place for the child to be trained. Others state that the Sunday school is the place. But here we find they are instructed what to do, while some one does the work for them. In the Junior League they do the work themselves. The successful superintendent must be energetic, persevering, full of push and courage. In the second place there must be tact used. 3rd. "Good Principle," engage in your work trusting in the Lord for success."

Miss L. W. Brooking, of Cobourg, gave a most valuable paper on "What shall we teach in the Junior League?" This was one of the many helpful suggestive addresses given during the convention. We would be glad to have them printed in full for future reference.

Mrs. Jordan, of Fenelon Falls, had been selected to give a paper on "The Necessity and Value of Junior League Work." Mrs. Brown, of Peterborough, read the paper in the absence of Mrs. Jordan. We should aim directly after the conversion of the children. The paper was inspiring.

How to teach the juniors to testify without making a false profession was interestingly presented by Miss Minnie Lloyd, of Belleville. There are three classes of influences the child will meet. (a) Home. (b On the playground. (c) Other companions. Nothing should ever be said in the home that will give the child false ideas of integrity

Before this paper had been given, the boys and girls from the different schools had taken their places in the church and were for thirty minutes addressed by Rev. S. T. Bartlett. All were delighted with the address.

EVEVING SESSION.

After the opening services the newly-elected officers were announced as follows:

President—Rev S T Bartlett.
1st Vice President—Rev J S I Wilson.
2nd " —Mrs (Rev) J R Real.
3rd " —Miss Lanier.
4th " —Dr Totten.
5th " —Miss Lambly.
Secretary—Rev J G Lewis.
Treasurer—Miss Might.
Representative to General Conference—Rev D M McCamus.

Short addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Bartlett and Mrs. Real.

Rev. P. Berry, of Toronto, brought before our notice the Forward Missionary movement, and urged increased earnestness and liberality on the part of Leaguers of the Conference. The object is three-fold: 1 To study. 2 To pray. 3 To pay.

Following this was an energetic address by Rev. C. W. Watch, Brighton. Subject, "The League as a means of Educating the Social Emotions." If the Epworth Leaguer fails to be sociable he fails to receive great blessings he might otherwise have.

"Social Mission of Christianity" was well dealt with in a paper given by Mr. M. B. Jamieson, Belleville.

The subject of "Social Amusements" was discussed by G. E. Deroche, Deseronto. It was an interesting address, but regret was expressed that no time for public discussion could be allowed.

A number of resolutions were passed—one thanking the friends of Peterborough for their kindness and hospitality to the speakers and others taking part in the convention, and a second resolution thanking the members of the Executive for the efficient way in which they arranged for the convention.

A resolution on temperance pledging the members of the convention to continue an increased interest in this great work was passed.

The convention proved a most enjoyable and inspiring one.

The singing of Miss Hendren and the Rines Bros. added much to the enjoyment of the meetings.

ROMANCE NIPPED IN THE BUD.

A Runaway Couple from Fenelon Falls Succeed in Getting as far as Little Britain.

On Monday last a man and woman sought shelter at Mr. Joseph Jenkins' hospitable temperance hotel at Little Britain, Victoria County, and representing to be a married couple, were assigned a room. Next morning the man enquired the whereabouts of a certain farmer, whom he wished to see, and procuring a horse and cutter he started off. A few hours later another man drove up to the hotel in haste, he quired for the first-comer and was told where he had gone, the informant adding "his wife is upstairs, if you would like to leave a message." "Wife!" ejaculated the newcomer, and then continued in bloodcurding tones—"if he has married her I'll—" The remainder of the sentence was not heard by the by-standers, as the excited young man lashed his horse and headed up the road in the direction taken by—we will call him Smith. An hour later pursuer and pursued returned together, the latter seeming to be in considerable fear of his companion who kept one hand in his pocket as if fondling a weapon. The pair set out for Lindsay without holding any communications with the lady upstairs, who was later on informed of the peculiar condition of affairs by Proprietor Jenkins, coupled with a polite hint that an explanation should be forthcoming. She refused to offer any, however, but left next day, purchasing a ticket for Rochester. We understand that her companion is betrothed to a young lady in Fenelon Falls, but was on the point of skipping out with the fair Yankee when collared by his fiancee's big brother.—Lindsay Post.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I wish, in the interests of the public, to make the following facts somewhat widely known through your kindness: An industrious family, residing twenty-five miles from town, had house, bedding and clothing destroyed by fire last summer, in consequence, nearly half a dozen children, ranging in ages from four to thirteen years, were, despite the diligence of an affectionate mother, poorly prepared for the rigours of our winter. It was my privilege to report this case to Miss Clark, secretary of the Children's Aid Society of this town. In a surprisingly short time, a large box of warm bedding and fitting clothing was sent, much, I assure you, to the relief of the appreciative and thankful family referred to. I can only add that, if this response to a deserving appeal which came under my own cognizance, is, as I believe it is, a fair sample of the noble work of the Children's Aid Society, this institution is eminently deserving of the moral and tangible support of every philanthropist in the county.

Yours sincerely,
R. MACKNIGHT.

ELECTORS---STAND FOR STRATTON

SUNDAY VOTE SOLICITING.

The morning organ of Mr. Garvin affects to make light of Mr. Garvin's visit to Ennismore last Sunday, and gives a number of would-be humourous reasons accounting for his presence. But Mr. Garvin's Sunday campaigning is too serious a matter to be lightly laughed off. The thinking portion of the community, the reasoning portion of the electors, will place the proper estimate upon such campaign tactics. A candidate and party that have been making such loud boasts of sweeping everything before them, must feel at heart far less confident than they claim, when they feel compelled to work on Sundays in the cause of what they call pure and honest government. It will take a better defence than laughing off the serious offence of Sunday campaigning, to justify it to a Christian community.

EFFICIENT SERVICE SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED.

The electors of a riding send a representative to parliament to look after their interests and it is therefore natural that the best qualified man for the position should be selected and, where possible, preference should be given to a candidate who has effectively and willingly used his representative position for the benefit of the people; no good citizen will undervalue such services nor act in sympathy with those who do so to promote the success of an aspirant, who is a stranger to to the riding and its needs, and only ambitious to replace such a representative.

Attempts have and are being made to extract political capital out of the position Mr. Stratton occupied in relation to the difficulties that arose between the town of Peterborough and the township of North Monaghan in regard to the outfall sewer, and in the interests of fair play and justice it is necessary to place the matter in its proper light.

It is a well known fact that the town had let the contract for the sewer, and that work had progressed a considerable distance from the river to the town boundary when North Monaghan took decided action with a view of preventing the town of Peterborough from having an outfall for its system of sewerage through that township, which would have proved a most serious complication, aside from the expensive and vexatious litigation which threatened to ensue.

Under these circumstances it was plainly in the interest of the town to prevent, if possible, such expensive litigation, and to protect the rights of both parties to the misunderstanding. If on this occasion Mr. Stratton as representative had taken a different, or indifferent, attitude, and if the Government had not listened to the appeals made on behalf of the town by him the town itself would have been placed in a most difficult and embarrassing position. It was then demonstrated very clearly what benefit it was to the town to have a representative who had an interest in the town, and actively worked for its benefit, and who was a supporter of and had the good will of the government.

Mr. Stratton on that occasion did his full share towards saving the town thousands of dollars of loss in law costs and great expense in connection with the sewerage system, for the contract was let and if the town had been compelled to cancel the contract, additional law proceedings, with their great attendant expense, would have resulted, besides the risk of losing our sewerage system.

As remarked above the benefit of having a representative with the confidence of the government, was never before so practically demonstrated to the people of the town, and if the mayor and town council of that day, and also the town solicitor, will only express their candid opinion apart from other considerations, they cannot but say that the course pursued by Mr. Stratton in the matter was in the best interests of the town and township, and was largely instrumental in settling a question of dispute, that, unless settled, promised to be a source of endless litigation that would have cost the town thousands of dollars in law costs, besides involving the risk of destroying the prospects of a system of sewerage.

As the matter was settled the town has its out-fall through the township and the township has its remedy in the matter. Every elector in Peterborough has reason to thank the representative of the riding and the Government for the legislation that put an end to costly law proceedings, that would have placed at hostile variance the town and township that should exist side by side on the most friendly terms. It is to the last degree unfair that the position Mr. Stratton took on the occasion in question should be used, as it is being used, against him in the township, and tactics like that will only recoil on the heads of those who use them. Fair play and justice is all that he desires, and broad-minded citizens will be generous enough to recognize services that represent substantial benefits to the town and township.

WHY LABOUR MEN SHOULD SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT.

Because, affirms the Toronto Star, Ontario is in advance of all countries in promoting the interests of the working classes.

Because labouring men are in a better position in Ontario than in any other province.

Because the Liberals have made Ontario a pleasant spot to live in, with its free libraries and excellent public schools.

Because the Liberals have passed the Mechanics' Lien Act, Employers' Liability Act, the Factory Act, the Railway Accident Act, Creditors' Relief Act, Masters and Servants' Act, and many others.

Because the Government has regulated the closing of shops, and the hours of labour for children.

Because the Government has made possible the incorporation and registering of labour organizations and trades unions.

Bakers know the benefit of the Bake Shop Act.

Because union wages are paid by the government in all contracts.

The government insisted on the vestibule for the motorman, and in every way has protected the workingman where it could.

The government passed a law that the boards of police commissioners in cities shall pass bylaws for regulating the hours of labour of persons employed in livery or boarding stables, or as drivers of cabs, carriages or sleighs kept for hire within said cities, and may also pass bylaws for regulating the hours of labour of persons employed by the owners of horses, carts, trucks, omnibuses, and other vehicles kept for hire within said cities, and for licensing drivers of cabs within said cities.

Because the government has made possible an arbitration board to settle strikes.

Because the government has always listened attentively to all representations made to them by labouring men.

THE Review speaks of "Mr. Hardy and his gang," and of "Mr. Whitney and the able men associated with him." Hard words better no parsnips, and hard words bunco no ballots.

Every commercial traveller that comes to Peterborough, who is not prejudiced and take an independent view of the situation, says that Hon. Mr. Hardy will sweep the province of Ontario.

THE Review publishes an assorted lot of twenty reasons why the cause it champions should win, and in hardly one of them which involves a statement of fact, are the facts correctly given. But the electors are well informed these days and an appeal, to be effective, must not ignore palpable and commonly known truths.

THE Province of Ontario has received from the once-disputed territory the large sum of one million and a half of dollars. If the Conservatives had had their way, this territory would have been handed over to the Dominion, to be Rykerted for the benefit of the supporters of the Conservative party.

Mr. Andrew McNeil, speaking at Mr. Garvin's meeting at Young's Point, pathetically inquired, "are we to have slavery in Canada or are we to be free?" What does he mean? Everbody is free now and when some persons get so much rope, the suffering public sometimes wonder if we haven't rather too much freedom.

BY the Engledue agreement the Liberal Government has succeeded in having the mineral wealth of Newer Ontario tested to the amount of $120,000, without the cost of a single cent to the Province. The arrangement so far has not proved a very profitable one for the syndicate, but the experiment has been a wise one in the interests of the Province.

THE Review says that at Bridgenorth Mr. Gilchrist did not refer to the cost of inmates in the Penetanguishene Reformatory. The Review should not play upon words. What Mr. Gilchrist, as reported in the Review, did say was "that the cost of keeping boys had increased from $123 per year to $245 per year. The Review, as well as Mr. Gilchrist are both dishonest in this, that they make statements that, without explanation, are misleading. There is as much difference in the treatment of boys at the Reformatory in 1871 and the present time as there is between slavery and freedom. In 1871 the boys were hired out to hard task-masters and the money they earned went to defray the cost of their maintenance. Now the boys are educated and reformed—given trades and made useful members of society, so far as the efforts of the Government can avail.

BIG RALLY IN EAST PETERBOROUGH.

ROUSING MEETING AT WARSAW.

Mr. Thos. Blezard and Mr. J. R. Stratton Address the Electors of Dummer.

The town hall, Warsaw, was crowded to the doors last night with electors to listen to an address by Mr. Thos. Blezard on the political questions of the day.

Mr. Edwards, of Dummer, presided.

Mr. Blezard delivered a most forcible address, dealing with the Opposition platform generally and the fallacious arguments and misstatements advanced by Dr. Ford and Mr. Burnham. He also vigorously defended the policy of the Government and the course he, himself, had pursued since being a member of the Legislature.

In conclusion Mr. J. R. Stratton dealt convincingly with the political issues of the day and the meeting, which was a very enthusiastic one and sympathetic for the interests of Mr. Blezard, was brought to a close by cheers for the Queen, the candidate and the chairman.

Dummer will give Mr. Blezard one of its old time majorities.

In an interview with Mr. Blezard he stated that wherever he has gone out in the riding he has found the electors working for him with more apparent success than in any previous campaign, and he is confident that if his friends continue the good fight, his majority will astonish his opponents on March 1st.

He also states that many Conservatives are supporting him, as a policy of shreds and patches is not attractive to them.

THAT YOUNG'S POINT MEETING.

Not the Roseate Result the Review Report Reveals.

To judge from the reports of Mr. Garvin's meetings as published in the Review, one would think that the people were thirsting for the eloquence poured out by himself and his associate stump orators, and that the electors were merely waiting a chance to bow down in adoration. The EXAMINER has received a report from a Young's Point source, as reliable as a bank president, which puts quite a different view from the rosy report supplied the Review. The convincing eloquence which we were led to believe revolutionized the sentiments of the electors, consisted of petty fault finding and appeals to sympathy. An eloquent "forty-minute address" resolved itself into a song singing, yarn spinning appeal to the small boy element, while the wind up of the candidate was largely narrative and nonsense, with very little common sense discussion of the questions of the day. Evidently the last state of the man was worse than the first, that is, Mr. Garvin's second meeting at Young's Point was more disappointing than the first.

THE CAMPAIGN IN THE EAST.

The Meetings in the North Country.

Mr. Stone returned to-day from attending in Mr. Blezard's behalf a series of meetings held by Dr. Ford in Apsley, at the town hall, Caswell's school house, Chandos; Lasswade, in Anstruther, and at Haultain, in Burleigh. The meetings were well attended, but the evidence was quite apparent that the great mass of the electorate in those townships are in Mr. Blezard's favour, which will give him the hearty support they have given him in the past, and contribute largely to the big majority by which he will be returned on March 1st.

THE ONTARIO SURPLUS.

Misunderstandings in the public mind over the financial condition of Ontario are due largely to the confusion of two entirely different questions. A surplus is referred to sometimes as the balance of assets after deducting all debts, sometimes as savings, the balance of receipts over expenditures. The Sandfield Macdonald surplus was of the latter character largely. Nobody denies that he saved money for the Province. The question is, for what purposes? There could be only two: (1) To free the people of the Province from taxation; (2) to give the people certain services which they would otherwise have had to pay for, such as the maintenance of lunatics and other afflicted persons, the education of children, the building of railways and colonization roads, the administration of justice, the encouragement of agriculture. It would be doing a great injustice to the memory of Sandfield Macdonald to suppose that he had not these ends in view, that he was saving money merely out of the passion for hoarding. At all events these two objects have been carried out by his successors. They handled $3,500,000 to the municipalities, who expended the money for roads, bridges, schools, town halls, harbours, drainage, cemeteries, parks, etc. They aided railways to the extent of $8,414,787, of which $6,418,000 has been already paid. This was in pursuance of a policy which Sandfield Macdonald had approved of, but which he he retired too soon to carry into effect. The successors of Sandfield Macdonald have also done what we must presume he, as an intelligent man, would have done if he had remained in power, increased all those expenditures which represent direct returns of money to the people.

Education	$ 351,306	$ 719,816
Agriculture and arts	76,381	186,064
Hospital and charities	40,260	192,694
Public asylums, etc.	171,423	806,131
Administration of justice	104,049	427,806
Colonization roads	55,409	98,370
Total	$798,828	$2,435,950

Total increase under these heads, $1,627,122.

In the Conservative campaign document we are informed that Sandfield Macdonald in the year 1871 saved a little over $500,000. The increased expenditures on services going direct to the people represent more than three times that amount. The total expenditure under these heads at the rate of 1871 would have been $20,766,850. The actual expenditure has been $43,068,666, a difference of $22,301,816. It is safe to say that neither the present Government nor any other Government will seek to accumulate a surplus by diminishing the educational grants or by turning insane people at large. The business of the Administration is to maintain these services at a high standard of efficiency and at the same time to avoid taxation. That is the present policy, and that is the policy that will be continued, unless we should some day be saddled with a corrupt or extravagant Government, If there is a surplus in any year no better use can be made of it than to return it to the people. We may therefore dismiss from our minds the idea that any Government, representing any political party, has it in view to accumulate a surplus out of savings, such a surplus as the Conservatives say was left by Sandfield Macdonald.

The question which is of more immediate interest, is whether the Province has a surplus of assets over liabilities, and if so, what is the amount? Here it is very difficult, almost impossible, to make comparisons between the conditions of affairs now and in 1871, because under the Macdonald Administration the accounts between the Dominion and the Province, involving several millions of dollars, were not settled. The Treasurer in those days, by his own admission, simply guessed at the amount due from the Province to the Dominion. But he and his colleagues always claimed the trust funds as the property and assets of Ontario. A statute passed under the Sandfield Macdonald Administration in 1869 declares that the Upper Canada School fund and all moneys arising from investments thereof, the building fund, marriage licenses and all moneys appertaining thereto for the Common School fund and Common School lands, shall form part of the consolidated revenue fund of the Province of Ontario. The total amount of the trust funds then due from the Dominion to the Province was $2,699,407. It is claimed that these funds were not taken into account in his surplus. Why? Because his Treasurer supposed that they were about equal to the debt of the Province to the Dominion, and set off the one against the other. He claimed the trust funds as assets; but he underestimated the debt on the other side of the ledger by about one-half; and the excess, as has been pointed out, would have wiped out more than one-half of the supposed surplus of $3,800,000. Mr. Wood, the Treasurer in the Sandfield Macdonald Government, always treated these trust funds as assets. In his budget speech on December 10, 1869, Mr. Wood dealt with the subject of these funds and said:—"This may be looked upon as a permanent source of revenue, for if the Dominion does not choose to pay us the interest they must pay us the principal, and I think we shall be able to invest the money at 5 per cent." The last budget speech which the Hon. Mr. Wood delivered was on December 31, 1871, and in making up his statement he gives the cash in hand and investments at $3,095,000, and says:—"The special funds bearing interest which may be considered as surplus are as follows:—Upper Canada Grammar School Fund, Upper Canada Common School Fund, Hamilton debentures and arrears of interest, and some other items, making a total of $3,082,769, which made the amount of the surplus no less than $6,748,415." In counting the trust funds as assets he set the precedent which has been followed ever since. Where he was in error was in underestimating the debt due to the Dominion, which was then between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, enough to wipe out the whole of the assets which he claimed.

How was the debt incurred? At Confederation the Dominion assumed the debt of old Canada to the extent of $62,500,000. The excess over $62,500,000 was debt due from Ontario and Quebec, representing old Canada, to the Dominion. In 1873 the Dominion virtually wiped out this debt by assuming $10,000,000 more of the debt of old Canada. Then the Province became entitled to claim as a clear asset the funds held by the Dominion for its benefit. Mr. Crooks said in his budget of 1874: "The legislation of 1873 has relieved us from this annual burden for interest upon the debt, and these funds are now perfectly free from all incumbrances, and are just as free as if we held the amount in Dominion debentures." It will hardly be disputed in the light of this history that these funds, amounting to-day to $3,351,723, are assets of the Province of Ontario.

In 1868 there was a further adjustment of accounts between the Dominion and the Province, the net result of which was an award of $2,848,289 to Ontario, with a deduction of $2,000,000. It is not necessary to dwell on this part of the case. The Act ratifying the award declares that the sum named "should be deemed capital owing to the said Provinces respectively, bearing interest at 5 per cent." The Conservative Government at Ottawa credit the Province of Ontario with this sum of $2,248,289.52, and debit themselves with it as a liability. The $2,000,000 deducted from this is the debt which the Opposition declares to be due to the Dominion. The balance due to the Province is $848,289. The whole of the Dominion assets in the hands of the Dominion amount, therefore, to $4,200,018. The Dominion pays us interest on this sum at 5 per cent. It is therefore, not only an asset, but an exceptionally profitable asset. It is idle to ask whether we could collect the money from the Dominion. The Dominion has offered us the principal. It can borrow money at 2½ per cent., not much below par; it is quite clear, therefore, that it is not anxious to go on paying Ontario 5 per cent. It is fairly contended that the fund is worth at least $2,000,000 more to us than if we drew out the principal and invested it at current rates. We have therefore the following statement of assets:

Trust funds	$3,351,723
Balance of capital under act of 1894 and award of 1868	848,289
Cash and direct investments	308,290
	$5,158,307

Now, as to liabilities, there is an admitted sum of liabilities presently payable of $30,902. It is claimed that the present value of the annuities should be added, $2,787,604. The other claim, that $2,000,000 is due to the Dominion, is obviously wrong. The $2,000,000 is deducted from the $2,848,289, leaving the balance above stated. If, therefore, we allow the present value of the annuities as a liability, we have the following result:

Assets as per statement	$5,158,308
Deduct liabilities presently liable	30,902
	$5,121,340
Deduct annuities	2,787,604
	$2,333,742

To this ought to be added, in all fairness, $785,000 balances due on Crown Land, and the value of property on Queen and Yonge streets, and of the grounds on which the Parliament buildings stood. This would bring the surplus up to fully $3,500,000. But what the electors ought to bear in mind is that facts and authorities show conclusively that all the assets claimed by the Government are rightly claimed, that the only question is as to the charging of the present worth of the annuities, $2,787,604. The existence of a substantial surplus of assets over all possible liabilities is established beyond question.—Globe.

Relations of a Representative to His Constituents.

EXTRACTS FROM A SPEECH OF LAST NOVEMBER.

Dealing With the Relations Between a Representative, Constituents and the Powers That Be—How the Public Interests Can be Subserved.

The following extract from a speech delivered in November last by Mr. J. R. Stratton, is doubtless pertinent to the present circumstances:

"Continuing, Mr. Stratton said that West Peterborough was represented in the Dominion, where a Liberal Government was in power, by a Conservative. The people were supreme and he had been their choice. But constituencies had other interests than the success of this or that party. The people had their own interests to look after and it seemed to him that it would not be disadvantageous to Peterborough, should some prominent Liberal, possessing the confidence of the people, be placed in the position of being able to exert an influence and make the wants and needs of this constituency effectively felt by the 'powers that be', and it would be no detriment to the interests concerned where circumstances might arise requiring the co-operation of the respective representative influences. After the Liberal Government came into power at Ottawa the interests of the constituency and the interests of Peterborough made it necessary that prominent and active local Liberals should act in a common spirit of patriotism in seeing that the interests of Peterborough had full consideration, and the speaker was bound to say that in the position he occupied as representing the constituency, he was in a more favourable position, as was also Hon. Mr. Cox, as Senator, to render important services to the town and county. In the past he had not been backward in advancing those interests to the best of his ability, and there was evidence to show that his efforts were appreciated.

It was well known and recognized that all governments gave more ready attention to a representative possessing the confidence of an important constituency than to the representations of, perhaps, a more personally important individual elector, and the public have a legitimate claim upon the services of a representative that they cannot enforce upon a private individual, who is justified in giving a preference to the demands of his own business.

While he (Mr. Stratton) had no doubt Mr. Hardy would be returned at the elections, and while some might differ from him in that opinion, he had no doubt that, whether himself or another was representative, it was desirable that the riding should be represented by a person who had the familiarity with public matters, the political experience, and withal, the inclination to advance the interests of the constituency, and of any projects that were substantially associated with those interests. No doubt there were many who realised all this, and were expressing themselves favourably to an election by acclamation, but there were of course others, whose personal interests and ambitions, irrespective of the best interests of the riding, led them to prefer an election. Whatever course would be pursued, if he (Mr. Stratton) should be chosen as a candidate, and were returned, with or without a contest, he was still prepared to pursue the same policy that had governed his course in the past, namely, that of working for and promoting with all his power the best interests of West Peterborough and of every individual elector, irrespective of party affiliation or regardless of whether an application for his services was represented by a political supporter or political opponent. (Applause.)

Thoroughly healthy girlhood means happy wifehood and capable motherhood. A new fangled prudery prevents many girls from learning things that they ought to know before they assume the duties of matrimony and maternity. Athletics alone will not make a young woman thoroughly healthy. The wise counsels of a good mother or some older woman are indispensable.

The best and noblest mission of a woman is to bear and rear healthy, intelligent children. In order to do this, she must be healthy and strong in a womanly way. Both the intellectual and physical future of her children depend largely upon the mother. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all medicines for maids, wives and mothers. It is intended to do but one thing and does that one thing thoroughly. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood and makes them strong, healthy, virile, vigorous and elastic. Taken during the time of preparation, it banishes the trials and dangers of maternity. It insures the well being of the mother and the robust health of the child. It is the greatest of nerve tonics and nerve builders. Thousands of women have told the story of its marvelous accomplishments. Good medicine dealers sell it and will not advise a substitute in place of it.

In a letter to Dr. Pierce, Mr. C. A. McDonald, of No. 123 N. Chestnut Street, Los Angeles, Cal., says: "At Junction City I became acquainted with W. C. Lee, M. D., an old practitioner. He said he was a college chum of yours, but that you went to Europe to the best hospitals, while he commenced practice; that for thirty years you were considered one of the leading physicians in New York State, and he considered your remedies better than all others, and prescribed them daily in his practice. On the strength of this commendation I tried your 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Pellets.' The 'Favorite Prescription' has acted like magic in cases of irregular and painful monthly periods, a few doses only being necessary to restore the natural function. The 'Pellets' have proven an infallible cure for sick and bilious headache."

The glass supplied was rejected by Architect Lennox shortly after its arrival as not having been up to the standard called for by the specifications.

Hunters for San Jose Scale.

Hamilton, Feb. 24.—Government Inspector W. Orr was in town yesterday arranging for the expedition of his 20 hunters for the San Jose scale in the Niagara district. The force will be composed of experienced fruit growers, who will turn their magnifying glasses on orchards planted less than five years and on districts known to have been planted by infected nurseries of the United States. Asked as to the expense of the summer's investigation, Mr. Orr remarked: "I consider that we shall be well rid of the pest if it costs $50,000."

A NAME TO CONJURE BY.

Dodds Kidney Pills Cured T. Johnston of Diabetes.

Osborne, Feb. 14—Throughout the western peninsula of Ontario the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills is a name to conjure by. The people with the very best of reason have pinned their faith to this grand medicine, and it is used in every house.

The result of this is that kidney diseases, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc., are rapidly disappearing from this district.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Osborne, is the latest cure. He suffered all the agonies of diabetes for six years, his physicians failing to help him and all medicines failing to give him relief.

Finally he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure began at once. He has used four boxes, and is now strong, healthy and robust.

Robert Simpson Company Reorganized.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Since the death of the late Robert Simpson negotiations have been going on which culminated yesterday in the purchase of the business by a company composed of Messrs. H. H Fudger, the Yonge street wholesale merchant, president; J. W. Flavelle, manager of the William Davies Co.; A. E. Ames, broker, and A. R. Parsons and J. B. Campbell of the old Simpson Company. On completion of stock taking on March 1 the new company will take charge and the capital stock will be increased.

Occupation of Port Arthur.

London, Feb. 24.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times says: An Imperial decree having replaced the Taotai of Yenchau, dismissed on Germany's demand for the murder of missionaries, by the Taotai who was dismissed at Germany's instance in 1895 for the outrage on Bishop Anzer, Germany now demands the immediate cancelling of the appointment. China will be compelled to accede in order to avoid giving Germany a pretext for the permanent occupation of Kiao-Chou.

THE CAMPAIGN.

The Nomination in Russell County—What May Be Done—North York Contest.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—A great deal of interest is manifested in the outcome of the case in Russell, where the returning officer endeavored to reach the place of nomination on snowshoes and was obliged to return.

The section of the Act which makes allowances for unforeseen delays and accidents gives the returning officer power to fix new dates for the nomination and polling. Section 36, sub-section 2, of the Election Act, however, provides for the emergency by holding that unforeseen delay shall not invalidate a nomination if the delay did not affect the result of the election. This "if," however, would appear to give an opportunity for the defeated candidate to claim that the delay and uncertainty did affect the result, and litigation might follow. However, the candidates for Russell and the returning officer will in all probability come to a mutually satisfactory understanding, and some seem to think that if they do the election can still be held on March 1.

The North York Contest.

Mr. Stillwell has withdrawn from the contest in North York, and the Provincial Secretary will be opposed only by the Conservative nominee, Mr. Wayling.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MAKERS.

The Opening of the First Annual Convention at Woodstock.

Woodstock, Feb. 24.—The first annual convention of the Ontario Butter and Cheese Makers' Association opened in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon, about 100 delegates being in attendance. The association was formed at the convention of the Western Dairymen's Association held recently in London and has for its objects the guarding of the makers' interests as well as to promote an educative influence amongst dairymen generally. By to-morrow it is expected that upwards of 300 delegates, from Western Ontario chiefly, will register, while already Quebec is represented by a couple of delegates.

At the afternoon's session President J. T. Henderson of Pine River delivered his opening address, dealing with the objects of the association and pointing out where the makers' interests could be best served. Mr. Andrew Pattullo, ex-M.P.P., and Mr. T. B. Miller, instructor in the Dairy School at Guelph, gave addresses, the latter dealing chiefly with the objects of the association. At the evening session Mayor Mackay gave an address of welcome, and Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M.P., of Stratford, spoke on "Practical Dairying."

THE RAILWAY RATE WAR.

No Retaliatory Measures Against the C.P.R. Yet Taken by the Grand Trunk.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The Grand Trunk have not yet taken any retaliatory measures against the C.P.R., and the officials here state that the blow struck by their great rival has not done them much hurt. They point out the fact that the Canadian Pacific cut rates do not affect the Northern and Midland divisions of the Grand Trunk, and their Southern division between Windsor and Fort Erie is approached only at Windsor, Chatham and Simcoe, leaving traffic between intermediate points entirely in their hands. In the middle division, too, they say they still control the bulk of the traffic; they do not anticipate the cut will decrease their receipts and say that at this season passenger traffic is very light and the cut rates will invite but few of the home-staying community to board the trains.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH.

Pullman Hotel at Canmore, B. C., Destroyed—Proprietor's Daughter Lost.

Canmore, B.C., Feb. 24.—At 11 o'clock last night fire broke out in the Pullman Hotel here. The Pullman Hotel, Holmes & Caret's stores, the Waverly Hotel and Alexander's dwelling and jewelery store were burned to the ground, and nothing whatever was saved from the Pullman. Forty inmates lost all their personal effects, barely escaping in their night clothing.

Clara Christensen, aged 10, daughter of the proprietor of the Pullman Hotel, was burned to death. The origin of the fire is unknown. The estimated loss is $15,000; very little insurance.

Was He From Toronto?

Caledonia, Ont., Feb. 24.—Yesterday a young man about 21 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, weighing about 130 pounds, clean shaven, light hair, respectably dressed and slightly crippled in the left leg, causing him to use a crutch, attempted to board a moving train which pulled out of here at 12.40 this afternoon. He missed his hold and fell under the car, the wheels badly mangling his right leg. His wounds were dressed and arrangements made for his transfer to the hospital at Hamilton to-night, but, while waiting for the train to pull out he expired from the shock and loss of blood. A companion with him said his name was James Richardson, and it is thought that his parents reside on Gratiot or Grassett street, in Toronto. Nothing in the way of identification was found on his person. He had one Canadian copper in his pocket. An inquest will be held.

Negotiations With France Are Friendly.

London, Feb. 24.—The Marquis of Salisbury, replying yesterday to a deputation from the Chambers of Commerce, regarding the French customs tariffs in West Africa, assured the deputation that the negotiations proceeding were of a perfectly friendly nature, adding that he did not see any reason why they should not be ended amicably.

A CUSTOMS CHANGE.

An Important Regulation Just Issued to Give Uncle Sam Food for Thought.

An important change has been made in the Dominion customs regulations recently promulgated, requiring that goods purchased in Canada and destined for the Yukon must be carried in British bottoms, otherwise full duties will be charged at the frontier port. A number of companies, as, for instance, the Alaska Commercial Company, are purchasing supplies in Canada, and intend sending them to Dawson by way of St. Michael's and the Yukon River. It is altogether unlikely that there will be any British vessels plying on the long water-stretch between St. Michael's and Dawson for this year. It has therefore been considered unfair to purchasers of Canadian goods that they should be compelled to pay duty on supplies sent in by this route. An Order-in-Council has accordingly been passed, which provides that during the season of 1898 only goods for the Yukon district purchased in the Dominion, upon being properly certified, may enter the district free, even if carried in foreign bottoms, whether from a port in the United States or Canada.

Speculators Are on Deck.

According to William Ogilvie there are about 1,600 miles of water stretches in the far Northwest of Canada in which gold could be found in quantities sufficient to pay for dredging. Just now there is feverish anxiety to secure dredging leases from the Government. Applications for over 3,000 miles have been filed, and, in many cases some rivers, notably the Stewart, are applied for ten times over. Few applications are of a bona fide character, most of the leases being secured for speculative purposes. Thus one gentleman, it is said, has a cinch on 400 miles, provided he can put up the first year's rent by March 1, and it is said most of these leases will be absolutely valueless.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

QUICK WITTED PATSY

HOW HE SAVED THE DAY FOR HIMSELF AND HIS LAWYER.

Thoughtlessly Signed an Affidavit With a Name He Swore Was Not His Own—But He Won the Judge and His Point by His Explanation.

My first case came at Florence, Ala., a few months after I was licensed, writes Attorney B. M. Jackson. The sheriff there, Captain W. T. White, now dead, a gallant Confederate soldier and one of nature's noblemen, met me on the street and told me there was a man confined in the county jail who wished to see me.

I was then 21 years old, but would readily have passed for 17. The client's name was Patrick Donevan, but he was commonly called Patsy Donevan. Going to the jail, I found a man from 30 to 35 years old, an intelligent, nice looking, devil may care Irishman. When I entered, he greeted me with "Good evening, miss." Pretending not to have heard him address me as "miss" and assuming much dignity, I told him I was the lawyer whom the sheriff had promised to send him. For answer he exclaimed, "Well, I'll be d——d," and burst out laughing—laughing uproariously. I was irritated to a degree by this reception. "I beg pardon, judge, it's a go. You do look pretty young, but Tom (the sheriff) says you are a daisy. Get me out of here, and my folks, who've got plenty, will pay you well for your trouble."

He told me his story. He was a skilled mechanic from [illegible]kuk, Ia., and had been employed by the government in constructing a lock on the Muscle Shoals canal, near Florence. He had shot the physician in charge of those works. This physician was a brother of the United States engineer in control of the canal construction, and it was evident that the prosecution would be bitter, sparing no pains or expense to secure a conviction, entailing a long penitentiary sentence. The doctor and my client were both men of reckless courage and overbearing temper, both sometimes looked on the wine when it was red, and both, I inferred, were striving for the favor of the same woman. A clash between them soon came. They had a savage quarrel at their boarding house at dinner. The doctor being armed and my client unarmed, the latter had to submit to unlimited abuse and would have been shot but for the interference of several men who were present. Soon after nightfall of the same day my client went to the doctor's office and sleeping room, about a mile distant and in a secluded place, and, knocking on the door, was bidden by the doctor to come in. Entering, he found the doctor putting on a shirt, and thus for the moment disabled, and, remarking, "You had the drop on me this morning, but I've got it on you now," fired, striking the doctor in the neck and inflicting a dangerous but not fatal wound.

The case soon came on for trial. While the defendant's version of the occurrence as he had given it to me was very different from the one in the foregoing, yet it was so improbable in itself and so inconsistent with the attendant circumstances that it looked as if a sentence of ten years was inevitable if the case was then tried. To gain a postponement an objection was interposed to the competency of the court on the ground that he was related by affinity to the prosecutor. This failed. Next an earnest effort was made for a continuance. The state fought this aggressively, thus giving warning of what was to come, and it, too, failed.

In sheer desperation I then whispered to my client, "Your real name is Patrick, not Patsy, isn't it?" The indictment named him Patsy Donevan. Then, moving to quash the indictment for the misnomer, I wrote out the defendant's affidavit in support. The affidavit stated that the defendant's name was Patrick and that he was commonly known and called by this name and not by the name of Patsy Donevan. He took the affidavit and read, or seemed to read, it carefully and, going to the clerk's desk, swore to it and signed it "Patsy Donevan." This, of course, was the way he usually signed his name, but he never reflected that to sign it Patsy this time was to afford the strongest evidence of the falsity of the affidavit.

Arguing the case without looking at the affidavit, I didn't see how he had signed it, but the [illegible] attorney had noticed the signature and in his reply called the court's attention to it. This disclosure raised a storm of laughter and jeering in the courtroom. I was confounded and at the end of my resources. Not so was Patsy. Realizing his peril, that the slip was his own and that he alone could retrieve it, he spoke out, not a whit abashed: "I signed it Patsy out of pure respect for your honor. It's not for me to give the lie to your honor's court papers. Your honor's court paper says I'm Patsy, and I'll sign it Patsy until your honor gives me leave to write my own true name."

The court sustained the motion from pure admiration for Patsy. We now had time to look about us. A few months later the case was tried, the jury failing to agree. The bail bond, which had been fixed at a high figure, was then reduced to a reasonable sum. He gave the bond, saying he had "lost by a nose," but he never returned to stand another trial, although his bondsmen were promptly reimbursed, and the writer was generously remembered, receiving, as I now remember, $300. I have often been curious to know what became of the game, rollicking, imperturbable Patsy.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Knew Him by the Color of His Eyes.

Colonel Ford generally judged of a man's military qualities by his eye. A young man who had graduated from Oberlin college, actuated by a spirit of adventure, drifted to Brownsville and found himself stranded. In the latter condition he walked to Colonel Ford's camp, about six miles south of the city, and, addressing himself to the commander, said:

"Colonel, I have nothing to do and want to join the rangers."

"I like the color of your eyes and will give you an opportunity to distinguish yourself," the colonel replied, after gazing carefully into the eyes of the young man, which were steel gray.

The next day the young ranger was sent to Brownsville with dispatches. Returning he captured a noted Mexican desperado, who had slain several Americans and for a long time had eluded the rangers. The Oberlin boy brought the desperado to the colonel, who said:

"I don't care to see him."

"Come along," said the ranger, addressing his prisoner, whom he forced to go in front of him until they entered a small patch of chaparral, in which they disappeared. A moment later a shot was heard. It was the deathknell of the Mexican criminal. The classical young ranger returned to the colonel's camp and reported:

"Escaped."

"'Tis well," was the colonel's reply.

In those days, when the road to civilization had to be blazed with the six shooter or carved with the sword, the trial of desperadoes was deemed impracticable, unwise and without good results.—Dallas News.

Time Is Also Cruel.

Mrs. Biffkin was dissolved in tears.

"You have changed," she sobbed; "you have changed most cruelly. You love me no more. You no longer sit with your arm encircling my waist, as was your custom before we were married."

"Good heavens, Antoinette!" exclaimed Mr. Biffkin. "You should have married an india rubber man."

Alas! It was but too true. Mrs. Biffkin had also changed.—London Tit-Bits.

I spent $200 in doctoring but received very little benefit until I began using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. Before I had finished the first box I gained flesh, appetite and sound sleep, and three boxes entirely cured me. I have had no kidney trouble since.

The Child at the Play.

The 6-year-old son of a newspaper man occasionally goes to the matinee with his mother, but the trouble with him is that he becomes greatly excited and is apt to express his feelings in words, to the amusement of the audience, but somewhat to the annoyance of the actors. At a recent play one of the actors was in the act of choking another whom he suspected of being guilty of a crime. As the actor went toward the supposed villain with his hands outstretched the boy became greatly excited, and as the men clinched the boy stood up and called out, "Say, let him alone, he didn't do it." There was a laugh from the audience and a surprised look from the stage.

At another time, in a play where a husband suspected his wife, and she was pleading to be taken home and given an opportunity to prove her innocence, the boy could not stand the woman's pleas and the husband's cold reception of her entreaties, and he called out, "Please, mister, take her back."

The boy has not been taken to the theater recently.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Ship Struck by a Sandstorm.

Plymouth, Feb. 24. — The steamer Roslyn Castle, from Table Bay, arrived here yesterday two days overdue. She reports that on Feb. 14 she encountered what seemed to be a fog, but which proved to be a sandstorm. The air was permeated with red sand, and for 900 miles the sun and stars were invisible. Observations were impossible until the ship reached Madeira and for the entire distance the vessel worked her way by dead reckoning.

Mrs. Mitchell's charred remains were found in the ashes.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of the symptoms are sick and bilious headaches, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver stomach and bowels, and are all caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

HOCKEY.

The Printers and the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. teams play at the rink to-morrow evening at seven o'clock.

The Juniors go to Lindsay on March 4th to play the Collegiate team of that town.

The Druggists and Hardware men played off their annual game last night, when the Pills won by 5 goals to 3 from their old-time opponents. The game was a sizzler from the time the referee's whistle blew till the finish. Everything went. No man was called down for offside or any other style of play which he chose to adopt. This made the game fast from start to finish, as the boys were able to keep fresh through not having as much skating to do as would have been necessary if offsides had been called.

The teams were composed as follows :—

Pills		Putty
W Crowley	goal	H Higgins
F O'Connor	point	J Bro n
D Davidson	cover point	Geo Dickson
J Gervais	forwards	Burnham
G Riley		Comstock
A Thompson		H Dumble
W Alexander		A Stethem

Referee—Robt. Thorne.

A return match will be played for an oyster supper on Monday night.

The Druggists have now issued a challenge to the Printers, which the latter accept, leaving it to the druggists to arrange for the ice.

The Lakefield team comes down to-morrow afternoon to try conclusions with the Colts. The game will start at 4 30 p.m.

Dr. Bradd says he is willing to wager an oyster supper for both teams that the Colts' team can defeat the Druggists. Maybe the Doctor would be willing to pit them against the Printers.

For three long and weary years the Osgoode team has been wandering in the O. H. A. wilderness searching for the championship which they lost to Queen's in 1894, and; for three long years they hunted in vain. But there is nothing like perseverance, and and last night Osgoode got their eyes on champions, and, though Queen's tried hard to retain their hold on it, they had to relinquish their title to a swifter and better team.

"Why they were running all the time," said Guy Curtis, the veteran of veterans, after the game. "They were simply too fast for us."

That is the story in a nutshell. Queen's had to play four games in less than eight days, and even they, hard and rugged as they are, couldn't stand the strain. But even so, Osgoode played in such a fashion that the chances are that they would have won in any case. It was a great victory for the Carruthers family. Mr. James Carruthers fairly bubbled over with joy when the game was over. Both George and Edgar displayed sterling form and there wasn't a minute they weren't in it. Merrill is considered the equal of Randy McLennan in his palmiest days, but he was simply out-classed by Osgoode's cover-point. George ripped Queen's combination fairly up the seams, and it was seldom that they got away from him. Jack McMurrich didn't play his game in goal, letting two easy shots get past him.

Lorne Cosby was pressed into service at the last minute to take McLennan's place, having to be sent for at his home, delaying the start some time. He put up a fine article of hockey all the way. All the Osgoode forwards were lighning fast and their combination was better worked out than at any time this season. Johnson played like a little iron man on wheels, while "Peek" Morrison was in every mix-up. The latter put up the game of his life. Ed Carruthers' dashes were simply irresistible, and was well backed up by Lillie, who checked and shot in great style. Every forward stuck to their checks like glue, and frequently broke up Queen's combination. For Queen's, Carmichael in goal and Curtis at point were immense. The G. O. M. of hockey and football thinks that every man in the country has it in for him because he couldn't get away with any of his sallies down the ice. Curtis played his position as it should be played, and was always on the spot. Merrill, at cover, handled his stick finely and lifted well. Of the forwards Dalton was the best, while Adams, Harris and Newlands all showed good form. There was very little rough work and Referee L. King didn't have to send anybody off. There were about 1,200 people in the Caledonian rink, the largest crowd of the season, and they were wildly enthusiastic. The teams

Osgoode—McMurrich, goal; Cosby, point; Geo Carruthers, cover point; Johnson, Morrison, Lillie and E Carruthers, forwards.

Queen's—Carmichael, goal; Curtis, point; Merrill, cover point; Adams, Newlands, Harris and Dalton, forwards.

Osgoode started with a rush, and Adams got away when Curtis cleared, but G Carruthers stopped him, passed to E Carruthers, who handed it to Morrison, the latter scoring in 20 seconds.

The second was longer, and there was much lifting by the defence players. G. Carruthers blocked several hot shots and then Johnson got away, passed to Lillie, who drew the puck from behind the goal and put it back again in 3 55.

The third was the longest game, Queen's being on the defensive most of the time. From a scramble Adams scored for Queen's in 11.58.

The next was lightning fast. Morrison passed to E Carruthers, who tilted the puck to Lillie, and he scored in six seconds.

This was the last score of the half, the remainder of the time producing play of the see-saw order. Dalton broke his skate and L. Crosby was dropped to even up. Once Osgoode scored, but Umpire Lexis Martin didn't see it.

In the second half the hockey was much faster. Osgoode missed three or four chances in the first few minutes. Queen's scared McMurrich several times, Johnson got in a run after eight minutes play and shot. Carmichael cleared, but Morrison was on the spot and scored.

Queen's then got two in quick succession. Newlands and Harris doing the scoring. Both were easy shots.

After that is was nearly all Osgoode, three games being added to their tally before time was called, Edgar Carruthers getting one and Johnston two. How the points were scored :—

First half—1, Osgoode, Morrison, .39; 2. Osgoode, Lillie, 3.55; 3, Queen's, Adams, 11.55; 4. Osgoode, Lillie, 6.

Second half—5, Osgoode, Morrison, 3 07. 7, Queen.s, Newlands, 6.50; 7, Queen's, Harris, 3.00; 7, Osgoode, E. Carruther's, .49; 8, Osgoode, Johnston, 7.53; 10, Osgoode, Johnston, 6.17.

OLD ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Historically It Is Among the Most Interesting Churches In the Country.

Historically and in the relics of the past which it contains few if any churches in America are more interesting than old St. John's at Portsmouth, N. H. The founding of the parish dates from 1638, but the present edifice is modern. It was built in 1806, and the good man who preached the dedication sermon described it as a work of stupendous magnitude. It is not, however, the building which attracts us, but its belongings. Here we see the old prayer book, with the prayer for the president pasted over that for the king; the "Vinegar" Bible, of which only 40 copies were printed, and but five of which are in the United States. The bell which calls the parish to prayers is a capture from Louisburg, and, although twice recast, once by Paul Revere, since its voice was heard in its foreign home, it is yet the same old bell. An arm-chair, which stands behind the altar rail was a gift from Queen Caroline, but is now known as the Washington chair, having been occupied by the first president of the United States when he attended service in the old church.

Admiral Farragut was buried from St. John's, and the reading table is made of wood from his flagship. A strange bit of treasure trove is the heavy porphyry font taken from an old church in Portsmouth and captured by the English from the French off the coast of Africa. Every Sunday 12 loaves of bread are placed upon this font and distributed to 12 old women, in accordance with the terms of one Theodore Eccleston's last will and testament, and because of a gift by will the church is still heated by wood fires.—Nashua (N. H.) Telegraph.

THE EDMONTON ROUTE.

Its Claims Advocated by Board of Trade Delegates—The Premier Says Exploration Will Be Made

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The advantages of an overland route to the Yukon from some point in the Northwest Territories, preferably from Edmonton, was strongly pressed upon the Government yesterday by representatives of the Toronto, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Montreal Boards of Trade. The Ministers present were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Dobell and Mr. Sifton, and the deputation included Elias Rogers and Edward Wills, Toronto Board of Trade; D. W. Bole, Mayor Andrews, C. N. Bell of Winnipeg; C. Ross, John Coates, G. F. Henderson and P. Whelan of Ottawa and others. There were also present a large contingent of members of Parliament.

Addresses were delivered by several members of the deputation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, said this important subject had already been engaging the attention of the Government. He was not disclosing any Government secret in saying that for some time their mind had been made up to have an exploration of all the proposed routes made this summer, to ascertain the most feasible one. With 1,500 miles of practically unknown country, all would agree that it was essential to have some knowledge of the country and its resources before putting in a road or a trail. One objection to the route was the possibility of lack of fodder, but if this was obtainable the problem would be largely solved. There should be no antagonism between the overland and water routes. The Government was strongly alive to the advisability, if not necessity, of having a route from the interior to the Yukon. There was no antagonism between this and the Stikine route, which was a matter of immediate urgency, and the shortest on Canadian soil, but at the same time the Government recognized its great advantages. One reason which would induce them to open an inland route was that a good farming section would be opened up, in which disappointed gold-seekers would settle, and another reason was the strong probability of another Klondike in the Rocky Mountains, or along the northern rivers being discovered. All the Government could say at present was that the best way to proceed was to make an exploration of the routes, and if the means of the country permitted a trail or wagon road, they would then be built.

Death of Mr. Perry.

Mr. Perry, M.P for West Prince, P.E. I., died here yesterday morning. The flag is flying at half-mast on the Parliament buildings in respect to his memory. Mr. Perry came here two or three weeks before Parliament opened and was taken sick and has gradually grown weaker since then. The remains will be conveyed to Prince Edward Island for interment. He was in his 75th year, and was one of the old Liberal guard.

An Order-in-Council has been passed permitting hoop net fishing in the Bay of Quinte until the 1st of March.

A Mother's Story—Her Little Girl Cured of Croup

Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing Cough and Croup. My little girl has been subject to the Croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine, which I cannot speak too highly of.

An Ex-Alderman Speaks.

Mr Jas Hagan, the well-known ex-alderman of Kemptville, Ont., says: "For some years I have been greatly troubled with pain across my back. Urinary trouble caused me much loss of sleep, and I suffered from a tired, worn out feeling. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief in a short time. The pain in my back has disappeared, and I feel that I would be doing wrong not to recommend them to others suffering as I did. They are the best medicine I ever used."

THE WRECKING FORCE

That Blew Up the Warship Maine Was Outside and Below.

RIBS AND PLATES STOVE UPWARD

War Feeling in Madrid Finds Vent in Warlike Talk—Spanish Government Thinks the Worst May Come and That They Should Prepare for It—U. S. Cabinet Meets.

New York, Feb. 26.—A despatch to the Herald from Havana says: There is no longer any reason to doubt that the explosion which wrecked the Maine came from underneath the vessel, and that her magazines had nothing to do with the initial explosion, and played a much smaller part in the general disaster than was at first supposed.

The evidence that has served to convince the board was obtained by Ensign Powelson, an officer attached to the Fern. Mr. Powelson was formerly in the construction corps, and took a two years' special course in the Glasgow School of Naval Architecture. He is therefore a competent witness.

What he discovered was that the forward part of the keel of the Maine, with its ribs and plates, was stove upward so far that parts of the shattered double bottom show out of the water, and in places sections of the green painted hull are visible. Corroborative of the evidence by Ensign Powelson, and of equal significance and importance, is the result of the close examination made by the divers.

The main force of the explosion seems to have been exerted slightly on the port side of the vessel. In the reserve magazine was stowed 2,500 pounds of powder in copper tanks, each of which contained 200 pounds. Several of these tanks have been found by the divers, all in crushed and shapeless masses.

The Dow torpedo tube of the Maine has been located in the wreck. It lies in the debris forward, submerged several feet under water. The hull is now imbedded in the mud to the depth of eight feet. The divers sink to their arm pits in the mud and have the greatest difficulty in prosecuting their work.

The work of clearing out the bodies under the hatch proceeds. The sights there are pitiful, and almost beyond endurance of the divers, accustomed as they are to such experiences. The condition in which the bodies are found shows that the men, sleeping in their bunks, must have been driven against the beams overhead with terrific force. In many instances the bodies are charred beyond the possibility of recognition.

AWAITING THE REPORT.

Nothing Definite Known at Washington About the Cause of Maine Disaster.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 26.—In spite of the stories that come from unofficial sources in Havana as to sensational developments in connection with works of the divers in the Maine's hull the Administration remains firm in its statement that there is no credible evidence one way or the other as to the cause of the disaster and holds to the purpose to await the conclusion of the investigation now making by the court of enquiry.

This position was emphasized at today's Cabinet meeting. People who looked for some startling announcement were disappointed, as the members without reservation frankly admitted that the subject of the loss of the Maine had been discussed, but said that the Government had received no information from Havana since yesterday and had no intention of changing its policy until there was something of substance to warrant it. The Spanish Legation was equally in the dark as to any of the discoveries reported from sources that are not cited, as was shown by a message from Captain-General Blanco.

Secretary Long has been under a heavy and almost constant strain ever since he was awakened in the middle of the night a week ago last Tuesday by the news of the loss of the Maine, and now that matters are at least for the time being in a quieter state, he has withdrawn from the Navy Department and gone away for a few days' rest, leaving Assistant Secretary Roosevelt to manage the department. The latter has been thoroughly advised at every step of the Secretary's policy or treatment of the Maine affair, so that there is not likely to be any change in that respect caused by the temporary assumption of the duties of secretary by Mr. Roosevelt.

Spaniards Express Hatred.

New York, Feb. 26.—Passengers on the steamship Concho, that has just arrived from Havana, say that the sight of the Maine was horrifying, from the evidence the wreckage bore of the power of the explosion and the carnage wrought. Buzzards hung about the wreck, the Spanish officers making no effort to drive them away, though their presence was sickeningly offensive. Spaniards who rowed about in boats did not conceal their satisfaction at the American warship's fate, and sometimes were seen shaking their fists at the flag that hung at half-mast above the hulk.

Warlike Talk at Madrid.

London, Feb. 26.—According to a special despatch from Madrid reports received there from the United States to the effect that public opinion in the latter country is becoming more excited owing to the impression that the loss of the Maine is not due to an accident, are "re-stirring popular feeling here (in Madrid) and the conviction is increasing in Ministerial circles that the worst must be expected."

Continuing, the special despatch says: "The Government has no choice if the United States adopts a threatening attitude, for the prospect of war is popular with all parties, and the more excitable newspapers are already urging the Government to take measures to enable Spain to strike the first and decisive blow."

Vizcaya Sailed Away.

New York, Feb. 26.—The Spanish cruiser Vizcaya was reported under way at 1.25 p.m., yesterday by the observer at quarantine. All the boats of the warship were placed on the davits this morning. The Vizcaya had only one guard about her, the navy tug Nina, which circulated about the Spanish warship all morning. The flag of the warship was still at half-mast as she drew down the bay.

The big cruiser saluted her diminutive escort, and increasing her speed as she neared the sea, began rapidly to leave the Nina behind. She did not salute the forts at the Narrows, but sped swiftly off toward the southwestern horizon.

THERE IS NO MINE.

Havana Has No System of Submarine Defences, Says Spanish Official.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 26.—In view of the widely published report that the harbor of Havana contains a system of submarine mines, Senor du Bosc, Spanish Charge d'Affaires at Washington, last night made the following official denial:

"I wish to state in my own official knowledge that no mine exists inside or outside of Havana Harbor, nor is there any submarine defence of any kind. The report is so absolutely false and ridiculous that it could only have originated in the minds of those persons anxious to incite the evil passions of both nations for their own miserable ends. I consider the very suggestion of such a thing an insult to Spain."

THE GREEK LOAN.

Lord Salisbury Announces That Britain Will Guarantee Its Payment.

London, Feb. 26.—In the House of Lords yesterday Lord Salisbury said that the negotiations for the Greek loan for the payment of the war indemnity to Turkey had been long, because of the necessity of agreeing what portions of the Greek revenue would be security for the loan. "I believe," he added, "that the Anglo-Russo-French guarantee is now on the point of taking effect, and hope for a speedy issue of the loan. When the loan is announced and offered in the market the Sultan's liability to evacuate Thessaly will begin. England has guaranteed the loan, but she has not guaranteed the execution of the treaty of peace. We have every reason to believe," he continued, "that a state of things will be speedily reached wherein the Sultan will be under the obligation of evacuating Thessaly. I quite agree that it is a consummation devoutly to be wished, because the sufferings of those people or people in the interval must be perfectly terrible."

PARNELL IS HARD UP.

Because of His Poverty He Applies for a Civic Position in Dublin.

Dublin, Feb. 26.—John H. Parnell, member of Parliament for South Meath, brother of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, is a candidate for the post of city marshall at Dublin. He has issued a circular from Avondale, in which he says: "The poverty and almost absolute want which my mother, my sisters and I are feeling render it imperative for me to ask the corporation to entrust me with the duties of city marshal. Through the devotion of my brother to the cause of Ireland, Avondale, the home of my family for generations, must go under the hammer. It is to prevent this and keep the ancient family roof tree that I am a candidate."

GERMANY HAS STEPPED IN

And Prohibited Railway Building in Shan-Tung Province in China.

London, Feb. 26.—The Pekin correspondent of the Times says:

China, having issued an Imperial decree authorizing a Chinese syndicate to construct, with foreign assistance, presumably American, a trunk line from Tien-Tsin to Chin-Kiang, through Shan-Tung Province, Baron Von Moyking, the German Minister, intervened on the ground that Germany had been accorded the refusal of the right to construct any railway in Shan-Tung. The project, therefore, is blocked. This is a virtual assumption by Germany of railway monopoly in Shan-Tung.

Canada's Greatest Medicine

Is Hood's Sarsaparilla

GREATEST, Because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to which the bulk of the people naturally turn when overtaken by sickness, caused by impure blood, scrofula, dyspepsia, etc., or when recovering from debilitating blood-poisoning diseases like diphtheria, scarlet fever, etc.

GREATEST, Because of the vast number of testimonials which come from every city and hamlet in the land, telling of marvelous cures and overflowing with gratitude.

GREATEST, Because it eradicates every vestige of scrofula, cures the worst cases of hip disease, subdues the itching and burning of eczema, heals all sores, boils and eruptions, and every ailment due to impure blood.

GREATEST, Because it conquers dyspepsia by toning and strengthening the stomach, cures rheumatism by neutralizing the acid in the blood, overcomes catarrh by removing the scrofula taints that cause it.

GREATEST, Because unequalled by any other medicine for supplying the nerves with pure, rich, nourishing blood, and thus curing nervousness, neuralgia and nervous prostration.

GREATEST, Because of economy and strength, Hood's Sarsaparilla being the only medicine of which it can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar."

GREATEST, Because it is prepared in the largest Laboratory on earth—a building which contains more than three acres of floor space.

GREATEST, Because it is peculiar in combination, proportion and process and possesses curative properties unknown to any other medicine.

GREATEST, Because Hood's Sarsaparilla actually purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach, creates an appetite, energizes, vitalizes and strengthens the whole system.

GREATEST, Because it is the result of scientific knowledge, careful study and wise experiment in adapting Nature's own remedies to the needs of the human system.

GREATEST, Because it holds the first place in thousands of households as the medicine which, having accomplished so many marvelous cures of serious diseases, may be depended upon to overcome lesser ills.

GREATEST, Because of the greatest cures, greatest merit, greatest sales, greatest hold upon the confidence of the people as an honest medicine, while other preparations fail to do any good.

"For a number of years past I have been afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and I had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and by the time I had taken all of this medicine I was cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me as I have a family and must always be at my post." WILLIAM HASKETT, Brantford, Ontario.

THE HIGH CHIEF RANGER.

Mr. R. Elliott, the newly elected High Chief Ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters, who was duly installed into office at the last session of the High Court here on Thursday last, has been one of the most prominent members of the organization since its inception and an indefatigable worker from the first. Although modest and retiring in disposition, he exercises a wonderful influence on account of his clear, logical reasoning and personal magnetism. In the pioneer days of the Order Mr. Elliott worked most persistently with a spirit of great self-sacrifice to place it in the fore front of fraternal societies. He is prominent in municipal circles, an influential and successful journalist and a man of wide knowledge of affairs. In 1879 he was one of the movers for secession and from 1894 until 1880 occupied the chair of High Chief Ranger, when he retired from the office and has since been continuously re-elected a member of the Executive Board, on which he has occupied a position ever since the inception of the order. Personally Mr. Elliott is a member of the fourth estate, being editor and proprietor of the Ingersoll Chronicle. He was formerly of the Wingham Times, but sold to purchase the Chronicle, which, since it passed into his possession, shows evidences of enterprise and business prosperity, having been transformed from a weekly into a bright daily, enjoying a large circulation and good advertising patronage. In politics Brer Elliott is a Methodist Grit.

Well Done Home Work.

Diamond Dyes are Home Helpers.

The tidy, methodical and economical mother, wife or daughter, when she has home work to do, always aims to do it well. Whatever the hands find to do—whether it be sweeping, baking, sewing, dairying, embroidering or fancy work—there is a delight and satisfaction in having things done well; it is only well done work that pays.

The women and girls who are model home workers are also successful home dyers. Why? Because they use Diamond Dyes that are simple and easy to dye with, and that always assure perfect and pleasing results in brilliant and rich colours that never fade in sun or washing.

Diamond Dyes are home helpers and money savers. Wherever they are used, women and children are well and neatly dressed at very small cost. The money saved by Diamond Dyes in some homes is so considerable in a year that new carpets, furniture and furnishings can be bought to adorn one ore more rooms.

To secure success and well done work, Diamond Dyes are a necessity. Do not allow your dealer to sell you some other make of dyes. Ask for Diamond Dyes; refuse all imitations and worthless makes.

Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P.Q., for valuable book of directions and sample card of colours of the Diamond Dyes. Post free to any address.

The continual grind of our schools is hard on child growth, shatters the nervous system and undermines the health. When the headaches, twitchings, feelings of tiredness, sleeplessness and restlessness begin to manifest themselves give the children Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Mothers consider they have no equal for building up a child's health.

Mrs. DALTON, 127 Arthur Street, Ottawa, Ont., says that her little girl got so bad with heart palpitation, nervousness and headache she had to take her from school and send for the doctor. His treatment did not do her much good so she tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. The result has been marvellous; the headaches have vanished, the nervousness disappeared, the palpitation has gone, and the little girl is now in splendid condition.

WILL THEY END THE WAR?

A Conference Between C.P.R. and Western Lines—Death of Lady Abbott.

Montreal, Feb. 26.—The three delegates from the American lines east of Chicago arrived here yesterday, and have been in conference with Mr. D. McNichol of the Canadian Pacific, also taking a look in occasionally upon Sir William Van Horne. Last evening your correspondent was informed officially that negotiations proceeded in a very harmonious manner, and in fact when 6 o'clock came the trio of delegates were able to send a proposition in the way of peace to their respective lines. If favorable answers are returned to-day negotiations will be resumed, and there is every reason to believe that a happy issue will soon be reached.

Death of Lady Abbott.

There will be general regret throughout Canada to learn of the sudden death of Lady Abbott, widow of the late Sir John Abbott, Premier of Canada. Lady Abbott was the daughter of the late Very Rev. J. Bethune, D.D., dean of Montreal. She married the late Sir John Abbott in 1849. Her maiden name was Mary. Her son, Mr. Harry Abbott, Q.C., went to Florida not long ago on account of his health. Instead of improving, the reports said that he was growing steadily worse. Her brother Arthur is now en route to Florida.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND WAS THE DELIVERER.

Mr. Barrand says: "Surely the Medicine Which Has Done So Much for Me Will Prove a Blessing to Others."

Most Desperate Cases of Rheumatism are Overcome by Nature's Cure, Paine's Celery Compound.

The Only Remedy for Pain-racked and Stiffened Limbs.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

DEAR SIRS:—Just a year ago I was attacked by inflammatory rheumatism in its most acute form, which totally incapacitated me from pursuing my trade—that of a tailor—or in fact from doing work even of the very lightest kind, as every nerve in my body was affected. I was in this distressing condition for more than seven months, when I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. I soon began to realize the beneficial effects of the medicine; but my case was an obstinate one, and required the persistent use of the Compound for some months before I was able to move about. I am thankful to say I am so far recovered that I have commenced work again; and I am very hopeful that by continuing the use of the Compound a little longer I shall, please God, be restored to my wonted health and strength again. Surely the medicine that has done so much for me will prove an equal blessing to others similarly afflicted; and to such I say, "Give Paine's Celery Compound a trial." For what your medicine has done for me you have my most grateful thanks.

Yours truly,
JOHN BARRAND, Barrie, Ont.

AN UNKNOWN SMITH.

Lord Strathcona Cables That Mr. Hamilton Smith

IS NOT THE ROTHSCHILDS' AGENT

First Report of the Fisheries Inspector for Ontario—A. M. Burgess Not Expected to Live—Brewers and the Prohibition Plebiscite—Yukon Miners' Delegation—Other Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—It was finally arranged yesterday between the directors of the Drummond Counties Railway and Mr. Wainwright of the G.T.R. that the extension of the Intercolonial to Montreal should take place on Tuesday next.

Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner in London, having been asked by cable to ascertain if Hamilton Smith, who gave Baron Rothschild as one of his backers in the Yukon Railway offer, had any connection with the Rothschilds, a cablegram was received last night in reply saying that the house of Rothschilds state that they know nothing of Hamilton Smith.

Following is the text of Lord Strathcona's cablegram; "London, February 25, 1898. Lord Rothschild authorizes me to say Hamilton Smith is not their agent, and is in no sense authorized to make any proposition on their behalf to the Canadian Government. (Signed) Strathcona."

Mr. Max Landreville, the third member of the Yukon miners' delegation, together with Dr. Mills and Mr. Livernash, who were appointed to interview the Government in connection with certain desirable modifications in the mining regulations, has arrived in Ottawa. The three delegates had a lengthy interview with Deputy Minister Smart yesterday.

O. B. Sheppard of Toronto, Fisheries Inspector for the Province of Ontario, has reported to the department the result of an enquiry into the fisheries along the River St. Clair and the Canadian shores of Lake Huron. He calls attention to the rumor that the American Government is about to abolish the use of seines in these waters, as being far too destructive to the fish, and suggests that possibly Canada would do well to follow the same course.

A. M. Burgess, Commissioner of Dominion Lands, is not expected to live. He had an apoplectic attack yesterday, and doctors say that he has a very poor chance of recovery. Dr. Wright and Dr. Henderson are both in attendance on him. A couple of months ago Mr. Burgess fell on the sidewalk and was confined to his room until very recently with an injured knee. Yesterday a blood vessel gave way in his head. The doctors attribute the trouble to lack of exercise in the open air. Mr. Burgess was an ex-Deputy Minister.

A deputation of brewers, consisting of Messrs. R. Davies and Eugene O'Keefe, Toronto; Dawes of Lachine, Montreal; Hooper of the Dow Brewing Company, Labatt of Prescott and McCarthy of Prescott, were here yesterday and had an interview with the Government in regard to the plebiscite bill. They talked the matter over with some of the Ministers. They urged that the whole question of prohibition should be put squarely before the people, and not the mere question as to whether the voter is in favor or not of prohibition. There is the question of compensation, for instance, and also the loss of revenue which prohibition would entail. The brewers desire the question to be put whether the people are prepared for direct taxation.

Senator Templeman, the newly appointed Senator from British Columbia, arrived yesterday to assume his sessional duties. He was warmly congratulated by his journalistic confreres. Senator Templeman says things are booming on the Pacific coast.

The Winnipeg deputation interviewed the Government yesterday in regard to the improvement of the Red River near Winnipeg, where navigation of the stream is impeded by the St. Andrew's Rapids.

Tortured and Tormented With Rheumatism and Sciatica—South American Cure Works the Wonder.

Mrs. John Fisher, Woodstock, N.B., writes: "I had been suffering for over three years from muscular rheumatism, and on one occasion I had a very acute attack of sciatica. For several weeks I was unable to walk or attend to my household duties. Tried several remedies, and physicians failed to give me relief. I saw South American Rheumatic Cure advertised and bought a bottle. It did me a wonderful lot of good. Four bottles effect a perfect and permanent cure." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

FOR THE COLD GOLD LAND.

Steamers Leaving Victoria and Vancouver Almost Every Day.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 26.—The steamer City of Seattle was here yesterday on her way north with close on one hundred passengers bound for the Klondike. The Custom House was thronged all day with men waiting their turn to secure miner's licenses, which a staff of clerks were hard at work issuing.

Capt. Charles Hackett, who went to London to purchase steamers for the Transportation Company in which Victorians and Nova Scotians were interested, has returned home. His trip was not successful.

Two Boats From Vancouver.

Vancouver, Feb. 26.—The steamers Danube and Thistle left for Klondike outports last night. Both carried big cargoes. The Provincial Government sent up on the Danube a force of constables under Chief Constable Bullock Webster. Two men will be placed at Glenora, two at Telegraph Creek and two at Teslin Lake, with Glenora as headquarters.

The Tees will leave to-day with 31 members of the Mounted Police.

ANOTHER VICTORY

Won in Grey County by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Thos. Hughes tells her Story—M. LeSar, J. P., Corroborates it—Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they alone, Cure all Kidney Diseases.

MORLEY, Ont., Feb. 23.—This little town is excited over an occurrence that would in early days have been looked upon as a manifestation of magic. The circumstances are clearly detailed in the following letter sent by Mrs. Thomas Hughes of this place to the Dodd's Medicine Company, Limited, Toronto.

"I cheerfully testify to the wonderful work done by Dodd's Kidney Pills, believing that too much praise cannot be given them. I was for four years a great sufferer from pains in my back, along my spine in my head, especially over the eyes, in my left, and occasionally in my right side.

"Five doctors treated me, and I also had the care and advice of an American specialist. All failed to help me. I tried nearly all the patent medicines I could get but none of them did me any good.

"For two and three nights at a time I could not close my eyes in sleep. I was bloated so terribly that I could neither sit nor walk. My agony was simply indescribable. For nearly three years I was bed-fast.

"Finally I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first dose I began to mend. I have used fourteen boxes and am completely cured, and as strong as I ever was, and can do a big day's work, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills." — MRS. THOMAS HUGHES.

"I have known Mrs. T. Hughes for a number of years, and I can truthfully say that the foregoing statements are strictly true."—N. LESLAR, J. P.

Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diseases of Women and all other Kidney Diseases, are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

GROWING!

Of course we are growing, but we'll never get too big for our business. Why would'nt we grow? GOUGH BROS'. CONQUESTS have, from the start, been a series of successes along the line of the Best Clothing, levelling high prices and giving the people the best value for their money in Clothing, Hats, Boots, Shoes and Furnishings. And as the People have grown to know this, our Sales have kept on increasing and our business expanding. It's a case of

Two for One.

It's a case of getting TWO Dollars' worth for ONE in buying what you require amongst the many stocks that this big concern captures. For instance—

LOOK AT OUR SUCCESSES!

THE OAK HALL CONQUEST.—We are entering the Fourth week of this Sensational Sale. The phenomena price at which the Sanford Company surrendered this stock to Gough Bros. enable us to give the people values that continue to bring crowds to this sale. As we have only a limited time to clear this stock, the prices must continue to suit buyers—not us—until not a vestige is left.

THE ARMY AND NAVY CONQUEST—This lucky purchase is the cream of the mammoth stock of the "Army and Navy" Clothing House, of Toronto, which was forced into liquidation, and at the sale in Toronto last week was knocked down to Gough Bros. for 51 Cents on the Dollar. Bargain lovers will be glad to know that this great snap has been placed on Sale at our Big Store on George street, where the Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes are also sold.

THE JUBILEE CLOTHING CONQUEST—Another of our recent winnings, amounting to $21,000 secured at 55 cents on the Dollar. In this case, as in the others, the figure was less than the cost of manufacture The pinched manufacturer cried for help, we appeared on the scene, and our customers are getting the benefit to the tune of TWO FOR-ONE.

E. & A. SMALL & CO. CONQUEST—This big Montreal strike of a few weeks ago started the liveliest boom of the mid-winter season. It, too, was a close Half-Price deal and gave Clothing buyers an appetite for crisp snaps that only the Gough's could satisfy.

TRADE AT EITHER OF OUR STORES.

Buyers who patronize Gough Bros. at their Big Store on George street or their Oak Hall store, can always rely on their interest being well looked after. Our grasp on the markets and our big syndicate of stores enables us to handle stocks that smaller dealers never get their eyes on.

TRADE MARK.

More Curative Power in Sloan's Indian Tonic than in all other Medicines Combined.

Michael Dillon, of Richmond Hill, writes: My wife bought a bottle of SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC from your agent when he was here. She has been in very bad health for several years and has been treated by three different doctors, and has taken a number of different patent medicines, but she thinks one bottle of your medicine has done her more good than all the other medicines she has ever taken, and she wants you to send her another bottle of your medicine.

Mrs. R. W. Wilson, of Fergus, says:—

Having used one bottle of your Tonic, I would like another, as I find they give great results. Would you kindly send one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic, for which you will find enclosed $1 00, and oblige

A Young Man's Thanks.

Some four months ago a young man from a distant city who had never been interested in Y.M.C.A. work before was found a boarding house through the Association. He also found the Y.M.C.A. was a good home for friendless young men. He became a member and enjoyed the privileges until some weeks ago when he was, to his regret, obliged to leave town to secure employment elsewhere. He writes to-day enclosing a subscription to the work of $4.00, and adds:—"Congratulations on the progress of the work in Peterborough. You can very well know that I am always deeply interested in th Peterborough Y.M.C.A." He also stated that he had decided to take a course in the Moody Institute, Chicago, with a view to entering Association work.

WEDDED IN ST. PETERS.

Celebration of the McAuliffe—Torpey Nuptials on Tuesday Last.

A quiet wedding took place in St. Peters cathedral on Tuesday morning, when Mr. Redmond McAuliffe and Miss Nellie Torpey, both of town, were united in wedlock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father O'Sullivan of the Cathedral.

The bride who was neatly attired in a pretty travelling suit, was assisted by Miss H. Butler. The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. J. T. O'Connell.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the residence of the bride's uncle, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of by all present.

Many valuable presents were received by the bride, evincing the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McAuliffe left on the 8.10 G. T. R. for Toronto and places west.

We extend them our hearty congratulations.

ELECTORS OF SMITH MEET AT BRIDGENORTH

TO ENDORSE MR. STRATTON'S CANDIDATURE.

Speeches Were Delivered by Messrs. D. O'Connell, G. M. Roger and the Candidate—The Hall Was Crowded to the Doors.

A most flattering reception greeted Mr. Stratton at Bridgenorth last evening, where he went to address the electors of Smith. The hall was filled to the doors and the crowd was so great that seats on the platform had to be provided to accomodate the audience. It was the largest political gathering ever held in the village and confirms the opinion that the country will do better for Mr. Stratton than ever before.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Thomas Young. Mr. D. O'Connell, of town, was the first speaker. He handled the financial question and the Engledue deal in a most convincing manner, pointing out the fallacious arguments used in regard to these questions by the Opposition.

Mr. O'Connell was followed by Mr. G. M. Roger, who took up the surplus issue, the Ontario ballot and Penetanguishene Reformatory charges, dealing with all in a most able manner.

Mr. J. R. Stratton closed the meeting by going generally over the political issues of the day, in an address of about three quarters of an hour in length. Cheers were given for the Queen, Mr. Stratton, Mr. Hardy and Mr. Ross.

A vote for Stratton is a vote for your best interests.

LONGFELLOW UP TO DATE.

The shades of night were falling fast
As through our busy streets there passed
A man, who boasted long and loud
"I'm going to beat the Liberal crowd,"
'Twas Garvin.

His brow was cold, his eye beneath
Flashed like the gold set in his teeth.
He spoke off till his throat was sore,
And still "the babies cried for more"
"Castoria" Garvin.

In happy homes he saw the light
Of household fires gleam warm and bright,
A bright thought darts through his head,
"I'll try and catch their votes" he said,
Did Garvie.

"Try not to run," the old man said,
"Dark lowers the Liberal's overhead,
And you'll find out it won't be fun"—
"Rats! vote for me, I'm going to run,"
Said Garvin.

"Beware! beware! the First of March,
The Libs will soon take out your starch,
For they will win as sure as day,
And you will have to run away."
Poor Garvin.

The First of March has come, 'tis right—
A wretched beg greets our sight,
He cries, "Alas! how much it's cost,
Oh, woe is me—I've lost, I've lost!"
'Tis Garvin,

The Liberal cheers are long and loud,
He heard, and vanished from the crowd—
And as he sneaked the back way home,
He vowed he'd leave J. R. alone.
Poor Garvin. A.

ELECTORS---STAND FOR STRATTON

STRATTON, BLEZARD, HARDY; VICTORY.

To-night practically closes the campaign as far as platform argument is concerned, and a round-up of the results of the week's work is as cheering in West Peterborough and the East, and in the Province, as the the most hopeful Liberal could wish. The cause of the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough has steadily improved from the beginning of the campaign, and never before did his supporters in this riding face the polls with a more decided and encouraging assurance of certain victory. The workers have done splendid work and will not rest till the acclaim of victory sounds on Tuesday night.

In the East the signs of victory are bright also, and there is no doubt that on Tuesday night the solid East will greet the solid West.

Throughout the province the assurances of the triumphant return of the Hardy Government couldn't be any more positive outside of recorded certainty. A strong and united party—strong in confidence in the justice of its cause, confident in the patriotic response the electorate will make to the appeal to continue good Government—is working under the inspiration of success, and there is a moral certainty that on Tuesday next the provincial welkin will ring with "Hardy and Victory."

Vote for Stratton, the friend of West Peterborough.

WHICH WILL SERVE US BEST?

To all sober-minded, thinking men, performance commends itself much more strongly than promise, and the least thoughtful are inclined to trust the friend that has been faithful and tried rather than the one who comes with fair promises but with little or nothing to offer as a guarantee that such promises can or will be carried out.

The same applies to governments as to men. The present government of Ontario is practically the same government that has for many years ruled the province of Ontario with conspicuous success—with conspicuous ability and honesty. That government is now appealing to the people for a renewal of the trust it has so excellently discharged, and there is no room for doubt that on Tuesday next the Hardy Government will be triumphantly sustained.

Of course electors divide on party lines, but in the main the people of Ontario are patriots before they are politicians, and when the test comes—when the good government and continued progress of the Province are at stake—the electors will realize the danger of making experiments, and will decide to let well enough alone. As with governments, so with the candidates representing them.

The people of West Peterborough have been represented in the Ontario Legislature by a member who has served them faithfully, and is still in a position to continue such faithful service. He has done nothing to forfeit the confidence he has hitherto enjoyed, nor to weaken the public belief in his ability and willingness to serve them, and it is for the reflecting elector to decide whether the Town of Peterborough or the riding of West Peterborough has anything to gain by substituting for a tried and trusted representative, for a fellow-citizen whom they have known all his life, a comparative stranger—a stranger as much to the riding and its needs as he is personally to the great mass of the electorate.

What West Peterborough and the town of Peterborough want is a representative whom they know, not by casual contact, but by life-long intercourse, a representative whom they know in a larger and more practical sense, one who has served them well and has to his credit a record that represents substantial service to his town and riding—a record of successful achievement in promoting the interests and improving the condition of the riding at large.

In selecting a representative the electors will naturally reflect upon which of the two available candidates will best serve their interests. And in deciding this question the rational way is to judge by what a candidate, who has been a representative for twelve years, has done and how his ability and inclination to give good service have been tested by experience.

On the first of these grounds, Mr. Garvin cannot come into comparison with Mr. Stratton at all. He has no record by which to form a judgment, and therefore his claim to give efficient representation cannot be subjected to the best of all tests, that of experience.

The town and riding know Mr. Stratton has done much to advance the interests of the town and riding, and since his record has been spoken slightingly of by his opponents in this contest, it may not be amiss to indicate briefly and generally what claims he has in this regard upon the support of the electors.

And in submitting a few such instances it may be presumed that Mr. Stratton does not take to himself the whole credit of what has been done in the interests of West Peterborough, but he can fairly claim that he has done his full share, and that to his persistence in pushing our interests are largely due results that have been beneficial.

There are services which a candidate can render that cannot be catalogued and tabulated. There are, in his personal relations to his constituents, a thousand and one little ways, slight in themselves, but in the aggregate of no little importance in determining the usefulness of a representative. In his personal relations to his constituents the past twelve years our representative has shown that his ideas of his relationship to them are broad and comprehensive. When the exercise of his services has been indicated in his public capacity he has not regarded any distinction between political opponent and political friend; he has considered himself equally the representative of both.

He has not considered himself absolved from promoting, by both substantial and moral assistance, any moral, religious, social or other interest that involved reasonable claim upon his time and means.

Nor have Mr. Stratton's services been wanting in numerous cases where the material interests of the town have been in question.

A citizen, with large material interests at stake, he has as a representative done much to increase the prosperity of the town.

The merchantile and other business interests of the town have been very beneficially affected by his efforts in bringing to the town the trade of a large area of northern country, while the prevention of the injustice of imposing upon this county a share of the cost of maintaining the Bobcaygeon bridges, has been a direct saving to the pockets of the tax payers. He had a chief share in retaining in existence the Pigeon Creek bridge, by which the trade of a large area of country is made tributary to Peterborough, with direct advantage to our merchants and the prosperity of the town.

To his efforts and energetic persistence are due the improved means of communication between the northern parts of the county and their market town by shortening and improving highways, again with direct advantage to our merchants and our prosperity.

Only ignorance of the facts and partizan prejudice will deny to Mr. Stratton a chief share of the credit of bringing a large section of South Monaghan into mutually profitable business touch with the town of Peterborough through the Bensfort bridge, and shortened and improved highways.

It may be argued that the Dominion Government gave important assistance as well as the Ontario Government. But it is well known that the action of the Dominion was dependent upon the action of the province, and the action of the Ontario Government was dependent upon the strength of the case presented by the representative of West Peterborough and those co-operating with him.

Governments are responsible to the people, and it is through the representatives of the people that the wants of the people are made known and enforced upon their recognition; and a representative who is alive to the interests of his constituents, can, if he commands the respect of a Government, give, as Mr. Stratton has done, effective service to his constituents.

As was shown in yesterday's issue, to his active interposition and exertions is due in large measure, with other influences, the settlement of an irritating and threatened expensive dispute with a neighbouring municipality in the matter of sewerage, a settlement that saved a substantial amount of money, assured to us a sewerage system and prevented perhaps a permanent rupture of harmonious relations with our neighbours and assured the mutual interests of the town and township.

These things may be derided as small matters, insignificant benefits; but very often matters of comparatively trifling moment have great and continuous consequences far more important than apparently greater benefits complete in themselves.

After all the point is that a representative that is faithful in small things and has a capacity for greater should, occasion arise, be worthy of continued confidence.

The prosperity of the town and its increasing growth are dependent largely upon manufacturing development and much depends upon possessing a representative whose business connections, business associations and business "pull," so to speak, command respect and inspire confidence. Mr. Stratton's business relations as president of two important and prosperous financial institutions, and an important local industrial concern, bring him into direct contact with prominent capitalists and business men in every part of the Dominion, and the benefits to a town that present when its capabilities offer so inviting a field for capital are apparent.

Every property owner in Peterborough is directly interested in this campaign, and his interest points to the selection of a representative who has a business stake and business influence in the town. If in this connection a comparative stranger, a comparatively transient resident, is to be preferred to a substantial citizen, the financial community at home and abroad will lose confidence in the good business-sense of the people, that has heretofore been behind the reputation the town has gained of being the briskest town in Canada.

This influence conjoined with the position he holds in political circles, and with a desire which he has always shown to advance the material as well as other interests of the town, gives him capabilities for usefulness which constitute an important equipment for the representation of a live town, which believes in turning to use every factor that will make for its progress.

The EXAMINER has always been an earnest advocate of everything that would conduce to the advancement of every interest of Peterborough; it has shared the pride of the citizens in its thrift and enterprise and would submit that in the matter of a representative, it is in the best interests of the town to leave well enough alone. We believe that the reflective portion of the electors will come to the same view. Our most substantial citizens have interests that far outweigh the gratification of a party triumph.

And what is to the material interest of these is conducive to the prosperity of the whole town. So that the matter of selecting a representative is one that concerns every citizen alike.

Good government depends upon good representation, and good representation collectively consists in the ability of a member to give effect to the needs and desires of an individual constituency as a part of the whole province.

An important question confronts the electorate, and no ballot should be cast on Tuesday next without good, hard thinking. The question of the Government being sustained is not a question by any means, for the indications all are that the Hardy Government will be triumphantly returned. The question in West Peterborough is which of the two candidates can most effectively serve the interests of the town and riding.

There can not be any doubt that the candidate that has done so well for us in the past is the man, and the stronger the confidence expressed in him by the people on Tuesday next, the greater the respect will be paid by the Government and his fellow-members to his efforts to advance the welfare of West Peterborough and the province. In the matter of a representative, the elector who has a serious desire to mark his ballot in the best interests of the town and riding and province, will decide that it is best not to experiment, but to LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

Stratton has stood by West Peterborough—electors, stand by Stratton.

AN UNEXAMPLED RECORD.

Did you ever reflect upon what a wonderful thing it is that a government that has had control of the affairs of the richest province of Confederation for twenty-six years, has expended in the public interests the enormous sum of over eighty-nine millions of dollars, without subjecting themselves to a single charge of corrupt expenditure? When we consider the temptations that have beset and overcome other statesmen and other persons placed in positions of trust; when we consider that we live in an age when success in politics and success in finance are regarded as exemplifying the dreadful doctrine that the end justifies the means; when we remember how many have fallen into this snare and made money, with which they were entrusted, flow like water into polluted channels, we must regard with surprise the career of a Government that has such a financial record as the Ontario Government. Such a record cannot be matched in the history of civilization. The opponents of the Government claim that the Government has no surplus. If that were so, which it is not by any means and by several millions of dollars, the Government as governments and thousands of individuals go, would still deserve credit for administering their trust with a fidelity which no Government in any age or country has equalled. The opportunities for tampering with trust funds have been great and that they have withstood the temptations, which must confront men who did not resolutely turn their backs upon them, conclusively shows them to have been men of an honesty that entitles them to continued trust on the part of the electorate—a trust that will be confided to the Government again, and with decided emphasis on Tuesday next.

A vote for Stratton is a vote for your best interests.

SUNDAY CAMPAIGNING AGAIN.

It's no wonder Mr. Garvin and the Review wish to break the force of the fact of Mr. Garvin's Sunday campaigning tour in Ennismore:

"Mr. Garvin authorizes the Review to state that he never solicited a vote on a Sunday in his life, and he never intends to."

Mr. Garvin is very guarded in his denial. He does not deny that he was in the township on Sunday in company with his advance agent. The man that would believe that he was not there for campaigning purposes is credulous enough to look to the moon for his supply of green cheese. Mr. Garvin has employed every resource to gain support in this contest, and since he will not deny that he was far away from town on election day going from house to house, the electors must conclude that he was present in Ennismore for the purpose of advancing the interests of his campaign. Mr. Garvin has signally failed to destroy any grounds for the inference that he spent a large portion of last Sunday in Ennismore with any other object than strengthening his political position, and he must rest under the inference that will be drawn from his visit. It's hardly worth while breaking the Fourth Commandment to win an election, especially when the fact stands out strongly that he would not win if he smashed the whole decalogue.

Zeal is all very well when rightly directed and at a proper time, but the object of assisting even the election of a shining light like Mr. Garvin will not justify Sunday electioneering. The Review may deny that he solicited votes, but the fact remains that he was going from house to house and the liveliest imagination cannot supply Mr. Garvin with any other business on that occasion except business of a political nature. Mr. Garvin and his party throughout the riding and county have been denouncing the Government in reference to the Sabbath Observance Bill, and yet we find Mr. Garvin practically outraging Christian decency by prostituting the day of rest to political purposes.

For seven and twenty years the Liberal Government of Ontario had held office, and in all that time the Opposition—Marter, Whitney, all of them—had never dared to bring one charge involving personal dishonour against a single member of the Government. It might be time for a change if the Government departed from the traditions of the past, but under the present conditions its term in office did but afford seven and twenty good and excellent reasons for the continuance of the trust reposed in it. The electors of Ontario would be recreant if they forgot the great and important services rendered by the Government, not merely in preserving the Territories of the Province, in resisting the aggression of the Federal power, but in setting an example to the people of the Dominion of a stainless and honourable record—which, he was sorry to say, had not been to freely followed.—Sir Richard Cartwright.

THE SIGNS OF VICTORY.

From all parts of the Province comes, in ever-increasing force, the glad tidings, "Hardy Will Win!"

Hon. E. J. Davis places the Government's majority at 25.

Hon. R. Harcourt says this is not an excessive estimate.

Hon. J. M. Gibson is confident the Government will come back with an increased majority.

The nominations resulted two to nothing in favour of the Government.

The following constituencies, among others, held in the last House by Conservatives or Patrons, are considered as certain to go Liberal this time:

The two Perths,
The two Lambtons,
North and Centre Bruce.
South Grey,
West Wellington,
East Simcoe,
Centre Simcoe,
Muskoka,
North and South Toronto,
West York.

The Liberal gains will almost certainly be as large as, if they do not exceed, those of Mr. Whitney.

The Opposition, in order to win, will have to hold all the seats they now hold, and win twenty-five others—a fact that has never been accomplished, under similar circumstances, in Canadian political history.

"Hardy Will Win" throughout the province, and Stratton and Blezard will win in West and East Peterborough.

Let well enough alone—vote for Stratton and good Government.

THE MAIL AND EMPIRE'S WILD CAT CLAIM.

A day or two ago the Mail and Empire published a page or two of special reports from "unbiased" correspondents who were instructed to give a correct and non-partizan forecast of the results of the elections in their respective places. On these reports the organ founded a claim of forty-nine seats for Whitney. The organ was "talking through its tile." Its reports were unreliable and inaccurate and its absurd deductions are laughed at by its own strongest party allies. Here's a hard one on the Mail's wild cat claim:—

The Chatham Planet, the local Conservative organ, and as bitter "as they make 'em," had the following cruel thing to say last night in reference to The Mail and Empire's forecast:—"For once in its history The Mail and Empire was doing good work for the Conservative party in this campaign. Then it spoils it all by publishing a lot of fool reports that the office boy, if he knew anything at all, would know were so idiotically incorrect that they would even disgrace The Globe. Is the party always to be cursed with The Mail's foolishness?" The Planet, sad to relate, is one of the organs of public opinion from which The Mail and Empire has been quoting most liberally of late in support of the shibboleth, "Whitney will win."

I find that very nearly a quarter of the entire revenue of Ontario is expended in the two great purposes and for the two great services of educating the people of Ontario, which requires $750,000, and promoting our great national industry of agriculture, which requires $230,000.—Sir Richard Cartwright.

IS IT A REVIEW ROORBACH?

THE EXAMINER has been informed that declarations will be printed in the Review to-night to the effect that Mr. Stratton on the occasion of canvassing Mr. Creamer, of the C. P. R. Hotel, for his vote, threatened him with the loss of his job. If such declarations appear they will be utterly false. Mr. Creamer informed Mr. Stratton, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that on the occasion of his visit he had canvassed him in a gentlemanly manner and that he had nothing to complain of. If any "declarations" to the contrary appear they will be as false as the hopes of the party whose desperation can lead them to adopt such dispicable tactics.

Stratton has stood by West Peterborough—electors, stand by Stratton.

LOOK out for and beware of Review roorbacks and Garvin gasconades.

NEXT to the Review's "cheek" in claiming the election of Mr. Garvin, is the claim that he and his friends have conducted a "clean and fair campaign."

THE Hardy Government has done much for the labouring men and they should now seize the opportunity to vote for the Government by marking their ballot for Stratton.

THE EXAMINER has been asked where "Capt." Martin, Mr. Garvin's "second mate," got his title. Probably from the same source that Mr. Garvin derives his M.P.—mental process.

LAST year the Ontario Government gave in direct money grants, sent to county treasurers, school boards, agricultural societies and hospitals $1,002,698. Mr. Whitney's policy is "just the opposite" of that.

Two Liberals and no Conservatives were elected by acclamation at the nominations, and in this regard the Montreal Witness says:—"The elections by acclamations are always considered an indication of the probable results of the polling."

Mr. Whitney's supporters in this riding are true to his platform. Since a minister needs an advisory board they are extending the principle to the voter, who has the benefit of an advisory board, with "substantial arguments" on the side.

THE public accounts of Ontario for 1875 take up 166 pages; the public accounts of Ontario for the year 1897 take up 476 pages. It is the biggest work issued by the Ontario Government. And if the Opposition cannot get what they want in it, they can get the detailed items of any invoice at the public accounts committee. The fact of the matter is the only grievance they have with the public accounts is that they can unearth no corruption in them.

IN one county in Ontario there will be no "hot time in town" Tuesday night. In Russell county, owing to a severe snow storm the returning officer could not reach the appointed place in the stipulated time and there was consequently no nomination. It is probable that new dates for polling will have to be fixed. It won't make much difference, Russell can be added to the Government majority, for at the last election the Liberal candidate was returned by a majority of 789.

WHAT Sir Matthew Crooks Cameron and Sir William Meredith failed to do in the way of getting into office will not be accomplished by Mr. Whitney and Mr. St. John. Mr Hardy is an able man, who sat side by side with Sir Oliver Mowat for twenty years, and not only possesses the qualifications necessary for the premiership, but has experience behind it. We have not the very slightest doubt of the return to power of the Hardy Government on the first of March.

Mr. E. F. Clarke, (Conservative) one of the members for West Toronto in the House of Commons, speaking at Hamilton on the 6th of September last, said: 'I assure you no one deserves more from the labour organizations than the Honourable Messrs. Hardy and Gibson. They have placed more measures on the statutes in the interest of labour than any other men in the country."

THE Review wishes to emphasize the idea that it is Hardy, not Mowat, that is on trial. It is difficult to separate the two. Mr. Hardy was associated with Sir Oliver Mowat in the Government of the Province for many years and deserves his share of the credit for the good Government the Province has enjoyed. Mr. Mowat's mantle fell upon Mr. Hardy's shoulders. The personnel of the Government may have changed, but the spirit of Sir Oliver Mowat still animates its councils and now the Opposition organs cannot have too much good to say of Sir Oliver This is an indirect way of complimenting Mr. Hardy and the Government he heads.

MR. WHITNEY and his friends have been taking credit to the Opposition for a large share of the good legislation that has been placed on the statute books, but as usual their claims do not square with the facts. A comparison of the record of the Government and the Opposition does not justify that claim. Take the last parliamentary term of three years, for example. In 1894 the members of the Government introduced 35 measures and the Opposition 1; in 1895 the Government introduced 42, the Opposition 2; in 1896 the Government introduced 56, the Opposition 4; in 1897 the Government introduced 51, the Opposition 1; in 1898 the Government introduced 30 measures, and the Opposition was so busy counting the spots on the hogs in the Humber piggery that they had not time to introduce any at all, and so during the last Parliamentary term of four years the Government has introduced 214 measures and the Opposition introduced only 8. What absurd claims they make East Northumberland Safe as a Church For the Government.

Mr. F. D. Kerr returned to town to-day from East Northumberland, where he addressed a rousing meeting in the interests of Mr. J. H. Douglass, on the English line, near Campbellford, last night. The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one and Liberals of East Northumberland were never in better fighting trim. They are more than hopeful—certain of success—and on Tuesday Dr. Willoughby will be lucky if he escapes the distance flag. Mr. Douglass, the Government candidate, is booked to win. Dr. Willoughby can weep with Whitney on Tuesday night.

Which Rides?

When a man is sick his work rides him instead of he riding his work. His daily task instead of being the means which supports and carries him on to comfort and prosperity becomes an overwhelming burden weighing him down. He has no strength, no ambition. He feels that there is nothing left but for him to stagger along until the awful pressure of disease and trouble at last crushes him to earth.

The prosperous man is the one who keeps the upper hand of his work, because he is strong, capable and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has brought the best kind of prosperity to thousands of weighed-down, over-burdened men and women by giving them the physical strength and stamina to carry on their work forcefully and easily.

"For the last three years," says Mr. J. C. Morgan, of Monongah, Marion Co., W. Va., in a letter to Dr. Pierce, "I have been a constant sufferer from indigestion complicated with complaints that generally accompany such cases. Always after eating there would be a formation of gas and a heavy load in my stomach. I would belch up my food after eating; bowels were very irregular; I would imagine I saw objects floating before my eyes. I had pain across my back. About December, 1895, I began feeling much worse than usual and was beginning to think I would have to suffer the remainder of my life. I was greatly discouraged. I described my case to Dr. Pierce's staff of physicians and they directed me to begin at once taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery' according to directions. I did so, and am happy to state I experienced most gratifying results, as all the unpleasant feelings have entirely left me. I have now a very good appetite, relish my food, and am pleased to say I feel once more like my former self. I recently walked a distance of one hundred and ten miles in about four days."

No remedy relieves constipation so quickly and effectively as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

THE RATE WAR.

The Grand Trunk Peels Off for the Fight—Now for the Tug-of-War—Fares Same as C. P. R.'s

Montreal, Feb. 26.—The Grand Trunk Railway has just issued a tariff meeting the cut made by the Canadian Pacific Railway by issuing tickets from all parts of Ontario, Quebec and New England States to all points in Manitoba and the Pacific coast at the same rates as the C.P.R., with free colonist cars.

To Beat the C.P.R.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 25.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission yesterday issued an order relieving the United States lines by suspending the long and short haul clause of the Act upon passenger traffic between all points on their lines where they are in competition with the Canadian Pacific Railway and its connections, but prohibited the United States lines from charging lower rates than from time to time are made by the Canadian Pacific Railway, separately or with its connections. This is an additional order to the suspension of the 16th and is meant to cover all passenger traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific, subject to competition with the Canadian Pacific.

Grand Trunk and Wabash Arrangement.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—It is learned that a joint meeting of the Grand Trunk and Wabash officials was held in Detroit on the 25th inst., at which all arrangements were completed for the running of Wabash trains between Detroit and Buffalo over the Southern Division of the Grand Trunk. The following freight lines will operate with the Wabash over this division: Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railway, Ontario Despatch, Lehigh and Wabash and the Hoosac Tunnel line.

Further Cut on the C.P.R.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—The Canadian Pacific have made another cut in local rates between points in Ontario that were not affected by the tariff which went in force on the 21st inst. The new rates apply from Woodstock, and are as follows: To London, 25c; Chatham, 75c; Windsor, $1.25. Applying from London: To Chatham, 50c; to Windsor, $1; and Chatham to Windsor, 50c. This reduction was necessitated by the cut made in Toronto rates.

Lives With a Broken Neck.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Charles Williams, a man 45 years of age, whose home is on Berkeley street, is in the General Hospital with his neck broken. He was an employe of the Ontario Brewing Company, King street east, and yesterday afternoon was engaged under a hoist moving some barrels for shipment. The hoist came down, and his head was caught between the hoist and a barrel. When he was removed to the Hospital he was in a paralysed condition, but appeared to be much better early this morning. There is a possibility that he may recover.

Regulations for Governing South Africa Announced A Separate Policy for West Africa.

London, Feb. 25.—The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, as set forth in a Parliamentary paper just issued, proposes that in future the differences between the British South Africa Company and the natives must be submitted to the Secretary of State, whose decision will be binding. In addition, the Administrative Council of Southern Rhodesia is to be augmented by four elected members of the council and sufficient of the company's nominees to ensure the company a majority. Further, while the responsible expenditure of the commandant of the forces will be paid by the Crown, he will cease to be a deputy commissioner, and the control of the High Commissioner will be based on information by the Imperial resident commissioner. Mr. Chamberlain has also agreed that there shall be separate administrators for Matabeleland and Mashonaland, and that there shall be only one Executive Council.

The Government of Cape Colony has approved of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals regarding them as clearing the way for self-government and the probable eventful union of the Cape.

As to West Africa.

In reply to a question as to the West African situation, Mr. Chamberlain said he expected a friendly and satisfactory settlement, but under the agreement with France he could not give details until the negotiations in Paris were ended. The difficulties, he observed, had not arisen regarding the delimitation of the Say-Borua line, but in the delimitation west of the Niger. Speaking generally, he would say that the competition of other nations had compelled Great Britain to adopt a more forward policy in the Hinterlands of her African colonies. From the French standpoint he could only admire the French policy, which had carved for France an enormous empire from which she would in the future derive well-deserved benefits. In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain asserted that the Cabinet was united in its African policy. He believed the country also was united and that, while ready to make concessions for the sake of maintaining peaceful relations with foreign powers, the country would not allow important British interests to be sacrificed.

Mr. Chamberlain said: "It is a lamentable fact that we allowed ourselves to be forestalled in Sierra Leone and Gambia; and the Government determined that the same fate should not attend the Niger and the Gold Coast. Consequently is decided to raise a frontier force under Captain Lugard to occupy the Hinterland of those territories. The creation of this force is necessary, whether the difficulties with France are satisfactorily settled or not."

Mr. Labouchere's motion to reduce the colonial vote was then rejected by a vote of 224 against 27.

Russian Pledge Regarding China.

The parliamentary secretary for the Foreign Office, Mr. George N. Curzon, replying in the House of Commons yesterday to a question, said Russia's pledge respecting free ports in North China was conveyed in the following note:

"Count Muravieff, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, expressed great surprise at the agitation which appeared to prevail in England, both in the press and official circles, on the subject of the recent events in China, where English and Russian interests could not be seriously antagonistic. Count Muravieff observed that various English statesmen of position had recognized that it was perfectly natural Russia should wish for an outlet for her commerce on the coast of the North Pacific. Any such ports will be open for the commerce of the world, and England, whose trade interests are so important in this region, would share the advantage."

The Behring Sea Matter.

During the discussion of supply, Mr. T. Gibson Bowles, Conservative member for King's Linn, complained of the grant of £500 for the inquiry to Behring Sea seals. He described the mission as "unnecessary and unpracticable."

Mr. George N. Curzon, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replied that the United States Government had constantly urged Great Britain to revise the Paris regulations earlier than the treaty provided. Great Britain had always replied that the question must be decided on the evidence of experts. An expert inquiry was then suggested; a commission was appointed, and it was subsequently decided to continue the commission.

All the Papers Approve.

The morning papers and all parties concerned raise a chorus of approval over Mr. Chamberlain's scheme, which begins with the conversion of Rhodesia into a Crown colony.

The arrangement is regarded as reassuring for the Transvaal since the British Government is now responsible for any attack upon the Transvaal. The scheme does not affect Northern Rhodesia, which is left for future consideration.

RUMORS OF WAR.

They Are on a Small Scale But May Be Serious—One in the East, the Other in the West.

London, Feb. 25.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Chronicle reports that there is a serious rising against Japanese rule in Formosa.

War Imminent.

Colon, Colombia, Feb. 25.—Advices from Port Limon announce that war is imminent between Costa Rica and Nicaragua. This grows out of the fact that Costa Rica allowed Nicaraguan rebels to cross the frontier. The Nicaraguan Government has since driven them back into Costa Rica. The British cruiser Cordelia sailed for Port Limon on Monday.

THE UNEMBARRASSED WOMAN.

She Avoids Flutter and Always Remembers Her Guest.

Society's season is at hand, and since it is always the hostess who makes failure or success from any social function, the next few months will be a constant delight to the unembarrassed woman. But, alas! they will also be a time of misery for those whose savoir faire is still to be attained.

It is a great pity that there is no club and no class which women can join and thus learn the delicate art of ease in social intercourse. There are teachers for almost everything nowadays, but after all the women who are blessed with absolute self-possession are—like the poets—born and not made. However, it is possible to make a charming hostess out of a diffident young girl, if the proper training is given and there is a subtle education in the mere mingling with people that yields better results than all painful exertions. We know what Tennyson thought of the mother who had "a little hoard of maxims," and the only outcome of incessant correction is usually iritation for the self-conscious girl.

The days of the old salons are gone, and perhaps they will never come again, since we lack the leisure of those alluring times when conversation was made a fine art; but we must always entertain after some fashion, and to enter the home of a gracious woman for an hour's rest and relaxation is like going into a rose garden when there is snow outdoors.

How shall we teach our girls, then, the subtle secret that made Queen Louise of Prussia irresistible to everyone but Bonaparte himself? A new group of debutantes appear each season. How shall they be fostered until they gracefully take the places of the matrons who know so well how to keep smooth the intricate wheels of modern society?

It is a subtle secret, but it is found out as is everything else by the two things that will turn failure into success every time they are tried. Practice and patience, patience and practice—and the shy girl of seventeen can be developed into the faultless hostess of twenty-seven.

Meeting men and women continually and entertaining them upon all occasions, formal and informal, will give the practice; the patience must come from an unceasing effort to think always of your guest first; of yourself last.

CASH IN THE TILL

Owing to the very small margin of profit in the Tobacco trade, especially since the Duty was increased, we are compelled to adopt STRICTLY CASH Methods in future.

To continue to give Credit means doing business "blindfold" as others have done—incurring bad debts and losses,—instead of having a DEAD SURE THING and knowing just where we stand by the Cash in our Till.

Therefore, on and after MONDAY, FEB. 7th, SPOT CASH will be the invariable rule in this store. Tobacco manufacturers demand Cash for their goods, and as Cash is the Power in Buying we must make it the Power in selling, in order to keep business on the jump.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

FOR YOUR BEDROOM.

IN FURNISHING IT LIGHT SHADES SHOULD BE USED.

All Sombre Effects Should Be Avoided—Some Hints as to the Better Detail in Colors—Stripes and How to Use Them in Wall Decoration.

Interior decoration is a most important factor in the making or marring of a beautiful home; good taste must be displayed and if possible good workmen employed to construct in a thoroughly artistic manner.

The most important features to consider are color and effect; each room should be studied singly, so that the selection of the tint proper to it can be made; at the same time the decorations, carpets, rugs, hangings, etc., should harmonize perfectly with the rest of the house.

That this result may be obtained certain things must be considered, such as the use to which the room is to be put, the amount of light it receives, its size and style of finish, and in fact all of its surroundings. Startling effects are not good, for the attraction then lies in the novelty, which disappears as soon as the newness wears off.

Bedrooms, almost more than other chambers, should be well planned; everything in them should be dainty, light and easily moved, draperies and floors looked to individually and together as a whole. Some of the new wall coverings offered for inspection are so beautiful and successful in design that a few hours spent among them will prove quite as profitable as an afternoon's visit to one of the art museums. The abundant and exquisite stock shown by one of the well-known paper houses portrays conclusively that there will be much art and beauty in many homes before the winter is over.

English, German, French and American wall papers are popular. The pretty French Dresden colors are very well suited to a bedroom. In some of the finest English papers water colors are not used to make the different tints, but the drawing and coloring is printed directly from a zinc plate. This gives them the effect of beautiful etchings and makes them very durable. They may be sponged and cleaned without any disastrous results.

Ceilings are without exception lighter than the walls, and tint is more generally used upon them than plain paper; they are rarely white, but either repeat some unobtrusive color in the paper below or else harmonize with it.

Stripes give the effect of height to a room and a wide dado will lower a wall which is unfashionably high. Where the surface is much cut up the figure in the mural decorations should be small, the larger designs demanding more unbroken territory.

English papers show many conventional-sized designs printed in single colors. The pattern is developed by shading which is of a darker tint than the background. The effect, as a whole, is of one solid tone. American papers have flowers strewn over them and are very dainty and bright in effect.

Red continues to be the most popular of all the colors for decorating purposes. A beautiful rose that appears continually among the bedroom papers; blue is

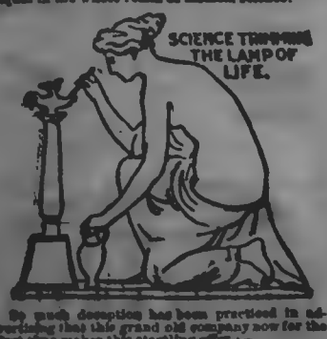
Free Trial To Any Honest Man

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

To all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



By such deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliances and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and applications must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no begging philanthropy nor deception, no expense—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

room is good the current shade; green is high on the tide of popular favor, and yellow is sometimes but not often employed. It must be remembered that these colors are not plain and unbroken upon the walls, for the appearance of cartridge paper is no longer fashionable, but they base the color scheme of the room and are helped out by kindred and harmonious shades.

The furniture, which comprises within itself the comfort of a bedroom, consists of a bed, a dressing table with its small accompanying stool, a chest of drawers, one easy chair and three plain ones, a table, and, if possible, a long mirror. Book shelves are easily built into the wall, and are very acceptable to hold the few books which represent the month's reading.

The lighter woods in furniture find a readier sale than the heavier varieties.

Curly birch and maple are the most popular selections; their lightness gives the dainty, bright, clean look so desirable for a bedroom. Brass and painted iron beds look always in harmony with any color. The floor is better bare, and if hardwood is not a possible possession, painted or stained wood will make a good substitute. A carpet is not advisable; rugs are much more easily taken care of and will take away the chill of the wood. If a floor covering is absolutely necessary, matting of many different weaves can be found, and will offer a wide field for the exercise of taste.

ORIGINAL DESIGN FOR BEDROOM.

The window draperies should be dainty and white. Double hangings are to be avoided, for they easily collect dust.

Dimity curtains with tiny ruffles, white muslin, either frilled or plainly hemmed, and net are the material most used in bedroom windows, through which the light, air and sun are eagerly welcomed. Heavy hangings in the doorways are to be avoided. The wood itself is much more desirable.

All the pictures used should suggest the personal use of the rooms. Photographs of friends and of travel, dainty water colors and black and white sketches, all framed lightly and prettily, add very much to the interest and grace of a modern bedroom.

CAT IN A BIRD STORE.

Big Gray Feline a Companion to Canaries and Parrots.

Persons who have visited a certain bird store in Sixth avenue cannot have failed to notice the unrestrained movements of a big gray tomcat among the hundreds of canaries, parrakeets, parrots, bullfinches and other feathered occupants of the store. Sir Thomas climbs leisurely from tier to tier and walks in and out among the little wooden cages with the mechanical regularity of a night watchman on his rounds. "That cat has been here for five years, and he has never yet hurt a bird," explained the proprietor of the store to a patron who had expressed wonder at seeing a cat in such familiar association with its most tempting prey.

"Is your cat especially trained to the care of birds?" asked the patron.

"No. Josh has never had any training. He was given to me when about 6 weeks old, and he has grown up in the store. He never has had any other companions than birds and he seems to think that he is here for the purpose of watching over them. In all the years that I have had him Josh has never shown a disposition to attack or injure a bird. One peculiarity about him is that he will not make friends with other cats. The only time that he appears ugly is when strange cats come near him. He always drives them away. The birds seem to like Josh, although once in awhile a parrot will scold at him noisily for some fancied offense. The canaries and bullfinches seem to like to talk to him. Sometimes he will sit for 10 or 15 minutes in front of one particular cage and listen placidly to the twitter or warbling of a bird.

"Has Josh any favorites among the birds? No, I don't think he has. He treats them impartially, although he undoubtedly prefers the society of the song birds to that of the parrots. The squawking of the parrots annoys him, but he puts up with the annoyance more calmly than a human being would. One parrot in particular seems to regard it as his mission in life to prevent Josh from sleeping. Whenever this parrot catches sight of the cat asleep he sets up a racket that almost alarms the neighborhood. Half a dozen times I have been on the point of hitting the squawker on the head with a club, but Josh always takes it very coolly and moves out of range of the parrot's vision.

"Well fed? Yes, indeed. We feed Josh on the best the market affords, and he is never allowed to go hungry. Perhaps that is one reason why he never attacks the birds."—New York Times.

Do you SUFFER when you EAT?

But for dyspepsia and indigestion your life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which these diseases produce you know of only too well.

Let's tell you of the cure. It's Burdock Blood Bitters.

In all these years of its ministering to stomach troubles, it has made happy thousands of dyspeptics.

Do you want the enjoyment of eating three meals a day and not suffering for it?

Then take B.B.B.

Mrs. R. M. Dargavel, Dornoch, Ont., says: "I was troubled with dyspepsia for nearly a year, I could scarcely stand the pain of my stomach and got entirely run down, after taking two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I was completely cured and my system built up. I highly recommend B.B.B. for the stomach and blood."

The Installment Plan.

Sometimes, without doubt, American and British judges who are held to a close accountability to the letter of a law which may have in it no justice for a particular case may well sigh for the latitude of an oriental cadi. Sometimes, moreover, they may rightfully bend the administration of the law in the direction of absolute justice.

An English paper, for instance, records a peculiar decision in the suit of a usurer against a poor woman. The man had lent the woman money in such a way that it was to be paid in installments and with monthly usurious interest. The woman was unable to pay the amount due.

The judge satisfied himself that the woman was honest and honorable and that what she had already paid in installments would cover the original loan and a reasonable interest.

"Will you accept £5 in discharge?" asked the judge of the plaintiff. "You will then have had 10 per cent on the loan."

The plaintiff would accept nothing less than the full amount to which the law entitled him.

"Then," said the judge, "although I cannot invalidate the agreement, I can make an order which I think will fit the case. I give judgment for the full amount, to be paid at the rate of sixpence a month."

This was the "installment system" with a vengeance, for at this rate of payment the usurer would be 75 years in getting his money.—Youth's Companion.

Impure Blood in Spring.

This is the almost universal experience. Diminished prespiration during winter, rich foods and close confinement indoors are some of the causes. A good Spring Medicine, like Hood's Sarsaparilla, is absolutely necessary to purify the blood and put the system in a healthy condition at this season.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure.

Snuff and Snuff Taking.

A word in season to snuff takers. As the nerves of our nostrils are so little protected, they are very delicate and sensitive, and when we take snuff all the nerves in the body are affected in sympathy. In consequence snuff taking, like smoking, has a narcotic effect upon the brain and naturaly acts upon the intelligence. Thus it can easily be seen that it weakens the memory. If we were to use it only as a medicine or an occasional stimulant, there would be some advantage in using it. If used constantly, it inflames the nostrils and may produce an incurable polypus. To those who make blood quickly or are feeble or suffer from ulcers nothing can be more prejudicial. Snuff takers have generally weak sight. In short, it is a pernicious habit and one that should be fought against vigorously.—New York Ledger.

Pit theme for song, the sylvan maid
Who, if she knew not fauns or satyrs,
Had conjured oft in mossy glade
Visions of savage paleface haters!
I trow she dined on pork and maize
In cabin single roomed and sooted,
Quite innocent of frills and stays,
Warm hearted and barefooted.

Her beauty surely brought her note.
Perchance the frankness of her manners
Gossip o'er racy tales did gloat
To prove her scruples not Diana's,
But when the hero husband came
He crushed the scandal pests like vermin.
A terror hedged the hero's name,
And she was white as ermine.

Thenceforth, a matron fair and fat,
She shared the doting hero's station.
Thais with Alexander sat
And heard the plaudits of a nation.
What though small souls, with furtive leer,
Revived old rumors of dishonor?
The hero held her yet more dear
And stainless as Madonna.

Weary of fortune's smile and frown,
She died without the White House portal,
But never wife wore richer crown,
A hero's troth and love immortal.
That love had made a queen of her
Whom haughty dames turned prudish backs on,
And history smiles, but has no slur
For Mistress Andrew Jackson.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating he may be able to do nothing at all. Most cases of dyspepsia start with constipation. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of the symptoms are sick and bilious headaches, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver stomach and bowels, and are all caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are not violent in action.

The Clock Struck One.

It was just two minutes to 1 when John Ludlam entered the house, and, unwrapping a paper parcel, said to his wife that he had brought her a present of a clock.

It was her birthday, and she had expected a brooch or a ring at least, and so she said tartly, "You liked the look of that clock."

His face flushed. "A nice way to speak about a present!" said he hotly.

"Well, it's the truth. I wouldn't have given a couple of shillings for it," said she in an exasperating tone.

John Ludlam was a quick tempered man. The veins in his temples swelled, and—

Just then the clock struck 1.

What did it signify? That the clock was running all right?

It did not. The ambulance surgeon said a few minutes later that if the clock had struck one inch nearer her temple John Ludlam would have been a widower.—Pearson's Weekly.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Park street Baptist Sunday School Scholars Hold their Annual Meeting.

The Park street Baptist Sunday school held its annual meeting last night.

At 6 o'clock tea was served to the members of the school, and at 8 o'clock, with Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of the church, in the chair, a fine programme of music, readings, recitations, etc., was given.

The chapel was crowded to the doors with an interested audience. The following report of the year's work was read by the secretary of the school, Mr. Herbert Martin:

Report of Park Street Baptist Sabbath School for year ending Dec. 31st, 1897:

In presenting our annual report, we desire to place on record our deep gratitude to a kind Heavenly Father for the blessings granted us during the past year. Both in temporal and spiritual things success has rewarded our efforts. From time to time during the year our hearts have been cheered by many of the scholars receiving the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour. Thirteen from the school have been baptized and added to the church.

After revising the lists we have an enrollment at present of 230. The average attendance for the year has been 161. The average would doubtless have been much greater but for an epidemic of measles that for a considerable length of time diminished the attendance.

The library has been renovated and 35 new volumes added.

The Angel of Death entered our school once during the year and took home to be with Jesus one of our scholars, Gertie Duncan, a sister beloved, a faithful attendant, of character pure and spotless. Her record is on high—our loss is her gain.

The receipts and expenditures for the year have been as follows:

The above report is, we are sorry to say, last up to the record of 1896, especially in respect to our offerings for missions.

It is our hope that the current year will witness an improvement in the work of helping to send the "truth" to the uttermost parts of the earth.

THE KLONDYKE'S WEALTH.

Would be no Inducement to the Sufferer if it Stood Between Him and Perfect Health.

H. H. Little, Campbellford, writes: "About one year ago I had a severe attack of typhoid fever and it left my system in a very weak and nervous condition, in fact, so badly that I despaired of recovery. I was induced to try South American Nervine. In a remarkably short time my health improved, and when I had taken a few bottles I was completely cured and have better health since than for years before."—Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

My baby had Eczema in its worst form. The top of her head was as raw as a piece of beef, the hair eaten down to the scalp by applying tar poultices, and I thought if she ever got well she would be bald. The best physician in the city attended her, but she continued to get worse all the time, and he finally admitted "it was the most obstinate case he had ever seen," and that he was "at his wits' end." Some one suggested CUTICURA REMEDIES, which I purchased and tried. In a few days I noticed a great change. She continued to improve, and to-day is entirely cured, has a nice head of hair, is lively and hearty, and the disease shows no signs of returning. I send you her photograph to show her as she is to-day.

A SUCCESSFUL EVANGELIST.

Rev. W. A. Dunnett, a Man Whose Good Work Is Widely Known.

He Relates Events in His Career of General Interest—For Years He Suffered from Heart Trouble, and Frequently from Collapse—On One Occasion Five Doctors Were in Attendance—He Is Now Freed from His Old Enemy, and Enjoys the Blessing of Good Health.

REV. W. A. DUNNETT.

From the Smith's Falls Record.

Throughout Canada, from the western boundary of Ontario to the Atlantic Ocean, there is no name more widely known in temperance and evangelistic work than that of the Rev W A Dunnett. Mr. Dunnett has been the Grand Vice-Councillor of Ontario and Quebec in the Royal Templars, and so popular is he among the members of the Order that in Montreal there is a Royal Templars Council named "Dunnett Council" in his honor. For more than ten years Mr Dunnett has been going from place to place pursuing his good work, sometimes assisting resident ministers, sometimes conducting a series of gospel temperance meetings independently, but always laboring for the good of his fellows. While in Smith's Falls a few months ago in connection with his work he dropped into the Record office for a little visit with the editor. During the conversation the Record ventured to remark that his duties entailed an enormous amount of hard work. To this Mr Dunnett assented, but added that in his present physicial condition he was equal to any amount of hard work, But it was not always so, he said, and then he gave the writer the following little personal history, with permission to make it public. He said that for the past thirteen years he had been greatly troubled with a pain in the region of his heart, from which he was unable to get any relief. At times it was a dull, heavy pain, at others sharp and severe. Oftentimes it rendered him unfit for his engagements, and at all times it made it difficult to move. His trouble was always visible to the public and frequently when conducting service he would give out and doctors had to be called in to attend him. This occurred to him in the Yonge-st. church, Toronto, the Baptist church Woodstock, N B,; the Methodist church, Carleton Place, Ont. On another occasion while preaching to an audience of 2,500 people in the Franklin-st., Congregational church, at Manchester, N. H., five doctors had arrived and were in attendance before he regained consciousness. In all these cities and towns the newspapers freely mentioned his affliction at the time. Mr Dunnett said he had consulted many physicians, though he said, to be entirely fair, he had never been any great length of time under treatment by any one doctor because of his itinerant mode of life. In the early part of the summer of 1896 while in Brockville assisting the pastor of the Wall street Methodist church in evangelistic services he was speaking of his trouble to a friend who urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and next day presented him with a dozen boxes. "I took the pills," said Mr. Dunnett, "and I declare to you I am a well man to-day. I used to worry a great deal over the pain about my heart, but that is all done now, and I feel like a new man." All this the reverend gentleman told in a simple conversational way, and when it was suggested that he let it be known, he rather demurred, because, as he put it, "I am almost afraid to say I am cured, and yet there is no man enjoying better health to-day than I do."

At that time, at Mr. Dunnett's request, his statement was only published locally, but now writing under the date of Jan 21st, from Fitchburg, Mass., where he has been conducting a very successful series of evangelistic meetings, he says:—"I had held back from writing in regard to my health, not because I had forgotten, but because it seemed too good to be true that the old time pain had gone. I cannot say whether it will ever return, but I can certainly say it has not troubled me for months, and I am in better health than I have been for years. I have gained in flesh, hence in weight. I would prefer not to say anything about my appetite; like the poor, it is ever with me. Yes; I attribute my good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and you have my consent to use the fact."

A TALK ON TEA, YES, EVERYBODY READ IT.

A lady from a village near Peterborough called on us last week and said that she wanted to get some of that fine tea that she had seen advertised in the "DAILY EXAMINER" and sold at the People's Price Tea Store, 328 George street. After critically examining the tea she made a purchase of a quantity and promised to send her friends to buy from us, as she said our tea was clean, beautiful and bright—no dust, no mixing or doctoring—the grades are the very best. Another lady in town says that her mother will not have tea from any other store than ours. She buys the very best Ceylon Tea which cannot be excelled in strength and purity. Another gentleman says what on earth do you do with the large quantity of teas that I see at your establishment. Some of the large chests of Ceylons must be valuable and come up to money; yes, they do but the people soon buy them up. You have a large stock of Canned Goods which would be a credit to any store in town; yes we have, and we are selling 3 for 25c. A prominent party in town offered to take the lot and give us a cheque for the amount, but we promised to give the working people the benefit of this bargain and we are doing it. We have a fine assorted stock of choice Groceries, Teas, Sugars, Spices, Canned Goods, Butter, Lard, and our own raising of Pickled, Smoked Salted Hams and Bacon, completely eclipsing anything on the market. We do not destroy the meat with salt or saltpetre, but cure them on the very best methods which are a secret to ourselves. Our own home made Pickles at 10c per bottle, our own Jams, Jellies—pure articles and at prices to suit all. Come to the best, get the best, and save your money by buying at the PEOPLE'S GROCERY, 328 George Street.

ACTIVE WAR PREPARATIONS.

Ready for the War—The United States Prepared to Back Request for Indemnity if Need Be—Rich Men on the Situation—They Are Emulous of the Country's Honor.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The Administration, although talking pacifically, is preparing for a fight. It sees no other way out of the Maine affair. The talk of an indemnity is along proper lines of procedure, but no one expects Spain to pay an indemnity and all believe a declaration of war would immediately follow. Actual hostilities are imminent and the preparations for war are on a scale never before known in this country, for never before were the means of warfare so complete.

Fleet to Back Him Up.

It is not denied now that orders have been issued to concentrate United States warships in preparation for a descent on Cuba when the word is given—one of the latest rumors of the President's intention is that he will demand an indemnity of $100,000,000, with the North Atlantic squadron to back up the request, in fact to repeat Germany's act in Hayti, but on a larger scale. It is felt that Spain would refuse and actual war would follow. Members of Congress rage at the mere mention of indemnity, however, and declare that without wishing to interfere with the plans of the President, their constituency revolts at the prospect of measuring the loss of American sailors in dollars and cents.

Might Demand Cuba.

The concurrent sentiment of Congress, however, is that, if the board of enquiry's finding is in favor of an outside explosion, the indemnity to be demanded should be the island of Cuba, and the execution should be simultaneous. The United States is in a position now to seize Cuba by means of warships alone, and these ships are being disposed for the express purpose. What may be called the Cuban fleet now ready for active service is really three separate squadrons, so disposed as to attack the island from different directions. One part of the fleet was concentrated to the immediate vicinity of Key West. Six other ships have been drawn together to make the fleet which will rendezvous to the south of Cuba, while the flagship and two gunboats of the European squadron are at Lisbon awaiting sailing orders which will send them speeding across the Atlantic, reaching Cuba to the eastward. When these three fleets are combined, as they will be in case of conflict, the United States will have a naval force in West Indian waters quite sufficient to surround the entire island and take possession of Havana and the other seaports, immediately following which the Cuban insurgents can be depended upon to rout the Spanish soldiers, who dare not go any great distance from their base of supplies.

Orders to Asiatic Squadron.

It was admitted at the Navy Department on Saturday that positive orders had been sent to the Asiatic squadron to concentrate in the vicinity of Hong-Kong, where it could readily make a descent upon the Philippines. It is evident, therefore, that before one army could be brought into requisition the navy in all probability would have secured the three great remaining colonial possessions of Spain, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, thus leaving the remainder of the war, if there is to be one, to be fought out on the high seas. As was suggested some days ago, close observers here in Congress and about the State Department say that one of the most significant features of the present crisis, almost overshadowing the possible report of the Board of Enquiry, is the belligerent state of public opinion, not only here but in Spain and Cuba.

RICH MEN TALK.

Russell Sage Is Again Willing to Buy Bonds to Help Government Along.

New York, Feb. 28.—Russell Sage gave out the following authorized statement Saturday afternoon:

"From all the information received there is little doubt in my mind that our warship was blown up by outside agencies, and if the Naval Commission so reports, the time for action has come. There should be no wavering. This Government must demand the fullest reparation and that without delay.

"Whatever action, war or otherwise, President McKinley may take, he should and will have the fullest support both from rich and poor, Republicans and Democrats. There is no question as to where the rich men stand. In the civil war, when it broke out, I bought Government bonds, and I did the same in 1864. So did other rich men. We have confidence in our Government. If necessity arises now, I will do the same again cheerfully; so will other rich men I know of. I am an American first and last, and propose to stand by the flag.

Speaks for Others.

"Party lines will be dropped. As for the stock market, that has got to take care of itself for the present. The ticker is now a secondary consideration. The honor of the Government comes first. I speak not only my own views on this point, but those of other moneyed men with whom I have talked. Another thing, the families and dependents of every sailor killed on the Maine must be taken care of. That is a bill Spain must be made to settle. If the citizens of this country enlist to defend our flag, and all that it means, we are in duty bound to see that their families are provided for if they are killed.

"With that understood by the people, there will be no lack of soldiers or sailors when the need arises. I think the President has been wisely cautious in the matter, but I am confident that now he will act promptly in the Maine matter."

Spanish Squadron on the Way.

A Washington despatch to the World says that a cable despatch to the State Department from Minister Woodford at Madrid announces that a Spanish squadron of five ships sailed for American waters on Thursday night.

Much importance is attached to this, since regular despatches from Madrid yesterday announced that orders for the sailing of ships to American waters had been revoked, and that the Viscaya would be the only representative in these waters.

In the light of Woodford's despatch, it is believed the statements which were given out yesterday were intended to throw the United States off guard.

Wrecked by Spaniards.

Karl Decker wires the Journal this morning from Key West, Fla., as follows:

"I have yesterday received private information from Havana that convinces me that the destruction of the Maine was the work of three Spanish merchants. They have stores on Muralla street, between Habana and Villegas streets. These men obtained the torpedo or mine from someone connected with the Spanish Government, and gave it to one of the three conspirators. The three were to receive $10,000, although only a part of the money has been paid. One of the men employed was a well-known diver of Regla, the best in the harbor. The spot selected to place the battery, connected by wire with the mine torpedo, was over a bank called Bajo de Santa Cataline, close to the Maine. This information comes from a source that gives it great weight.

"The information that the mine or fixed torpedo was operated from Santa Cataline wharf comes to me from two sources, as well as the statement that the men engaged in the work were poorly paid for the hideous success."

The correspondent gives some additional details, and the Journal evidently places full credence in his story.

Refuses Arbitration.

Madrid, Feb. 28.—Sagasta refuses indignantly a suggestion of arbitration by the Pope or any other sovereign in Cuban affairs.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

The Chicago to Be Rearmed—To Commission the Dolphin.

Washington, Feb. 28. — The double-turreted monitor Terror started for New York Saturday evening from Hampton Roads. She will be a most powerful reinforcement to the defence of the commercial metropolis in case of need, and, stationed in the Narrows, it would be difficult for any hostile ship to pass her.

There were a number of alarming stories as to heavy shipments of ordnance from the Washington Navy Yard to New York for the arming of the auxiliary navy. It is said at the department that so far none of these small guns have been shipped, but that a few for the Chicago, probably fourteen five-inch rapid-firing guns, will be despatched Monday or Tuesday. With these guns in place the Chicago would be pretty well modernized in the matter of armament.

To Commission the Dolphin.

The Dolphin is to go into commission in New York on March 24. Although rated as the President's yacht, the vessel, which has been thoroughly overhauled and furnished with new boilers and decks, carries even now a sufficient battery to make her, when speed is taken into account, a very effective gunboat. Her personnel will remain the same as before she went to the yard for repairs last fall.

Naval Court at Key West.

Key West, Feb. 28.—The naval court of enquiry arrived here yesterday morning on the Mangrove. The members of the court went on board the United States cruiser New York, where they are in conference with Admiral Sicard. The court has reached no definite conclusion as to the cause of the disaster.

IS HE A TRAITOR?

Only One Public Man in the United States Says Spain Was Justified.

Washington, Feb. 28.—During all the discussion in and out of Congress as to the cause of the disaster to the Maine, only one man has been found so far who thinks Spain would have been justified in blowing up the Maine. This man is Representative McCleary of Minneapolis, an intelligent and able man, who was a very conspicuous leader of the gold men of the Northwest in the Presidential campaign, and in the session of Congress preceding it.

He says that, as the Maine entered Havana harbor with her guns loaded for action, Spain had a right to place her over a mine or destroy her, as she saw fit, if she had reason to suppose that her intentions were warlike. That the ship was not on a friendly mission McCleary thinks will be generally admitted.

Mr. McCleary was born in Ingersoll, Ont., on Feb. 5 1852.

LA CHAMPAGNE IS IN.

The French Liner Had a Very Rough Experience.

CREW RESCUED WITH DIFFICULTY

Tail-End Shaft Broke—Lifeboat Sent Out to Look for Help—Her Crew Nearly Frozen to Death—Steamer Towed Into Halifax With All Passengers Safe.

New York, Feb. 28.—The Holland-American Line steamer Rotterdam, from Rotterdam, arrived at quarantine Saturday night with Third Officer George Unsworth and nine seamen of the overdue French Liner La Champagne, who were picked up from a lifeboat on Thursday, Feb. 24, in latitude 48.10 north, longitude 57 west.

The men were taken aboard the Rotterdam in a helpless condition, having been in the ship's lifeboat for six days and nights. They suffered terribly from the effects of the weather and were all more or less frost-bitten. Third Officer Unsworth stated that La Champagne broke her tail-end shaft on Thursday, Feb. 17, at 5 p.m., in latitude 45.27, longitude 51.52. The steamer being in a helpless condition, Captain Peirot anchored. The steamer was on the Newfoundland Banks and there being a possibility of not being picked up in her position, Capt. Peirot decided to send a lifeboat in search of assistance. On the morning of the 18th the lifeboat, being fully provisioned, Third Officer Unsworth and his crew of nine men left the ship's side in the hope of intercepting some passing steamer and getting assistance for the disabled vessel. The weather proved tempestuous, with intense cold. A sharp lookout was kept for passing vessels, but none were seen. The boat's crew, encouraged by their officer, kept to their oars, and for six days worked with might and main, but owing to the cold and exposure, became well-nigh exhausted.

Rotterdam Hove in Sight.

On the 24th, at 1 p.m., the Dutch steamer Rotterdam, from Rotterdam to New York, bore down and stood by, and with no little difficulty rescued all hands. Capt. Bonjer and his officers made the men as comfortable as possible and Dr. Wheat, the Rotterdam's surgeon, attended carefully to the suffering seamen. La Champagne experienced strong head winds up to Feb. 17 at 5 p.m., when the tail-end shaft gave way. When the accident occurred the best of order prevailed. An examination showed that the tail end or after section of the shaft had been broken beyond repair. The steamer was perfectly tight and not making any water. The passengers, on being informed of the accident to the machinery, were perfectly calm and the best of order prevailed.

ARRIVAL AT HALIFAX.

A Boat Load of Over 300 Passengers All of Thankful Heart.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 28.—Prayers of thankfulness rose from the lips of the 300 and more passengers on board the overdue French line steamer La Champagne, when at daylight Sunday morning, in tow of the big freight steamer Roman, they sighted the shores of Nova Scotia, and were promised before night fell again they would be safely anchored within the shelter of Halifax harbor.

It had been an anxious 10 days on board the Atlantic passenger liner, for half of that time they had drifted helplessly on the Newfoundland Banks, their anchoring chains having been lost, and the machinery being useless on account of the break of the tail shaft, which it was impossible to repair at sea. The story of the accident and the experiences on board up to the time the boat's crew left in search of help, on the 18th, has already been told by that crew, who were picked up and taken to New York. When this boat left the steamer was at anchor on the banks. That night a gale raged, and the ship was torn from her anchorage, and she began to drift for five days. She was unable to do anything except keep her head to the wind.

When the Champagne was entering Halifax harbor Captain Peirot was presented with an address signed by all the passengers, to which he made a suitable and modest reply. So thankful were some of the passengers to feel that they were safe in port that several of them were anxious to have some of the clergymen on board hold a service of thanksgiving.

The Accident Is Serious.

The accident to La Champagne is a serious one, and will necessitate the ship going into dry-dock. When the tail-end shaft snapped the engines commenced to race at a fearful rate, and this caused the connecting rod to break. The work of towing the big vessel to Halifax was not a very easy task for the Warren liner Roman, notwithstanding that she is also of immense proportions. Three times the towing cables were parted by the heavy pitching of the ships, and each time it took considerable trouble to pass others. Finally two large steel lines and a massive manilla one were connected, and with them the helpless ship was brought safely into port. The Roman, which has a large cargo on board, but no passengers, is bound to Boston from Liverpool.

The La Champagne's mails, consisting of 250 bags, were landed here last night and given in charge of the post-office authorities, and they, with the saloon passengers, will be forwarded to New York, leaving here at 8 o'clock this morning.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1898.

THE WAR IS ON IN EARNEST.

Said That the C. P. R. Threatens a Two Dollar Rate From Montreal to Toronto.

Montreal, Que., Feb. 28.—"Everything is in statu quo," said the vice-president of the C.P.R. yesterday. It appears that the three delegates from the Eastern American lines left on Saturday for New York, and it does not appear that any definite decision was reached before they left town. Mr. Shaughnessy was asked if the trio of delegates had received an answer to the proposition they had forwarded on Friday evening, and the vice-president replied that he believed not, for the reason that the Chicago men had been in conference on Saturday and that nothing had yet been heard from them. It is quite likely that to-day will decide whether the negotiations are to be continued or declared off.

In the meantime a rumor has been current to-day that the C.P.R. will further reduce the Montreal and Toronto rates from $5 to $3 on Monday, if the other roads do not come to time. This report, however, has not been confirmed.
